ASSURANCES ON MONARCHY

Envoy Shows Crown Prince's Renunciation of Rights; Says Berlin Opposes ex-Kaiser's Return.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Though the Conference of Ambassadors after two meetings today again adjourned until tomorrow, the adjournment is not this time a sign of deadlock, but rather of agreement. At all the embassies and at the Quai d'Orsay there is a strong spirit of optimism, and it is a hopeful sign that every one is making concessions.

As had been foreshadowed, Premier Poincaré has given way on a point or two, and Lord Curzon, in face of divergent opinion in England on the eve of the elections, has also yielded just enough in his usually rigid attitude to make agreement possible.

When the Ambassadors met the first time this morning, the veteran President, Jules Cambon, was primed with directions from the Premier as to the policy of compromise he should adopt. As always, the Premier's directions were conditioned by "but," and that but made reservations of all France's legal rights to impose penalties and to all that the treaty gives her. There might be latitude in interpretation for the moment, but the strict letter of that legal monument, must always be held in reserve.

Britain Submits Two Draft Notes.

Lord Crew brought as his contribution two draft notes which Lord Curzon thought should be dispatched to the German Government. These notes the British Ambassador supported with an argument of which M. Cambon was the first to recognise the justice and weight. He had, however, several suggestions to make, and the morning session passed almost entirely in retouching Lord Curzon's prose in such fashion as in some ways to meet the French views and in other ways to strengthen the original meaning.

Of the two notes the most important, dealing with disarmament and the rights of the Inter-Allied Mission of Control was eventually framed in this fashion: That from December 1 the Military Commission of Control must be empowered and enabled to resume its operations to the full extent which it judges useful and reasonable and that if Germany places any obstacles in its way, the Allies will agree on measures to be taken.

It is a well-known secret of the deliberations of the last week that Premier Poincaré has been throughout insistent that the Allies should be in agreement on the measures to be taken before such a cautionary note was sent. He wanted allied unity on the nature of the penalties before the threat was made. This, however, Lord Curzon has refused to accede to, and today Lord Crewe brought to the meeting instructions to inform the French Government, if need be, that, should the French insist, the British would temporarily withdraw their control officers from the mission.

This threat was not needed, as the milder method was used of pointing out that the Treaty of Versailles laid down quite clearly that all action with regard to disarmament and the work of the Disarmament Commission should be interallied.

If France, as was proposed last week, should suggest that power be given to the head of the commission to make investigations in any district he chose, and the British and Italian members of the mission were not in agreement, there would arise a case where the work of the commission would appear to be a new arrangement with Germany imposed by France and Belgium and not strictly in execution of the Treaty.

The difficulties which the French and Belgian officers would have to face would become immensely greater than they were now. Later it might be that France and the countries neighboring on Germany might come to believe that disarmament was not being carried in the full measure compatible with their safety. But for the moment, the British Ambassador pointed out, the matter under discussion was execution of the treaty and attention must be paid its terms.

It was in this way that French position was to some extent turned.

Cabinet Council Approves.

To the Ministerial Council which met shortly after the morning session M. Poincaré explained the situation and, as usual, won unanimous approval.

At that time it was hoped that the whole matter would be finished by this evening, but when the Ambassadors met again at 6 o'clock Lord Crewe had only to report he had not received from London, owing to transmission dicculties, full approval of the retouched notes, and asked that the meeting be postponed till tomorrow morning.

"Two new pieces of information eased the Ambassadors' task on the problem of what is to be done about the Hohenzollerns. Yesterday the German Charge d'Affaires called at the Quai d'Orsay with documents which he had cited on a former visit wherein it was shown

Price of Billion Marks a Stein Quenches German Beer Thirst

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Saloons and roadhouses are among the loneesomest places in Germany since the decline of the mark has forced the price of beer up to a point which is beyond the purse of the rural German.

When the price of a stein of beer rose to 1,000,000,000 marks or more and continued its rise, the average German lost his thirst. He could not finance it beyond that point.

Beer has disappeared now from the life of the ordinary German, and he is thinking only of bread.

LIBERAL MANIFESTO ASSAILS BALDWIN

Platform Denounces British Cabinet Policy in Europe and the Near East.

PREMIER STARTS CAMPAIGN

Declares England Cannot Fight for Trade With One Hand Tied Behind Her.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The bid of the Liberal Party for power was made today in a public manifesto. It was signed both by H. H. Asquith and David Lloyd George, thus proving that the two wings of the party were reunited for the purpose of the election fight, at any rate. Most of it is devoted to criticism of the Government's foreign policy, both in Europe and the Near East, and to a declaration that tariff reform will increase and not decrease unemployment. In the same way Labor's capital levy proposal is denounced.

In dealing with the Government's record in foreign affairs the two ex-Premiers use language of a vehemence most unusual in the discussion of such subjects on the election platform. Their manifesto says:

"For at least a century past no greater economic, political or moral question has confronted Europe than the French and Belgian occupation of the heart of German industry in the Ruhr. In no great European question for at least a century past has it ever been doubtful where Britain stood. Yet for a whole year neither our allies nor the neutral Powers nor our late enemies have known whether in this crucial issue Britain had a voice or mind or conscience of her own."

The manifesto goes on:

"In December of last year the American Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, offered American co-operation in an impartial investigation of Germany's capacity to make reparation for the damage done in the war. The British Government took no steps for nine months to urge acceptance of this offer upon our allies."

It sums the record up by saying:

"British policy was one of the chief rallying powers in Europe after the Napoleonic wars. For the past year its blindness, indecision and impotence have been such that it has ceased to exercise any guiding influence upon European affairs."

In the same way the Liberal leaders denounce "the shameless Treaty of Lausanne" and declare that the weakness of the Government has destroyed British markets and trade in both the Near and Far East.

"By moral indecision, by divided counsels and by diplomatic incompetence," they say, "the Government has failed in Europe and Asia alike to make one single effective effort to assert our rights, to restore our trade or to bring back peace and order to a distracted world."

As for alternative policy, the two ex-Premiers are content to indicate it by saying that they stand for "prompt settlement of reparations with due consideration of the position of interallied debts and for an earnest endeavor to co-operate with the great American Commonwealth in bringing peace to the world."

Want Full Relations With Russia.

They would welcome the reopening of full relations with Russia and the enlarging of the scope and power of the League of Nations.

The manifesto admits that a return to normal economic conditions must take time, but it criticises incisively Mr. Baldwin's protectionist remedies, saying:

"Trade restriction cannot cure unemployment. Post-war conditions do not justify such restrictions; they merely render it more disastrous. High prices and scarcity can only lower the standard of living, reduce the purchasing power of the country and thereby curtail production. An examination of its features shows that the suggested tariff

GOV. WALTON OUSTED; SENATE VOTES HIM GUILTY ON 11 COUNTS

Oklahoma Legislators' Verdict on Abusing Pardon Power Causes His Removal.

NEW TRIAL QUICKLY DENIED

Acquittal Is Given on 5 of 22 Charges—Six Are Dismissed.

TRAPP IS NOW GOVERNOR

Impeached Official Will Continue His Fight in the Federal Courts.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—Governor James C. Walton was removed from office today by unanimous vote of the State Senate Court on the first article of the impeachment bill submitted for a verdict. Conviction on one count only was necessary for his removal.

The vote, which was on the charge that the Executive had abused his pardon and parole authority, was 41 to 0 for conviction.

The trial ended with no evidence having been presented for the defense, the court previously had voted to proceed with the hearing when Governor Walton unexpectedly withdrew with his counsel Saturday after announcing that he no longer could stand "the humiliation of an unfair trial." The Board of Prosecution completed presentation of its testimony today with the defense, as a unit, absent.

A member of the Governor's legal staff was in the gallery, however, and when the rollcall on the charges was started he took his place at the defense table, entering exceptions to each vote of guilty as it was announced.

In rapid succession the court sustained charges that the Governor had padded the State payroll, dispersed a Grand Jury, suspended the habeas corpus, issued deficiency certificates when no deficiency existed, obstructed the Oct. 2 special election, collected excess campaign funds, illegally sought contributions and gifts and was generally incompetent.

Interspersed with the convictions were acquittals on charges of bribery, that he had abrogated the death penalty, illegally named irresponsible persons as State officers and illegally appointed a member of the State Legislature to a district judgeship.

Found Guilty of Eleven Charges.

With the completion of the vote, the record showed Governor Walton was found guilty of eleven of the twenty-two impeachment charges originally presented against him. He was acquitted of five, and the remaining six, charging offenses in relation to his declarations of martial law in the State, were dismissed on motion of the House Board of Prosecution.

Immediately afterward counsel for the Executive filed application for a new trial. This was denied by a standing vote of the court.

Final testimony in support of the charge that the Executive had collected excessive campaign funds was heard when the prosecution examined M. M. Henderson, formerly State Highway Commissioner, who said he had obtained $5,000 from "a Mr. Brown" of Louisville, Ky. Brown, he explained, was connected with a shirt manufacturing company which held a contract with the State for convict labor at the Oklahoma Penitentiary.

Asked if the Governor knew when he accepted the contribution that Brown represented this company, the witness said: "I think I made that clear to him."

An official oath of the Governor that he spent $1,520 on campaign expenses was introduced soon after Dr. E. T. Bynum, former executive counselor, had testified that contributions to the campaign found from E. W. Marland, President of the Marland Oil and Refining Company, and from the Royal Duten Shell Oil Company had totaled $73,000.

Trapp Becomes Governor.

By the removal of Governor Walton, Lieutenant Governor M. E. Trapp becomes Governor. He has been Lieutenant Governor during two four-year Administrations and has been Acting Governor since Oct. 23, when the Senate suspended Governor Walton after the filing of the impeachment charges.

Lieutenant Governor Trapp has also come through an impeachment fight. Articles seeking his removal in 1921 on charges of corruption in office, were thrown out by a Senate impeachment court, which voted 27 to 16 to quash the charges.

The vote followed with surprising suddenness after the examination of the last witness. E. W. Marland, President

Earthquake Rocks Southeastern France; Walls Crack, Doors Open and Dishes Rattle

PARIS, Nov. 19.—An earthquake early today shook the eastern portion of Southern France along the Spanish frontier, in what is called the Garonne basin, or Eastern Pyrenees, causing lighting fixtures to vibrate, doors to swing and dishes to rattle, and cracking many walls in Perpignan, which seemed to be the centre of the disturbance. No other serious damage and no loss of life was reported. Bordeaux was the northernmost city to report the shock. None of these points reported any damage.

PERPIGNAN, France, Nov. 19.—An earthquake of considerable intensity was felt in this district at 3:46 o'clock this morning. The shock cracked walls, shook lighting fixtures and rattled china in the homes of Perpignan, where it seemed to be the heaviest. The seismograph at the observatory showed the direction of the tremor to be northwest and southwest.

BARCELONA, Spain, Nov. 19.—An earthquake of great intensity was felt here early this morning. The disturbance lasted ten seconds. Considerable alarm prevailed among the inhabitants. Minor shocks lasting twenty seconds were recorded later.

Smoot to Urge Debt Reminders to Nations That Have Not Made a Move as Yet to Pay Us

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Senator Smoot of Utah, who will be Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee at the next session of Congress, and a member of the World War Debt Refunding Commission, is in favor of having the State Department remind those foreign nations which have not refunded their indebtedness to the United States.

It is the present intention of Senator Smoot to bring the matter forward in the next meeting of the Debt Refunding Commission, on the ground that there is nothing else this Government can well do in the matter but invite the attention of France and other debtor nations that they have not yet settled, and ask them to send delegations to Washington to discuss the matter with our Debt Commission, with a view to arriving at something definite in the direction at a settlement.

Senator Smoot did not discuss foreign debts with the President during their conference today, but it is understood the Senator contemplates bringing the matter to the attention of the Executive in the near future.

No date has been fixed for another meeting of the Debt Commission, which had its last meeting three weeks ago, and then adjourned subject to the call of its Chairman, Secretary Mellon.

COOLIDGE INSISTS ON TAX REDUCTION

LEADERS ADOPT HIS VIEW

Convinced Now That Cuts Must Be Made, Even if This Defeats Bonus.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Senators Lodge and Smoot were with President Coolidge for a short time today reporting to him the situation in Congress on the Mellon program for a reduction of taxes and the elimination of the bonus. They found that the President is becoming stronger each day in his conviction that the reduction of taxes is the right thing to do, as thousands of letters reach the White House from all parts of the country upholding his decision to recommend to Congress the adoption of the tax reduction program.

President Coolidge favors tax reductions even if these prevent bonus payments. In doing so he takes a position different from that of many members of his party. But the leaders now are accepting his view and are preparing to force through a tax program. Some of these still express doubt as to the party's ability to enact satisfactory reductions, but all admit that the tax reduction program cannot be stifled by those wishing to put bonus legislation ahead of it.

Some of the gloom that has surrounded the Republican Senate leaders is lightened with a gleam of optimism. Recent White House visitors have gone away feeling that tax reduction is the best course the party can pursue in Congress. President Coolidge has inspired the doubtful leaders with hope of final success. He has said to some of them that the political party which overlooks its plain duty on an economical question cannot hope to live.

The President expects to see the program command the support of all voters, irrespective of party affiliations. So many writers of approving letters received at the White House say they are Democrats that the President has concluded that the tax fight is going to rise above partisan lines.

President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon tell the Republican leaders that tax reduction is not a political matter, but is purely economic, and that there can be no question of political advantages or disadvantages in its consideration.

The talks with the President today did not bear upon what course he would take in his message on tax reduction. That is known. He has said to his party leaders that Secretary Mellon's program is his, and that he intends to back it up with the full force of his Administration. He said he left the moves in Congress to the party leaders and expected them to give full support to a measure which, in his opinion, reflected political judgment because based upon sound economic reasoning.

It became more definitely known today that in his message to Congress the President will so recommend the Mellon plan as to leave no necessity to discuss the bonus question. Some of the bonus Senators have suggested to him that their course in supporting taxation reduction would be aided greatly if the President should declare against a bonus in such terms as to convey the impression that he intended to veto a bonus bill. It is said tonight that the message will not discuss bonus in a definite way, the President holding that acceptance by Congress of anything like the Mellon plan would preclude bonus payments.

Some American Legion men now see that bonus legislation cannot be passed in the coming Congress, as some of their own numbers are being swayed toward tax reduction. There are indications that the Legion men may be forced to allow this issue to fall quietly into the background while they bring forward reforms in rehabilitation, hospitalization and vocational training, in justification of a large appropriation by Congress.

Some bonus men who foresee defeat of bonus through taxation are getting behind the suggestion of Mr. McAdoo that bonus payments be raised by bonds. The McAdoo proposal is opposed by Administration advisers. Secretary Mellon is against the bonus, because to grant such payment means continued high taxes, and such taxes cannot be avoided if the adjustments are made through bonds. Interest payments and money required for the sinking fund, it is pointed out, would not permit lowering of taxes appreciably. Mr. Mellon is opposed to the bond issue on the ground that it does not represent the right economical policy.

Canvasses are being made of members of Congress in the hope of obtaining Democratic support for a sane tax reduction program. Senator Smoot, who is doing this in the Senate, believes he can be sure of forty Republicans supporting sweeping reductions in taxes. Therefore, ten Democrats, or some

COLUMBIA PROPOSES TO ABOLISH 'EXAMS'

STUDENTS VOTE ON IT TODAY

Details Worked Out at Series of Conferences Between Faculty and Undergraduates.

Failure of students to study throughout the year, coupled with a lack of honor at examination time, is expected to lead to the wiping out of all mid-year and final examinations at Columbia College. A plan to that end, worked out at a series of conferences between the student board and the Faculty, will be submitted for student ratification at class meetings on the campus today.

Hand-in-hand with the experimental abolition of examinations, which is to be tried first in selected courses, will be a campaign, in which both members of the Faculty and campus leaders will participate, to inculcate a higher sense of responsibility among the students. An editorial entitled "Responsibility," published this morning in The Spectator, the college daily, even hints that this campaign may culminate in an effort to introduce the honor system at Columbia, trial of that system, as The Spectator frankly admits, having been frowned upon by the Faculty under existing conditions.

A further innovation that was said last night to be expected once the no-examination system has been set working, is doing away with the cut system whereby attendance at classes is obligatory and a student's appearances or non-appearances are checked up and recorded. Men at Columbia who are sponsoring the present radical changes are said to believe that Columbia can trust men to come to classes, once candidates for degrees have come to depend upon the day-to-day work for earning their degrees.

The Spectator Supports Plan.

The Spectator's editorial which heralds the submission of the new no-examination plan to the student body reads:

"It is true beyond question that every institution of learning in this land is troubled by the failure of its students to recognise their liabilities. At Columbia, as well as elsewhere, there is ample room for improvement.

"This scheme to evoke a larger responsibility which has been evolved from the numerous conferences held in the last month among undergraduates, alumni and members of the Faculty is beyond peradventure the most important forward movement undertaken at Morningside Heights in recent years. It has been characterized as such by the Dean of Columbia College.

"Under the present mode of conducting courses, irresponsibility is apparent on all sides. It leads to a forsaking of studying during the greater portion of a semester, and its consequence is a frenzied cramming on the eve of final examinations. Only too often it goes so far as to omit the usual studying and culminates in a lack of honor in the concluding tests of the term. It is just this attitude which has led the Faculty to look askance upon any experiments with an honor system."

Students and Faculty Co-operate.

The impression last night among those who have followed the development of the movement to be put publicly before the students today was that widespread cheating at the final examinations last Spring led both faculty and student leaders to search about for some way to put students striving for academic proficiency on a higher plane. The details of the experimental scheme have been worked out at a series of conferences among the Student Board, headed by Ferris Booth; Dean Herbert E. Hawkes of the college, the Faculty Committee on Instruction and prominent alumni whose names were not made public.

It is expected by the sponsors of the plan that the students, when they get an opportunity to vote by classes after the plan has been put before them thoroughly in the next few days, will give it most cordial endorsement. The impulse came from the campus to the Faculty, it is said, and hence submission of a detailed plan will only mean giving back to the student body in concrete form its own idea for earning a diploma by honest work from day to day and month to month, rather than cramming for it at the end of the Winter or Spring semester.

Booth, who with Walter Koppisch, captain of the football team, and other students of high standing among their fellows, will begin today to try to build up a new esprit de corps in the college, said that the students wanted to do away with examinations because they constituted "an elaborate and cumbersome system." It was explained that many men resented the cramming time they were forced to give up twice a year as examinations approached and that such would prefer to keep well abreast of their work right along and to dodge the

VERDICT IS FIRST VICTORY

SUIT IN IRELAND DISMISSED

Ruling of Dublin Court Ends Pending Litigation in Contest on the Will.

Richard Croker Jr. got a verdict last night from the jury before Supreme Court Justice Proskauer in his $160,000 suit against the estate of his father in behalf of his sister, Ethel, and brother, Howard.

The suit was brought by Richard Croker Jr. to enforce an alleged agreement by his father to give $74,000 each to Howard and Ethel if Richard gave a like amount to Howard. Richard testified that he carried out his part of the agreement, but that his father had repudiated it. Action was brought to recover the entire amount, with interest, from Nov. 10, 1914, the date of the alleged agreement.

The verdict is the first won by the Croker children in their litigation against their father during his lifetime, and against his estate after his death. The jury was out thirty minutes, and answered three questions of fact in favor of the children. It now remains for Justice Proskauer to grant judgment in accordance with the findings of fact.

The jury decided that the alleged agreement was made by the late Tammany leader, that his son Richard performed his part, and that the elder Croker did not keep his agreement.

Mrs. Bula Croker, the widow, was cross-examined yesterday at the outset of the proceedings by Max D. Steuer, counsel for the children, and testified that Mr. Croker transferred his Palm Beach home, "The Wigwam," to her before his death. She said he also gave her power to draw upon his bank accounts here and in Ireland, but insisted that he still held title to some of his Florida property at the time of his death.

Refer to Former Testimony.

Mrs. Croker testified that her stepchildren did not come to her wedding, because of the recent death of their mother, and that her husband said, "That's all right; that's your mother." She said that Howard later expressed regret that he had not attended.

In an attempt to prove that Mrs. Croker had not testified at the present trial as she had in other litigation, Mr. Steuer asked if she did not testify in the probate proceedings in Ireland that she first met Howard and Ethel at a tea she gave.

"I met them once at one of my recitals," said Mrs. Croker, adding that she had met them also at the Democratic Club. Justice Proskauer requested the witness not to volunteer testimony. When Mr. Steuer asked her if she hadn't told her own attorney that she met the children first at a tea, she said:

"Yes, I met them again then."

"But didn't your counsel ask you if that was the first time?"

"Yes, but he didn't split hairs like you do," replied Mrs. Croker.

Mrs. Croker, who had testified in the present trial that she was introduced to her husband by the late Andrew Freedman, admitted that in the Palm Beach litigation she had refused to say who had introduced them, although she insisted that a few days later she had given the answer. When Mr. Steuer handed her a copy of her testimony and asked her to find the statement, she was unable to do so.

Defense Rips to Jury.

In closing his case, Edmund L. Mooney, attorney for the estate, offered in evidence a deposition by Mr. Croker, made in New York on Oct. 28, 1921, in which, when asked if he made the agreement sued upon, declared it "absolutely false."

In his summing up Mr. Mooney, referring to Richard Croker Jr., said:

"For seven years he tracked and hounded this woman, from spot to spot, from day to day, from hour to hour. There can be no greater scandal in history. Even a jealous husband of a revengeful wife would not have done that. What a splendid victory she won in vindicating the probate of her husband's will.

"If there is anything a man has a right to do it is to have some one take care of him in his declining years. And he hasn't any time to lose at 70 years. And I see no wrong in hasty wooing, and don't, please, believe that when you get to be 71 you have to be put away

Boys Find $10,000 in Jewels Buried by Thieves; Get $1,000 Reward From H. C. Willcox, Owner

Special to The New York Times.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., Nov. 19.—Milton and Holden L'Ecluse, 10 and 14 year old sons of Milton L'Ecluse of the New York real estate firm of L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co., were digging in the sand in front of the L'Ecluse estate here yesterday when they came upon an old tin can. With childish curiosity they pulled it from its hiding place and to their amazement found it filled with precious stones and jewelry. Running into the house, they confronted their mother with the treasure, which later was found to be worth $10,000.

The mother recalled that on Sept. 7 thieves had entered the rooms of Henry C. Willcox, Vice President of the American Surety Company, with offices at 100 Broadway, Manhattan, at the Huntington Bay Club, and had taken more than $10,000 worth of diamonds, sapphires and rubies made up into necklaces, bracelets and watches from a bag on the floor. The bag had not been forced open but apparently had been unlocked and relocked by some one who had a key, and for that reason the burglary was thought to have been an inside job. Mr. Willcox was on the golf links when the theft occurred. Sheriff Amos W. Biggs of Suffolk County investigated the theft, but no progress was made.

Yesterday Mr. Willcox was notified at his city home, 315 Park Avenue, of the finding of the jewelry and went down to Huntington to examine the jewelry. When he found that it was his he gave the L'Ecluse boys $1,000 reward. The authorities of Suffolk County will pursue the investigation further now to see if they can learn how the jewelry came to this unique hiding place.

Mr. Willcox said at his New York home last night that two or three articles of the jewelry were still missing.

St. Louis Dedicates Monument To 32 Children Killed by Autos

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—A monument to the thirty-two children killed by automobiles in St. Louis this year was dedicated in Twelfth Street, the city's principal business thoroughfare, today. It bears this inscription:

3,000 CITIZENS TO AID POLICE IN CRIME WAR

KNOWN CRIMINALS MUST GO

City-Wide Round-Up of Idlers Begun Last Night—Identity of Bank Murderers Fixed.

The police reserves of the entire city last night put themselves at the disposal of the department in warring against the renewed outbreak of crimes of violence.

At a meeting in Police Headquarters they converted themselves into a mobile arm to reinforce the regular department and placed the thousands of automobiles owned by the members, professional and business men, at the service of the city, thus inaugurating a period of extraordinary patrol.

Three thousand reserves gathered at a meeting in Police Headquarters. So stirred were they by the appeal of the commander, Colonel Finch, who told them that New York was being overrun by criminals of every character, mostly bandits and gunmen who raid business premises by day and night and escape in fast cars with their loot, that more than a hundred of the members emerged from the big Centre Street building to go on patrol immediately.

At least a hundred cars in which were squads of armed reserves went scurrying over the city, assigned by Colonel Finch to danger zones and outlying centres. The routes of the first automobile patrols were picked by Inspector Charles H. McKinney. Many more are expected to go on duty today with their cars, and a twenty-four hour vigilance service probably will be in operation by tonight.

Civilian patrols in suburban districts are to be a part of the reserves' contribution to the campaign against thugs and gunmen. Thus they will do the two-fold service of protecting sparsely settled districts remote from police stations and of relieving regular policemen for emergency service in congested centres.

Commissioner Leach Welcomes Aid.

The decision to put the whole reserve force with all the automobiles it could muster at the immediate disposal of the department was reached after considerable discussion of ways and means. Acting Commissioner John A. Leach welcomed the addition to his active forces and promised to inform Colonel Finch as soon as the emergency had passed.

The meeting of reserves followed an earlier gathering at Headquarters of Inspectors, Deputy Inspectors, Captains and Acting Captains, summoned by Commissioner Leach to devise further ways and means of coping with the crime situation. At that meeting decision was reached to bend every energy of the whole department to ridding the Immediately after the meeting Commissioner Leach directed that, beginning at 9 o'clock last night, all available men be assigned to make a complete round-up of all loiterers, persons with police records found loafing and other suspicious characters. All commands were ordered to inspect every poolroom of questionable character and to visit the rear rooms of saloons and go into a certain type of "social clubs."

The orders directed that when circumstances seemed to justify such action, policemen were authorized to search patrons of such places for weapons. Particular emphasis was placed on the examination of poolroom habitutés, in line with the views a few days ago of Commissioner Enright and Chief Magistrate McAdoo, expressed in a conference on the crime situation, that a certain type of poolroom bred criminals and afforded them harbor. Chief Magistrate McAdoo asserted that in one instance it was found that every patron of the poolroom made his livelihood by criminal means.

Commissioner Leach informed the officers at the meeting that he had received assurances from the Magistrates that all men picked up in the general round-up and shown to be of questionable character would be given the alternative of going to the Workhouse or leaving the city. The Board of Mag-

CRAIG'S SENTENCE TO JAIL IS UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Faces 60 Days in Prison—Power of Judge Mayer Sustained.

TWO JUSTICES DISSENT

Controller Threw Away Opportunity to Appeal, Says Ruling in Which Taft Joins.

PRESIDENT CAN'T PARDON

LaGuardia to Present Bill in Next Congress in Effort to Save Official.

The United States Supreme Court rendered an opinion yesterday upholding the Circuit Court of Appeals in refusing to free Controller Charles L. Craig, who had been sentenced to prison for contempt of court. The Controller, who now faces a term of sixty days in the Essex County, N. J., jail at Newark, said last night at his farm near Carmel, N. Y., that he would make no statement nor decide what to do until he reached his office at noon today and had consulted with his attorney, Edmund L. Mooney, and had read the complete text of the decision.

"I have just been talking with my New York office over the telephone," said Mr. Craig, "but they have not yet received the decision. A copy is now being sent to New York by messenger from Washington. No statement regarding the decision will be made until I have the complete text, including the dissenting opinion."

Mr. Mooney, who is the Controller's personal attorney, also stated emphatically that he would have no comment of his own to make on the decision until he had consulted with his client today.

"After reading the opinion of the court, which has been telephoned in full from Washington," said Mr. Mooney, "I have no statement to make for publication until I have had an opportunity to talk with the Controller personally. The Controller is out of town for today, but will be at his office tomorrow, and I will then, after conferring with him, be prepared to give a statement as to the effect of the opinion and of any further step that may be taken in the matter."

Judge Mayer Upheld.

The Supreme Court upholds the right of Judge Julius M. Mayer of the United States District Court to impose such a sentence on the Controller by a vote of 7 to 2.

The proceedings arose when as Controller of New York City on Oct. 6, 1919, he wrote a letter to Lewis Nixon, then a Public Service Commissioner, criticising the action of Judge Mayer in refusing to name a co-receiver in the Brooklyn Rapid Transit cases. This letter was made public and Judge Mayer took cognizance of it. He adjudged Controller Craig in contempt of court and sentenced him to sixty days in jail. Subsequently Circuit Judge Manton ordered his release on habeas corpus proceedings, but the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the decision of Judge Mayer. This the United States Supreme Court yesterday also upheld.

In his letter to Mr. Nixon Mr. Craig said that he and other members of the Board of Estimate had been denied access to original sources of information concerning the property of the Public Utility Corporation and declared that "there must be a reversal of the policy for which Judge Mayer is responsible."

In effect the Supreme Court yesterday held that United States Circuit Judges, as such, have no power to grant writs of habeas corpus. The majority opinion, in which Chief Justice Taft concurred, continuing, says:

"The matter heard by Judge Mayer was an ordinary contempt proceedings and Toledo Newspaper Company vs. United States (247 U. S. 402) is enough to show that the District Court had power to entertain it, decide whether the evidence established an offense within the statute and determine the petitioner's guilt or innocence.

Had a Remedy By Appeal.

"When the latter found himself aggrieved by the decree, his remedy by appeal was plain. Neglecting that course, he asked a single judge to review and upset the entire proceedings and now claims there was no appeal from the favorable order. The course taken indicates a studied purpose to escape review of either proceeding by an Appellate Court. Petitioner may not complain of unfortunate consequences to himself.

"The Circuit Court of Appeals correctly applied the well-established general rule that a writ of habeas corpus cannot be utilized for the purpose of proceedings in error. Its decree is affirmed and the cause will be remanded to the District Court for the Southern District of New York, with directions to vacate the order releasing the petitioner; discharge the writ; and take such further proceedings as may be necessary to carry this opinion into effect."

In concluding, Chief Justice Taft said that Craig and his counsel threw away opportunity "for a review of the case on its merits in the Circuit Court of Appeals and in this court, in their purpose to make a short cut and secure final release through the act of a single Judge. This is the situation the petitioner finds himself in," the Chief Justice adds, "and we are without power to relieve him."

Craig, according to Chief Justice Taft, had a clear right to have his case reviewed on facts and law by three Judges of the Circuit Court of Appeals, and adds:

"The petitioner and his counsel have made such a review impossible. Instead of pursuing this plain remedy for injustice that may have been done by the trial Judge and securing by an appellate court a review of the serious question on the merits, they sought by aspiring to a single Judge of our co-ordinate authority for a writ of habeas corpus to release the petitioner on the ground that the trial judge was without jurisdiction to make the decision he did. This raised the sole issue whether the trial Judge had authority to decide the question, not whether he had rightly decided it.

Two Justices Dissent.

Justice Holmes dissented and Justice Brandeis concurred in the dissent. Justice Holmes holds that Craig's resort to habeas corpus was right and was the only proper course.

"Unless a Judge while sitting can lay hold of any one who ventures to publish anything that tends to make him unpopular or belittle him, I cannot see what power Judge Mayer had to touch Mr. Craig," said Justice Holmes.

Controller Craig went to his farm last week, leaving word at his office that he would not return to the city until Tuesday morning. After learning of the decision which may mean a two months' sojourn in the Essex County jail, the Controller went for a horseback ride, remarking that he would discuss the matter when he came to the city today.

While the general opinion expressed in the city departments was that nothing could now intervene to save the Controller from serving the sentence imposed by the Court, Representative F. H. La Guardia said that he would introduce a bill at the coming session of Congress to prevent the Controller's commitment. He admitted that he could not see how even President Coolidge could pardon the Controller, the offense being against the Court and not against the Government.

"I shall, however," said Mr. La Guardia, "introduce a bill on the first day Congress meets, Dec. 3, to prevent the commitment of the Controller. If under the present law it is not legal for a municipal officer in the course of his duties to communicate frankly and fully on any matter concerning the city with another official, it is time we had some legislation to protect public officials. If this situation is carried out it can readily be seen that the courts will soon control official conduct and even the speech and thoughts of public officials."

Would Authorize a Pardon.

Mr. La Guardia said his bill would provide as follows:

"That the President is hereby authorized and empowered to pardon any public official, national, State or municipal, who may be committed for contempt of court where such contempt consists solely in a communication in the course of the duties of such official."

Lawyers said yesterday that the La Guardia plan would have no effect on the Craig case, even if the bill was passed, as it could not cover a decision of the court already made, although it might apply to future cases.

It was also pointed out that if the Controller found no way to circumvent the court's action he must begin to serve his term within thirty days.

The procedure, it was stated, is for the Clerk of the Supreme Court to send, within thirty days, the mandate of the tribunal to the court of original jurisdiction, in this instance the Federal District Court of this district. The mandate is then transferred to the United States District Attorney, who turns it over to the United States Marshal for action.

Section 2 of the United States Constitution defines the President's power to issue pardons and reprieves as follows:

"The President shall be Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment."

Should Controller Craig serve his sentence in a New Jersey jail and go out of the State of New York, according to the authorities, he would be "functus officio," or out of office. In such an emergency Deputy Controller Henry Smith would probably be called upon to fill the office of Controller during the absence of Mr. Craig.

An intimate friend of the Controller, who requested that his name be withheld, was asked last night if he believed that Mr. Craig would attempt to reopen the case. He replied in the negative. "Mr. Craig's friends," he said, "know that one of his chief characteristics is to endure to the end whatever befalls him. He is the kind of man to whom, when he feels that he is performing his duty, it does not make a great deal of difference whether he is looking after the finances of the city government or serving a sentence."

AUTHORITY TO PARDON.

Other Presidents Have Exercised It In Contempt Cases, Officials Say.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Whether the President has the power to pardon Controller Charles L. Craig, whom the Supreme Court's decision, rendered today, would send to jail for sixty days, is a question which prominent officials of the Department of Justice preferred not to be quoted as answering tonight. Legal opinion differs on the question which appears to pivot around the idea whether contempt of court may properly be considered an offense against the United States within the meaning of the Federal Constitution.

Whatever legal sharps may think about the matter, it was stated in a high quarter tonight that the records will show that former Presidents have exercised power to pardon in contempt cases and that they have always contended that the Constitution vests them with the right to exercise such power. It is also stated in the same quarter that such exercise of pardoning power by former Presidents has never yet been disputed in the courts.

Should a request be made for a Presidential pardon for Controller Craig, it would be handled first in the Department of Justice before being laid before the President for action. The first point to be determined is whether the President has jurisdiction to pardon a person sentenced for contempt of court. After the determination of this point would come the question in the Presidential mind as to whether he cared to grant a pardon.

Whether President Coolidge, even if clearly convinced that he had the power to pardon Mr. Craig, would choose to exercise it, is regarded by officials as involving far-reaching questions of discretion and policy.

FAVORS HAIFA AS PORT.

Expert Thinks It Would Serve Palestine Better Than Jaffa.

JERUSALEM, Nov. 19 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—Haifa, with its natural harbor facilities, is favored as the site for the port of Palestine in a report submitted by Mr. Palmer, the engineer assigned by the Colonial Office of the British Government to study the relative advantages of Haifa and Jaffa.

The sum of £1,000,000 will be required for the port construction, in Mr. Palmer's opinion, and the question of finding the capital for the work is now before the Palestine authorities. As the Government has used up in advance almost half of the £10,000,000 loan which is about to be floated, private capital is being sought for the port.

Baron Edmond de Rothschild of Paris has twice promised to assume part of the financing, and to have asked his coreligionists in America to co-operate with him.

CANCEL IBANEZ LECTURE.

Cuban Students Declare He "Sold His Pen for Yankee Gold."

HAVANA, Nov. 19.—An invitation to Vicente Blasco Ibañez, the Spanish author, to lecture before the students of Havana University has been withdrawn by the federation of students. The announcement of the withdrawal of the invitation said that Ibañez had "sold his pen and words for Yankee gold" while on his recent trip to the United States, and that the federation considered him opposed to Latin-American ideals.

Ibañez, who arrived in Havana today on his tour around the world, was greeted by city officials and numerous other distinguished Cubans. Many hobbies were paid him.

ENRIGHT ASKS CRAIN TO NAME GRAFTERS

Demands Details of Court's Charges Against Police in Corrigan-Cuvillier Hearing.

JUDGE TO AID IN CLEAN-UP

Promises Help After Civil Libel Suits Are Heard—Assemblyman Held for Jury Gets Writ.

The criticism of conditions in the Police Department which was made by Judge Thomas C. T. Crain in his findings at the conclusion of his inquiry into Commissioner Enright's libel charges against Magistrate Corrigan and Assemblyman Cuvillier has, it became known yesterday, led the Commissioner to write to Judge Crain demanding specific details of the charges, with names.

The letter was dated Nov. 12, but it was not made public until yesterday, when it appeared in Circular 21, sent out to members of the Police Department. The circular also included a letter to Chief Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora, asking his co-operation in criminal prosecution of "such members of the police force as may conceivably be implicated within the purview of Judge Crain's criticism."

Judge Crain, when asked to comment on the letter, said that he had directed his secretary to communicate with Commissioner Enright. "I told my secretary to tell him that at the end of his civil litigation I would be glad to help him clean up his department," said Judge Crain. The civil litigation referred to is a suit for $150,000 against Magistrate Corrigan and Assemblyman Cuvillier for alleged libel.

Cuvillier Starts Fight.

District Attorney Banton said that further action by his office, not only with regard to charges against the police, but also the presentment to the Grand Jury of the charge of criminal libel on which Assemblyman Cuvillier was held by Judge Crain, would await the disposition of habeas corpus proceedings begun in the Supreme Court by Assemblyman Cuvillier. Mr. Cuvillier yesterday surrendered to Sheriff Nagle under Judge Crain's decision. His counsel, George Z. Medalie and Martin Conboy, immediately obtained from Justice Daniel F. Cohalan a writ of habeas corpus. The hearing on the writ was set for next Monday at 2 P. M. The writ challenged the holding of Mr. Cuvillier on the ground of lack of jurisdiction, legislative privilege and justification.

Commissioner Enright's letter to Judge Crain follows:

"As Police Commissioner of the City of New York and in discharge of my duties, I have carefully scrutinized and considered your opinion which was publicly announced on Nov. 9, 1923, in the case of the people of the State of New York against Louis A. Cuvillier and Joseph E. Corrigan. There are matters in that opinion which to me are far more vital than the decision in the case in which it was made.

"I am gravely concerned with the indictment for malpractice and corruption which you have made against members of the police force. You state very properly in your opinion that those whom you charge with corruption should, if guilty, be driven from the department and prosecuted under the criminal law. It is needless to state, as you have recognized, that among 12,000 men it would be most remarkable if there were not dishonest ones. I have unceasingly striven to discover them and drive them from the department."

Quotes From Crain's Decision.

"You say in your opinion that the evidence taken before you 'forces one to believe that corruption, existed in the department; that many officers were examined under oath, and the testimony of some of them appeared to be purposely untrue'; that 'perjury is as reprehensible as the extortion of graft'; that some (of the police officers) 'were themselves violators of that law (Mullan-Gage law) and that the existence of the law was made by a considerable number of the force the occasion for theft and extortion,' that they were guilty of 'unashamed connivance at its breach and participation in the profits accruing from its violation'; that 'no condemnation is strong enough for officers of the law who deliberately engage in spoliation of the law'; that 'the bootlegger must not be the patrolman's intimate—must not be the Captain's entertainer—he must not be the Inspector's backer and banker.'

"You state that you have no doubt that Magistrate Corrigan, in the performance of his judicial duties, 'day by day, observed with indignation and righteous anger the humiliating consequences of police corruption.' You state that the Mullan-Gage law 'was the source of graft which enriched and degraded' members of the police force.

"These are serious charges against members of the police force. I assume that in pronouncing them you had in mind specific individuals against whom you made these general charges. I am determined that if there be persons in the Police Department who have grafted, thieved, or who have either connived at a breach of the law or profited from its violation, or who were engaged, as you say, in spoliation under the law, or who have been enriched through the law and have degraded the police force, or if there be patrolmen who are intimates of bootleggers and Captains who have been entertained by bootleggers, and Inspectors who have been backed or financed by bootleggers, or police officers who committed perjury before you, that they shall at once be placed on trial and removed from the Police Department.

Finds Only Two Involved.

"There is no place in the Police Department for such men. Unfortunately, however, my own recollection of the testimony given at those sessions before you which I attended does not bring to my mind any evidence against any member of the police force in support of the charges which you made.

"I am counseled by the Assistant Corporation Counsel, whose advice I have had in this proceeding, and also by my own personal attorneys, who have closely followed the testimony before your Honor, that in their judgment as members of the bar there is not a shred of evidence in the 3,358 pages of testimony taken before your Honor and in the 162 exhibits received in evidence which would even tend to support a charge of corruption, grafting, connivance at a breach of the law and participation in the spoils of its violation, against a single person now a member of the police force of the City of New York; that there is nothing in the record which would justify me in preferring charges for false swearing against any member of the police force, except in the case of Morrison, and Lambert, who have been placed on trial.

"I am writing you because in these circumstances I find myself hampered in the discharge of a duty which you very properly point out to me in your opinion, but the means for the discharge of which you have unfortunately not indicated. If the charges made by you be true, then indeed have you rendered a great service both to the Police Department and the people of our city, but unless I am enabled to remove the conditions which you criticise, much greater damage will be done by the publication of your Honor's condemnation than if your charges had remained unmade.

"I am writing you for your company than I am advised that your Honor gave to the testimony most unusual and exacting attention, and at this time I am quite confident that the evidence from which you drew your inferences and upon which you predicated your judgments is clearly in your mind, and I am taking the liberty as a public officer of addressing a fellow public officer, and requesting that you advise me specifically of the names of those persons against whom you direct your charges, with a reference to the 'testimony' upon which the charge is based."

COURT BARS ALIENS FROM CROP SHARING

Supreme Tribunal Upholds California Law Forbidding Such Contracts With Japanese.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Two decisions were handed down today by the United States Supreme Court which followed its earlier ruling in upholding the California Alien Land law.

One decision declared that aliens who can not lease land can not own stock in a land-owning corporation. The other declared that the law also prevented aliens affected from making a lease to share crops.

In the first case the Court held that Raymond L. Frick could not sell to N. Satow, a Japanese, stock in a corporation authorized to buy and sell agricultural lands. The Federal Court in Northern California ruled that ownership of such stock was a violation of the Alien Land act, and this decision was sustained by the United States Supreme Court.

In the second case, J. J. O'Brien made an agreement with J. Inouye to share crops with him. This contract also was declared invalid by the California Federal Court as conflicting with the Alien Land act, and this decision was upheld by the highest court.

Concerning the constitutional questions involved in the latter case the Court said:

"The right to make and carry out cropper contracts such as that before us is not safeguarded to ineligible aliens by the Constitution. A denial of it does not deny the ordinary means of earning a livelihood or the right to work for a living. The practical result of such contract is that the cropper has use, control and benefit of land for agricultural purposes, substantially similar to that granted to a lessee. Conceivably, by the use of such contracts, the population living on and cultivating the farm lands might come to be made up largely of ineligible aliens.

"The allegiance of the farmers to the State directly affects its strength and safety. We think it within the power of the State to deny to ineligible aliens the privilege as to use agricultural lands within its borders."

HONOR IRENE LOEB.

Thousands at Dinner Pay Tribute to Welfare Worker.

More than 2,000 men and women prominent in official, business, literary and social spheres attended a dinner last night in the Biltmore Hotel in honor of Miss Sophie Irene Loeb, President of the Board of Child Welfare. President Coolidge, former President Wilson and Mayor Hylan by letter and Governor Smith, United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, and others in addresses paid tribute to the services of Miss Loeb in the interest of children.

President Coolidge wrote that the accomplishments of Miss Loeb should be an incentive to others. Ex-President Wilson praised her public spirit and devotion. Mayor Hylan wrote that the people of the State were fortunate in having Miss Loeb as head of the Board of Child Welfare.

Fellow-members of the board presented Miss Loeb with a silver gavel through Commissioner William Irving Sirovich. In behalf of the Big Brothers and Big Sisters' Association of the United States and Canada, George W. McDonald, the President, gave a medal to her in appreciation of her work. A portrait of Miss Loeb, which is to hang in the local office of the board, was unveiled.

Others who paid tribute to Miss Loeb were Lieut. Gov. George R. Lunn, Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the former President; George R. Donnan Jr., who was secretary to President Harding; the Rev. Francis P. Duffy, Miss Elizabeth Marbury, State Senator James J. Walker, Louis Marshall, Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, Lee Davis and Chief Magistrate McAdoo. Beniamino Gigli, tenor of the Metropolitan, sang "Mother," the verses of which were composed by Miss Loeb.

LEAP AT FIRE KILLS WOMAN.

Two Others Are Injured in Jump From Burning Warehouse.

A fire which swept the interior of a five-story furniture warehouse at 163 West Nineteenth Street shortly before noon yesterday spread so rapidly that four persons who were on the fourth floor were compelled to leap from a window to a three-story extension in the rear. Mrs. Elizabeth Kerbers, 44 years old, of 168 Bleecker Street, Jersey City, fiancee of Miss Kerbers, escaped injury.

Mrs. Kerbers, with her daughter and intended son-in-law, were purchasing furniture, when one of them remarked to Cohen that the floor seemed warm. Cohen had hardly remarked that the radiators were probably overheated when Mrs. Kerbers caught sight of flames shooting up the elevator shaft. As there were no fire escapes in the front part of the building the four, led by Cohen, ran to the rear in an effort to reach the extension roof in safety.

Three alarms were sent in. Mrs. Mary Williams, a cripple, who lives at 165 West Nineteenth Street, became excited and kept her three small children in the front part of her apartment. Fearing that Mrs. Williams and her children would jump out of a window, William Millio, a neighbor, went into the house and conducted the family to safety. The damage to the furniture warehouse was estimated at $50,000. Three firms had quarters in the building.

RIO GRANDE CASE WAITS.

Anglo-American Tribunal Adjourns Pending Reply to Inquiry.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The hearing on the Rio Grande Irrigation Company's claim against the American Government for more than $17,000,000 was continued this morning before the Anglo-American arbitration tribunal.

Sir Cecil Hurst of the legal department of the Foreign Office continued his argument in opposition to the American motion to dismiss the case on the ground that the company was now American, in view of the fact that a West Virginia company known as the Rio Grande Investment Company of West Virginia was in full control and had all the rights and powers of the original company.

The British member of the tribunal said that this was a most important matter to clear up, and the case was adjourned until tomorrow.

In the meantime cables are being sent to America in order to find out the exact standing of the West Virginia company. Sir Cecil declared that it was only a figurehead organized in order to evade the "alien law," which was formerly on the statute books of Arizona, prohibiting aliens from owning land in that State. The Court intimated that the answer received to its cabled inquiry would tend much to influence its ultimate decision.

Head Winds Delay Majestic.

The White Star liner Majestic, incoming from Southampton and Cherbourg with a big list of passengers and mails, has been delayed by westerly gales, head seas and fog and will not reach her pier at the foot of West Eighteenth Street before 10 A. M. tomorrow.

GRAPHOLOGIST SAYS BRAIN DOES WRITING

Schermann Declares His Power to Read Destinies in Script Is Partly Psychic.

HE INTERPRETS SPECIMENS

Cites Examples Where He Accurately Foretold Disaster—Calls It Gift From God.

Rafael Schermann, "psycho-graphologist," spoke on Handwriting and Destiny at Town Hall yesterday afternoon and gave illustrations to support his assertion that past and future events may be read from handwriting.

At the outset Mr. Schermann said he laid no claim to infallibility and that it was futile to expect him to solve all riddles from handwriting. Professor Oscar Fisher of Prague, he said, had expressed the opinion that in 71 per cent. of the cases submitted to him a correct diagnosis had been made.

Mr. Schermann selected for his lecture a group of his successful cases. James Pond, his lecture manager, in introducing Mr. Schermann, said that none of the unsuccessful cases had been chosen, as they were not so interesting as the others.

It was the contention of Mr. Schermann that "it is not the hand that writes, but the brain." He claimed also that his power could not be explained merely by graphology, but that the psychic entered into it. He waved aside telepathy as an explanation.

One of the specimens of handwriting flashed on the screen was that of a young Englishman who frequently took business trips by airplane. He had planned to fly from Vienna to London, and Schermann, from a reading of the handwriting, predicted a disastrous trip, urging the young man to give it up. With great reluctance the man abandoned the trip. A clipping of a London paper flashed on the screen showed that seven persons had been killed when a Paris-London plane crashed, and two letters from the business man were displayed to the audience. These referred to the intended trip and thanked Schermann for his advice.

Mr. Schermann declared he took his power seriously as a gift from God and that he used it as much as possible to prevent unhappiness. He submitted on the screen a score of specimens of handwriting and told stories of the men and women who wrote them for him. In several cases, he said he predicted suicides. In one case he told of a young woman whose handwriting indicated to him that she would attempt suicide and in a third case of a young man who ran away from home leaving the impression that he had taken his own life. Schermann said the young man's handwriting indicated that he had joined a circus and he consoled the unhappy mother with the thought that her son would return. It came about as he predicted, he asserted.

He differed from many graphologists who claimed that the handwriting of children could not be read. A child's handwriting reveals its character and tendencies, according to Schermann, and he said that the training of children could be aided by an analysis of their handwriting.

The handwriting is the photograph of the personality, according to Schermann. He maintained that changes in handwriting were significant.

A Hungarian journalist showed him piecemeal specimens of the handwriting of Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot. He said the writing indicated a man of great financial genius, who would have been able to carry out many important financial undertakings if he had been given free play. Without seeing the full signature he told the journalist that there were two boats associated with the life of the man. It appeared, he said, that Kossuth fled across the Danube in a rowboat, and was subsequently accorded the hospitality of a British warship, which conveyed him to England.

Schermann described his impressions of the characters of Enrico Caruso, the singer; Alfred Herz, the conductor, and Count Zeppelin as conveyed to him by their writings.

BEAT JEWISH STUDENTS IN VIENNA AND JASSY

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 19.—Vienna University was ordered closed this morning until further notice as the result of serious demonstrations of an anti-Semitic character which culminated in numerous assaults on Jewish students.

Calm had been reigning among the students of all political parties ever since the early Summer, and the university Senate had made it plain to the national Socialists that their demand for the introduction of "numerous clauses"—that is to say, a limit to the number of Jews who might be admitted to the schools of Austria—would be refused.

Trouble developed again coincidentally with the Bavarian putsch, and the university last week issued orders forbidding all students to wear their corps colors and other insignia in order to check their political ardor.

This caused a flood of protest. This morning some 200 youths of the Extremist German Party, mostly those attending the Technical College, armed with "life preservers," "knuckle dusters" and like weapons, marched to the university and, forcing their way into the various lecture rooms, demanded that the professors should suspend work and ordered all Jewish students to quit the room. Wherever their demands were complied with the youths restrained themselves, but resistance was invariably followed by forcible ejection and the infliction of a thrashing.

Demonstrations of a similar nature are this evening reported from Gratz.

JASSY, Rumania, Nov. 19 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Eight Jewish students were dangerously injured in an attack on them by anti-Semitic students in the university here. The plot followed closely on the heels of the resignation of Prince Cantacuzene from the Faculty after voicing his protest against the intermittent attacks on the Jews.

JAPAN'S NAVAL LOSS HIGH.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Captain Osami Nogano, Japanese Naval Attaché at Washington, has been advised that the Japanese Ministry of Marine estimates the total damage to the Japanese Navy and its establishments by the earthquake disaster at $50,000,000.

This includes damages to the Yokosuka base, where a naval hospital, engineering school, naval training station and other buildings burned, and where a naval supply store was covered with earth by a hillside shift. It also includes damages to the hydrographic offices and other buildings in Tokio.

In addition to the airplane-carrier Hosyi, which was under construction at Yokuruka Yards at the time of the earthquake and was so badly damaged that she will be scrapped, two light cruisers under construction there also were damaged.

Thanks to the American Navy, Captain Nagano said, the Japanese Navy has been supplied with all the charts and hydrographic maps which were lost in the fire, so that "it is now probably better equipped than before."

3,000 CITIZENS TO AID POLICE IN CRIME WAR

istrates held a meeting yesterday at the Chief Magistrate's offices at 300 Mulberry Street. In one Brooklyn court yesterday a Magistrate imposed fines ranging from $5 to $50 on 135 men found in groups in places of bad repute.

More Police for the Avenue.

The program of securing the city for suspicious characters, with the promised co-operation of the Magistrates, was only one of the steps decided on yesterday by Commissioner Leach to terminate the outbreak of lawlessness. In response to the insistence of business and civic organizations, among them the Fifth Avenue Association, the Acting Commissioner issued an order, effective this morning, whereby, until at least the end of the holiday season, the more prominent shopping centres of Manhattan are to be policed more closely than ever before.

The order involved the addition of more than 100 uniformed and plain-clothes men to the force of patrolmen and detectives already patrolling Fifth Avenue's shopping blocks. Beginning today every block on Fifth Avenue, between Twenty-third and Fifty-ninth Streets, will be watched by a man in uniform or plain clothes. One man will be assigned to each two blocks on the east side and one man to each two blocks on the west side of the avenue. These will be distributed in a zigzag fashion, assuring the presence of a policeman in each block, either on the east or west sidewalk.

Sixth Avenue and Madison Avenue, between Twenty-third and Fifty-ninth Streets, will be guarded in the same way. Other groups will be assigned to the downtown shopping district, taking in Fourteenth Street and the neighborhood of Wanamaker's. Seventh Avenue will receive more than usual attention. Similar protection will be given shopping districts in Harlem, the Bronx and Brooklyn.

To compose the special detail, Commissioner Leach drafted members of the Broadway, pickpocket, safe and loft mendicancy, "stangers" and radical squads to augment the Fifth Avenue squad. To fill the gaps thus created in these groups for their regular work, the Commissioner drew upon various precincts for uniformed men. These will work in plain clothes and will remain on their new jobs until the crime situation has cleared and has permitted a return to normal conditions in the Police Department.

Precinct Commander Responsible.

Commissioner Leach imparted to those at the meeting the warning of Commissioner Enright before he sailed for Bermuda, that each precinct commander and each patrolman on a post on which there was a hold-up or other crime of violence would be held responsible for conditions and would have to submit to investigation on the post and in the precinct.

In this connection, Commissioner Leach called for written reports and the personal appearance of Inspector Thomas McDonald of the Third District, Captain Benjamin Austin of the East Fifty-first Street police station and certain sergeants and patrolmen, because of the theft early Saturday morning of valuable furs from show windows of Hickson, Inc., by four burglars who smashed the windows with an ash can and escaped through Central Park in an automobile.

Fifth Avenue is the dividing line between the East Fifty-first Street and West Forty-seventh Street police station precincts. The burglary was in the East Fifty-first Street precinct. The robbers disappeared through the park after entering at Fifty-ninth Street. The boundary between the East Fifty-first Street and the East Sixty-seventh Street police stations precincts is at Fifty-ninth Street. In speeding through the park the burglars went past the Arsenal police station, a unit of the Traffic Division.

At headquarters it was said yesterday that the commissioner's investigation into the robbery would involve eventually reports from officers of the Third and Fourth Inspection Districts and the Fourteenth Inspection District (Traffic Division) and of officers and patrolmen of the West Sixty-seventh Street and Sixty-seventh Street and Arsenal police stations, because while the robbery was in the East Fifty-first Street Police Station District, the other precincts, adjoining, were traversed by the fugitives, in sight of at least one pursuing patrolman.

In the Second Inspection District, taking in the lower part of the city, up to Forty-second Street, members of the force have promised Inspector Edwin H. Weak to make available about 250 automobiles belonging to themselves and assisting friends for use in the emergency patrol work in other districts, it was said, the policeman, already contributing six hours of extra time each day, had offered automobiles. Several fast machines ordinarily assigned to Deputy and Special Deputy Commissioners have been taken over for patrol work because the ordinary police machine used in patroling was not of sufficient speed to keep pace with machines used by hold-up men.

Chief Magistrate McAdoo said yesterday he was in agreement with Commissioner Enright on the latter's protest against the transfer of large sums of money by banks through the agency in many instances, of young messengers and by business houses through the agency of girls. He approved the use of armored cars, and said that instead of carrying a revolver in his pocket a guard accompanying a bank messenger should have his weapon in hand ready to shoot.

Cautious Search of Autos.

The special order directing policeman to stop all drivers whose conduct appeared suspicious continued to bring results. John McCann, 33 years old, of 330 East 121st Street, was held by Magistrate McKinley in Harlem Court in $1,500 bail for a hearing today on a charge of grand larceny. He had stolen the taxicab of Louis Lieberman of 302 East 109th Street from in front of 65 East 123d Street. Lieberman was in the East 123d Street Police Station reporting the theft when Patrolman Theodore Hardekopf walked in with the prisoner. The policeman had stopped the taxicab, he said, when McCann failed to produce a license aforesaid him.

When Martin Steiner, a chauffeur, of 2,409 Second Avenue, stopped yesterday into a restaurant at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street, two men drove off in his taxicab. Other chauffeurs gave chase but the fugitives got away. Steiner reported to the East Twenty-second Street Police Station and an alarm was flashed to all precincts. Forty-five minutes later Detectives Mitchel Harris and James Donnelly of the West 100th Street Police Station, riding in a police automobile at Broadway and 100th Street, saw a taxicab proceeding south and gave chase. At 101st Street they forced the taxicab against a curb and arrested the two occupants. The prisoners said they were Raymond Friel, 24, a chauffeur, of 237 East Twenty-eighth Street, and Albert Sundstrom, 24, a laborer, of 850 Third Avenue.

In Harlem Court Magistrate McKinley held the men in $5,000 bail each for a hearing tomorrow for carrying automatic pistols. They gave their names as Alphonse Negale, 31, a tailor, of 201 East 116th Street, and Alphonse Brisco, 32, a laborer, of 2,274 Second Avenue. They were under arrest in a taxicab which two detectives had halted at 114th Street and Second Avenue because the lights were out. The prisoners were in evening dress, explaining they had been to a wedding.

The attempt by Patrolman Daniel Broome of the Clymer Street Police Station, Brooklyn, resulted in the arrest of three men and the recovery of $400 worth of stolen goods. Bruno, a student in the Detective School, was riding on a Lorimer Street trolley car in Brooklyn when he became suspicious of three men loading an automobile with furs in front of 49 Lorimer Street. Alighting, he demanded an explanation. The three men became abusive. Bruno drew his pistol and compelled the three men to drive to the Clymer Street Station. There, good in substance were identified as property stolen Friday night from the clothing store of Abraham Budrinsky, at 187 Humboldt Street, Brooklyn. The prisoners said they were Ignats Farranti, 21, of 214 Montrose Avenue; Andrew Ingoglio, 24, of 240 Moore Street, and Anthony Dutri of 49 Lorimer Street, all Brooklyn.

Burglary in Hylan's Section.

Though only one burglary was attempted yesterday, so far as could be learned from the police, another was discovered to have been reported over the week-end, in which $20,000 worth of furs and dresses were stolen from stores within ten blocks of Mayor Hylan's home in Brooklyn.

Yesterday's attempted burglary was at the Sheffield Farms milk branch in East 181st Street, the Bronx. It was frustrated because a woman looking from a window at 2,115 Walton Avenue saw the three men force open the door and telephoned the Highbridge police station. Several policemen were ordered out on bicycles. Patrolman William Carlin was the first to approach the place. As he did so, the burglars, who had been unable to force open the safe, were about to load it in an automobile. When they saw Carlin they left the safe in the street and jumped into their machine, trying to run down the policeman. Carlin fired several shots and reported that he thought he wounded one of the fugitives. Other policemen joined in the chase but the robbers escaped. The safe contained $360.

Some time between Saturday night and yesterday morning burglars got into the Fly-Grade Fur Shop, at 1,052 Broadway, owned by Adolph Gluckman. They took $18,000 worth of furs from the first store and $2,000 worth of dresses and suits from the other.

It was learned yesterday that while Detective William J. Brosnan was working last Wednesday on the $43,607 holdup in Bath Beach, in which two West End Bank employes were shot to death by three robbers, and while Mrs. Brosnan was out, burglars entered their home at 809 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, and stole $200 worth of articles.

Alleged Gunmen Captured.

In their search for the slayers of the West End Bank employes William F. Barlow and William H. McLaughlin, detectives yesterday captured a man known as "Red" Madison, sought since last Spring for the murder of Daniel Regan in a restaurant at 519 Court Street, Brooklyn. Madison was arrested in a restaurant at Ninth Street and Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn. The police said he shot Regan in a quarrel over a woman.

The identities of two of the three slayers in the bank case was established, detectives said, through finger-prints of one of them found on the stolen car they abandoned a mile and a half from the scene of the crime, the elevated station of the West End line at New Utrecht Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street. The photograph of this man is in the Rogues' Gallery.

The man whose fingerprints were identified has served prison terms. His home and places frequented by him are under watch. The police are certain of the identity of a second man because the description of one of the three fugitives tallies with that of a chum of the robber whose fingerprint has been identified. They believe they know who the third was but are not certain.

District Attorney Charles J. Dodd of Kings County last night questioned Mrs. Loretta McDermott, also known as Mrs. Loretta Lewis, in his investigation of the West End Bank shooting. The woman was said to have maintained two apartments, one at 304 Washington Street, Brooklyn, in which three suspects in the case were arrested last Saturday morning, and one at 2,307 New Utrecht Avenue, looking out upon the Irving Bank Columbus Trust Company branch, to which the stolen money was to have been delivered.

The three men, James McGrath, John Lee (Known also as Martin Lewis) and Louis Chason, were reported to have established alibis. They are still being held, however, for having dangerous weapons. Four loaded revolvers were found in the Washington Street apartment.

Mrs. McDermott was not located until yesterday. She told the District Attorney she did not know any of the three men and that she merely rented a room of the Washington Street apartment to them. She denied she disappeared because of the arrest of the men. She said she left the apartment Saturday because she was afraid the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children would take away her 10-year-old daughter. Mrs. McDermott said she maintained the New Utrecht Avenue apartment because her child went to school in that neighborhood. She was not held.

Three men were held without bail yesterday by Magistrate McKinley in Harlem Court for examination Wednesday on suspicion of robbery in the hold-up on Oct. 6 of Nicholas Lammasche in the hallway of his home at 1,735 Third Avenue. He was forced to give up $200. The prisoners, taken in a round-up Sunday night, said they were Harry Farley, 22, of 14 West Third Street, Mount Vernon; James Worbell, 24, of 321 East Thirty-second Street, and Anthony Santore, 24, of 328 East Eighty-ninth Street.

Eight men charged with various Harlem hold-ups were held by Magistrate Byttenberg in Washington Heights Court without bail for examination. Five of them were negroes.

Robbed a Benefactor.

In Essex Market Court Magistrate Oberwager held James Joyce, 33, a pipefitter, and Thomas J. Ryan, 28, a laborer, both of 91 Bowery, in $15,000 bail each for examination Wednesday on the charge that they robbed John Fitzmorris, 51, of 404 Third Avenue, Sunday night, of $9.25. Fitzmorris told the police he bought the prisoners a meal in a restaurant at Rivington Street and the Bowery and when they were leaving they knocked him down and robbed him.

Fines ranging from $5 to $50 were imposed by Magistrate Ellperin in Bridge Plaza Court, Brooklyn, on 185 men arrested on charges of disorderly conduct in a Sunday night round-up in Williamsburg by detectives of the Clymer Street, Stagg Street, Herbert Street, Bedford Avenue and Greenpoint Avenue police stations. Most of those arrested had been in custody on one or more previous occasions. They were found in groups in poolrooms and in the rear rooms of saloons.

"The statement of Mr. Enright which appeared in the morning papers of Nov. 16, to the effect that the business world must realize that since the war, in which men were trained in the use of firearms, they know how to use them and they will continue to use them in a lawless way, is without a foundation of fact.

"Any man who learned to use firearms during the war certainly had an opportunity to use them at that time. Their job was done and I think all will agree that they did it well—was to prevent criminality. I don't recall any convictions within the last year or two of men who used the knowledge which they learned during the war for committing murder, assault and the kindred crimes for which firearms are used.

"During the war men were certainly taught to use firearms; they were taught to use machine guns and rifles but they were not taught to use revolvers and pistols. Everything was open and above board and not concealed. It seems to me as if Commissioner Enright must have been looking for a scapegoat when he tried to saddle burglary on the men who served so faithfully during the war.

"Wherever or in any place where figures are obtainable, and if we can find such figures I think the people will realize that those who served them when they needed it most are still doing their best to maintain order, preserve discipline and fight the battles of the community and not that of the thug."

$20,000 PAINTINGS BURNED IN STUDIO

One, Valued at $7,500, Is of Lillian Russell, Destroyed in Sister's Home.

SHORT CIRCUIT SETS BLAZE

It Is Finally Got Under Control by Man on the Roof With Garden Hose.

A $7,500 oil painting of the late Lillian Russell was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon in the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert Westford Allen, 233 West Seventy-second Street. Other paintings burned brought the total loss to an estimated $20,000.

Decorators were at work in the second floor duplex studio apartment of the Allens at the time the fire started. Sparks from a short circuited light wire ignited fresh paint on the walls, and instantly the room was ablaze. The decorators, half-asphyxiated by the fumes, scattered for safety as the flames destroyed the Allen paintings standing on the floor around the walls. Mrs. Allen, in the dining room, made vain attempts to enter the room to salvage her sister's portrait.

Dr. Henry J. Swoboda, diagnostician, next door, at 240, mounted his laboratory roof with a garden hose and played the stream into the burning room with such effect that the flames were under control when the fire apparatus, under Deputy Fire Chief Lost arrived.

The proximity of the fire to both West End Avenue and Broadway brought out large crowds.

'Madonna del Pazzi' Burns With Mansion of Sir Robert Thomas in Wales.

HOLYHEAD, Wales, Nov. 19.—A painting by Raphael, "Madonna del Pazzi," was among several valuable articles destroyed by a fire which practically burned out Sir Robert Thomas's mansion, Garregiwyd, last night.

The painting was valued at £20,000.

TAFT SAYS IT IS NOT TRUE.

Report of His Death, Made by Radio, Without Foundation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—A report picked up by radio fans soon after midnight that Chief Justice Taft was dead started newspaper telephones ringing and sent reporters scurrying to Wyoming Avenue and the Taft residence.

"So far as I know," said the Chief Justice sleepily from a window, "the report is without foundation."

Then he went back to bed.

BACON SOCIETY MEETS.

Celebrates 300th Anniversay of Entry of "Great Folio."

The Bacon Society of America held its first meeting of the season at the National Arts Club, 15 Gramercy Park, last night—yesterday being the three hundredth anniversary of the entry of the "great folio" at Stationer's Hall. The audience was entertained by an address by Dr. W. H. Prescott and a paper by Dr. Orville W. Owen and read by his daughter, Mrs. H. Stewart.

The meeting was also marked by the presentation of the second issue of American Baconiana.

COBLENZ, Nov. 19.—The four weeks of existence of the Rhineland republic does not appear to have carried the new "State" very far. A month ago it was proclaimed with a sensational flourish in Aix-la-Chapelle; today, while the green, white and red republican flag still flies over many Government buildings in the Rhineland and Palatinate cities and villages, the Separatists have been driven out either by the Belgians and French or, with much bloodshed, by a hostile population from most of the strongholds they had conquered with much noisy energy.

The flag appears as the emblem of hope rather than an emblem of established power. Nowhere do Separatists appear to have gained any real footing, and when they reached Coblenz it was with the firm conviction that this particular form of Rhineland Separatism was still-born. But an hour's conversation with Herr Joseph Matthes, the chief republican leader, tends to shake that belief.

Separatists Spirit Unbroken.

The game of making predictions during revolutions is unsafe, but a visit to the Separatist "capital" here and conversation with both leaders and followers have revealed such a stubborn, unbroken spirit that one is impressed with the idea that the movement still has large possibilities. One remembers, also, in viewing the slight hold which the Separatists have in the Rhineland, that five weeks after Kerensky was overthrown the new Bolshevist Government in Russia could have been swept off the face of the earth by possibly 500 resolute armed men, according to observers present at the time, and according to a subsequent confession of Trotsky himself.

"Now, for the time being, at least, our action will be purely political. The difficulties which the French and Belgian authorities make for us render it impossible to transport armed troops. When my men fought they were armed with only a few old revolvers, which they were able to hide when they entered the towns. Our Nationalist adversaries had machine guns, which explains our heavy losses of thirty killed. Under such circumstances it is impossible to continue using force.

"If the French would only stand aside for eight days and give me freedom of action, which they have been wrongly accused of giving me, I would clean up the whole business.

"Today we have over 100,000 members of the 'Rheinschütz' (Militants) throughout the Rhineland and Ruhr. Some 10,000 to 12,000 of these were mobilised yesterday at the request of M. Tirard. I demobilised 7,000. From Coblenz alone I sent 2,000 to their homes.

Says He Could Win With Free Hand.

"Don't you think that if I were able to use these freely it would not take very long to establish a republic here?

"But I don't know how long I shall be able myself to exercise sufficient power to keep these men from acting on their own—especially in the Ruhr—in view of the labor situation. Today I wrote to M. Tirard and General Degoutte declining all responsibility if the men began to fight on their own.

"Meanwhile, I can tell you I am taking strong political action. For a week past I have been meeting leaders of other political parties in the Rhineland who desire some form of autonomy. Finally we shall come to a compromise. But they must retreat ten steps while I retreat one during the negotiations, if an understanding is to be reached. I think they will.

"One thing, however, I will say right now. To a Prussian-English republic in Cologne, my answer is never, never. With the Centre (Catholic Party) it will not, I think, be difficult to reach an understanding. Often it is a mere question of personalities. 'We want a republic, but not if this, that or the other man belongs to the Government,' was a frequent attitude. I may be obliged to modify my Cabinet considerably."

Wounded Men Determined.

Concluding, Herr Matthes suggested a visit to the wounded Separatists "in order to see the spirit animating the men after a whole month in which they received hardly any pay, very little food, and finally received dangerous wounds in the cause for which all are willing to die."

That spirit is, indeed, amazing, and if, as seems the case, it is general throughout the Separatist movement, then that movement may be reckoned with by Germany.

One man is dying of a broken back, caused by a blow from a peasant's flail. Another has had a leg amputated, the bones having been smashed and splintered by blows. Others have bullet wounds in head and body.

But all are cheerful, willing and indeed anxious to start afresh on the fight against hated Prussia. These men may be a tough lot—mostly Ruhr workers—but they certainly are not criminals, as their German adversaries say.

Shows "Belgian Annexation Plan."

Before leaving, Herr Matthes showed THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent a remarkable document, which throws an interesting light on the Aix Putsch of four weeks ago, "from which we are still suffering today," added the Republican chief. The document is signed by Colonel Lepold Reul and Dr. Pierre Nothouve, and stamped officially "Belgian Rhineland Committee" and "Secretariat Committee of National Policy." It advocates an immediate division of the Rhineland into three separate republics. The first, named "Northern State" on an accompanying map, comprises all the territory now under Belgian and British occupation with capital at aix-la-Chapelle. The second, "Southern State," consists of the French occupied territory from a line running east and west on the south of Bonn, to the Palatinate, with capital at Coblenz. The third, "Ruhr State," consists of the Ruhr District centring about Essen, with that city as its capital.

The Northern State is to be occupied by Belgium, becoming a Belgian zone of economic interests; the Southern State to be under French protection and the Ruhr State to be occupied by both countries, who will divide the exploitation of economic interests.

Forced Premature Action.

According to statements by Herr Matthes, it was this document which decided Herr Deckers to undertake the premature action at Aix-in-Chapelle. It is said a party exists in Belgium which definitely desires to annex the Northern Rhineland to Belgium. A second Belgian party is hostile to any form of separation of the Rhineland from the German Reich and both parties are anxious to smash the Matthes movement. For this purpose they are said to have supplied arms and money to Herr Deckers and urged him to take action immediately. When the Aix Putsch failed to take a real footing, the success of the Northern States appeared sadly compromised, and aid to Deckers ceased.

On the other hand Matthes, having gained control and taken Crefeld, Duisburg and other cities, the Belgian adversaries of all separatism became anxious, and as they represent by far the strongest influence in Belgium they have been able to persuade the Government to take action and order all Separatists expelled from the Belgian zone.

That, according to Herr Matthes, is the true history and explains why the premature action was taken in a movement which otherwise seemed organised with the greatest care.

I cannot vouch for its truth, of course, but it is not possible to doubt regarding the authenticity of the document which Herr Matthes showed me.

REICH PREPARES TO CUT OCCUPIED AREA ADRIFT

Means Sought to Prevent Complete Political Detachment or Permanent Loss.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Political circles are greatly agitated over the problem of whether Chancellor Stresemann will be able to weather tomorrow's Reichstag session. Dr. Stresemann today threw in his last reserves against his political foes from the Right and Left, these last reserves consisting of hopes of help from America both in goods (mostly wheat) and in a gold loan. The Social Democrats held a caucus today and decided to do nothing pending tomorrow's Reichstag session.

BERLIN, Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—Chancellor Stresemann and the Reichstag Committee on Foreign Relations today devoted six hours to a rambling discussion of the situation in the Rhineland and the Ruhr, and then adjourned without having arrived at any definite conclusion.

Today's debate was participated in by the party leaders and representatives from the occupied areas, invited as special guests, the Chancellor having taken the position that the issues must be discussed with local elements and that the Committee on Foreign Relations was a competent body, in that the impending solution was closely wrapped up with Germany's foreign relations.

The consensus of opinion in the ranks of all the parties appears to be that the Rhineland and the Ruhr are lost, as far as Germany's ability to assert and maintain complete sovereign rights over both the areas is concerned, and that ways and means must be devised to forestall their complete political detachment or permanent loss to the republic.

"If the Rhineland and the occupied Ruhr sector are to pass out of our control, we must devise means which will enable them to remain with Germany," said one of the parliamentary leaders.

Chancellor Stresemann advocated "more elbow room" for the occupied zones, permitting the inference that the Government was fully reconciled to the plan of allowing the occupied areas to work out their own salvation, even to the extent of permitting the creating of a local parliament or legislative governing body, to which the Central Government would concede unrestricted administrative autonomy and upon which would fall the responsibility of negotiating with the occupying powers.

The authority of such a body would go even to the extent of permitting the enactment of taxation laws, as the Central Government apparently is convinced that it is no longer able to count on federal revenues from the occupied areas, both of which in pre-war times yield a tax surplus. In that they were Germany's most productive areas.

The complicated nature of the problem was plainly reflected in the conduct of today's debate, which frequently was enlivened by partisan acerbities, especially when the German Nationalist spokesman advocated an open break with France in preference to yielding in the direction of creating a loosely defined condition of autonomy as a foil to French encroachments. The offical policy once the Central Government set the Rhineland and the Ruhr adrift.

The Socialists demand that the Government continue its unemployment doles in the occupied areas for the time being, and generally oppose the autonomy scheme. The official attitude appears to be that the occupying powers are solely responsible for the social and economic condition of the populace there, even to the extent of supplying food in a situation which is declared to be the result of French encroachments upon the German Federal authority and interference in all industrial activities.

As both sectors are a wholly negligible asset to Germany so far as revenues are concerned, the Government's attitude as defended before the Reichstag's Committee on Foreign Relations is that it cannot carry on unemployment pensions or finance social relief in other directions.

While Chancellor Stresemann yesterday completely rehabilitated himself with his own party in his speech before its executive board, the parliamentary situation with respect to the outcome of this week's debate in the Reichstag has not been clarified. The Chancellor will present the Government's statement at the session tomorrow, but a vote on the question of giving or denying his rump Cabinet the customary confidence will not be taken before Friday.

The Socialists have not yet announced their attitude on the question of voting against him or abstaining.

MUNICH, Nov. 19.—A denial was issued here this afternoon with regard to the outrage at Leipsic on a Belgian officer belonging to the Allied Control Commission. In this case the facts are said to be that the Belgian officer was taken from his room at 1:30 in the morning by four soldiers, and after considerable arguing was thrown into a cell in the local guard room. At 6 o'clock in the morning the Officer of the Guard arrived and appeared to be surprised at finding the Belgian officer in custody. He released him, but without any apology or explanation.

Two Million Trillion Paper Marks Turned Out by the Presses for Week Ended Oct. 31.

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Food rioting and plundering have been resumed in Greater Berlin and the stores so far unplundered keep closed. If you succeed in slipping in by the back door it is only to find the shopkeepers unwilling to sell anything, particularly the butchers, who meet the world-be customer with the stereotyped answer, "We have no meat." This shortage is largely due to the expectation that the price of meat as well as other food prices will be many hundred per cent. higher in a day or two.

A prospective meat price for tomorrow of 2,000,000,000,000 marks per pound was quoted today, which at the best bootlegger rates for a dollar is nearly $2 per pound. Bread was unbuyable either yesterday or today.

It is learned that the military dictator, General von Seeckt, is considering some sort of food rationing system, the details of which are being worked out. These provide that the fashionable restaurants, semi-empty hotels, dance halls and other places known as "luxury enterprises" shall, when the necessity becomes acute, be converted into mass feeding stations and "warming rooms."

BERLIN, Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—Germany's money presses contributed two million trillion marks in round numbers, to the nation's currency for the week ended Oct. 31, as shown by the Bank of Germany's statement today. The amount is expressed by nineteen digits—2,000,000,000,000,000,000—the figures thus for the first time reaching the quintillion stage.

As the Reichsbank's report for the last two weeks is still outstanding there is no way of computing the volume of production since the first of the month, although it is suspected it will completely eclipse in its digital aspects all previous accomplishments of the note printers. The final rush is expected to be particularly pronounced, inasmuch as the Government announced last week that with the appearance of its new rentenmarks the money presses would cease their hectic grind.

The Reichsbank's holdings of discounted Treasury bills and private checks and drafts at the end of October were 7,500,000,000,000,000,000.

NEW CURRENCY FOR BAVARIA.

To Be Guaranteed by Mortgage on Property of the State.

MUNICH, Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—The Bavarian dictator, Dr. von Kahr, today announced that he purposed to create a new currency for Bavaria a value equivalent to gold and that he would appoint a small commission to prepare the plan. An official note on the subject says it is believed the measures prepared by the Berlin Government in this direction "will not work out till too late."

The general idea, it is understood, is to guarantee the issue by a mortgage on the great electric power plants, extensive forests and other properties owned by the State.

It is announced that the Government will soon begin public works on a large scale for the benefit of the unemployed, of whom there are 100,000 in Bavaria, about 54,000 of them in Munich.

ANTI-JEWISH OUTBREAKS.

Residences and Shops Looted at Freystadt and Neusalz.

BERLIN, Nov. 19 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The German section of the League for Human Rights has called a demonstration for tomorrow against the anti-Jewish agitation, which it terms "the national disgrace of Germany."

Residences and shops of Jews in Freystadt, West Prussia, were plundered by a crowd numbering several hundred persons, according to reports reaching here. The attack seems to have been well organized, being signalized by the ringing of bells following inflammatory speeches by Nationalist soap-box orators in the market place. Order was restored upon the arrival of the militia.

Two plunderers were shot down and several others wounded in Neusalz-on-Oder when an anti-Semitic mob stormed Jewish shops, emptying them completely of their contents. The Security Police were forced to fire on the crowd before it could be dispersed.

MEANT RHINE, NOT RUHR.

Poincare's Reference to Indefinite Occupation Explained.

PARIS, Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—The lapses in Premier Poincaré's speech yesterday which appeared to make him say that the French would occupy the Ruhr until all the clauses of the treaty were executed and security for France amply guaranteed were much commented upon in diplomatic circles today, as was an official note issued by the Foreign Office correcting the text of the speech.

It was made clear at the Foreign Office that the Premier never had in mind the occupation of the Ruhr until the security of France was guaranteed, but that when he referred to the occupied territory he meant the territory expressly mentioned in the treaty—that is, the left bank of the Rhine, including the bridgeheads.

EINSTEIN THEORY ASSAILED.

Many Relativity "Sins" Laid to It by Dr. Charles L. Poor.

"The Einstein theory, with its conflicting formulae and inaccuracies, has caused more sins to be committed in the name of relativity than can be attributed to any other modern scientific postulate," said Dr. Charles Lane Poor, Professor of Celestial Mechanics at Columbia University, last night when he addressed more than five hundred in the auditorium of the American Museum of Natural History on "The Errors of Einstein."

He pointed out that while the relativist uses only approximations in making his observations, once these observations are recorded the approximations are forgotten and results are registered as being mathematically precise. In dealing with the Einstein tenet that light rays are curved, Professor Poor said that this was, perhaps, due not so much to the relativistic idea as to the fact that rays are refracted in passing through the atmospheric media surrounding the sun and earth.

IDENTIFIES DEAD MOTHER.

Mrs. Fletcher's Body Was Found in the East River.

The body of a woman found in the East River near North Brother Island several days ago was identified at the morgue yesterday by Edward Fletcher of 176 Fountain Avenue, Flatbush Hills, Brooklyn, as that of his mother, Elizabeth Fletcher, 50 years old, who was reported to the police as missing on Nov. 7.

Detective Philip Hoerter of the Missing Persons Bureau said that the woman had suffered from an illusion that some one was constantly pursuing her. She had left a note saying that she was going away, and that her family would not see her for a long time, and that water was a better way to end life than gas.

SMITH ENDORSES NEGRO MIGRATION

Tells Harlem Mass Meeting He Wishes Exodus Fom the South Success.

ATTACKS LITERACY TEST

Says Education Is Not a Necessary Attribute to Good Citizenship.

Governor Alfred E. Smith had a heart-to-heart talk with several hundred negroes last night at the Metropolitan Baptist Church, Seventh Avenue and 128th Street. Although scheduled to make the principal address at a mass meeting in the interest of negroes migrating from the South to the North he made his talk a short and personal one. The Governor received a rousing reception. Speaking at one time of volunteer organizations he said:

"Some of the best work done for this city and State has been done by volunteers. We have a government of law, not of men. We look to volunteer organizations for industrial betterment. Our labor unions have bettered conditions. New York State is the greatest industrial State in the country. The necessity of the hour is the medium which brings together capital and labor.

The Governor said that he never had believed in the literacy test now in use in the State. He said he opposed it when a member of the constitutional convention.

"I held that education was not a necessary attribute to good citizenship," he said. "Some very good citizens cannot read or write. There are well educated men in Sing Sing who not only wrote their own names, but another man's name. Suppose it was necessary to have a high school diploma to be Governor; where would I be? I never had the chance.

"Any one willing to work, who is fairly intelligent, is an asset to the country. I want your movement all possible success. Call on me and I will help, either in word or deed."

Other speakers were W. W. Brown, pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church; the Rev. R. J. Brown, pastor of the Day Star Baptist Church and the Rev. W. Abner Brown, assistant pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church. The American White Cross Labor Bureau has undertaken a campaign to insure employment in the North for 500,000 negroes who already have arrived, and for 2,000,000 others who would like to leave the South. Other meetings will be held to arouse interest in the campaign and it is expected that Governor Silzer of New Jersey will address a meeting in that State.

HITLER CRITICALLY ILL.

Said to Be Suffering From Brain Fever in Landsberg Fortress.

MUNICH, Nov. 19.—Adolph Hitler, leader of the Bavarian Facisti, is reported critically ill in the fortress at Landsberg. He is suffering from brain fever.

Recent Munich dispatches reported that Hitler, who was one of the leaders of the Separatist revolt, had been interned in the Landsberg fortress. Hitler was placed under special guards—veteran Sergeants selected for their powers of resistance to Hiter's magnetic personality.

SEES NEW TYPE OF RUSSIAN.

Dr. Finley Says "Collective Individualist" Is Being Developed.

Americans are developing a new type of Russian in the territory covered by their relief organizations, said Dr. John H. Finley yesterday at a luncheon given at the headquarters of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. in honor of the members of the first Y. W. C. A. world tour, who will sail today on the Italian liner Duilio. This new type was called by the Russians themselves the "collective individualist," and represented an individualist with a sense of social obligation, said Dr. Finley. Dr. Finley recounted experiences of his travels last Summer and of the work being done in the various centres of the Young Women's Christian Association which he visited in the Baltic States and in Constantinople and Greece.

Mrs. Thomas J. Preston Jr. gave her impressions of Y. W. C. A. work in China and Japan as she saw it shortly before the Japanese disaster.

"Dr. Henry Van Dyke commented from the pulpit Sunday on many signs of the times," said Mrs. Preston. "But one sign which he conspicuously overlooked was the Blue Triangle, sign of the Y. W. C. A., which is doing so much for the enlightenment and advancement of women all over the world. In China it is liberating the Chinese girl's body, through gymnastics and sports, and that is next in importance to liberating her mind."

The luncheon was given by Mrs. Francis DeLacy Hyde, Chairman of Foreign Tours of the Y. W. C. A., as a formal farewell to the world tour party. The travelers in the course of their tour will be entertained by the Countess of Reading, wife of the Viceroy of India; Lady Amos, President of the Y. W. C. A. of Egypt, and Mrs. Leonard Wood, wife of the Governor General of the Philippines. The party, personaly conducted by Miss Edith H. Keely, includes Mrs. E. G. Woodruff of Auburn, N. Y., Mrs. Hartel Masterson of Houston, Texas; Miss Edna Mason of Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. George W. Govert of Quincy, Ill., and Mrs. L. D. Patton of Springfield, Ohio.

Among those at the luncheon were Mrs. Lewis H. Lapham, Mrs. Arthur Livermore, Mrs. John R. Pinley, Mrs. John R. Mott, Mrs. William Woodin Jr. and Miss Helen A. Davis.

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—A rumor current in Berlin that Crown Princess Rupprecht of Bavaria is in America is denied by the Crown Prince himself.

In response to an inquiry by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, Crown Prince Rupprecht has just replied that the Princess not only is not in the United States, but is permanently domiciled in Berchtesgaden, in the Bavarian highlands close to the Austrian border.

MUNICH, Nov. 19.—The Government has considered it necessary to publish a denial of the report current in Munich that the Bavarian monarchy will be restored in the future. These Government denials, however, do not carry very much weight. Similar statements were issued a few days ago before the Hitler Putsch and Captain Ernadt's presence in Bavaria was denied while he was actually at a public meeting in Munich.

It is understood that Prince Rupprecht personally still does not consider the time ripe for claiming the throne, but that efforts are being made by his supporters to force his hand on the ground that various political factions, including even the more moderate Social Democrats, would unite under his rule. It also is being urged that a successful Dictator von Kahr must be found and that Prince Rupprecht would be the ideal man.

Bavaria could establish a separate kingdom with assurance of French neutrality, it is asserted, provided certain definite concessions were guaranteed to France.

LIBERAL MANIFESTO ASSAILS BALDWIN

cannot possibly assist those trades in which unemployment is most grave. The last thing which taxation on imports can achieve is to provide more work for those engaged in manufacture for export."

Remedies for Unemployment.

As for the Liberal Party's own method of meeting the unemployment problem, it suggests the use of the national credit.

"The country," it says, "has made enormous sacrifices to restore the national credit. A bold and courageous use should be made of that credit on enterprise that would permanently improve and develop the home country and the Empire, such as internal transport by road and water; afforestation, a supply of cheap power secured by the co-ordinated use of our resources of coal and water; reclamation and drainage of land; development of Imperial resources, especially in our Crown colonies; railway building in the Dominions and India; facilitation of overseas settlement under the British flag; cheapening of the means of transport in order to develop inter-Imperial trade and the freer use of the provisions of the trade facilities act."

Then the manifesto gives a general program of internal reforms, the remodeling of the Insurance and Poor Relief acts; the promotion of co-operation of labor and capital; credit facilities for farmers and co-operative marketing on a large scale, with Government assistance, "which has so successfully helped American agriculture over a great crisis."

Premier Baldwin opened his campaign this afternoon by a speech at a mass meeting in Queens Hall. He spoke with far more animation, and therefore more success, than he has before. Taking as his text "Keep the Home Fires Burning," he did not add to the proposals he had already made, but made an appeal to the intellect of the country to appreciate the change in economic conditions and to consider whether it did not call for at least a temporary departure from the orthodox principles of free trade.

"In this distressful time," he said, "voices reach our ears from all the distressed peoples of the world, but the voices loudest in my ears is the voice of our own people."

Then, referring to the proposals of the Liberals, he said he did not see much in the way of remedy "in telling the people of this country to go to sleep while the rest of the civilized European once more in a futile round of conferences."

The Premier accepted J. Ramsay Macdonald's estimate that unemployment had cost the British workmen 1,300,000,000 days of work, and deplored particularly the forced idleness of children at the very time when they must, if ever, form the habit of work. But, he said, his audience must remember the extraordinary sensibility of England to the great post-war decrease in the world's demand for goods. England was, he declared, the shock absorber of the world.

Then Mr. Baldwin spoke of the lack of unemployment in France, Germany and Belgium and their power of competing with this country in the most deadly way through their depreciated currencies, and pointed in particular to the danger to the British steel industry from France and Belgium. "Supplies of steel from those countries," he said, "are increasing month by month, and the prospects of cosmopolitan financiers exploiting the Lorraine ores and German cheap labor, with possibly ten hours a day, does not call for talk; it calls for action."

Praises British Workmen's Skill.

The Premier got hearty applause as he quoted "one of the most distinguished Labor candidates, an intellectual, H. G. Wells," as describing free trade as "one-wheeled, eyeless, bodiless, lifeless automobile"; and then, in defending the skill of the British workman as the best in the world, he said: "And, if proof of that were wanted, look at the eagerness shown by the United States to draw into that country the best of our skilled workmen who cannot find work to do. One thing that was impressed upon me when I was in that country last January was the welcome awaiting in America the best type of British workman."

From all this the Premier drew the conclusion that the one thing necessary was a departure from strict free trade. His policy, he said, had been called merely tinkering and tinkering and tinkering.

"Yet it seems to me," he said, "that the tinker's task is not beneath contempt. After all, what does he do? He mends holes in vessels to prevent their leaking, and if I can mend any holes in the vessel of employment to prevent work dribbling out of this country that ought to be performed in this country I will go to my grave as a tinker with thanksgiving.

"In this country we have the inherited skill of our people; we have the inherited enterprise of our business men; but we cannot fight with one hand tied behind our backs, and I propose to release that hand and have them both free."

So the Premier argued that the Government's policy was that of fighting for the under dog, and he concluded by prophesying a complete victory as soon as the nation realized the issues at stake.

Premier Answers Lloyd George's Gibes.

Mr. Baldwin devoted a part of his speech to replying to that of Mr. Lloyd George delivered at Northampton on Saturday.

"I had hoped," he said, "to have had something to answer in the speech of Mr. Lloyd George, but I found it was a reversion to type. Mr. Lloyd George has never realized why he lost the last election. He lost it because the people of this country had ceased to trust him and he will never recover that trust by such speeches as that. The post-war electorate differs from the pre-war. Men and women have learned to think; they are not satisfied with general levity and abuse of political opponents. I care nothing for the abuse of myself so long as I have the confidence of men whom I respect. I cannot pass by without a word the torrents of contumely poured on men with whom I have been proud to serve."

Mr. Baldwin then replied to the gibe which Mr. Lloyd George cast on Saturday at the Duke of Devonshire and his alleged slowness in handling figures.

"Did it never occur to Mr. Lloyd George," he said, "that he himself could neither add, subtract nor divide, but only multiply, and that he has used figures for so long merely as adjectives that they have ceased to convey any meaning to him? It was not for the statesman who introduced the worst and most ludicrous fiscal proposals in the budget of 1909—a fiasco which would have finished any one with less resilience—to find fault with the arithmetic of a statesman who at any rate possessed the confidence of the country for uprightness, for straightness and for character."

In like manner, in a letter to The London Times, Sir J. Percy Fitzpatrick, a prominent South African, finds fault with the way in which Mr. Lloyd George permitted himself to sneer at the imperial preference in the House of Commons debate.

"Neither the substance nor the style of his speech," he writes, "appears suitable for one who purports to be an imperial statesman, one who in the years of greatest trial was regarded and respected as the elected representative of the entire empire."

Sir Percy then defends the Government's proposals, and adds:

"There is a feeling of decency in the Dominions which prompts the wish that Mr. Lloyd George will not again use us as a stick to beat his dog with, and will not attempt to drag us down to the level of electioneering claptrap."

At the same time Sir Percy pays a compliment to Mr. Lloyd George's extraordinary versatility. He tells how the South African delegates to the Imperial Conference of 1907—General Botha, Dr. Jameson and Sir Thomas Smart—compared Mr. Lloyd George to Joseph Chamberlain, "beginning as a Radical and expanding with responsibility and knowledge into an empire statesman with vision and courage to act. That this was not a momentary impression was proved many years later, when Mr. Lloyd George's glorious courage and wide sympathy and understanding during the war were frequently indicated as proofs of the sound judgment formed in 1907."

J. L. Garvin expressed the same indignation at Mr. Lloyd George's electioneering style in The Observer on Sunday. It cited some of his expressions about "a tinker's policy," "binding the Empire together with crabs" and so on, and went on:

"What respect Mr. Lloyd George shows for the nation's mind and his own in this sort of thing we will not say; what meaning it conveys to the ordinary intelligence; we know it has none for us; we only see in it an unnecessary elaborate way of saying 'Yah! Yah! Yah!' which we are afraid is going to be the staple argument of most electioneering speeches."

Macdonald Attacks Lloyd George.

J. Ramsay Macdonald, leader of the Labor Party, speaking at Northampton tonight, said that when Mr. Lloyd George talked about unemployment he forgot that he was the cause of it. British unemployment, the European position today and the increased cost of living were all due, he said, to causes that had begun under Mr. Lloyd George's régime. Mr. Lloyd George went to Paris to try to make good the nonsensical pledges he gave in 1918 and supported a peace treaty which had been the cause very nearly of Britain's bankruptcy, and certainly of the bankruptcy of many other nations. He, and he alone, was responsible for that, and now he blamed Mr. Baldwin. Everything that had happened, said Mr. Macdonald, had been the outcome of Mr. Lloyd George's blunderings, and he was using the calamities flowing from his own policy as the reason why the people should send him back to office.

Lady Astor Renominated.

PLYMOUTH, England, Nov. 19.—Lady Astor was in fine fighting form today when amid enthusiastic scenes she was again adopted as Conservative candidate for the Sutton Division of Plymouth. She made a characteristic speech, making it clear that she had relinquished none of her claims as a social reformer. In fact, her speech clearly indicated that social reform would be the main point of her campaign. She declared that she was out to fight the Socialist to the last ditch and leave him there.

"I am not doing that out of hatred of the Socialist Party," she said, "but for the great majority of the working men and women of the country."

Speaking of herself and Lord Astor, she said that the country was getting "tuppence for a penny," as she was in the House of Commons and Lord Astor was in the House of Lords.

"If you return me," she went on, "I shall fight in the future, as I have in the past, for the things which will help to make this old world, not a Paradise, but a cleaner and kinder place."

She said she had never let the empire or England down. She maintained that if America and England worked properly together the world would not want the League of Nations.

"We should set the standard so high that the nations would want to follow us. It is absolutely essential not only for England and America, but for the peace and prosperity of the civilization of the world, that the two countries should work together," she said.

Quits His Ministerial Post.

LONDON, Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—The first defection in the ministerial ranks because of the Premier's tariff proposals is announced by the Conservative newspapers today. Colonel Buckley, Parliamentary Secretary of the Overseas Trade Department, has resigned his post on the ground that he has been and intends to remain a free trader and that he disapproves of the Baldwin fiscal policy. Colonel Buckley has represented the Waterloo Division of Lancashire as a Conservative free trader since 1916. He is undecided whether to seek re-election.

ALLIES AVERT SPLIT; REACH COMPROMISE

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

that in December, 1918, the Crown Prince renounced all his rights of succession to the German throne. Even if the crown were offered him, he could not accept it, and the contention of Chancellor Stresemann that he had been allowed to return as a simple citizen in this way received so much support that the Ambassadors decided that a demand for his banishment or trial would be only to provide him with a gratuitous aureole which for the present, at least, he does not seem to them to possess.

Further, and more important, the German Chargé d'Affaires brought information that the Reich Government formally and firmly opposed the return of the ex-Kaiser. That bogy, therefore, was laid to rest.

The sum of the day's work is that there will be no immediate penalties. Even France's faithful ally, Belgium, would agree to these only in case of need, and in face of this opposition and the legal arguments brought forward by the British the French Government, as the Matin phrases it, "judged that in this affair where unity of the Allies is an absolute condition of the functioning of the Treaty of Versailles, it was reasonable and opportune to make some concessions in form."

It may be added that the experience of France when President Millerand, then Premier, ordered the occupation of Frankfort added weight to the argument that this was a case for allied unity. After that experiment France promised never again to undertake to act alone, and Premier Poincaré could today only ask his Ministers to approve the resolution attached to today's agreement, that France should have the right to judge and act for herself if and when her security is in danger.

BRUSSELS APPROVES DRAFT.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 19.—A Council of Ministers, presided over by the King, was held this afternoon to consider the foreign political situation, especially with reference to the return of the Crown Prince to Germany and the refusal of the German Government to submit to control of armaments.

The Council approved without hesitation the draft of the protest drawn by the Conference of Ambassadors for presentation to Germany and was gratified with the spirit of conciliation which animated the English and French Governments in their endeavor to maintain a united entente before Germany on the question of the eventual application of penalties should the protest be ineffective. The Belgian Government would support measures to strengthen the occupation without embarking upon new military operations.

Nothing, however, has yet been decided on this subject. Tomorrow M. Jaspar will make a detailed statement in the Chamber on the foreign policy of the Belgian Government.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 19.—After a meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon a telephone message was sent to Baron d'Hestroy, the Belgian Ambassador in Paris, saying that the Belgian Government ratified the provisional agreement drafted today by the Ambassadors' Conference.

SATISFACTION IN LONDON.

France Understood to Have Made Concessions on Penalties.

LONDON, Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—Much satisfaction is expressed in official quarters tonight at the improved news from Paris.

No precise information could be gleaned regarding the new British instructions which necessitated the postponing of the final decision of the Ambassadors' Conference until tomorrow, but it is understood that some compromise will be reached enabling the presentation of a joint allied communication to Germany on the subject of the former Crown Prince and military control, and that, pending the German reply, France will take no further steps in the direction of imposing penalties.

It is realized that the difficulties have not yet been solved—only postponed—but it is believed that the time thus gained will help toward an amicable settlement.

Great Britain has discountenanced from the beginning the French plan of penalties believing they involve a settled effort on the part of Premier Poincaré to obtain ultimate recognition by Great Britain of the legality of the Ruhr occupation. It was for this and other reasons that the British Government had refused to lend its marine forces to France in her threatened seizure of Hamburg and Bremen.

SEES TRADE GAIN BY MELLON PLAN

CONSUMER WOULD BENEFIT

Samuel Untermyer Praises Secretary's Courage, but Questions Details of His Program.

The principal topics of discussion among business men and leaders in most industrial lines is the proposed readjustment of income taxes. Two of the individuals who discussed this problem in detail yesterday were H. T. Parson, President of F. W. Woolworth & Co., and Samuel Untermyer.

Mr. Parson declared there could be little doubt about business conditions in the United States in 1924 if the tax reduction proposals of Secretary Mellon go through. Mr. Untermyer complimented the Secretary of the Treasury for having the courage to force the issue, but said that in his judgment the Mellon plan of readjustment was "unsound in many of its important details."

From the point of view of the retail trade the Mellon tax-reduction proposals were hailed as a move which would stimulate buying both by consumers and retail establishments. Summing up this view Mr. Parson, President of F. W. Woolworth & Co., said there would be little doubt, concerning the year 1924 if these proposals were incorporated into law.

"I look for quite an increase in retail trade all over the country by reason of this tax program of Secretary Mellon," said Mr. Parson. "The less money people have to pay in taxes the more money will go into trade. Our artisans and other people of moderate incomes will be free to spend the money they now are obliged to contribute toward governmental expenditures.

"From the retail merchant's standpoint it is a highly constructive step, because the tax that manufacturers now have to pay is added to the cost of the goods they produce and is eventually passed on to the consumer, whereas if this tax is lifted or reduced goods will cost less and the retailer will be able to pass the saving on to the consumer, either in the form of lower prices or improved quality of merchandise. The ultimate consumer is the man who benefits most from having his own taxes reduced, for he is then able to satisfy his requirements at less cost."

Has Heard No Opposition.

Mr. Parson said he had not heard a word of opposition to the Mellon proposals from merchants, other business men or from war veterans with whom he had talked.

"I believe the tax reduction program will win and that the votes in the next national election are going to be behind the man or party who is looking out for 12,000,000 taxpayers as against some 3,000,000 possible bonus recipients," he continued. "When the public votes for a bond issue, as it did in New York State, with which to pay a general bonus, it forgets or ignores the fact that it will have to put up the money and that the recipients of the bonus will have to contribute their share of the increased taxes which must come.

"There can be no question, in my mind, of the large benefits which must follow this proposed legislation. I have just received a printed copy of the Mellon plan in the form in which it was submitted to the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the House. I assume this letter is being sent to every taxpayer. This is a good thing, as the facts set forth in it are inescapable and there need be no misunderstanding as to the plan itself."

Samuel Untermyer yesterday prepared the following statement outlining his views on the proposed tax reductions:

"Secretary Mellon's plan for the readjustment and reduction in income taxes is, in my humble judgment, in many respects unsound in important details.

"When the first income tax measure was under consideration I objected to the taxing of earned incomes on the same basis as unearned incomes. I further objected (and this is where I find Mr. Mellon's plan is defective) to superimposing upon and adding the earned income to that derived from investments for the purpose of fixing the supertax, thus imposing the highest supertax on the earned income. The proposal to prescribe a different and lower rate for the earned income, while entirely praiseworthy in so far as it goes does not meet the situation if the two incomes are to be added together. Each should be separately considered as though the other did not exist if the Government is to reverse its present stupid and unjust policy of discouraging industry and enterprise among the well-to-do.

"At present a professional man with an income from investments of, say, $50,000 a year or more, who earned, say, $20,000 a year in his profession, must pay about 40 per cent. of his earned income in taxes, while a man with no investment income earning the same amount pays only 10 per cent. in taxes. The result is that the former has no inducement to work or must charge twice as much to get the same result.

"If in framing our law we had been willing to profit by the long experience of Great Britain, Germany and other countries we would not have made so many blunders and allowed so much taxable income to escape.

"I am opposed to the repeal of taxes on telegraph and telephone messages. They are substantial and not burdensome, and they fall upon the class best able to bear them. If they are remitted, as is now proposed, the companies will steal the reduction from us in some other form before we know it. Their rates are now so extortionate that no self-respecting people who know how to protect themselves and are not too lazy to do so would endure them. The stamp tax on checks should be restored. It is the most easily borne and collected of all taxes.

Capital Gains and Losses.

"All capital gains and losses arising out of the purchases and sales of securities should be repealed. It has been a source of loss rather than gain to the Government, for it is the means by which a large part of the taxes of the richest men in the community are now legitimately avoided.

"I am opposed also to repealing the amusement tax on entrance fees in excess of 50 cents. It is in the nature of a luxury tax, and is easily borne.

"A sales tax on luxuries, such as jewelry, high-priced clothing and a long list of other items would yield a substantial sum toward the payment of a bonus, if Congress is determined upon that course from motives of political expediency.

"I heartily agree with Secretary Mellon that we must have a drastic and comprehensive reform in the income tax law as affecting tax-exempt securities. The vice of the present system lies not only in the fact that we are rapidly building up in this country a class of very rich men who are paying no income taxes; its worst feature is in creating a distinct class and thus furnishing the most effective kind of ammunition to the men of socialist tendencies.

"Concededly we are also in this way encouraging extravagant and unsound business methods in our State and municipal governments and are crippling the credit of the Federal Government in that it cannot sell bonds to advantage in competition with tax-exempt securities issued by the States and municipalities. I have been converted to the point of view of Secretary Hughes as to the power of Congress to put an end to this abuse of issuing tax-exempt securities. When he was Governor of the State of New York he based his message to the Legislature opposing the passage of the income tax constitutional amendment on the ground that as framed and subsequently passed, the phrase giving to Congress the power to tax all incomes 'from whatever source derived' would include the power to tax State, municipal and other Government securities.

"I believe the amendment is sufficiently broad to permit Congress now, without constitutional amendment, to tax incomes from these classes of securities. In saying this I am not unmindful of the contrary obiter views that have been expressed by lawyers of great learning and in the minor courts.

"Secretary Mellon is entitled to great credit for having had the courage to force this issue to the front, and he is right in principle, but I am hopeful that thorough public discussion of the subject will lead to many changes in the details of his plan."

"Bonus for the People."

Regarding Secretary Mellon's tax plan, George K. Morris, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, said that if the President caused it to become effective in would make him more popular than when he settled the Boston policemen's strike.

"The President and Secretary Mellon," he said, "have under consideration a tax reduction policy the soundness of which is unquestioned and the popularity of which is not to be put aside.

"Brought to pass it will make the President more popular than when he broke the policemen's strike in 1919. That made him the most popular Governor and led to his nomination for Vice President. This tax reduction will add still further to his prestige.

"From all over the State I am in receipt of messages from clubs, Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and individuals urging support of the Mellon plan. This favorable sentiment is by no means confined to the business interests, so-called. I hear from it in my own factory. Some of my employes receive as much as $10 a day. They have been looking at the tabulations showing how the plan affects their incomes. To many it means money enough to fill the coal bin.

"For the first time in years there comes from a Washington Administration a bonus for the people. That is what it amounts to.

"It will stabilize business and in the long run even the soldiers will be better off for this tax reduction."

Miss Sarah Butler, Chairman of the Women's Executive Committee of the Republican State Committee, said she had held many conferences with women on the tax reduction plan and everywhere she found the women in favor of it.

Merchants Approve Plan.

The Merchants' Association yesterday gave its cordial endorsement to Secretary Mellon's plan and sent a letter to President Coolidge commending it to his favorable consideration. This action was taken upon a report made to the Executive Committee by the association's Committee on Taxation and Public Revenue, of which Henry Ives Cobb is Chairman. The letter to President Coolidge read:

"The Merchants' Association of New York heartily commends to your favorable consideration the program of tax reduction formulated by Secretary Mellon in his letter to the acting Chairman of the House Committee on Ways and Means.

"No problem before the country is more important or more pressing than that of reducing the burden of taxation, which now presses upon the American people.

"After careful consideration of the tax reduction policy, suggested by Secretary Mellon, the Merchants' Association believes that his plan is both feasible and sound and, if adopted, will result in stimulating trade and commerce, thus perpetuating the prosperity which the country now enjoys.

"It is, therefore, the hope of the 8,000 New York merchants, who comprise the membership of the Merchants' Association, that you will give this tax reduction plan the weight of your endorsement by recommending it to the Congress for enactment into law at the forthcoming Congressional session."

The Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce last night unanimously passed a resolution favoring Secretary Mellon's plan. The resolution was introduced by William C. Redfield, former Secretary of Commerce. The resolution read:

"Whereas, the Secretary of the Treasury has brought before the country a plan for the reduction of taxation whereby the burden upon the smaller taxpayers will be at once reduced and earned incomes will receive favorable consideration as compared to incomes from unearned sources, and whereby also by a readjustment of the highest schedules larger revenue will be available because the temptation to escape the severe surcharges is reduced, and whereby finally business will be relieved of excessive burdens, which have in no small measure paralyzed initiative; therefore be it

"Resolved, that the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce approves the principle and purpose of the plan proposed by Secretary Mellon and endorses the suggestion to reduce national taxation and to relieve business of burdens which it no longer ought to bear."

WOULD SAVE $6,000,000 TAX

How Mellon's Plan Would Benefit Northern Illinois.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—More than $6,000,000 on two items alone would be saved to the taxpayers of Northern Illinois if the tax-revision plan of Secretary Mellon were to be put into effect, according to figures given out by Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, Collector of Internal Revenue, today.

Under the present revenue act the tax collected on admissions to theatres and other places of amusement amounted to $5,784,370.07, and the tax on telegrams and messages reached $1,049,569.94 during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1923.

COOLIDGE INSISTS ON TAX REDUCTION

classed as radicals, must be found to pass a tax bill in the Senate.

Republican leaders intend to make the fight non-partisan. They will appeal to conservative Democrats to vote with their party, as Republicans did with Democrats on war measures, as the only hope of getting any relief from high taxes. Leaders in both parties know that unless there is a combination of conservatives there will be no proper reduction, or probably no action at all.

Democrats for Reduction.

There are many Democratic Senators who will support the Mellon proposal in its chief recommendations. Senator Glass of Virginia is one of these, and Senator Walsh of Massachusetts accepted the Mellon proposals in principle today.

"Secretary Mellon's tax reduction proposal impresses me in three particulars," Mr. Walsh said. "First, the necessity and demand for a general reduction of taxes, particularly income taxes, is imperative. This reduction should have been made two years ago. At that time efforts were made by several Democratic members of the Senate Finance Committee to bring about a substantial reduction, and amendments to the revenu act of 1921 were proposed by minority members seeking to bring about many of the reductions now proposed.

"Business and individuals, particularly the salaried classes, have had to bear too long the heavy increase in income, nuisance and other taxes imposed as a result of the obligations of the war. It is unquestionably true that these taxes have been to some industries most burdensome, and as a result there has been a noticeable retrenchment in business, and consequently the prosperity of the country has been affected.

"Second—Taxes should be reduced by the next Congress with the least possible delay. Immediate and careful consideration should be given to all suggestions for the reduction of taxes. No Government worthy of confidence should impose one penny of unnecessary taxes. It is the highest duty of a democratic Government to reduce tax levies to the lowest possible equation, and also to rigorously and scrupulously watch the expense of Government, to see that not one dollar is wasted.

"Third—We have reached a period when tax reductions can be made is clearly apparent; indeed, it was contended by many to have been possible sooner. Congress should show the country that it can directly, speedily and adequately meet and solve this problem.

Declares Question Is Non-Partisan.

"Third—The question is not a partisan one. The manner in which tax burdens should be distributed may properly assume partisan proportions, but that taxes should be reduced when the public expenses do not require them to be levied is never a partisan issue.

"I feel confident the Democratic members of the Senate will receive with the fullest possible measure of sympathy the Administration's suggestion for tax reductions.

"The Democratic Party has always stood for low taxes, and the Congressional Records of 1921 contain many evidences of the efforts of the Democrats in Congress to reduce various classes of income taxes. I myself attacked the Revenue Bill passed that year, which raised the taxes on non-excess profit making corporations, small businesses particularly, 25 per cent., and my amendment to have that increase stricken from the bill was defeated by only one vote.

"In my opinion, there is nothing the next Congress can do that will so inspire the confidence in its capacity to function promptly and efficiently as to meet this question squarely and immediately.

"Democratic and Republican members of Congress differ as to where and how the burdens of taxes can best be distributed, but let us get together with a determined, wholehearted and non-partisan spirit to reduce downward and sharply the tax burdens of the American people, and, above all, let us do it at once."

LEGISLATORS' VIEWS ON TAX REDUCTION

More Members of Congress Express Opinions on Secretary Mellon's Proposals.

Expressions of opinion by members of Congress on Secretary Mellon's proposals for tax reduction continue to reach THE NEW YORK TIMES. In addition to those previously printed are the following:

AGAINST THE MELLON PLAN.

Republican.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—I still favor some kind of a bonus. I also think a bonus to the soldiers need not preclude a reduction of taxes. I am sure both can be brought about.

WILLIAM F. F. PATTERSON Jr.,
Representative from New Jersey.

CLEARFIELD, Pa.—As I favor adjusted compensation for the veterans, I do not think taxes can be reduced until this is provided for.

WILLIAM I. SWOOPE,
Representative from Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—I am for soldiers' bonus and for enough taxes to pay it.

EDWARD VOIGT,
Representative from Wisconsin.

Democrats.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—I am entirely in favor of all the proposals of Secretary Mellon, with a number of reservations, as follows: First, I am in favor of a liberal soldiers' bonus; second, substitute for the reductions proposed by the Secretary the repeal of the Fordney-McCumber tariff, which would save to the people at least $600,000,000 which now is collected into the Treasury, and also at least $1,500,000,000 which is now collected in excessively high prices by the beneficiaries of that tariff and never accounted for at all; third, exempt all incomes under $4,000 and increase the present surtaxes and impose the old excess profits tax to make up the difference. I have a number of other reservations which it will not be necessary to submit until the Secretary accepts these.

JOHN F. CAREW,
Representative from New York.

FESTUS, Mo.—I stand for reduction of tax on small earned incomes and restoration of excess profits and other taxes on unearned income. I am for the bonus bill and all legislation to take care of those who fought our battles, especially the disabled. I am also against further issuance of tax-free securities.

J. SCOTT WOLFF,
Representative from Missouri.

NON-COMMITTAL.

Republican.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—I do not care to express my views on the subject, as I am not so well informed but what I might change my views, at least with reference to the minutiae of the bonus and income tax laws. However, generally favor the bonus if the soldiers are united in their purpose and if it has been well considered and passed by both houses. Secretary Mellon's views are certainly entitled to the greatest consideration; more, in fact, than I have been able to give them as yet.

WILLIS G. SEARS,
Representative from New Jersey.

Democrat.

Secretary Mellon's propositions to reduce income taxes are too important to express an opinion on in advance of hearings before the Ways and Means Committee. I am in favor of reduction of taxes on incomes up to $5,000 and opposed to reduction of surtaxes. I am also in favor of adjusted compensation for ex-service men.

JOHN J. EAGAN,
Representative from New Jersey.

CONGRESSMEN BUSY IN VETERANS BUREAU

DEFENSE OF FORBES ENDS

Committee Told That 335,000 of 665,937 Applicants for Training Were Ineligible.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Veterans' Bureau maintains a special section to take care of inquiries and requests by Senators and Representatives relating to ex-service men. Sometimes as many as 165 letters a day are received from members of Congress. In one case, twenty-eight Congressmen wrote to the Bureau in behalf of a veteran.

Such was the testimony brought out today before the Senate Committee investigating the bureau, when Senator Walsh of Massachusetts asked Charles Mulhern, the Assistant Director in charge of claims, if the "Congressional section" had been abolished.

"Oh, we have what we call a special section to handle those matters, and it is a very active one, too," the witness replied. "It was alive when I came into the Bureau, and I surely have not let it die since that time."

Colonel Charles R. Forbes, the former Director, was not present today, nor was Elias H. Mortimer, the witness who introduced the principal testimony against him. This morning James S. Easby-Smith, counsel for Colonel Forbes, told the committee he regretted that he had not had the opportunity to cross-examine Mortimer. Mr. Easby-Smith retired from the hearing, with the statement that he would file a statement showing what twenty or thirty witnesses would have testified further in defense of Colonel Forbes, had the committee permitted them to appear.

The hearing today dealt almost entirely with the welfare of the veterans. Mr. Mulhearn and Homer W. Clark, the Assistant Director in charge of rehabilitation, being the main witnesses.

When General O'Ryan, counsel to the committee, criticised the practise at the bureau, called "shuffling the papers," for the reason that folders containing documents pertaining to soldiers' cases carry no proper index for ready reference, Mr. Mulhearn explained that the cost of making an index or a brief would be enormous. He said that it would take about $1,760,000 to make briefs of each of the 860,000 cases listed, and that it would take 100 examiners five years to complete the task.

Up to this time, Mr. Clark testified, 665,937 men have applied for training, but 335,000 of these have been declared ineligible. To Oct. 1, 45,000 men have been rehabilitated. He added that there would be few, if any, of the 72,000 men now in training in vocational schools on July 1, 1926, for the reason that they would have completed their courses by that time.

W. G. Lipscomb, a Washington real estate man, testified that he formerly had an option on a piece of Frank W. Chamber's property, "Featherstone Farm," in Virginia. A few days ago an affidavit by Mr. Chambers was presented to the committee. He stated that Mr. Lipscomb had said he (Lipscomb) had been approached by a man named Raege with a proposal to lease the farm for a vocational centre. The story went that Raege raised Lipscomb's offer of $10,000 to $30,000, saying $20,000 was for graft and was to be passed on. Mr. Lipscomb corroborated the Chambers' affidavit, but said he did not know Raege or what his connections were.

Congressman Albert Johnson of Washington filed a protest with the committee to the effect that the bureau had removed Charles Ryan from the State of Washington to Pennsylvania in violation of a State court order keeping the man in Washington. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, the present director, has asked Mr. Johnson to present papers as the case may be reopened.

Public hearings in the investigation will close tomorrow night.

COST OF LINCOLN'S GUARD.

Louis Weintz of Middletown Celebrates Golden Wedding Today.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The last surviving member of Abraham Lincoln's bodyguard at his inauguration in 1861 is Louis Weintz, 55 Monhagen Avenue, this city, who is 79 years of age.

Tomorrow he and Mrs. Weintz will observe the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

'BLONDE ALICE' SENTENCED.

New York Woman Gets Three Years in English Prison for Theft.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—"Blonde Alice," who is well known to the New York as the English police, has been sentenced at the Durham Assizes to three years' penal servitude for stealing a diamond ring. She is the wife of a New York gang leader, but recently, according to The Evening News, has been making a specialty of preying upon American visitors to this country.

Her striking looks have been her great asset. Above the medium height, with golden hair and dark eyelashes, she has found it easy to scrape acquaintance with tourists and strike up friendship with them. Then she would invite them to join her in long trips and by direct theft or some form of confidence trick obtain large sums from them.

One of her recent exploits was to accompany a visitor from Tennessee to Windsor and relieve him of £500 in Treasury notes on the way. So neatly did she escape his suspicions that she dined the same evening at the next table to his and sympathized with him for his loss.

She has a daughter in England. When she began her operations here on the proceeds of a New York jewel theft she put the girl in charge of highly respectable people, educated her at a select private school and prepared to send her to Cambridge.

BAINBRIDGE COLBY SUED.

Bank Says He Declined to Pay Part of Guaranteed Loan.

Bainbridge Colby, who was Secretary of State under President Wilson at the close of his Administration, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday for $5,000 on an agreement made with the Columbia Trust Company. The suit is brought by the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company, which alleges that while other persons who guaranteed a loan have made good, Mr. Colby has declined to do so.

The complaint says that on Feb. 28 last an agreement was signed by Mr. Colby to pay $5,000 and by Rafael R. Govin, Frank R. Ford, G. W. Bacon and George H. Davis to pay $10,000 each if a loan of $50,000 made by the trust company to George W. Young & Co., Inc., was not paid. It is alleged that the loan was made and that it was not paid by George W. Young & Co., Inc.

Mr. Colby was the law partner of President Wilson for a time after the President's term of office ended.

SAFETY COUNCIL MEETS.

Plans for Coming Year Laid by Executive Committee.

The first meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Safety Council was held at the Commodore Hotel yesterday, with about forty members present, L. A. DeGolia of the Wilmington plant of the Dupont company presiding. W. H. Cameron, managing director of the council, who has just returned from a meeting of the International Labor Office of the League of Nations at Geneva, where the work of public safety was discussed, told of the European conference. Mr. Cameron took with him fifteen films showing safety work produced in this country. They were the only films of the sort in the world. It was stated that America has far surpassed other countries in this respect. He said that there were fifty-two nations represented at the international conference. The meeting discussed plans for the coming year.

DENOUNCE UGLY SIGNS.

Poster Advertisers Plan to Raise Artistic Standards.

Plans to limit rural bill-board advertising and to raise the standard of poster advertising generally were discussed yesterday at a meeting and luncheon of the New York State Poster Advertising Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Several speakers admitted that highway advertising had been abused in many cases, and that the business as a whole had been endangered thereby. Signs which deface landscapes—though it was said that they represent only 5 per cent. of the total number—must be removed, it was declared.

Mrs. Harry Lally, of the Federation of Women's Clubs, also spoke. She said that clubwomen have opposed highway advertising, but that there is some common point in which they and the advertisers can meet to effect reforms. Former Supreme Court Justice E. Allen Frost, of Chicago, urged a higher artistic standard in poster advertising and the abolition of unsightly sign-boards.

NEW POST FOR H. N. PRINGLE

To Become Law Enforcement Director of Reform Federation.

Henry H. Pringle, Superintendent of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, yesterday accepted a call to the World Prohibition and Reform Federation, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., to become its national law enforcement director and Assistant Superintendent.

Mr. Pringle has in the past been active in investigations in many cities against various forms of vice. He formerly was a Congregational pastor. At one time Mr. Pringle was with the International Reform Bureau. He will assume his new duties on Jan. 1.

CALLS FINANCIERS UNFAIR TO FARMERS

Federal Reserve Board Secretly Discriminated Against Them, Senator Brookhart Says.

DEFLATED 32 BILLIONS

Other Business Deflated Only 18 Billions, He Asserts—Wants Government Aid in Marketing.

United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, in an address last night before the Academy of Political Science at the Hotel Astor, accused the Federal Reserve Board and Regional Directors of having discriminated against the farmers of the country at a "secret meeting" on May 18, 1920. He charged that the policy laid down at that meeting resulted in the deflation of the farmers to the extent of $32,000,000,000, while the deflation of other business amounted to only $18,000,000,000. He further accused the Federal Reserve Board of having adopted a policy to "inflate the railroads" at the time that they were deflating the farmers.

Senator Brookhart spoke on "Government Aid for Co-operative Marketing." He advocated using the $218,000,000 surplus of the Federal Reserve System, of which he said "two-thirds comes from the farmers and laboring people," to start a "co-operative reserve bank to support a co-operative marketing agency" for the farmers and working people.

He said that although the farmers furnished 35 per cent. of the primary bank deposits of the country they had but one representative on the Federal Reserve Board, and that while labor furnished 25 per cent. or more of bank deposits it had no representative in that body.

"The magnificent Federal Reserve Bank Buildings are now occupied by the Wall Street crowd alone, except for one lone farmer," said Senator Brookhart. "They should be required to move over and allow one-half of this space to the Farmers and Laborers' Co-operative National Reserve Bank and marketing system."

Senator Brookhart said that the present method of marketing farm products was so inefficient, unscientific and wasteful that it meant disaster for agriculture. He held that the agencies of distribution should be in the hands of the producer and consumer, who, he said, were entitled to the "dominant power in economic affairs."

The question whether the Federal Government should aid in organizing and financing a co-operative marketing system of the producers and consumers was raised by Senator Brookhart, who asserted:

"In the first place, I desire to say that nearly every great business in the United States is protected by some kind of governmental action or support. Manufacturing, banking and transportation are all receiving such paternal aid."

Senator Brookhart asserted that only from 8 to 12 per cent. of farm products were exported and that the price of that small percentage, fixed in Liverpool, also fixed the price of the larger percentage at home.

He charged that the governmental valuation of railroad properties fixed the aggregate at $19,000,000,000, whereas the market value of their securities was only $11,000,000,000. On the higher figure, Senator Brookhart said, the Treasury of the United States for six months guaranteed a net return of 6 per cent. and "now guarantees by legislative demand to the Interstate Commerce Commission a net return of 5½ per cent."

"The efficacy of law with respect to fundamental economic matters has always been overemphasized in popular thinking," said Dr. W. F. Gephart, Vice President of the First National Bank in St. Louis. "It is difficult to believe that the intelligent farmer places much faith in many of the panaceas which are being advanced by his assumed official and unofficial spokesmen."

Dr. Gephart said that the farmers' difficulty was not one of credit, because, if anything, the farmer more than any other industrial class had obtained probably an over-abundance of credit. He then said:

"If the farmer, through his associations or individually, expects to assume the rôle of a risk-taker, that is, engages in speculative holding of his produce, he must understand that this is likely to be in the nature of a two-edged sword."

In support of his allegations concerning the "secret" meeting of the Federal Reserve Board members and Regional Directors Senator Brookhart read from Senate Document, 310, page 62, a statement attributed to W. F. G. Harding, former Governor of the Board, suggesting that the discussions at the conference should not be talked of outside the meeting, and that the plan of deflation should not be made known before Fall.

Senator Brookheart asserted, however, that the deflation program was known by a few who took advantage of the situation and refused to make loans. Of the companies which secured large loans soon after the "secret" meeting, he mentioned Armour & Co., who "floated a loan of $60,000,000," Swift & Co., who got a loan of $50,000,000, and the Sinclair Oil Company which floated a loan of $46,000,000.

The subject of "The Tariff in an Unbalanced World" was discussed by Dr. Benjamin H. Anderson Jr., economist of the Chase National Bank. He said that the bankers were concerned when the inability of foreigners to market goods here made it impossible for them to buy American produced export goods. He added:

"Fears have been expressed, based on certain experiences in connection with the rapid depreciation of the German mark, that a restored Europe would bring commercial disaster to the United States. These fears are needless. The ability of German producers of certain specialties to undersell foreign competitors has been due, primarily, to the fact that external depreciation of the mark has moved more rapidly than internal depreciation, a temporary phenomenon which apparently ceased a few weeks ago when German workmen began to demand wages on a gold basis, which appears to have led to a sudden rise in gold costs in Germany and to a concomitant great increase in unemployment.

"During the whole of this period, moreover, our exports to Germany were steadily far in excess of our imports from that country. British Government figures of trade relations between the United Kingdom and Germany show a similar story.

"A sudden strong restoration of Europe to full productive activity would lead to a sharp shock in the United States, with the necessity of a good deal of readjustment. Even this would be better for us than a continuance of the progressive maladjustment which comes from having Europe on the down grade. Europe's actual revival, however, is likely to be too slow rather than too rapid, and our own readjustment to it should be comparatively painless."

COUNTESS TOLSTOY IS FINED

Daughter-in-Law of Novelist Took Out Unmuzzled Dog.

Countess Nadine Tolstoy, wife of Count Ilya, son of the late Russian novelist, was fined $1 in West Side Court yesterday for taking her pet collie dog Queenie on the streets without a muzzle.

The Countess explained that she had just moved into her present address, Seventy-fourth Street and Riverside Drive, and had thought that a muzzle was unnecessary if she took her dog into the driveway, but she was informed that all dogs must be muzzled at all times when out of doors.

This is real motor car economy

Eleven years ago, when all motor cars were more expensive than they are to-day, a prominent business man bought a Rolls-Royce. His friends and neighbors thought him extravagant. He, however, having soberly investigated the subject, thought that he had made an economical purchase. To-day he is still driving this same car, which has run over 250,000 miles and is good for many years to come. Such transportation as this, unequaled in quality and duration, is the experience of every Rolls-Royce owner.

Remember in Dickens' "Christmas Carol" how crabbed and cross old Scrooge was?

There was some excuse for him. He had a problem getting his bookkeeping done. It wasn't his clerk's fault either—not with the tools he had to work with.

But there's no excuse today for crabbed and cross executives, or brow-beaten and over-worked clerks. Not with the L.B. Machine-posted card ledger, for it—

Why "Stuttgarter" Underwear is preferred!

No. 4

UNDERWEAR IN COLONIAL TIMES

RICHARD SAWYER, of Windsor, Conn., died in 1648; he possessed one suit of doublet and breeches, two suits of jackets and breeches and two extra jackets, but only "one pair of canvas drawers."

In those earlier days men apparently thought but little of the qualities of their apparel. Today good underwear means as much as good clothes. Men think first of "Stuttgarter" because, for 54 years, its manufacturers have striven to build underwear that would be suitable for modern needs.

Form-fitting union suits and shirts and drawers in cotton, cotton and wool and 100% guaranteed pure wool.

WOMAN CONFESSES TESTIMONY FALSE

NEW MYSTERY DEVELOPS

Question Now at Issue Is the Identity and Whereabouts of Child Born Last Year.

One mystery was solved and another created before Supreme Court Justice Mullan yesterday in the habeas corpus proceeding brought by Mrs. Gertrude Haupert Stapler, wife of Henry Bascom Stapler, a bond salesman, against her mother in law, Mrs. Henry B. Stapler, for the custody of Helen Stapler, seven-year-old daughter of the petitioner.

The woman calling herself "Janet Lawrence," an actress, admitted in tears that she testified falsely when she said she took the boy, Charles William Brill, alleged to be the son of Mrs. Stapler and William Symonds, or Claude William Brill, a milk wagon driver, to Mrs. Stapler to be cared for on payment of $20 a week, and that the boy was the son of her "cousin" and a "prominent New York millionaire."

In view of the admission by the witness that she committed perjury, and of Mrs. Stapler's denial that she was the mother of the boy whose birth certificate states that he was born in January, 1922, an effort may be made to learn the identity and whereabouts of the boy, who has a misshapen hip due to either improper attention or malnutrition after his birth. Testimony previously given was that when the Westchester Medical Society sought to find the boy because of his hip condition, it was stated that he had been taken away. An effort to trace him will be made today, it was said.

"Janet Lawrence" confessed on the witness stand that she had sworn falsely because Mrs. Gertrude Stapler had been her neighbor at 3,205 Park Avenue and had induced her to give the false testimony with a story of her love for the daughter she is seeking in the court proceeding. The witness pleaded that her name be kept secret, stating that her husband did not know she had become involved in the case and if he did find out she would have to leave home.

While the case was on an actress whose name is Janet Lawrence, entered the courtroom and sent up her card to Justice Mullan. He talked with her and then stated in open court that the caller knew none of the parties in the case and was not involved in it in any way. The witness who had used the name then admitted that she had never been the real Janet Lawrence and had taken the name by chance. After her confession on the stand Justice Mullan said:

"This is the most astounding situation that has been brought to my attention as a lawyer or a member of the bench. Was there anything, any consideration but sympathy?"

"No, my testimony could not be bought for anything," said the witness. "I saw how much the little girl loved her grandmother, and how much the grandmother loved her, and I decided in Court that she ought not be taken from her grandmother."

The hearing will continue this afternoon.

GREEK QUOTA OUT; DANCERS DETAINED

EXPECT BAN TO BE LIFTED

May Be Let in as Professional Performers — Husband Paralyzed, Woman Supports Family.

Mme. Calliope Charissi, the Greek dancer, and her ten children, who arrived yesterday from Cherbourg on the Cunarder Tyrrhenia to appear at the New York Hippodrome, was detained by the immigration officials because the quota for Greece has been exhausted for the year 1923-24. They will be taken to Ellis Island today on a special tug to go before the Commissioner of Immigration. It is expected that they will be admitted under the exemption clause as professional dancers coming to this country for a limited period.

Mme. Charissi, who is 38, said she had eleven children, six of whom were born in Greece and five in France, where her husband, a civil engineer, became paralyzed three years ago and she had to dance with her children to support the family. Her oldest son, Jean, 21, is in the Greek Army. The oldest boy accompanying her is Noel, 18. Katie, 20, is the oldest of the girls.

While her husband was able to follow his profession the boys and girls attended schools in Paris, she explained, but after he became a paralytic they had to leave off and work with her. "I first started to teach them dancing six years ago," she said. "In addition to the national Greek dances in costume, we perform the Louis XV. dances, the minuet, Spanish dances and poetical dances."

Mme. Charissi has been decorated twice for motherhood by the French Government. Had she been a Frenchwomen, she said, she would have received a Government bounty when her husband became incapacitated three years ago.

The Tyrrhenia brought sixty-five first, 256 second and 322 third-class passengers and mails and 4606,250, this last representing part payment of the interest due on Great Britain's war debt to the United States.

Sir George Hunter, head of the firm of Swan & Hunter, Ltd., of Wallsend-on Tyne, where the Mauretania was constructed, arrived on the Tyrrhenia.

10,000-TON DOCK IN SERVICE

New Floating Equipment of Todd Plant Receives First Ship.

The new 10,000-ton floating dock at the Robins plant of the Todd Shipyards Corporation was placed in service yesterday. The tank steamer Gulfoil of the Gulf Refining Company was the first vessel docked.

The addition of this five-section wooden dock to the Erie Basin plant gives the Robins yard a total of two graving docks and four floating docks. The total dock equipment of the Todd Shipyards Corporations is now twenty-two floating and two graving docks.

GOV. WALTON OUSTED GUILTY ON 11 COUNTS

of the Marland Refining Company, had barely left the stand when W. E. Disney, Chairman of the House Board of Managers, which conducted the prosecution, announced that the evidence was completed.

After a few preliminary manoeuvres a motion was made to vote first on Article 19, the clemency charge. The Court sustained the motion and the prosecution summed up briefly the testimony introduced in support of the charge. A roll-call was then taken.

The chamber was intensely quiet as one Senator after another arose and voted "aye," many with voices that were kept steady with difficulty. Twenty-eight votes were necessary to convict.

Senator C. D. Leedy of Arnett was the twenty-eighth man. With the determining vote in his power he told the Court he would vote "no" unless he had authority later to explain his ballot. A pause ensued, then a voice broke the stillness.

"All right, go ahead and vote."

"Then I vote 'aye,'" Senator Leedy said, and a burst of cheers and applause came from the galleries.

When the roll was completed the Clerk read the result and Chief Justice Johnson of the State Supreme Court, who presided at the trial, announced the verdict.

"Guilty as charged in Article 19," the Chief Justice said. More applause greeted his words and brought a hasty reprimand from the Marshal of the Senate. Then followed in rapid succession verdicts on each of the remaining charges.

Charges Which Were Upheld.

Those on which the Governor was convicted, in the order of voting, were:

That he exceeded his pardon and parole powers. Vote 41 to 0.

That he placed his personal chauffeur on the State Health Department payroll, 35 to 6.

That he padded the State payroll, 28 to 3.

That he suspended the right to the writ of habeas corpus, 40 to 1.

That he issued a $10,000 deficiency certificate for the State Health Department when no deficiency existed, 37 to 4.

That he issued a deficiency certificate for $4,000 for a State negro orphans home in order to provide salaries for two negro barbers whom he ordered placed on the payroll of the institution, 40 to 1.

That he attempted to prevent a special State election to be held Oct. 2, 27 to 3.

That he exceeded the legal limit of election expenses, 28 to 13.

That he solicited gifts and contributions for expenses of his office after he was elected. Vote unanimous.

That he is generally incompetent. Vote 36 to 4.

The charges on which he was acquitted were:

That he used his official position to obtain personal property and credit, 23 to 18 (lacking the necessary two-thirds majority to convict).

That he received a $5,000 bribe to approve an appropriation for a State business academy, 26 to 14.

That he refused to permit the execution of the law providing capital punishment, 11 to 30.

That he illegally named large numbers of known criminals and irresponsible persons as State police, 24 to 17.

That he illegally named Charles H. Baskin, a member of the State Legislature, as a District Judge, 12 to 29.

Pleas Federal Court Fight.

Interest is growing as to the outcome of the hearing to be held in the United States District Court here Wednesday, in which counsel for the Governor will make a second effort to obtain Federal interference.

Judge Cotteral will be asked to issue a retroactive restraining order setting aside all action of the impeachment court. Should the Federal court refuse to take jurisdiction, counsel for the Governor announced that they were ready to go directly to the United States Supreme Court with an application for a writ of supersedeas to return the Executive to authority pending the court's decision on his application for a restraining order.

F. E. Riddle, chief counsel for Governor Walton, declared no decision in the case could be expected before March.

Walton's Stormy Career.

Governor Walton was elected last November and took the oath of office on Jan. 8. From the time he entered the race for the Democratic nomination his public career was a series of exciting incidents. He was backed by the farm and labor groups represented by the Reconstruction League in a bitter campaign. He was branded a radical and old line Democrats protested that he was an interloper.

Walton, however, maintained his Democratic affiliations, denied the charges of radicalism and stood flatfooted for the farmer and laborer. He defeated two opponents by a substantial majority. His campaign for election was a repetition of the primary fight. He was elected, but he trailed his ticket by many thousands of votes. A monster celebration was held on Jan. 9 and 10 at the State Fair Grounds in Oklahoma City in honor of his inauguration.

More than 100,000 persons thronged the grounds, heard the Governor take his oath of office, danced, made merry and topped it off with a barbecue of smoking pits more than a mile long.

Governor Walton submitted to the Legislature a program looking to betterment of the conditions of farmers and laborers. About half the laws he proposed were enacted. Immediately after adjournment of the Legislature in April he set about reconstituting the boards of control of State schools and institutions, and protest was aroused throughout the State.

Made Manager College Head.

While the protest was at its height the Governor named George Wilson, an organizer of the Reconstruction League and his own campaign manager for a time, as President of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanics College, replacing Dr. J. B. Eskridge. Nearly 1,000 students and residents of Stillwater, seat of the college, carried their protest personally to the Governor, and, carrying out a threat, he had Wilson installed under the eyes of National Guard officers.

The American Legion continued its opposition to Wilson, and after about a month's incumbency he was removed. With his removal came a dramatic break with the Reconstruction League.

With no forewarning, announcement was made from the Executive's office on Tulsa 23 that he had declared martial law in Okmulgee County. He explained that the action was necessary to curb masked outrages. The military rule, however, was lifted two weeks later. On Aug. 14 Tulsa County went under the control of the National Guard. A military court of inquiry was set up and functioned for more than two months.

During that time three men were sentenced to the penitentiary on pleas of guilty of rioting charges. A strong protest came from the press when the Governor suspended the writ of habeas corpus and for a time placed a military censor in the offices of The Tulsa Tribune and The Henryetta Free Lance.

Legislature Begins Action.

On Sept. 15, at midnight, the Executive issued a proclamation placing the entire State under martial law. He declared the Ku Klux Klan was responsible for lawlessness that he charged existed to such an extent that a "state of rebellion and insurrection" held sway in the State.

Machine guns were trained on a Grand Jury room at the Oklahoma County courthouse when a Grand Jury was about to assemble to investigate charges that Governor Walton had misused State money.

A majority of the members of the State Legislature signed a call for a special session to consider his actions. On Sept. 20, the date set, the meeting was prevented by National Guard troops. A petition for a Constitutional amendment to permit the Legislature to meet without call by the Governor for impeachment sessions then was circulated. The petition was approved by the Secretary of State, but the Governor declared the measure would be kept off the ballot.

A last minute court decision ordered the election to proceed with the legislative amendment on the ballot.

Governor Walton issued a proclamation indefinitely postponing the election, but officials who had been ordered to stop it gave no heed to his order and the election was held. The vote was overwhelmingly in favor of the legislative amendment.

The Governor then summoned the Legislature in extraordinary session to deal with anti-Klan legislation, but instead the Lower House presented the impeachment charges.

The "ANXIOUS SEAT"!

"The Viewpoint of the Employee is the Most Neglected Asset in Industry."

SOMEWHERE in this crowd of salesmen is your ambassador—waiting to tell his story across a big buyer's desk.

He is on the "anxious seat." Will the figures he is able to quote be interesting to the point of clinching an order? What about deliveries? Can he count on production being prompt—and will quality be maintained strictly according to sample or specification?

Out in your plant are the answers to all these questions. In the spirit of your employees will be found the "yes" or the "no" that determines success or failure for your business to-day. The only safeguard for the prosperity of any industry is complete co-operation from the whole body of its workers—a will to do that robs competition, however keen, of its menace.

This protection we can promise to any open-minded business man.

Executives, everywhere, have evidenced unusual interest in our booklet, "Stopping Payroll Losses." We will be glad to send you a copy, gratis, on request. Please address Dept. LS.

COLUMBIA HONORS PASCAL AND RENAN

THEIR WORKS DISCUSSED

Dr. Strowski Declares Pascal Represents the Attitude of French Nation Since 1914.

A celebration commemorating the lives and works of Blaise Pascal (1623-1662) and of Ernest Renan (1823-1892) was held last evening at Columbia University. Teachers and students from Columbia and other universities, representatives of scholars' societies, French organizations and the city's schools were present.

Dr. Fortunat Strowski, visiting French professor, spoke on "The Universality of the Thought of Pascal," and Dr. J. H. Randall Jr. of the Department of Philosophy read a paper on "The Esthetic Naturalism of Renan."

"What dominated all Pascal's genius is the principle which he has expressed several times: 'The dignity of man consists in thought.' And again: 'Let us work and think properly; therein lie both principle and morality.'

"Pascal recognized three types or three classes of reality in the universe: material realities, realities of the mind, and God; and he teaches us to value each one in its own province, material grandeurs infinitely below the spiritual, and spiritual grandeurs infinitely below Jesus Christ.

"This Pascal, esteemed as great by all men and all nations, is he whom France honors, he whom she invokes as her representative since 1914, through the mouth of her philosophers, her writers and her politicians. And this is a fact which must be held in view if one wishes to understand the really profound sentiments of my country."

Dr. Randall said that Pascal agreed with Renan in proclaiming the key to the riddle of life to be hidden in the human spirit. "Renan," added Dr. Randall, "is not a philosopher who quickens our minds with any new perception of scientific truth. He never advanced beyond the simple agnosticism he drank in, with his German historical studies, from the great source of Kant.

"Renan may stand—and this, it seems, is his true importance—as the great exponent of the appreciative or aesthetic attitude toward life, as contrasted with the figure of Goethe, who may well serve as the supreme example of the creative attitude. The philosophy of Renan is the philosophy of the scholar at its very best, of the man who seeks to know and feel rather than to do, to whom indeed, no human experience is alien, but who prefers to live that experience over again, at second hand, rather than venture himself on any uncharted seas. And it is because Renan has given a superlative illustration of this aesthetic attitude that his name will be remembered."

THORLEY'S WILL ENDS FIRM NAME WITH HIM

Florist Decrees That It Shall Not Be Used After His Death.

The will of Charles Thorley, florist and sportsman, was filed yesterday for probate in the Surrogate's Court. The accompanying petition fixes the estate at more than $10,000 in real and a like amount in personal property, but it has been reported that Mr. Thorley left an estate of more than $1,000,000. The estate is bequeathed to his widow, Jennie E. Thorley, who lives at the Hotel Plaza. The executors are Mrs. Thorley and the Guaranty Trust Company.

Mr. Thorley died suddenly in the hospital of the Pennsylvania Station on Nov. 10. He was stricken while returning from the Princeton-Harvard football game.

The will is dated Nov. 17, 1914. The document directs the executors that in any sale or transfer of the assets and good-will of the business the name "Thorley," or "Charles Thorley," or the right to use the name in any manner be not included in such sale. Mr. Thorley stated "it being my will that my name cease to be associated with the florist or any other business or enterprise after my death."

On Feb. 9 last Mr. Thorley made a codicil changing certain sections of the will. Under the original terms there were legacies of $10,000 to Rose Fallon, $5,000 to William Gardeen, $1,000 to William Hull and $2,500 each to Herbert Cummins and Orson McCall. These are revoked by the codicil.

The will stipulated that in the event of the widow and daughter, Mrs. Jennie Francis Goodwin, not surviving him, the residue of his estate was to go to the William E. Davis Free Industrial School for Crippled Children and the Thorley Home for Crippled Children. The latter home was founded in memory of his daughter, Mrs. Lulu Thorley Lyon.

FORGERY ON NOTE CHARGED

C. J. Tagliabue Endorsement on $10,000 Paper Questioned.

Allegations that the endorsement of the late Charles J. Tagliabue, a Brooklyn manufacturer, had been forged to a $10,000 note were made in the Supreme Court yesterday by executors of the Tagliabue estate on an application for permission to inspect the note. Suit has been brought on the note by the Guaranty Company of Maryland, to which it was given, against Mountain Lakes, Inc., for a balance of $8,000 due on it.

The note is alleged to have been made by Herbert J. Hapgood, one-time head of "Hapgood's Brain Brokers," son-in-law of Mr. Tagliabue, and President of Mountain Lakes, Inc., which controlled 1,500 acres of residential property at Mountain Lakes, New Jersey. Henry B. Johnson, an attorney, who is one of the Tagliabue executors, asserts that the Tagliabue signature on the note is a forgery.

Claude V. Pallister, Vice President of the bankrupt Mountain Lakes company, and now one of its receivers, states in an affidavit that he paid $2,000 on the note before he suspected it was not genuine. He alleges now that Hapgood executed it without the approval of the directors of the corporation. Hapgood suffered a nervous breakdown and left the country last December, he said.

favorite "boning up" of knowledge of a kind notorious for its failure to stick once it has served its purpose of enabling the harassed student to answer questions on a particular occasion.

Emphasis was laid last night on the effect the no-examination project was expected to have in raising academic standards. For it is proposed along with the wiping out of examinations, to require a "B" rating for class work, a standard of efficiency of from 80 to 90 per cent. Hitherto examinations have carried such great weight that the student could safely go through most of the month with a much lower rating, provided only that in some manner he could convince the Faculty at the end of the term that he knew much more about a given subject than his class rating would indicate.

No announcement has been made as to just what courses will be without examination in the first stage of the experiment. But the students regarded that as unimportant, since the experiment, if it succeeds, is to be only preliminary to abolishing them all.

ALFONSO RECEIVED IN PAPAL SPLENDOR

Medieval Ceremonies Are Revived for First Time Since 1870 for Monarch.

KING KISSES THE POPE'S TOE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Nov. 19.—The Vatican, which for centuries has been unsurpassed for the gorgeousness of its official ceremonies, lived up to its reputation to-day when the Spanish sovereigns were received in the consistorial hall by the Pope and the whole Sacred College of Cardinals.

As King Alfonso and his consort, Queen Victoria, went to kiss the Pope's toe in sign of their devotion, this wonderful hall presented an appearance of almost mystical beauty. In the dim light which entered through the stained glass windows and was reflected delicately from the frescoed walls, the scene seemed unreal. It looked like a precious old painting of the splendors of medieval days.

The Pope was seated on his crimson throne, dressed all in white, with white slippers and white zucchetto, the only touch of color about his person being a heavy golden chain around his neck, from which hung the golden pectoral cross. At either side in glittering array were grouped the members of the papal court, whose costumes, whose names and whose very appearance took one back to the Middle Ages. White-haired, scarlet-robed and venerable looking, all the Cardinals present in Rome were drawn up in a hollow square around the Pope's throne. The Swiss Guards in their multi-colored uniforms, wearing red tunics and shining steel helmets and breast-plates, the papal gendarmes with their enormous busbies and the Noble Guards with their scarlet tunics and plumed caps completed the picture.

King Alfonso Delivers Address.

After kissing the Pope's toe, King Alfonso delivered a short address on the faithfulness and devotion of Spain to the Pope and the Catholic faith, and then seated himself together with Queen Victoria on two thrones which had been prepared beside the Pope's throne, but at a lower level.

Immediately afterward the Pope retired to his private library, where the Spanish sovereigns followed him and remained closeted with him for more than half an hour.

As soon as they emerged from their audience with the Pope they rendered homage at the tomb of St. Peter in the basilica, where they knelt for a few moments, and then drove in papal motor cars to the Spanish Embassy to the Holy See, where they received the return visit of Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State.

This is the first time since the early days of the pontificate of Pius IX. that a Catholic King has been thus received publicly by the Pope and the whole College of Cardinals. Even when the Catholic King of the Belgians visited Rome last year the audience was private. It is also more than half a century since the ceremony of toe kissing has been performed. It is understood that this was not included in the official protocol, but that King Alfonso and Queen Victoria did it as a spontaneous act of homage.

Conform to Vatican Rule.

The visit to the Pope on the first day of the Spanish sovereigns' arrival in Rome is according to precedent. Indeed, it is, as an absolute Vatican rule that any sovereign who journeys to Rome as the guest of the Italian King and wishes to visit the Pope must do so on the very day of his arrival in the Italian capital.

In contrast to the solemnity of the reception of the Spanish sovereigns at the Vatican was the cordial greeting accorded to them by the people of Rome. The whole of the city turned out to do them honor and hugely enjoyed the truly magnificent military display which had been prepared for the royal visitors. Never, indeed, has Rome been so excited and enthusiastic since President Wilson came to Rome immediately after the signing of the armistice. Certainly the public was more moved to-day than it was for the visit of either the King of the Belgians last year or for the King of Great Britain a few months ago.

Great curiosity existed to see the meeting of Premier Mussolini and General de Rivera. They first looked at each other appraisingly and then shook hands with cordial smiles. It was noticed, however, that when the Spanish sovereign appeared on the balcony of the Quirinal Palace to bow to the crowd, which in its eagerness to see them had swept aside all the troops barring the way, General de Rivera accompanied them, while Mussolini was nowhere to be seen.

Spanish Visitors Reach Rome.

ROME, Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria arrived in Rome this morning to pay their official state visit to King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy.

All Rome turned out to welcome "their Catholic Majesties," and the route of the royal party from the station to the Quirinal Palace, where the Spanish sovereigns will be entertained as the guests of Italy's royal house, was gay with bunting, flags and shields that bore the Italian and Spanish coats of arms.

The train bringing the Spanish King and Queen from Spezia pulled into the station half hidden by bright streamers and the national colors of Italy and Spain. The royal car stopped immediately in front of the King's waiting room, where King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena stood to receive their visitors.

After formalities had been exchanged in a rather lengthy ceremony, the royal party entered the semi-state carriages and the procession to the palace began. Many bands played the anthems of the two nations, while cannon from all the forts of Rome thundered the royal salute.

Leaving the station the royal procession entered the Piazza Esedra, where it halted for a moment while the royal commissioner for Rome, Senator Cremonesi, extended a formal welcome to the Spanish monarchs. Every window along the thoroughfare displayed the Italian and Spanish colors; special decorative standards, from which lines of bunting extended to the building, lined the way. The enthusiasm of the populace was almost uncontrolled and the troops had difficulty in holding back the masses. King Alfonso responded to the cheers with a military salute, while Queen Victoria smiled and bowed.

Proceed to Spanish Embassy.

From the royal palace they proceeded to the Piazzi di Spagna where, at the Spanish Embassy to the Vatican, automobiles attached to the Pontifical household were waiting. Arriving at the Vatican they were met at the foot of the Scala Regia by the papal majordomo, attired in full ceremonial robes of purple and white. Flanked by a guard of honor they were conducted, with their entire entourage, to the Sala Consistoriale, where Pope Pius and the members of the College of Cardinals were waiting, the Pontiff seated on his throne.

The sovereigns were escorted to the foot of the papal throne by Cardinals Vannutelli, Merry del Val and Bisleti, and there offered their homage to the Holy Father. The Queen, who was attired in the famous Castiglion robes of white, a prerogative held only by the queen of Spain on a papal visit, was then escorted to the throne designated for her, while King Alfonso delivered his address to the Pope.

King Alfonso in his address to the Pope thanked the Pontiff for the bestowal on Queen Victoria of the Golden Rose. He recalled the traditional Catholic faith of Spain, declared that he retained the title of "Catholic Majesty" given him and his predecessors by the Popes higher than any of his sovereignty, and concluded:

"If there had been no Cross of Christ there would have been no Spain."

100 Misses' Coats, $59

Our $79 to $95 grades

Each one of these 100 coats was chosen because it has extraordinary fashion interest, in fabric, color and line.

Imported Fabrics

Marvelously soft woolens from Rodier; finest tweeds and fleecy fabrics, or Cumberland homespuns from England. In all the glorious plaids, stripes and mixtures that the chic young miss is wearing, trimmed with furs that enhance their smartness.

Second Floor, Old Building

500 Pairs All-Wool Blankets $7.85

A high grade of fine clean wool has been woven into blankets that are splendidly made in every respect. All are in block design—in pink, blue, tan, gray or lavender. All have carefully whipped edges to prevent raveling.

The approximate weight is 4 to 4½ lbs.—a heavy weight for single bed size blankets, which these are.

First Floor, Old Building

$5.95 Silk Nightgowns, $4.45

500 really exquisite nightgowns of fine all silk—pure silk—crepe de chine from a high-grade manufacturer. Turned seams throughout, no raw edges, lace and other trimming beautifully applied. Three models, each in flesh-pink, peach-pink and orchid, in all sizes.

Model No. 1—Tailored in the French manner, with a double fold of fine white net hemstitched on to give the effect of entredeux, around the neck, armholes and bottom of gown. The shallow and becoming Jenny neckline.

Model No. 2—With strap shoulder trimmed with filet lace running around shoulder straps, neck, armholes and the scalloped bottom of the gown. Three groups of fine tucks, running yoke deep, give fullness to the front, a deep pleat over each shoulder to the back.

Model No. 3—Trimmed with Valenciennes-patterned lace running around the daintily scalloped hem, over shoulders and around bodice where it is combined with insets of tucked crepe Georgette.

Third Floor, Old Building

300 Smart Satin Hats, $10

Our $15 grade

Black and brown shiny slipper satin hats in the newest, smartest fashions. The cloche, the little hat with a medium size brim, the distinguished "off-the-face" hat in their newest versions.

Second Floor, Old Building

Women's Smart Shoes, $10

Our $14 to $18 grades

Two-strap walking shoes of brown or black calfskin. One-strap pumps, with cut-out sides, of black suede or patent leather. Another one-strap model—in this instance a very broad strap—of brown or gray suede or dull black calfskin. A cross-strap model of black satin with high Louis heel.

First Floor, Old Building

Children's $17.50 Coats, $12.75

Smart little coats from abroad, beautifully tailored of fine woolens, and other clever coats, with collars of soft nutria, that have been fashioned to our order of chiffon velours. Mannish little styles for small boys 1 to 8, and for Miss 2 to 6 adorable flare and belted models.

Colors are delightful, and each coat is attractively lined with satin or Venetian sateen and nicely interlined.

Hats of fine kidskin, suede or chiffon velours, $2.95 and $3.95, for $3.95 and $4.95 grades.

Third Floor, Old Building

2,000 Perfection Oil Heaters Down to $4.95

This is an astounding price for the oil heater that is more in demand than any other.

They Are Needed Right Now!

Cold, raw, wintry days have already made us shiver. And there's always one room in the house that somehow will never get warm. For this room the Perfection Oil Heater will solve the problem—and at small cost.

Black japanned trim, polished steel drum, lead-coated steel tank with one gallon capacity. Ten hours of heat on a gallon of oil is its usual service.

Seventh Gallery, New Building.

Two-Trousers SUITS for Men

250 of the $60 to $65 Grades | $42

A fine two-trousers suit at about the usual price for a suit with but one pair of trousers! Does seem too good to be true, doesn't it? You can easily see for yourself, however—as a lot of men did on Friday and Saturday.

Cheviots. Worsteds. Cassimeres. Plain blues. Plain oxford. Plain grays. Heather mixtures. Hairline stripes.

All of the models are single-breasted, both for men and young men. In each group are 2- and 3-button coats, those for men being slightly more conservative.

Tailored the Wanamaker way, and correctly sized for men of all builds in sizes 34 to 46.

Street Floor, New Building

Men's Fine SHOES at $5

A most unusual offering. These shoes are in a varied range of styles.

Low shoes in tan or black calfskin, with a wide toe and broad, flat heel. Low shoes in tan or black Norwegian grain and many other leathers and models.

Street Floor, New Building

$3.45 for Men's $5 to $6.50 HATS

There are 600 of them, in this season's colors and shapes. Some of them are lined with a fine quality silk. All of them are well-made. And at this low price they offer an excellent chance for the man whose hat has become a little dingy. Plenty of sizes for all men in the lot, and plenty of styles for men of all types.

Street Floor, New Building

We Were Fortunate in Getting These

500 Men's Overcoats, $23.50

The $40 Grade

So great a crowd of men came in for the coats which we offered last Friday and Saturday that we had to go into the market again. It seemed impossible to duplicate the values we had offered, but by lucky strike we found a maker who had 500 coats of the $40 retail quality. They were up to our standard of FABRIC QUALITY—fine all-wool coats in a pleasing array of fabrics and patterns. A wide range of sizes, too.

TOMB OF PHARAOH IS READY TO OPEN

Howard Carter Clears the Doorway and Expects to Make Entrance Today.

WORK WILL THEN RESUME

This Winter Will Be Devoted to the Delicate Task of Dismantling the Shrines About the Sarcophagus.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LUXOR, Nov. 19.—This morning the final stage was completed in the re-opening of the tomb of Pharaoh Tut-ankh-Amen, which, after a respite of eight months, is about to become once again the centre of activity and interest. The last layer of earth which covered the stairway had been cleared away last evening, leaving only the timbers blocking the rock doorway to be dealt with. These were quickly pulled out and neatly stacked by the side of the entrance to the tomb, where they will remain ready for use at the end of the season.

Practically the whole of the morning was taken up with fitting the framework of a wooden door. Last year a wooden grille was used, but this let in too much dust and sand, so this year a closed door has been fitted.

As it was late in the afternoon before the door was finally fixed with four strong padlocks the opening of the entrance into the tomb itself beyond the interior steel gate was postponed until tomorrow.

It is hoped and expected that the next month or so will reveal even more valuable discoveries than those made last year. This year's work is to be entirely devoted to the taking down of the nested shrines which fill the sepulchral chamber, with the object of reaching the sarcophagus, which should be in the centre and should contain the mortal remains of the Pharoah lying amid all splendor which, according to the contemporary ritual, characterized the entombent of the Pharoahs of Egypt thirty centuries ago.

The dismounting of these shrines, which in their delicate condition is exceedingly difficult, is further complicated by the little space available for the work. The first task will be the removal of a part of the wall dividing the sepulchral from the ante-chamber, which was erected after the sarcophagus and its contents had been introduced and shrines which had been taken in-sides in sections had been assembled around them. Its removal is an essential preliminary to tackling the sections themselves, and the operation will have to be executed with the greatest skill in order to avoid damaging the outer shell of the shrine, which, with its beautiful gold and faience ornamentation, is but a foot or so away.

Then when the wall has been removed the first shrine will have to be closely examined in order to make sure of the joints and the amount of treatment required before it can be touched. There are believed to be five of these shrines, one within the other, and each will have to be similarly handled. In all probability the outer shrines will have to be dismantled and their panels rested against the four walls, where they will have to remain until the inner shrines are taken out, so as to provide space for the larger outer shrines to be turned round for egress.

TRAIN HITS LIMOUSINE; COWCATCHER SAVES 3

Woman and Two Men Escape With Bruises After Being Carried 300 Feet.

Occupants of more than forty automobiles in lines on each side of the Erie Railroad crossing at the foot of Hoboken Avenue, Jersey City, yesterday afternoon saw a limousine, with a chauffeur and a man and woman inside, scooped up on the cowcatcher of a "Mikado" engine, carried 300 feet along the rails, and the occupants eventually released without serious injury.

Traffic at the crossing had been stopped a few minutes before by the lowering of the railroad gates to permit a fast train to pass. Before the dust from the train had settled the barriers were raised and east and westbound traffic began to move across the rails.

One automobile had crossed when the limousine owned by William F. Birch of Dover, N. J., with Mrs. Birch and Dr. Ralph B. Dunham of Dover inside, and Fred Cermelison, the chauffeur, at the wheel, started to cross the tracks. At the same time a large freight engine of the New York Central Railroad, with M. J. Carroll of Dumont, N. J., at the throttle, appeared and a moment later the Birch limousine was caught up on the cowcatcher.

The impact broke the door of the limousine and fortunately the iron post used for the danger flag on the cowcatcher pierced the roof of the limousine and held it firmly on the cowcatcher until Carrol stopped the locomotive.

Railroad employes and occupants of other automobiles ran to the assistance of those in the limousine. The door on the exposed side of the car was opened by the chauffeur and Mrs. Birch and the physician were lifted from the car. They laughed nervously over their experience.

Their only injuries were slight bruises received when they were thrown against the side of the car in the crash. They continued their trip to Dover in another automobile.

170 SPEEDERS FINED.

Total of 381 Are Found Guilty of Violating Traffic Rules.

Fines aggregating $4,110 were collected in the Traffic Court yesterday from 381 persons found guilty of violating traffic regulations. The fines were imposed by Magistrate Norman J. Marsh, who fixed from $25 to $50 as the penalty for 170 speeders. Jail terms of from two to ten days were imposed on forty-five other drivers who said they were unable to pay fines assessed by the Court.

Alfred P. Hannan, 38 years old, who described himself as a capitalist and gave his address 340 West Ninety-eighth Street, was held in $500 bail for trial in Special Sessions on the complaint of Motorcycle Policeman Henry Doyle that the man was under the influence of liquor on Sunday night when he was driving his car at Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street. Hannan denied the charge.

A sentence of thirty days in the workhouse was imposed on Edward Schott, 42 years old, a chauffeur, who gave his address as the Palm Hotel, Seventh Avenue and Fifty-third Street, when he was found guilty of operating a car while intoxicated at Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street at dawn on Oct. 19 last. Edwin J. Larder of 519 Admiral Street, Brooklyn, another chauffeur, appeared as complainant against Schott, who was found not to have a driver's license.

Arsenal Police Station Vacated.

The Arsenal Police Station, a landmark in Central Park, was vacated yesterday for six months pending an overhauling. The police are now installed across the roadway where Delmonico-John's restaurant used to be.

HOTEL MEN OPEN EIGHTH EXPOSITION

EXHIBITORS NUMBER 300

Two Hundred Foreign Delegates Are Favorably Impressed by American Methods.

The eighth Hotel Exposition and Convention opened yesterday in the Grand Central Palace. Public and private interest was evidenced by the crowd that thronged the hall when Edward M. Tierney, Chairman of the National Hotel Exposition, formally inaugurated the show. All afternoon there was a crowd present, and from the window in the lobby, where visiting hotel men were registered, a line extended across the main entrance.

Included in the visitors were 200 visiting foreign hotel men, members of the International Hotel Alliance, who have just returned to New York after a trip about the country, during which they acquainted themselves with American methods, with which, they said, they were favorably impressed.

In his address, Chairman Tierney said the exposition idea marked the dawn of a new era in the hotel world. Through its medium, he said, hotel men for the first time had been brought to realise the benefits to be derived from frequent social and commercial intermingling.

"Now," he said, "we face the future with confidence in the cohesive elements of fraternity and good-will which presages greater development and usefulness for the exposition, and added glory and benefit to the profession of hotel keeping the world over."

Yesterday was Greeters' Day and most of the day was spent in getting acquainted and in putting the last touches to the many booths in the exposition hall. A feature was a luncheon given for the visitors by E. M. Statler at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Elmore E. Green, President of the New York State Hotel Association, and Fred A. Muschenheim, President of the Hotel Association of New York City, spoke at the opening ceremony.

Everything that has to do with hotel keeping, from live stock to dressed beef, and from dishwashers to novelty favors, is shown in the many artistically decorated booths that line the two floors given over to the show. There are 300 exhibitors. Card index systems, cash registers, elaborate checking device and in a new apparatus which automatically records and audits dinner checks indicate the amount of bookkeeping required in the hotel industry.

The housewife, it was pointed out, will find much to interest her at the exposition, for many of the devices can be adapted for saving labor in the household. The kitchen display includes all kinds of pans and kettles, food choppers and slicers, dishwashers, percolators, toasters and can openers.

Today will see the opening of the thirty-seventh annual convention of the New York State Hotel Association at the Hotel Commodore. The annual election of officers will be held and George W. Sweeney will entertain visiting members of the two associations, and 200 delegates of the Alliance Internationale de l'Hôtellerie at a luncheon at 1 P. M. At the same hour Arthur L. Lee of the Hotel McAlpin will entertain the women visitors at a luncheon.

CROKER'S SON WINS SUIT AGAINST WIDOW

in a little piece of cotton batting, with a bottle of milk to eke out your existence like an infant. Don't believe that Richard Croker should have done this. He deserved just as much in his declining years to enjoy a moment of bliss as any one else."

Mr. Mooney insisted that there was no actual evidence of the agreement used upon, and said:

"Richard Croker died without any property and with an overdraft against his account of $110,000 in the Hibernian Bank of Ireland."

Wanted to Help Father.

In his summing up for the Croker children, Mr. Steuer said:

"Piece by piece his property was taken away from him, until in 1919 there was not anything anywhere that did not belong to Mrs. Croker. They said that on his death he had a home at Glencairn. But it was Mrs. Croker who had a home at Glencairn. It was also Mrs. Croker who had a home at Palm Beach. Do you wonder that the children wanted to preserve something for their father?"

Mr. Steuer referred to an effort by the elder Croker in 1919 to break a trust created by him and his deceased wife in favor of their children, and said:

"Can you conceive of Mr. Croker wanting to take that away from his children? Nothing would have been more natural than that Richard Croker, knowing that his life was drawing to an end, would consider providing for his children, the yearly provision for whose support would otherwise stop at his death. He had amply provided already for Richard Jr., as well as for Frank, who had died, so he also wished to provide for Howard and Ethel.

"There does creep into the jurors' mind the feeling that the female ought to win. I wish to call to your attention that Ethel is also a female."

In his charge, which lasted more than an hour, Justice Proskauer instructed the jury that they must find by a preponderance of the evidence that an agreement was actually made on or about Nov. 10, 1916, whereby, in consideration that Richard Jr. would relinquish to his brother Howard his share in his mother's estate, that the father would pay to Howard and Ethel each an amount equal to Richard's relinquished share.

DISMISS SUIT IN IRELAND.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Nov. 19.—The Croker family litigation occupied Chancery Judge Pim's attention in the Free State Law Courts at Dublin today, when the action of Richard Croker Jr., versus Rula E. Croker, was listed on motion by the defendant to have it dismissed as vexatious and untenable. The plaintiff asked, as eldest heir-at-law, to have set aside a transfer purported to convey to Rula Croker freehold property in the County of Dublin, and an inquiry as to rents and profits received by the defendant.

Mr. Costello, for the widow, said it was common knowledge that the will of Richard Croker proved that at a trial lasting a fortnight every possible and impossible issue had been investigated. The deceased by will left all property of every kind to her, he said, and that if the Judge allowed this action to proceed, he would be allowing an action to go solemnly through his court by a gentleman living in America, the net result being nothing.

Mr. Dockrell, for the plaintiff, said that he had no instructions, and applied for a reasonable adjournment to put in a statement of claim.

Mr. Costello referred to an affidavit of the widow, which shows that the household property concerned was specially the property of the deceased and absolutely conveyed by him to the defendant by deed on March 21, 1918. The affidavit also stated that the plaintiff is endeavoring to prejudice the defendant's rights in actions in America by representing this action as pending in the Irish courts.

Judge Pim referred to a decision, which was not appealed in the probate trial in July, and said that the plaintiff had no interest in this action, which was wholly unsuitable and could lead to nothing. He then dismissed the with costs.

Christmas has come to Lord & Taylor

Christmas has come to Lord & Taylor.

Winter's just around the corner—a holiday atmosphere's abroad—Christmas is on the threshold.

Lord & Taylor stands ready from top to toe—ready to welcome Christmas.

The grey store has put on its holiday red and green. Toys enough to cram countless Santa Claus' packs are waiting to be taken home with you. Gifts from the far corners of the world tempt you to send them hurrying off to friends. Even the workaday things have caught the Yuletide spark.

Won't you come and help us enjoy this holiday festivity? We want you to share some of the thrill that we have experienced in selecting in strange lands and far away places the gifts with which our shelves are filled.

You are welcome whenever you may come.

The Christmas spirit is worthy of two months—not alone two weeks. There's excitement and pleasure in the anticipation. A leisurely choice and complete assortments await you now. Then, too, gifts stored away for a few weeks have time to mellow with Christmas cheer.

Christmas has come to Lord & Taylor.

Start your Christmas now.

Lord & Taylor

Gifts of Unusual Character

They are ready. Every spacious floor of the great grey store is warm and colorful with gifts of unusual character—gathered from the odd corners of the earth for the joy of your friends at this season.

If you are a woman

They'll fascinate you—these bags of metal beads from abroad. The Venetian beaded bags, too, in quaint floral and rug designs. Feather fans, in the season's new evening shades, and lovely necklaces—both of crystal beads, and indestructible pearls. For the boudoir—A toilet set, our exclusive design of two-toned shell, on amber gallilith. Attractive powder jars and bowls in Bohemian and Venetian glass.

French novelties in perfume burners and dainty boxes. And the woman who travels will welcome the new tourist case, satin covered, and the beauty box with its delightful preparations. Ground Floor

Where charm and usefulness unite

Always suitable are desk sets, of gold tooled leather, brocaded silk, copper or brass. Or yet, an octagon waste basket of gold tooled leather, lined with moire silk. A leather covered clock-and-calendar combined—a Lord & Taylor specialty. And stationery—everything from Mother Hubbard and fairy tale characters for little tots—with crayons to color them—to the finest of linen lawns in beautiful mahogany boxes. Games—Mah-Jong, favorite of the hour. Imported and domestic sets of unusual beauty. Bridge sets too, leather covered, in all sizes. Ground Floor

The delight of lovely fabrics

Exquisite things in hand embroidered French lingerie and negligees. And linens, the gift of unfailing good taste. Luncheon and card table sets in ecru, lastingly beautiful, embroidered by Italian hands. Sardinian filet luncheon sets, runner and six doilies are a delightful novelty. Table cloths and napkins too, of double damask Irish linen, as royal a fabric as ever graced a table. And towels—no woman ever had too many! Second Floor

Wearables, just a wee bit smarter

The newest of the season's colors and designs in dainty blouses and sweaters, many of them from France. Especially suitable for gifts are the riding habits Third Floor

Mostly for His Majesty, the Baby

Everything for his royal needs, embroidered and beribboned, silk robes, wraps, even to the tiny bootees. Everything that young people wear too, up to the moment.

Furs, including Hudson seal (dyed muskrat), mink, muskrat, sable and raccoon, in all of the season's smart coats and wraps. Fourth Floor

Color spots that warm a room

Odd shapes and lovely colors are caught here, in the imported collection of Venetian glass objects—graceful vases, compotes, perfume bottles, candlesticks, bonbon dishes and fruit bowls. Rugged and colorful are the hand-shaped Italian pottery bowls and jardinieres in yellow, lavenders, and blues. Bowlware from England—gay table scarves and pillow tops—dainty French boudoir sets—they are all here. Fifth Floor

Lighting should be friendly, subdued

Lamps, too—an endless selection. There's a table lamp of Cinnabar lacquer, hand-carved, in the new Chinese red, on a teak base. The shade—flat empire taffeta with variegated fringe and flat silk galloon. Beside it stands an exquisite pair of Chinese cloisonne vases, on a yellow ground relieved by gay Chinese colors. Stately console candlesticks of wrought iron, finished in antique gold and mulberry, with shades to match, lend their charm and dignity. You will delight in the exclusive colors and designs in bridge, floor and junior floor lamps, of all sizes. Fifth Floor

Especially for young couples

An ideal gift is a really fine piece of furniture. Here we offer console, end, and davenport tables. Authentic reproductions of fine old early American pieces such as spinet desks, high and lowboys, mostly in mahogany. Book cases, windsor chairs—and beautiful cabinet work in every copy of period furniture. Sixth Floor

If you are four—or even fourteen

New assortments of dazzling toys; dolls, imported and domestic, furniture, games, and sporting goods for boys, mechanical and electrical toys, musical instruments—everything to delight the heart of a youngster.

Here also is almost every kind of fitted suitcase and bag, hat trunk or motor trunk, and steamer rugs and vacuum bottles for your friends who tour or travel. Victrolas too, and records. Seventh Floor

"He'll like this!"

You'll say that about most things here in the Man's Shop. Everything a particular man wears—slippers to hats—on one floor. Warm dressing gowns, tasteful neckwear, shirts, wool and silk hose, Scotch and English sweaters, vests, gloves, mufflers, handkerchiefs, and walking sticks. The best of European and American markets is assembled here to make your Christmas selection easy and satisfactory. Tenth Floor

A REQUEST, PLEASE—

You have been urged, many times, to shop early for our benefit. This year, we feel that it is—more than ever—for your benefit. For our entire store is now filled, you see, with the thousands of beautiful and useful things that you formerly selected in the two weeks just preceding Christmas. You will obtain a wider selection now—and your shopping will be easier, more comfortable, and more satisfactory. All of which is only a roundabout way of saying, "Shop Early, please!"

STEP-SAVERS—

If a visit to the store is inconvenient or impossible, simply write or telephone. The Lord & Taylor Mail and Telephone Order Service will follow your wishes and send you any articles you may need. Many people—as well as elderly folks in town and those who live at a distance—find this service entirely satisfactory for their Christmas gifts.

DELIVERY—

Lord & Taylor has, we believe, as reliable a delivery service as exists. It covers the suburbs within a radius of fifty miles of the city. It makes two regular daily deliveries in the city, and additional ones in the hotel and theatrical districts. And if you make a purchase one day—even up to five in the afternoon—it will be delivered next day. Christmas time we regard as the most essential in the year to avoid disappointments—and insofar as delivery is concerned we have every reason to believe we have done so.

Resolutions in Conflict With Bishop Blake's Pledge Offered to Missions Board.

HE HAS RAISED $28,000

Report Shows 1,232 Missionaries and 11,339 Native Preachers Are Maintained in Foreign Lands.

Resolutions in opposition to the Methodist Episcopal Church conducting any work in Russia through the New Russian Orthodox Church (Soviet) were presented yesterday at the annual meeting of the Board of Foreign Missions by William H. Van Benschoten, attorney at law, of 43 Exchange Place, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the board, and were referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

The resolutions were the result of Bishop Edgar Blake, resident American Methodist Bishop in Paris, and Bishop John L. Nuelsen, resident American Methodist Bishop in Zurich, Switzerland, personally pledging $51,000 to the Soviet Church following their investigation in Russia several months ago at the request of the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Church. The board meeting in Brooklyn last week honorably discharged the deputation, of which Bishop Anton Bast, resident American Methodist Bishop at Copenhagen, was the third member, and thanked the three bishops for performing "a difficult and delicate task," but did not endorse their efforts to raise the $51,000.

Bishop Blake, who was in attendance at yesterday's meeting, declined to comment on the resolutions, but remarked that he and the Rev. Dr. L. O. Hartman of Boston, editor of Zion's Herald, a Methodist weekly, already had raised between $27,000 and $28,000 of the sum pledged.

Mr. Van Benschoten's resolutions read:

"Be it resolved that it shall be the policy of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church to carry on its work in Russia, in general, through the direct channels of the board of our church, and that every provision possible as to both workers and finances be made for such work.

"And be it further resolved that the board shall not conduct any of its work in Russia through the new Russian Orthodox Church nor have any working connections or relations with, nor financially assist that church."

A letter from Bishop Fred B. Fisher, resident American Methodist bishop in Calcutta, India, said that an average of 100 converts were daily being received into the church.

The annual report to the board which was submitted by the Rev. Dr. Frank Mason North, senior secretary, said the church was maintaining 1,232 foreign missionaries and 11,339 native preachers.

The sessions of the board will continue through today and tomorrow, at the offices of the Methodist Book Concern, 150 Fifth Avenue. Eighteen bishops are in attendance.

ANDERSON TRIAL SET.

Charges Against Anti-Saloon Superintendent to Be Called in January.

The trial of William H. Anderson, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of this State, on indictments charging extortion and forgery in connection with Anderson's $26,700 bill for "confidential publicity" for the league, will be called before Justice Tompkins next January in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court, District Attorney Banton announced yesterday.

An inquiry lasting six months before two Grand Juries led to the return of the indictments against Anderson last June. The money was alleged to have been taken from the Anti-Saloon League by Anderson between March 1, 1913, and Dec. 30, 1914, when the league was making strenuous efforts to obtain dry legislation in Albany.

The bills alleged that Anderson extorted money from O. Bertsall Phillips, formerly financial representative of the league, on commissions he received over the $10,000 fixed by Anderson for the year, and the alleged forgery comprised the changing of the league books to have these "split" commissions appear as having been incurred in "traveling expenses" for the league.

"I have requested the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court to assign me a part of that court in January," Mr. Banton said in making the announcement. "Unofficially, I have been informed that Justice Tompkins has been designated to sit in that part. We will try Anderson during that term in that court."

CHARGES HER PRINCE LIED.

Former Mrs. Phillips Accuses Sister and Former Husband Also.

The difficulties between Prince Lippe-Lipsky and his American wife took a new angle in West Side Court yesterday when the Princess obtained summonses against her present husband, her former husband, Charles Lee Phillips, and her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Schroeder of 410 West 110th Street. She charges them all with criminal libel, because of charges she says they made in a statement to newspaper men on Nov. 3.

The Princess attributes to Mrs. Schroeder as the basis for the action a statement that "I have two husbands living; that I have not been divorced, which she knows is untrue; that I was a schemer, and that my husband would not have me in the house."

Mr. Phillips, the Princess says, denied he had been divorced or married again, and stated "that I had dishonestly used funds of the Carry-On Association, and that I was not a good or fit mother to my son, Lieutenant Wendell Phillips." The Princess accuses the Prince of saying "that I shanghaied him into marrying me."

HANSON TRIAL PUT OFF.

Lack of Interpreter Delays Case Against Ex-Deputy Sheriff.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Nov. 19.—The trial of Charles W. Hanson, former Deputy Sheriff and finger print expert of Nassau County, indicted on charges of second degree grand larceny and the unlawful taking of fees, was postponed until tomorrow morning by County Judge Bert J. Humphrey.

The proceedings were put off when testimony of George Filaski of Floral Park, one of the principal witnesses against Hanson, could not be recorded without the aid of a Polish interpreter. There was no interpreter available.

SHIPS NEARLY IN DEAD HEAT

But Captains of United States and Bergenafjord Deny They Raced.

The United States of the Scandinavian-American Line from Copenhagen and the Bergenafjord of the Norwegian-American Line arrived in Quarantine yesterday afternoon within an hour and a half of each other, having made the passage across under ten days. The captains denied that they had any idea of racing and said they had not communicated with each other on the voyage. Each shipmaster appeared to be surprised to find the other ship had been so close to his. Captains never race. It was a coincidence, that was all.

Why hasn't he married?

HE LIKES pretty women—no doubt about that. He has had a better opportunity to meet them, all over the world, than any other marriageable man in the world. Why hasn't the Prince of Wales married? There have been articles on this question; the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION wanted an answer to the question. You will find the answer in the December number on page 5.

In 30 minutes this can be yours

JUST the graceful, charming sort of jacket that every woman loves. "But too expensive", you exclaim. "I haven't the money to buy it, nor the time to make it."

All right . . . one piece of material . . . 36 inches wide . . . the simplest kind of cutting and needlework . . . and it's yours. Time, exactly 30 minutes . . . See page 84

Why has the Companion become the foremost institution for women—directed by a woman?

THE two paragraphs above help to explain why the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION has gained more new readers in the past five years than any other publication in its field.

THE Prince of Wales is entertaining . . . but to send a special correspondent to the English court to find out the one thing that most interests women . . . why he hasn't married . . . that's unusual entertainment . . . that's the COMPANION touch.

A pretty jacket is a nice enough thing . . . the store windows and fashion pages are full of pretty jackets . . . they merely stir a want without satisfying it . . . but a pretty jacket which any woman, anywhere, can have . . . in thirty minutes . . . in thirty minutes, mind you . . . again the COMPANION touch.

There is a big new serial by Edna Ferber in this December number; and a whole page of presents that can be made out of nothing more expensive than cleverly fashioned paper.

There is a Christmas story by Juliet Wilbor Tompkins that will put a catch in your throat. And a booklet (offered on page 52) wherein 50 women tell 50 different ways by which they have picked up extra money.

The highly romantic and the severely practical . . . the love of the big ideal and the careful counting of the extra penny . . . these are the magnificent contrasts that are the modern woman.

The editor of the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION is a woman. The institution she has built is a product of feeling, fully as much as of thinking—an instinctive mingling of the ideal and the real, which so closely mirrors a woman's life that it has become a part of two million lives.

EXCHANGES, BONDS AND STOCKS SOAR

Cotton and Grain in Up-Swing That Sweeps the More Important Markets.

STERLING'S RISE A RECORD

Public Support of Mellon Tax Plan Given as One Constructive Reason—European Rumors.

Wall Street had another red letter day yesterday in which prices soared in all the more important markets—stock, bond, grain, cotton and foreign exchange. The strength and harmony of the sudden up swing were so pronounced that rumors sprang into circulation to the effect that some "big news" was soon to come out of Europe.

Bankers, market operators, bond houses and brokers were agreed that price movements comprised a phenomenon seldom seen in a single day, but no one was able to place his finger on any sudden change in conditions which might have accounted for the concerted movement of prices and bankers denied that they knew suh rosa of any fundamental development taking place in Europe which might be construed as a foundation for the advance. The fact that a breach between England and France had been healed, temporarily at least, was regarded as one "constructive factor." In a number of banks it was explained that the evidences of overwhelming support for Secretary of Treasury Mellon's tax reduction program had given incentive to release funds for corporate investment which, since early spring, had been partly frozen in tax-exempt securities.

The sharp advance of the foreign exchanges, particularly of the pound sterling, was regarded by bankers as the most extraordinary movement in the day. Sterling opened a few cents below its closing price of last week and suddenly shot up ten cents under the impulse of heavy buying orders. This quick upturn, which carried the British monetary unit from the day's low point of $4.28 to the high point of $4.38, was a gain that probably has no parallel. Sterling has lost as much as ten cents in one day—following the after-the-war period—but the records disclose no advance of such proportions.

Few Sellers of Sterling.

Foreign exchange dealers told of receiving "substantial buying orders" and there was a scarcity of persons who had any sterling to sell. The reasons given for the sudden halt in the volume of selling orders which last week had broken the sterling quotation as much as two and three cents a day were to the effect that Franco-British negotiations had shown promise of betterment; that Britain had virtually completed its process of buying dollars to purchase cotton and had completed work in connection with its December debt payment of $22,000,000 to the United States Treasury, and that German industrialists and investors had completed their recent work of transferring credits from sterling to dollars.

Sterling closed the day at $4.33¾, a net gain of 5¾ cents. The quotation dipped in the last few minutes of trading, the higher price being at first reported, brought out offerings from speculators who had purchased the currency at the low point "for a quick turn."

Other foreign exchanges also moved higher, French francs advanced 31¼ points net; Italian lire 15¾ points net and Belgian francs 5¾ points net. The "neutral" countries also benefited, Holland guilders showing a net gain of 57 points, Swedish kroner 20 points and Spanish pesetas 27 points. In all instances it was said there had been speculative selling for the decline last week, the weight of this selling having exaggerated the natural movements. Yesterday new buying orders forced these speculators to buy back their commitments, the pincers operation having been similar in many respects to the sharp upturn in the stock market which followed the recent action of the United States Steel Corporation in declaring an extra dividend.

Practically all bonds of foreign Governments or cities shared in the advance. Some of the largest gains were recorded by the City of Bordeaux 4 per cent. bonds, up 8¼ points; Lyons 6s, up 2¼; Marseilles 6s, up 2½; Saine 7s, up 2; French Government 5s up 2⅜; French Government 7½s, up 1¼; Netherlands 6s up 1¼; Kingdom of Belgium 7½s, up 1¾, and Kingdom of Belgium 8s, up 1¾. British Government bonds, which held firm during last week's decline, were steady yesterday, their changes being fractional.

In the Stock Market.

The firm tone of foreign exchanges helped to stimulate hope as to the future of prices in the stock market, but it was reported in brokerage houses that customers were buying because they looked for better business to follow a cut in taxes—a cut which many skeptics have been led to believe is probable because of the public reaction to the Mellon proposals. President Coolidge's stand behind the Secretary of the Treasury's plan was said to have crystallized that optimism. Sales of stocks approached the million-share mark, and gains ran as high as 10 points, with many 2, 3 and 4 point gains and a fairly liberal sprinkling of 5's and 6 point gains. Practically all classes and groups of stocks shared in this advance.

Among the advances scored were United Cigar, up 10; Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati & St. Louis, up 4¾; American Can, up 3¾; Studebaker, up 3½; Baldwin, up 3¾; General Electric, up 3½; Bethlehem Steel, Chesapeake & Ohio, Corn Products, Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, United States Rubber, Chicago Pneumatic Tool and a number of others up 2 or more points.

In the cotton market, a preponderance of buying orders sent December options to 34.75, up 94 points, and May options to 34.70, up 66 points. These price advances were equivalent to approximately $2.50 to $3 a bale. Wall Street buying was said in dispatches from New Orleans to have figured prominently in cotton trading. The change reported in foreign affairs also resulted in a firmer market with respect to Liverpool.

In the grain markets, the advances were more moderate but uniform. December wheat and December corn were both up nearly a cent a bushel.

HELD IN LOVETT SLAYING.

Dock Worker Faces Murder Charge in Death of Gang Leader.

Joseph Flynn, 27, of 72 South Elliott Place, Brooklyn, a dock worker, whose coat, smeared with blood, was found beside the body of William ("Bill") Lovett, gang leader, who was murdered at the Dock Loaders' Club, 25 Bridge Street, was held without bail for the Grand Jury on a charge of murder in the first degree by Magistrate Harry Howard Dale in Adams Street Police Court yesterday.

Miss Agnes Hade, 22, testified she had known Flynn for four years and had been engaged to marry him for two years. She asserted that on Oct. 31 she had an appointment with Flynn at Fort Greene Park at 9 P. M. When he failed to appear, she stated, she went to the house where Flynn roomed.

Miss Hade testified she found Flynn asleep on a couch. She said she remained in the room until 1 A. M. When she left, she stated, Flynn was still asleep.

The police who investigated the killing of Lovett fixed the time of his death at between 2 and 3 A. M. on Nov. 1. Assistant District Attorney Bernard J. Becker contended that Flynn had admitted he was in the company of Lovett drinking on the afternoon before the Brooklyn gangster was killed and the fact that Flynn's coat was found in the room with the murdered man was sufficient to hold Mm for the Grand Jury.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

KILLED CRANKING HIS MOTOR TRUCK

THREE OTHERS ARE DEAD

Bank Cashier Is Killed by Arm of Concrete Mixer as He Passes in Auto.

John Borelli, 40 years old, of 2,070 First Avenue, left his motor truck in gear when he jumped out in a garage at 607 East 134th Street, the Bronx, yesterday, and when he started to crank it he was jammed against the rear of another truck and received injuries from which he died soon after in Lincoln Hospital.

At dawn yesterday the body of an unidentified man about 40 years old, who evidently had been killed by an automobile, was found on the Paterson Plank Road just east of Carlstadt, N. J. He was the fourth victim of automobile accidents on that part of the road in the last few months.

Dominick Karenkowich of Roslyn, L. I., was killed near Mineola when the car in which he and William Poposil of Mineola and Peter Karenkowich, a brother, were riding overturned in a ditch. Poposil, the driver was held in $500 bail on a manslaughter charge when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Jones.

Martin Eisenhauer, assistant cashier at the Wheatley Hills Bank, was killed on Post Avenue, Westbury, L. I., when an arm of a concrete mixer struck him on the head as he was passing in an automobile operated by George Hesse.

Edward Jones received injuries from which he died soon after in the Middlesex Hospital when he drove his automobile off the road into a telephone pole near New Brunswick, N. J. Two others in the car were slightly hurt.

Mrs. Belle Chapman, 60 years old, of Pasadena, Cal., who had been temporarily stopping with her sister, Mrs. Charles F. Dwight, 144 East Thirty-eighth Street, was removed in a serious condition to Bellevue Hospital in the afternoon after having been knocked down by a motor truck at Third Avenue and Fortieth Street. The truck was owned by Burns Bros., coal dealers, and operated by Frank McArdle of 544 Tenth Avenue.

In a collision between two cars at Broadway and 240th Street the occupants of one car—Nadya Olyanoza, 23 years old, of 105 Bruce Avenue and Frank Appleloff of 102 Morris Avenue, both of Yonkers—were thrown out and Miss Olyanoza was removed in a serious condition to Fordham Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull. Clarence Ineson of 154 Radford Street, Yonkers, driver of the car, which crashed into the rear of Appleloff's automobile, was held in $1,000 bail for examination on Nov. 21, when he was arraigned on an assault charge before Magistrate Bernard J. Douras in the West Farms Court.

William Duffy, 42 years old, of 338 East Twenty-third Street, was removed in a critical condition to Bellevue Hospital last night from First Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street, where he was run over by an unidentified automobile, the driver of which fled.

Gennaro Caputo, 24 years old, of 784 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, was thrown out of the automobile he was driving at Hook Creek and Rockaway Boulevard, Jamaica, and received a fracture of the right leg and internal injuries. He was removed to Jamaica Hospital.

Ray Trang, 7 years old, was badly cut about the head and body, when he was knocked down and dragged by a motor truck in front of his home at 147-16 Jamaica Avenue, Jamaica. The truck was owned by the Sunset Trucking Company of Brooklyn, and was being operated by Frank Neber of 84 Hendrickson Avenue, Springfield, L. I.

$2,000,000 WILL UPHELD.

Kin of William P. Talbot Loses Suit —Friend Gets Residue.

Supreme Court Justice Callaghan in Brooklyn yesterday directed a jury to return a verdict sustaining the will of William P. Talbot, the founder of the manufacturing firm of Benjamin Moore & Co. The principal contestants were his brother, Alfred Talbot of Seattle, Wash.; a niece, Mrs. Edith Van Saun of 273 Clermont Avenue, and a half-brother, Herbert Dillon of 239 Madison Street, Brooklyn. Mr. Talbot died at 385 Franklin Avenue on Feb. 18, 1923. His estate was estimated at $2,000,000.

Five employes received $5,000 each, seven got $3,000 each and thirty-five others were bequeathed various amounts, according to length of service. Other bequests included the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, Bedford Branch Y. W. C. A., Five Points Mission and the Home for Aged Colored People. Jacob H. Schaffer, a friend, of 161 Henry Street, received 200 shares of stock in Mr. Talbot's firm. The residue went to another friend, Richard G. Jackson of 9,146 Hollis Court, Queens.

Drive for $250,000 Building in Flushing Nets $285,250.

A campaign conducted since Nov. 9 to raise $250,00 for a Young Men's Christian Association building in Flushing, Queens, came to a conclusion last night, when thirty-five teams met in the headquarters of the Good Citizenship League and reported collections totaling $285,250. This is the largest amount ever raised in Queens by popular subscription for any purpose.

Lomax Littlejohn donated $20,000 for a site with 250 foot frontage on Broadway and 150 feet on Bowne Avenue, Flushing. Other contributions ranged from $5,000 to 25 cents.

CALVARY MAKES DENIAL,

Hints That Report of Kellogg Suspensions Were Due to Malice.

Calvary Baptist Church in a statement last night denied published statements that Dr. and Mrs. William Kellogg and Dr. E. La Kellogg had been suspended during the recent controversy within the church.

The statement hinted that "malicious opposition" on the part of the warring element had been responsible for the erroneous publication of their names in newspapers. It also denied any unfairness in the trial of two accused members.

PORTABLE RADIO EXHIBITED

Device at Chicago Show Has Aerial on a Bicycle Rim.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—A portable radio set with its aerial strung around a bicycle rim is one of the exhibits that has been entered in the second annual Chicago radio show, which will open here tomorrow.

The bicycle rim with radio attachment is worn about the shoulders like an Elizabethan ruff. The batteries connected with it are carried in a pendant luncheon box.

Denies Geo. Sunday Suicide Attempt

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 19.—The Rev. William A. Sunday, who today is celebrating his sixty-first birthday, received the following telegram from his son, William, referring to a reported attempt at suicide by another son, George, in Los Angeles:

The Greatest ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA

bargain ever offered

absolutely ends on the above date. While they last we offer the few remaining HANDY VOLUME SETS

at HALF the PRICE of the regular Cambridge Issue

The remarkable demand for the Encyclopaedia Britannica, at the bargain price now offered, compels us to set a final date for the present sale. That date will be December 24.

THREE BINDINGS ALREADY SOLD OUT

Recently we published a warning that our stock of these Handy Volume Sets was going very fast. Since then three of the five beautiful bindings have been sold out, and every day sees a further depletion of our stock.

Every effort will be made to fill orders received before December 24, though there is a question whether the stock now in hand will last to that date. The Handy Volume Issue of the Britannica will never be reprinted. The sets now offered are all that we have left from a recent printing of some 50,000 sets.

To-day you still have your choice of two splendid bindings—Maroon Cloth and Full Brown Sheep. These are the bindings most in demand and of which our original stock was largest. While these last they will be sold at half the price of the Cambridge Issue and in addition you will receive a handsome mahogany finish bookcase, the regular price of which is $20. But you cannot afford to delay, especially if you want a particular binding.

A REVOLUTION IN BOOK-MAKING

The famous Handy Volume Issue achieved a revolution in book-making, and placed the Britannica in more than 250,000 homes throughout the world. Its publication was hailed as a splendid contribution to popular education because it put the Britannica within the reach of everyone.

NOT TO BE REPRINTED

The reason for our decision not to reprint the Handy Volume Issue is this: It has become impossible to maintain both issues of the Britannica in all their many styles of binding without raising the prices all round. And to raise prices would defeat the very object which the Handy Volume Issue was designed to achieve.

LAST DATE—DECEMBER 24

We therefore decided to standardize the Britannica on the basis of the Cambridge Issue. We will never reprint the Handy Volume Issue, and we will sell off the few sets of this Issue remaining in stock at the greatest price reduction it has ever been possible for us to make. These sets are the Twelfth and latest edition and are completely up to date.

THE FINEST CHRISTMAS GIFT YOU COULD MAKE

No better present could be chosen this Christmas than the Encyclopaedia Britannica in the Handy Volume Issue. All the family, from youngest to oldest, will find the Britannica a never-ending source of entertainment and knowledge for years to come. As a gift the Handy Volume Issue now offered is especially attractive, because with each set we include free a handsome mahogany finish bookcase.

But you must act at once if you want to secure a choice of the two fine bindings now on hand. Sign and mail the attached coupon to-day! To-morrow may be too late.

STOKES MAY PAY LUMP SUM TO WIFE

CONFERS WITH BOTH SIDES

Mrs. Stokes Insists That Husband Be Forbidden to Visit Their Children.

An attempt is being made to settle outside of court the differences between W. E. D. Stokes and his wife upon the question of alimony and the custody of their two children. When the case was called before Justice Wasservogel in the Supreme Court yesterday morning the Court and the opposing attorneys had a short conference and later adjourned to the Judge's chambers, where they remained until 5:30 last evening.

Neither Samuel Untermyer, representing Mrs. Stokes, or Isidore Gainsburg, Stokes's counsel, would discuss the outcome of the conference except to admit that they were trying to reach an agreement. Mrs. Stokes, it was learned, insists upon complete supervision of the children, who are in Denver, and does not wish Stokes to have permission to visit them. It was also said that Stokes might pay alimony in a large lump sum, to be determined upon, instead of in monthly payments.

"I have been trying to simplify the issues, realizing that if the case went to court it would probably drag out for days or perhaps weeks," Justice Wasservogel said. "If I can get both sides to agree, and I am very hopeful that I will, the case will be materially shortened when it does go to court. It is my purpose to have it take only one day, and maybe we can dispose of it in fifteen minutes."

Both Stokes and his wife were in court. Each saw Justice Wasservogel separately and did not meet. The attempt to reach a settlement will be continued today.

I. R. T. FIGHTS SIGNAL TEST.

Transit Commission Would Try Block System on Elevated.

Costly delays would result if an experimental block signal system were installed on the Manhattan and Brooklyn elevated lines, Arthur G. Peacock, counsel for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, declared yesterday at a hearing before the Transit Commission. The experimental installation is desired by the commission to determine whether it would be advisable to order the installation of a block signal system on all the elevated railroads.

From examination of James A. Waldron, chief signal engineer of the Interborough, it was brought out that a signal system is maintained now at curves and switches and that elsewhere train engineers are instructed to watch carefully for trains ahead. Mr. Waldron testified that this system had worked satisfactorily.

Mr. Peacock estimated the cost of a block signal system at $100,000 a mile. He added that in the case of the Interborough, with eighty-three miles of elevated trackage, such an expenditure would be a serious handicap to other improvements.

JUDGESHIP IS CONTESTED.

Queens Supreme Court to Pass On 254 Dubious Ballots.

William P. Weiners, who was defeated as independent Democratic candidate for Municipal Judge in Rockaway, Queens, at the last election, gained a point in the Queens Supreme Court yesterday when Justice Leander B. Faber directed the Board of Elections to produce before him tomorrow 254 ballots marked as defective, void or blank by inspectors. Final disposition of these ballots will be decided upon by Justice Faber.

This post, which is for ten years at a salary of $8,000 per year, was won, according to the election officials and the Board of Elections, by Edward Kelly, the regular Democratic candidate, by a plurality of twenty-seven votes.

Mr. Kelly is the son of Justice William J. Kelly of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the Second Department. The successful candidate will have the appointment of clerks and attendants to the new court which is to be established.

HIS SAVINGS STOLEN.

Italian Who Drew $1,700 to Visit Sick Child Is Robbed.

Louis Gueo of 2,057 Hudson Street, Fort Lee, will not go to Italy just now to visit his sick child and his wife and bring them back when the child is better. Gueo saved $60 a month for a long time and had accumulated $1,700 since he came here from Italy a few years ago, leaving his wife and child there. The other day he received a letter telling him that the child was very ill. He decided to go to Italy and drew all of his money out of the bank and put it in a trunk in his room. When he went to get it yesterday to buy his steamship ticket it was all gone. He reported the theft to the police and the twenty or thirty other roomers in the house were questioned, but without result.

KILLED BY ELEVATED TRAIN.

Men and Women Faint When Man Leaps to His Death.

Six women and four men in the rush-hour crowd on the Church Street station of the Brooklyn elevated fainted yesterday morning when a man was killed after jumping from the platform into the path of an express train. Before the motorman, Thomas Higgins, could bring the six-car train to a stop three cars had passed over the body.

Cards found in the pockets of the dead man identified him as Alexander Montgomery, of 1,715 Beverly Road, Flatbush, assistant manager of the British and Foreign Marine Insurance Company, 60 Beaver Street.

MOTHER OF 4 IS MISSING.

Police Also Told Man Has Gone, Leaving Wife and 2 Children.

Mrs. Susan May, 37 years old, of 32 Elm Place, North Bergen, mother of four children, ranging from 8 to 17, has disappeared, taking with her the youngest child, Margaret, according to a report made to the police yesterday by her husband, Michael J. May.

Mrs. Mary Carroll of Eighth Street and Center Avenue, Secaucus, also reported the disappearance of her husband, David Carroll, Tax Collector of Secaucus. Carroll, she said, has left her with their two children.

Woman Dies in Dance Hall.

While at Dancehaus Hall, Jamaica, Mrs. Wallace Benn, 28 years old, of 18 Howard Street, Woodhaven, was taken suddenly ill and died before medical aid was possible. Dr. Teller of Jamaica Hospital pronounced her dead from heart disease.

Securing Quick "Buying Interest" thru Cosmopolitan —and thus obtaining the fullest returns from the advertising dollars of car, tire and accessory manufacturers.

COSMOPOLITAN is essentially a magazine of general interest. It is not limited in its reach as a strictly "class publication" necessarily must be. It is not selective of a single type of individual like a magazine that maintains a rigid editorial policy. Nor is it indiscriminate in its audience like a magazine that has developed the so-called "mass appeal."

Intense general interest—and that alone—each month sells more than 1,100,000 copies of Cosmopolitan at 35 cents apiece.

This tremendous circulation at such a high price indicates clearly that Cosmopolitan has a decided appeal to the best in American taste—to those who have won comfort and material success.

Where Quick Response Is a Factor

It is because of this vital appeal—the undeniable interest that Cosmopolitan inspires in over a million discerning readers—that this great magazine has proved so tremendous a success as a quick-action advertising medium for those whose business lies in the automobile field.

Witness the results that come from the school advertising published in Cosmopolitan. Those who can afford to send their youngsters away to school are certainly in the car-buying class. Every year private residential schools credit this one magazine with enrollments worth considerably in excess of a million dollars.

Could anything be more illuminating as to the automobile purchasing power of Cosmopolitan's great army of readers—or of the definite selling influence of Cosmopolitan's advertising pages on these same discriminating people?

First in Results in the Monthly Field

Cosmopolitan does more than build a background for a product. It produces sales—quick response—tangible results.

This applies not only to car buyers but to dealers as well. For, Cosmopolitan's dealer influence cannot be discounted. Letters that have come to Cosmopolitan from thousands of high grade retailers furnish the best evidence of the high position that this great magazine occupies in their estimation.

These are reasons why advertisers in the automobile and allied industries have come to accept Cosmopolitan as the leading publication in the monthly field—the one outstanding result-getter. A determined, well defined effort in the advertising pages of Cosmopolitan pays the automobile, tire or accessory manufacturer—and pays well. This is an unquestionable fact.

MOST ECONOMICAL
Coverage in the 663 Key Trading Centers

Cosmopolitan's percentage of sales at important distributing points is greater than that of any other national publication. 75.1% of all Cosmopolitan's readers live in America's 663 key centers, whose trading areas blanket the country. Most of the remaining 24.9 percent live in urban territory in the immediate vicinity of these towns.

This means a million or more readers concentrated at the very points through which every car, every tire and every accessory sold in America must go to the consumer. It means a million or more good prospects in towns where automobile and accessory manufacturers should certainly have distribution and where they must hold the distribution they already possess.

Do you wonder that these manufacturers use Cosmopolitan to strengthen, and intensify the newspaper campaigns they conduct in these sales centers?

And do you wonder that they declare that Cosmopolitan covers the field more thoroughly and more economically than any other national publication?

Newsstand Circulation

When you deliberately walk up to a newsstand and produce 35 cents for a magazine you are buying it solely because it interests you. You read it.

Cosmopolitan has the largest voluntary sale of any magazine published in this country—and selling at any price. This explains something of Cosmopolitan's astounding pulling power.

National A. A. U. Committee Refuses for Second Time to Accept Marks.

Nation-Wide Drive Will Be Made to Raise Fund, General Allen Tells Delegates at Detroit.

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—America's athletic supremacy never has been so seriously challenged as by the "tremendous preparations" all Europe is making for the eighth Olympic Games, Major Gen. Henry T. Allen, Vice President of the American Olympic Committee, told delegates to the National Amateur Athletic Union Convention at their annual dinner here tonight. General Allen's address was featured by announcement of a country-wide popular subscription campaign to raise $350,000 to defray the expenses of America's representation to the Olympic Games in Paris next July.

"Behind all of this sport is the question of national physical culture, in which the entire country is interested," General Allen said. "Statistics of the selective draft in showing such a great precentage of our youth who were incapable of carrying a knapsack and rifle under war conditions were an amazing surprise. The question of sport and participation in national and international contests is, therefore, a patriotic one.

"The games will be the most hotly contested of any ever held in this historic competition. The prowess of American athletes will be tested as never before. It, therefore, becomes a matter of American pride to leave nothing undone to encourage the best selection of contestants, and provide transportation and conditions for them."

It was announced at the dinner that the steamship America has been chartered for the use of the American athletes. The chateau and grounds of Prince Murat have been leased, General Allen said, for use of the athletes from this country.

Records Refused by 4—1 Vote.

The Records Committee refused by a vote of 4 to 1 to approve seven records of Charles Paddock, said to have been made by Paddock in 1921. The committee had ruled against these records last year, but they were brought up at this meeting by Robert S. Weaver, President of the Southern Pacific Athletic Association. Reasons given by the committee for refusal to approve the records were that they were made in one race and had not been timed by competent officials. The committee adopted a resolution that hereafter records made at intermediate distances in a race should not be allowed.

Staging of national competitions by the national A. A. U., it was pointed out, will permit the union to get whatever profits are to be derived from the championship games and permit it to carry on its work on a larger scale.

Consideration of recommendations of committees on changes in or amendments to the rules and awards for the Olympic tryouts were made tonight by the delegates.

The national senior singles and doubles handball championship was awarded to Los Angeles and the junior singles and doubles went to Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh also was awarded the Irish four-wall championship.

Chicago was given a blanket award of all indoor aquatic events, including the national pentathlon and the indoor water polo titular tourney.

The national junior indoor track and field championships will be held at Buffalo, while Tonawanda, N. Y., was given the national ten-mile run and the seven-mile walk.

The national senior indoor track championships will be held in New York City in March and the national track and field Olympic tryouts are to be staged at the Harvard Stadium June 14.

Indianapolis will hold the men's senior swimming tryouts next Spring and New York City was awarded the women's tryouts.

All indoor swimming championships were awarded today to the Illinois Athletic Club of Chicago. The events will include the national pentathlon.

Swimming Tryouts in New York.

The Swimming Committee also decided to hold Olympic tryouts for women in New York, June 14, the same day the track and field Olympic tryouts will be held at Harvard Stadium. Swimming tryouts for men will be held June 14 at Indianapolis.

After an hour and a half of debate, the delegates late today adopted an amended resolution permitting recreation departments of municipalities to conduct athletic meets without class distinction between amateur and professional competitors. The amendment to the resolution provides that the meets be held on separate playgrounds, and not interplay.

This will allow amateur athletes to compete with professionals without affecting their amateur status, providing the professional competing is an amateur in the event in which he competes.

An amendment to the rules offered by Gustavus T. Kirby of the Intercollegiate Association of America that an assistant to the President shall be appointed each year, devoting his entire time to the service of the Union, was unanimously adopted.

Abolition of the 25 cents registration fee, which must accompany each application, was voted down. The rule has been in effect thirty-five years.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUN DRAWS BIG ENTRY

27 Colleges Will Start 319 Harriers in Varsity Title Race at Van Cortlandt Park.

With 27 colleges and universities in line and 319 individual runners entered, the field in the fifteenth annual intercollegiate cross-country championship race at Van Cortlandt Park next Monday afternoon will be the largest in the history of the fixture. The race will be conducted under the direction of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America.

As shown in the official announcement made yesterday by Charles W. Crawford of Columbia, Secretary of the association, this year's field is much greater than that of last year, which was a record breaker in itself. The number of teams, 27, is nine more than in 1922 and the 319 entries represent a much larger total than the 256 that enrolled last November.

In the fourth annual freshman championship run on the same day entry records will also fall. The number of teams has been increased from thirteen to eighteen and the entries from 150 to 201.

As an indication of the popularity that the championship run is enjoying, not one of the eighteen colleges that competed last year has withdrawn this season. Nine more have been added, as follows: Boston College, Brooklyn Poly, Fordham, Georgetown, Holy Cross, Johns Hopkins, Lafayette, Pittsburgh and Williams. The other teams in the race will be Bates, Bowdoin, Carnegie Tech, Colby, C. C. N. Y., Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Maine, M. I. T., N. Y. U., Penn State, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Rutgers, Syracuse and Yale.

From the freshman race Harvard and City College have withdrawn, but Bates, Columbia, Dartmouth, Georgetown, Fordham, Pittsburgh and Swarthmore have been added. The remainder of the field will include Cornell, Lafayette, Maine, M. I. T., N. Y. U., Penn State, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Rutgers, Syracuse and Yale.

Japanese Olympic Team Cut To Ten Men Because of 'Quake

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The Japanese Olympic Committee notified the French Olympic Committee today that because of the earthquake the number of athletes to be sent by Japan to next year's Olympic games will be reduced from thirty, as originally intended, to ten. The French committee has received an official notification of Spain's intention to take part in the games.

U. S. OLYMPIC PLANS OUTLINED AT DINNER

Col. Thompson Tells Members of Fencers' League Athletes Will Have All Comforts.

A detailed account of the preparations that have been made for the housing, care and entertainment of members of the Olympic team who will compete at Paris next year was given last night by Colonel Robert M. Thompson, President of the American Olympic Committee, at the dinner given by the Amateur Fencers' League of America at the New York Athletic Club. In stressing the ampleness of the preparations Colonel Thompson declared that while there has been no extravagance the work has been properly done, and that this country is going into the games not only to show its prowess on the athletic field but also "to sell the United States to the world."

Colonel Thompson stated that the members of the team will not suffer the inconveniences that were the lot of our athletes who competed in 1920. They will have a whole ship to themselves, the America, without any overcrowding of sleeping and eating quarters and with ample space for practice on the way over. There will be a deck on which each branch of sport will be able to hold its workouts. The men will arrive in Paris from Cherbourg, not in the middle of the night, as in the past, but during the day, and will be met by automobiles owned by American residents of Paris and will be driven to their quarters.

The American team, Colonel Thompson announced, will be quartered at the Château de Roquencourt, owned by the Prince of Murat. It is located twenty miles from Paris, between St. Cloud and St. Germaine. The grounds cover eighty acres, and on them will be built a series of ten-room huts. In each room will be placed two beds, with shelves for clothing and other conveniences. The lavatories will be fitted up with sufficient showers, and plenty of hot water will be provided. The grounds will be lighted, and electricity will be provided in the rooms, which have been planned with an eye toward making them as cool as possible and obtaining the best air circulation.

To Have American Cook.

It was hoped, said Colonel Thompson, to have the cooking done by French chefs, but their unfamiliarity with American foods makes it desirable to have the cooking done by American cooks and they will be taken along. Unusual care has been taken to look after the entertainment of the athletes. The fencers will arrive on June 26, and will have three days in which to prepare themselves, as the Olympic Committee has promised Colonel Thompson that members of the United States fencing team will not be called upon until the second day. During these three days the fencers will have the opportunity to visit Versailles, Paris, St. Cloud, St. Germaine and the battlefields. Automobile tours to the battlefields also will be arranged.

Entertainments of various sorts and moving pictures will be provided each night and every night at dinner, Colonel Thompson announced; it is expected that the Americans will have with them at least forty of the athletes of other countries. This is in keeping with the progress of selling the United States to the rest of the world. "We are pretty badly misunderstood on the Continent," declared the Colonel, "and you men have the honor of selling the United States to the world. At least one athlete of the forty will be at each table and before the games are over every foreign athlete, men and women both, will have been our guest.

"Also, two or three times a week there will be a dignity dinner, to which we will ask the Chairmen of the various committees, representative Americans in France and the winners of the day. The important thing for us to remember is that we must be men of not only good arms and legs but of good hearts and heads also, men of whom we can be proud as American citizens. If we lose, let us lose like gentlemen. Don't lose if you can help it, but if you must lose, lose like gentlemen."

May Take 100 Extra Men.

The Colonel announced a plan under consideration to take in addition to the regular members of the team, 100 athletes who just fail to qualify in the tryouts for the various branches of sport. As the team will have the whole ship to itself, there will be extra room, and those who were just nosed out will be offered the opportunity to go over under the same conditions as the members of the team for a cash payment that will probably be around $500. This sum will cover all their expenses in France.

At the dinner, in addition to Colonel Thompson, were Colonel A. G. Mills of the American Olympic Committee, who praised the work of Colonel Thompson abroad; Dr. Graham M. Hammond of the Olympic Committee and President of the A. F. L. A., who was toastmaster at the dinner; Henry Breckinridge, Leon Schoonmaker, Dr. C. Bradford Fraley and J. Brookes Parker of Philadelphia, all members of the last American Olympic fencing team; John Allaire, Vice President of the A. F. L. A.; W. Scott O'Connor, Secretary of the league and President of the Fencers' Club; Dr. James B. Clemens, noted fencing patron; Herbert Tyyeffort, President of the J. Sanford Saltus Fencing Club; C. B. O'Connor, Chairman of the Fencing Committee of the N. Y. A. C., who was in charge of the arrangements for the dinner; Lieutenant M. C. Patello of Annapolis, John Dimond of West Point and a score of prominent local fencers.

CAMPBELL IN TRAINING.

Former Yale Middle-Distance Runner to Represent N. Y. A. C.

Tom Campbell, former Yale middle-distance runner, will represent the New York A. C. in future open A. A. U. competition, according to information received yesterday. Campbell, who is now attending Columbia University Law School, is working out with Walter Higgins, Mercury Foot wearer, at South Field, where the pair jog about the cinderpath swathed in heavy training togs. Campbell, it is said, is training with a view to seeking a place on the American Olympic team.

Higgins intends to specialize in the mile and will engage in longer races only when called upon to defend trophies now in his possession because of legs he has scored on them in previous competition.

AMATEURS WILL BOX.

Intercity Tourney Will Open at Garden Tomorrow Night.

Many of the amateur boxers of the metropolitan district who aspire to championships are expected to compete in the finals of the intercity amateur boxing tournament which will be held for the benefit of the Masonic Free Hospital Fund under the auspices of the Metropolitan A. A. U. in Madison Square Garden tomorrow and Thursday nights. Preliminary bouts will be conducted tomorrow night and the finals on Thursday. Paul Gelotta, district lightweight champion, is one of the stars entered for the intercity competitions. He will compete in the 135-pound class against the foremost amateur boxers of Pittsburgh, Boston and New Haven.

WANT IN MEMORIAM TO RACE AT BOWIE

TO MAKE EVENT FIXTURE

Southern Maryland Association Plans Yearly $10,000 Special for Leading Three-Year-Olds.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 19.—In place of a Zev-My Own match, a $10,000 special, in which all the greatest of the season's three-year-olds, including In Memoriam, Homestretch and Rialto, will be invited to compete, is in the making for Bowie Wednesday, Nov. 28, or Friday, Nov. 30. Announcement to that effect came tonight from the management of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association.

Carl Wiedemann, owner of In Memoriam, was sent a telegram tonight telling of plans for the big event and extending him an invitation to bring the winner of the $50,000 Latonia championship East for the struggle. A like invitation will be extended to H. P. Whitney, to whom Rialto belongs, tomorrow. H. Alterman, whose silks Homestretch bears, is already on the grounds at Bowie, while Admiral Cary T. Grayson, owner of My Own, and S. C. Hildreth, Zev's trainer, have expressed a favorable attitude toward such an event.

Decision to replace the proposed match with a special which would become a permanent Fall fixture at Bowie came after it was found that, so late in the season, the former might cause grave difficulty inasmuch as Admiral Grayson insists upon a fast track for My Own. Should heavy rains come up around Thanksgiving, after which it was proposed to stage the match, the going might remain heavy until the termination of the meeting, Dec. 1. In consequence it was decided to arrange a special, not a play-or-pay affair in which a horse could be withdrawn should its owner feel that conditions justified, but a sweepstakes, with everybody having an entry putting up $10,000 a corner. Assuming that Zev, My Own, In Memoriam, Homestretch and Rialto were to start, the race would be worth $60,000, including, of course, the $10,000 to be posted by the association.

Hildreth, who was reported as being willing to run Zev against My Own at Bowie, declared tonight that he was not ready to agree definitely to such a race until he learned more fully of the particulars. He asserted, however, that Zev had arrived at Bowie today from Churchill Downs none the worse for wear from the thrilling race Saturday, in which he beat In Memoriam by a nose, and that were conditions suitable he would lose no time in accepting.

MAN O' WAR'S COLTS AND FILLIES LISTED

Riddle and Jeffords Stables Own 18 Yearlings—Miss Daingerfield Has Charge of 13 Foals.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 19.—Thirteen colts, all foals of 1923, the get of Man o' War, are at Haylands Farm, in charge of Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield, while eighteen yearlings by the same sire are on stock farms or in stables of their owners. The list, given out today by Miss Daingerfield, includes the following by Man o' War, all the property of either Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Riddle or Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jeffords of Philadelphia:

Colts—Out of Understudy, Christmas Star, Miss Elliot, Miss Starlight, Thrasher, Flirtatious, Star Fancy, and Ursula Emma.

Fillies—Out of Bataenoea, The Nurse, Masquerader, Shady and Highest Appeal.

Yearlings by Man o' War include the following, owned either by Mr. and Mrs. Jeffords or Mr. and Mrs. Riddle:

Colts—Out of Lady Comfy, Understudy, Collette, Star Fancy, Shady and Bataenoea. Fillies—Out of Smoky Lamp, Santissima, The Nurse, Thrasher and Bathing Girl.

Other owners of the get of Man o' War are James Maddox, colt out of Sea Nami; United States Army Remount Association, filly out of Star Puss; Mrs. Payne Whitney, filly out of Ballot; George Widener, Philadelphia, filly out of Corn Tassel; B. B. Jones, filly out of Honey Girl; Gifford Cochran, New York, colt out of Fairy Wand; August Belmont, New York, filly out of Meddlesome III.

The Jeffords and Riddle colts are wintering at Berlin, Md., while the others are on the farms of their respective owners.

CALLS McTIGUE CHAMPION.

Jacobs Says Irish Boxer Still Holds World's Title.

In is capacity as manager of Mike McTigue, Irish middleweight, despite the latter's court action to compel an accounting of all finances involved in bouts since McTigue's return here from Ireland, Joe Jacobs yesterday protested the action of the International Boxing Federation in refusing to recognize McTigue as world's light-heavyweight champion. Jacobs insisted that when McTigue won the title legitimately when he gained a decision over Battling Siki, conqueror of Georges Carpentier, in a bout in Dublin, Ireland, last St. Patrick's Day.

"McTigue and myself are having some difficulties right now, but that does not alter the fact that Mike is world's light-heavyweight champion," said Jacobs. "No boxing federation can take that away from him unless he is beaten by a better man in the ring. Mike won the title beyond question when he defeated Siki in Dublin. The only legitimate grounds for refusing to recognize McTigue as champion would involve a question on weight, and this element doesn't enter into the matter with respect to Mike. He never weighed more than 165 pounds in any bout, so that, regardless of whether Siki made the weight for the Dublin bout, Mike was under the 175-pound limit and won the title when he defeated Siki."

O'BRIEN TO BOX HERMAN.

Lightweights Will Meet at Commonwealth Club Saturday.

Tommy O'Brien, Milwaukee lightweight who has scored a number of successes in bouts in the Middle West, will make his local début at the Commonwealth Sporting Club Saturday night when he is scheduled to tackle Willie Herman of Newark in the main twelve-round bout. O'Brien comes to this city with a good record, including victories over Pinkey Mitchell and Johnny Mendelsohn, as well as a knockout triumph over Elino Flores, Philippine lightweight who succumbed to his punch in two rounds. Herman is one of the most rugged of the squad of local lightweights.

Larry Estridge and Willie Walker, rival negro middleweights, are slated to clash in the semi-final bout of twelve rounds.

Stanley to Lead Union.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 19.—C. Leonard Stanley of Albany tonight was elected captain of the Union College football team for 1924. Stanley, fullback for two years, has never been out of the game. He is also a guard on the basketball team.

Army-Navy Officials Believe President Will Attend Game

Officials of the Army and Navy are still holding out hope that President Coolidge will attend the service game Saturday at the Polo Grounds. James J. Tierney, Secretary of the Giants, said yesterday that instructions had come from the White House to hold the box reserved for the President, and there was also the suggestion from Washington that the President would like to have the seats of the box raised a bit so that the occupants would have a clear view of the proceedings. Tierney interpreted this as meaning that Mr. Coolidge himself intends to be present. The Giants' Secretary also denied that the President had declined the invitation from the service officials, as had been stated in recent Washington dispatches. Mr. Coolidge, it was said, has definitely decided to be at the game.

RACING TO START AT BOWIE TODAY

Prince George Handicap Will Feature Opening of Last Eastern Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 19.—The eleven-day Autumn meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association will begin at Prince George Park tomorrow afternoon. It will be the last race meeting of the year in the northern and eastern sections of the continent, and at its conclusion horsemen and horses will migrate to more congenial climes for the racing at New Orleans, Tijuana and Havana.

There is every prospect of excellent racing here, as the Southern Maryland course now ranks with the older tracks, and there will be plenty of horses here and important stakes will be contested.

General public interest naturally centres in the proposed sweepstakes at a mile and a quarter between the Rancocas Stables Zev, fresh from his triumph by a nose over In Memorium at Churchill Downs last Saturday, and Admiral Cary T. Grayson's three-year-old My Own. Present indications are that this race for $10,000 a side and $10,000 added by General Manager James F. O'Hara will be the feature of the card next Saturday afternoon, Nov. 24, or Thanksgiving Day.

If the race is run and a fast track is indicated it is probable that there will be a great outpouring of racing enthusiasts from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and cities more distant. Not in many years has partisanship spirit run so high over the relative merits of two horses and the opportunity of witnessing a decision of the question of superiority undoubtedly will attract a record crowd at Prince George Park next Saturday afternoon.

Big Stakes Listed.

Aside from the sweepstakes the regular book of the meeting contains two stakes with $10,000 in added money and two of $7,500 each. The big money events will be the Southern Maryland and the Thanksgiving Handicaps. The former is for two-year-olds over the mile route, while the latter is for three-years-olds and upward at a mile and three-sixteenth.

The two events with $7,000 added will be the Prince George, which is a dash of a mile and a furlong for three-year-olds, and the Endurance Handicap, at a mile and exclusively for two-year-olds.

While Zev and My Own head the lists of nominations in the races for three-year-olds and over, it is not expected that they will be seen under silks here except in the sweepstakes. My Own has been galloping at Benning and is reported as being ready for another battle with the Rancocas star.

It is probable that the Rancocas Stable will be represented here, and it will be the first appearance of the Sinclair silks at Bowie. In addition to Zev and the older horses of the string there will be the two-year-olds Mad Play, Stanwix, Bracadale, Eaglet, Lolanda, Tollma, Tester and Star Drift. There is great interest here in the appearance of Mad Play, which forced Wise Counsellor to a mark of 1:37 2-5 to win by only a neck at the end of the mile at Churchill Downs last Saturday.

My Own Alloted Top Weight.

The featured number on tomorrow's card is the Prince George Handicap, for which thirteen are named overnight, with My Own alloted top weight of 127 pounds. Shuffle Along and Flagstaff are rated at 114 pounds and Dunlin one pound less. Col. Thatcher is in at 112 and King Solomon's Seal and Homestretch at 111.

The entries follow:

Defeats Brandt in Six-Round Bout in Brooklyn.

Charlie Goodman got the decision over Dutch Brandt, Brooklyn's veteran featherweight, last night in one of the six-round bouts which featured the boxing program at the Broadway Exhibition Association, Brooklyn. Joey Silvers and Jackie Coburn were rivals in another six-round encounter, which ended with Silvers gaining the decision. In a third six-round battle Sammy Blenfeld was awarded the verdict over Emil Paluso in an interesting bantamweight battle.

FIRPO'S COMPLAINT IS RIDICULED HERE

Few Take Seriously Argentine's Statement of Treatment He Received in U. S.

MULDOON IN SHARP RETORT

Says Luis Should Show Gratitude for the Many Times He Had Helped Boxer.

Published accounts of Luis Angel Firpo's complaint against the treatment he had received in the United States, made upon his return to his native Buenos Aires, were accepted here yesterday with little seriousness. Generally, the quoted reports of Firpo's great relief at returning home from a country where he made a sizable fortune, and his criticisms were ignored. Those who did discuss the message which Firpo delivered to his countrymen did so jokingly. Some, indeed, regarded the reported tirade of Luis as merely the forerunner of many such stories calculated to work up additional interest in another clash between Jack Dempsey and the Argentine heavyweight.

One veteran follower of boxing summed up the general attitude as follows:

"Luis got a long count on his first trip to the canvas. Now he's sore because he didn't get twenty seconds every time he went down. Giving him long counts every time would have carried the bout over beyond midnight."

Chairman William Muldoon of the State Athletic Commission was not at all disturbed over Firpo's allegation that "justice was denied him" after Muldoon had personally guaranteed in advance that it would be a "fair fight and he (Firpo) would get justice." Firpo's published allegation that one of his seconds was "forcibly held back when he attempted to enter a claim of foul during the fight," and his complaint that he was 'on the floor only eight seconds when counted out were emphatically denied by Muldoon, who asserted that enough State Athletic Commission deputies and special policemen were about the ringside, and particularly near the corners of the boxer, to see that everything in connection with the bout was conducted in a manner which left no room for complaint. The appointment of officials and their conduct during the bout was above question, Muldoon said. In this Muldoon was upheld by Promoter Tex Rickard, who asserted he had special policemen stationed in Firpo's corner expressly for the purpose of protecting the South American and his handlers from any outside interference. Nobody who witnessed the happenings in the ring and about the battle platform could be found who saw anybody "forcibly" restrain Horatio Lavalle, the second who was said by Firpo to be the victim of the alleged restraint. The complaint on the counting Rickard termed ridiculous.

Got Square Deal, Says Muldoon.

"I take Firpo's blast as I do other criticisms of a similar nature which have no foundation in fact," said Chairman Muldoon at his home in Purchase, N. Y. "Such outbursts are not to be taken seriously. If you started to worry about what every boxer or his manager said, you'd have no time for anything but worrying.

"Firpo never had a better friend in this country than I. He knows that better than anybody else. Events which happened while Firpo was here will bear me out in this statement. When an attempt was made to tie him up to a contract last Spring when he returned here, I advised him to be careful about everything and anything he signed, and he was. Long before that, however, I went to the front for him. I remember two specific instances when I exerted every influence to help him. I straightened out some difficulty he experienced with his fight against Jack Herman in Ebbets Field, and when the Pioneer A. C. threatened to bring him into court on a charge that the club had a prior contract for his services I stood by him all the time.

"I remember assuring him that he would receive every protection within the power of the commission in his bout with Dempsey. There was a lot of propaganda in advance of the bout that Firpo would not be accorded a fair and square chance. Somebody appealed to me, and I assured Firpo he need have no fear of not having the same chance accorded every boxer competing under the commission's jurisdiction. It was unfortunate and, I think, a handicap that Firpo surrounded himself with a coterie of seconds and trainers who could not speak the English language and who had no idea whatever of the proper way in which to condition a boxer. This was awkward, but the wishes of Firpo were respected in this particular, as they were in every other respect.

Should Be Grateful.

"Firpo should be grateful to the commission and to me. He has no cause whatever for complaint on the treatment he received from us. Ingratitude, however, is not a new thing in boxing. There is nothing unusual in such outbursts as this, when is only another illustration of the ingratitude which is generally associated with the work of every boxer when he gets to the top. You can do everything in your power for him when he is climbing and he is appreciative. But once a boxer gets to the top, or near the top, nothing that is done for him seems to warrant gratitude. It would be a great thing for the sport if a spirit of appreciation could be impressed upon boxers individually, but then most things that are best for boxing and boxers are ignored. I don't really blame Firpo for these things he has said. In few cases is the boxer to blame for such outbursts. Generally the responsible parties are found in a clinging collection of alleged friends of the boxer who have no difficulty in making him do and say things before he fully realize the importance of these things."

Promoter Rickard expressed doubt as to whether Firpo really made the statements credited to him, and added that he expected to read of a denial by the "Wild Bull" in a day or two.

"I don't believe Firpo ever said any such things," said Rickard. "I know he never complained to me when he was collecting his money on any time after the bout before he left for South America. The only ground Firpo had for criticism was the failure of Dempsey to go to a far neutral corner when Firpo was knocked down. But he violated this rule himself when Dempsey was knocked out of the ring by standing almost directly above the spot at which Dempsey left the ring. His charge that he was cheated in the count on the knockout is ridiculous."

WANTS RETURN BATTLE.

Dundee Negotiating for Title Bout With Bernstein.

Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion, has temporarily discarded his plans for a boxing junket through the West, his manager, Jimmy Johnston, announced yesterday. Dundee has contracted for several matches and has others under consideration, the majority of them to be held in the East. The titleholder is negotiating for a return battle for the 130-pound championship belt against Jack Bernstein of Yonkers, who won the belt from him last Summer. It is planned to hold this match at Madison Square Garden on Dec. 21.

Dundee plans to return to the ring on Thanksgiving Day night in a ten-round bout to a decision against Al Shubert in New Bedford, Mass. On Dec. 3 he is slated to exchange thumps with Sid Barbarian, Michigan lightweight, in a ten-round no-decision contest at Detroit. An attempt is now being made to arrange a bout for Dundee in St. Louis on Dec. 11, and on Dec. 17 the titleholder is scheduled to box Teddy De Marco in a ten-round battle at the Motor Square Garden, Pittsburgh. In addition to the prospect of a return battle with Bernstein, Dundee also has under consideration a bout against Danny Kramer in Philadelphia on Dec. 25, and a clash against Eddie (Kid) Wagner in the Quaker City on Jan. 1.

SIKI AND NORFOLK WILL BOX TONIGHT

AMERICAN THE FAVORITE

Odds of 7 to 5 Are Quoted—Promoter Rickard Reports Large Increase in Seat Sale.

Followers of boxing in this country will get their first glimpse of Battling Siki in action tonight. The Senegalese, who attracted attention through his knockout victory over Georges Carpentier, is scheduled for a fifteen-round bout against Kid Norfolk, formidable Baltimore negro light-heavyweight, at Madison Square Garden. The boxers have agreed to make 175 pounds at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the bout is being advertised as for the colored light-heavyweight championship.

The weight arrangement is above question, but not so much can be said of the "championship" flover which is claimed for the contest. The colored light-heavyweight championship belt which Promoter Tex Rickard donated when he first opened the Garden to boxing has been won outright by Norfolk. The Baltimorean, however, lost a decision to a rival negro light-heavyweight in his last match in Boston.

Regardless of its other elements, the battle will have an international flavor and will serve to introduce Siki to American ring followers. It promises to be a satisfactory encounter. It is expected, therefore, that a large crowd will attend the affair. An increase yesterday in the ticket sale, which, incidentally, has been comparatively light, was accepted by Promoter Tex Rickard as indicating a stimulation of interest in the match. Box office attendants reported a busier day than any since the match first was announced.

Norfolk Is Favorite.

Interest in the outcome of the encounter is wide. Norfolk probably will enter the ring the favorite at odds of 7 to 5. He was quoted at this price yesterday and those who generally wager on boxing bouts decided the odds would probably remain stationary. Prior to yesterday as good as 2 to 1 on Norfolk was said to be available in some places.

Admirers of the Baltimore negro are confident that his speed, cleverness and boxing skill will bring him victory over Siki. Allowances are made by Norfolk's supporters for the fact that Siki is an unknown quantity with respect to his boxing ability, as far as Americans are concerned. He is judged solely on the strength of reports from his training camp.

These reports emphasize that Siki is a rugged, heavy-hitting man, capable of absorbing punishment and boasting destructive punching power. They also emphasize that Siki has shown practically no defense; that he is "wide open." Norfolk's supporters are proceeding on the theory that the Baltimorean can outbox any rival who has not a good defense, and are wagering accordingly.

Both boxers are reported in excellent condition after long sieges of training. Both are said to be confident of the result, too. Siki plans to come to this city from Summit, N. J., his training ground, this morning. He will weigh in with Norfolk at the Garden at 2 o'clock.

May Get License Today.

The State Athletic Commission will act this afternoon on Siki's application for a license, action on which was delayed until Siki demonstrated that he would discard his eccentricities long enough to get into fighting condition. It is understood the commission has been impressed with Siki's training methods and will act favorably on the application today.

Siki.		Norfolk.
24	Age	28
173	Weight	175
5-10½	Height	5.10
38½	Chest, Normal	38
43¼	Chest, Expended	40
13½	Forearm	13¼
7½	Wrist	7
22½	Thigh	22
14¼	Calf	14½
31	Waist	31
15	Neck	16
8	Ankle	8

In the semi-final bout of twelve rounds Eddie Burnbrook and Harry Galfund, welterweights, will be the principals. A six-round bout and a four-round encounter will precede the semi-final.

NABLE OUTPOINTS FASANO.

East Side Boxer Wins Judges' Decision at Uptown Lenox S. C.

Sammy Nable, East Side bantamweight, last night added Frankie Fasano to his list of defeated opponents when the pair clashed in the main bout of twelve rounds at the Uptown Lenox Sports Club. Nable received the decision when the final bell had ended hostilities. Nable's speed and agressiveness, together with his accurate hitting, won the decision for him.

In the semi-final bout of twelve rounds Sid Terris, East Side featherweight, got the decision over Bud Dempsey, rugged Harlem boxer, after a spirited encounter. The cleverness of Terris proved too great a handicap for Dempsey to overcome.

DUANE RESUMES TRAINING.

Begins Work for Bout With Jerome at Garden Friday.

Carl Duane, Bronx featherweight, yesterday resumed training for his scheduled fifteen-round bout against Frankie Jerome, a Bronx rival, which will be held at Madison Square Garden Friday night. The contest will be a return engagement. In their last scrap Duane and Jerome fought a twelve-round draw. Duane has established training quarters in Summit, N. J., where he is engaged in reducing his weight and sharpening his punching faculties. The Italian is assisted in his training by Nick Quagerelli, Joe Scappetone and Frankie Ritchie. Jerome is working for the bout at Red Bank, N. J., where his training is supervised by Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, who is a fellow-mate of the Bronx lad. Jerome is said to be under the required weight for the contest, which is 122 pounds.

Another return bout on the Friday card at the Garden will bring together Willie Davis and Mickey Brown. They are scheduled for the twelve-round semi-final. Nat Fleicus will engage Jack Snyder in a six-round bout. The opening four-round preliminary will be between Frankie Ritchie and Jimmy Hutchinson.

VINCENTINI IS AMBITIOUS.

Chilean Lightweight Plans to Meet Leading Boxers Here.

Luis Vincentini, Chilean lightweight, who is seeking to emulate the career of Luis Angel Firpo, is proceeding slowly with his education in American rings. Victorious in his first match since coming here, Vincentini now is preparing for his second bout, which will bring him against Herbert Sorenson at one of the local clubs Saturday night.

Vincentini plans to engage Shamus O'Brien, Yonkers veteran, following the Sorenson bout, and if the Chilean boxer vanquishes O'Brien he will seek matches against the foremost lightweights of the country. It is said that Promoter Tex Rickard has promised Vincentini a match at Madison Square Garden just as soon as he improves his boxing form through matches at smaller clubs.

TO CUT DOWN FIELD IN NATIONAL OPEN

AWARD P. G. A. TOURNEY

Event Will Be Decided at French Lick Springs, Ind., Sept. 14-20—Sargent Re-elected President.

The days of unwieldy fields competing in the national open golf championship are over. The Professional Golfers' Association of America, at its annual meeting here yesterday, took drastic steps to cut down the number of competitors in the annual event. It was decided to hold two sectional qualifying rounds, one in the East and the other in the West, to determine eligibility to the event.

This action, together with the awarding of next year's P. G. A. event, a change in the method of playing the P. G. A. championship and the election of officers for 1924, were the important questions decided. French Lick Springs, Ind., will be the scene of next year's P. G. A. tourney.

Sites for the qualifying rounds for the open event were not announced, but it is generally believed that one will be played in New York and the other in Chicago. The qualifying round will be a thirty-six-hole medal play affair and the thirty-nine low qualifiers and those tying for fortieth place in each section will be eligible to compete in the open championship. Dates were not set, but it was announced that the two tests would be held on the Wednesday and Thursday prior to the championship, which will be held either in Detroit or in Pittsburgh.

For several years the field of contestants for the open championship has increased to such an extent that three days were hardly sufficient for the qualifying rounds. This not only carried the tournament through an entire week, but, as happened at Skokie two years ago, when rain caused the calling off of hostilities for a day, it meant a long wait between for those who qualified in the first day's lot.

The action of the P. G. A. will cut the field in the 1924 championship proper down to approximately a hundred players. This year, at Inwood, it was in excess of 300, forcing many to start early in the morning in order to enable the late starters to complete their rounds before darkness.

A year ago the P. G. A. requested the United States Golf Association to adopt such a qualifying plan, but the officials of the latter organization turned the plan down after partially sanctioning it and after the courses had been selected for the tests.

The P. G. A. championship at French Lick Springs on Sept. 14 to 20, inclusive, will also be preceded by qualifying rounds, as was done this year. The same sectional groupings used this year will be in effect next and a total of 64 will be eligible for championship play.

But the 1924 event will open with a 36-hole medal play competition by means of which the field of 64 will be reduced to 32, which will be followed by match play rounds at 36 holes. This year there were a number of last-minute withdrawals of players who had qualified in several sections and the result was that a number of local players who had failed in the qualifying test managed to get into the championship proper, some of them going quite a distance toward the finish. The new medal-play plan will, it is expected, eliminate the weaker players and make the match play portion of the championship more interesting.

George Sargent of the Scioto Country Club, Columbus, Ohio, was re-elected President of the association for the third term. Other officers re-elected were Jack Mackie, Inwood Country Club, N. Y., Vice President, and Ernest Anderson, Lawrence Park Golf Club, N. Y., Secretary and Treasurer. Stewart Gardner of Exmoor, Chicago, elected to the Vice Presidency, was the only new official added to the list.

NEWTON VICTOR AT GOLF.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 19.—F. C. Newton of Brookline, North and South champion and medalist in the Carolina tournament, came through the first round of the match play at Pinehurst today by virtue of a one-sided victory over F. T. Keating of New York. The Brookline star won, 7 and 5. Keating started with a rush, winning the first two holes, but he lost six of the next seven and did not thereafter regain any of the lost ground.

The closest match was between Donald Parson of Youngstown and John D. Armstrong of Shenecossett, which the Youngstown man won at the second extra hole.

The summary:

First Sixteen—C. W. Dalbel defeated P. B. O'Brien, Detroit, 7 and 5; J. L. Weller, Hamilton, defeated Eric Thomson, Rothesay, 2 up; Thomas Morrison, Oakmont, defeated E. R. Sharman, Youngstown, 1 up; F. C. Newton, Brookline, defeated Charles Sebring, 5 and 4; H. B. Davis, Holyoke, defeated C. M. Rudel, Montreal, 4 and 2; W. E. Wells, Newell, defeated N. S. Hurd, Hudson River, 4 and 3; Donald Parson, Youngstown, defeated J. D. Armstrong, Shenecossett, 1 up (20 holes).

DECIDES NOT TO PURCHASE.

Soundview Golf Club Disposes of Question at Annual Meeting.

After considerable deliberation the members of the Soundview Golf Club, Great Neck, L. I., have decided to discontinue negotiations for the purchase of the property of which the club is located. This decision was announced after the annual meeting which was held last week at the clubhouse. The present lease for the property still has seven years to run, and the members decided to postpone the question of purchase for the present time at least.

Edward B. Donaldson, was elected President of the organization for 1924, the other officers being Frederick P. Byington, Vice President; Percy W. Thirtle, Treasurer; Elmer Pearson, Secretary. Clude Murray, Roy Ferguson, Pearson and Bylington were elected members of the Board of Governors for the term of three years, and George B. Smith, A. W. Wright and Murray were appointed Chairmen of the Green House and Tournament Committees.

The report of the Treasurer showed that the club has enjoyed a prosperous year and that the active membership at the present time was 325. It is expected that the report on the financial condition of the club at the end of the calendar year will show an improvement of approximately $10,000.

NO DARTMOUTH-TIGER GAME

Green Announces Football Date for 1924 Could Not Be Set.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 19.—In order to allay campus excitement due to reports that Dartmouth was to be admitted next year to a football "big four" with Harvard, Yale and Princeton, the Athletic Council tonight announced that there would be no game with Princeton on the Green's 1924 schedule.

Negotiations were carried on between Dartmouth and Princeton, but it was not possible to arrange a date for a game in 1924.

Sets Motorcycle Speed Mark, Traveling 130 Miles an Hour

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—A new world's motorcycle speed record was made near here this afternoon when John Wolverton, motorcycle captain of the Ace Racing Team, driving his four-cylinder cycle over a straightaway course of one mile, attained a speed of 130 miles per hour. Electrical timing devices were used in the test, which was witnessed by officials of the Motorcycle and Allied Trades.

BILLIARD OFFICIALS TO ACT ON DEFIANCE

President of League Says Greenleaf Will Be Punished if He Plays Shoemaker.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Officials and franchise owners of the National Championship Pocket Billiard League were today expressing deep concern, following an emphatic statement by Ralph Greenleaf, world's champion pocket billiard player, that he would play his proposed match with J. Howard Shoemaker, former amateur champion, in New York the last three days of this week.

"I shall play the match against Shoemaker," Greenleaf said today. "That is final."

When Greenleaf some time ago made known his intention to play against Shoemaker, he stirred the league officials, and Joe Mayer, managing director of the Hudson Academy, which Greenleaf represents in the league, declared that he could not play in any but league matches.

Greenleaf defeated St. Jean of Minneapolis, 100 to 81, in a league match here today.

Dwyer Issues Statement.

If Ralph Greenleaf, the world's pocket billiard champion, goes through with his plan to play J. Howard Shoemaker of New York, the former amateur champion, in a special match at the Strand Billiard Academy on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, he will face punishment at the hands of the officials of the National Championship Pocket Billiard League, according to a statement made by Frank A. Dwyer, President of the league, yesterday.

William A. Rosenbaum, proprietor of the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy, who holds the Manhattan franchise, yesterday threatened to bring injunction proceedings to stop the playing of the match.

President Dwyer's statement follows:

"Ralph Greenleaf's act in threatening to play this match with J. Howard Shoemaker, in defiance of the National Championship Pocket Billiard League, evidently assumes the attitude that he is bigger than the game.

"However, no official action can be taken in Greenleaf's case until he actually goes through with the match. Personally, I have received no official notice from him that he plans to play.

"I have heard from various sources, however, that Greenleaf expects to play this match, in defiance of the league rules and in violation of his contract with Joe Mayer, President of the Hudson Recreation Company, which holds the Philadelphia franchise and which Greenleaf represents in the league.

"Rule 9, governing the operation of the league, and the one which Greenleaf would be guilty of violating, reads as follows:

"'A player shall not play billiards in any room, club or place other than that in which a National Championship Pocket Billiard League game is to be played thirty days prior to the opening of the tournament, October, 1923, nor at any time during the progress of the season's schedule, without the consent in writing from the Secretary, approved by the owner of the franchise.'

"Personally, I do not think that Mr. Greenleaf would be foolish enough to jeopardize his future in billiards by playing this match, the monetary consideration of which would be insignificant in comparison to the large prize fund donated by the National Championship Pocket Billiard League and in which he also is sure to participate. However, until Mr. Greenleaf actually takes part in this match I hesitate to state what action will be taken by the league."

YOST UNAWARE OF BREAK.

Denies Story That Wolverines and Badgers Will Sever Relations.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 19.—If there is to be a break in relations between the Universities of Wisconsin and Michigan, Fielding H. Yost, athletic director of Michigan, knows nothing of it and feels that any such action would be a mistake.

"I know nothing of any possible break," declared Mr. Yost when asked as to the authenticity of a rumor that the game of last Saturday would be followed by a separation between the two schools. "Michigan and Wisconsin have a game scheduled for Ann Arbor next year and I am certain that the incident in the football game at Madison Saturday will not interfere with thirty years of pleasant relationships between the two schools."

The rumor started after Wisconsin football followers last Saturday took exception to a decision of the referee by which Michigan gained the touchdown that won the game for the Wolverines.

TO PLAY COLUMBIA FIVE.

Colgate Schedules Game With Blue and White for Dec. 29.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth and Syracuse appear on the Colgate University basketball schedule this year, according to announcement today. The schedule provides that the games be played in larger cities as facilities at Hamilton are inadequate.

The Maroon will meet Columbia at Utica, Dec. 29; Cornell at Rochester, Jan. 2; Dartmouth at Utica, Jan. 5; Syracuse at Hamilton, Feb. 9, and Syracuse at Syracuse in a return game, March 5.

The contest with Columbia will be the first court encounter between the institutions since 1906.

STEVENS NAMES SCHEDULE.

Will Open 1924 Football Season Against C. C. N. Y. Eleven.

Next year's opponents for Stevens Tech on the gridiron already have been lined up by Manager Martin, who announced the team's schedule yesterday. The season will open at home with C. C. N. Y., which, with Delaware and Hamilton, will be new on the schedule. The big home game will be with Rensselaer. The schedule follows:

Oct. 4, C. C. N. Y.; 11, Haverford; 18, Hamilton; 25, Swarthmore; Nov. 1, Delaware; 8, Massachusetts Aggies; 15, Rensselaer.

Flores Outpoints Jamito.

MANILA, Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—Elino Flores, who recently boxed in the United States, has been awarded a decision over Silvino Jamito, light weight champion of the Orient, in a fifteen-round bout. The decision does not carry the title, as Flores was overweight.

To Stop Football Gambling.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 19.—Orders to wipe out football pool gambling in Minneapolis were issued today by Chief of Police Frank W. Brunskill, following reports that gamblers had done a rushing business Saturday on college football games, principally the Iowa-Minnesota game.

GIANTS TO PITCH CAMP IN FLORIDA

Tierney Says McGraw Has Decided on State—Eight Municipalities Enter Bids.

YANKS MAY GO TO TEXAS

Rumors in Baseball Circles Have It That San Antonio Is Being Considered—Mays May Be Traded.

"Somewhere in Florida" will be the mailing address of the Giants when the baseball training season begins to unfold next February. Jim Tierney, Secretary of the National League champions, confessed yesterday that John McGraw has definitely and irrevocably decided on Florida, but just where in that great Commonwealth the Giants will train Mr. Tierney was not prepared to state.

However, the Secretary of the Giants denied with vehemence that McGraw had already voted in favor of Sarasota to the exclusion of the seven other towns and cities which are entering bids in the competition. John Ringling, the circus man, who has a Winter place at Sarasota, has been attempting to inveigle McGraw into taking his team there, where fishing and bathing are the chief outdoor sports of February and March, but so far, according to Tierney, John J. has kept a free and open mind on the subject.

"Eight Florida municipalities have invited the Giants to train in their midst," declared Tierney, "but no decision has yet been reached. After the league meetings next month McGraw intends to tour that State and investigate the merits of each place. He is not willing to decide on a camp merely on hearsay.

"Applications from Georgia have been turned down flat, along with California and San Antonio. By the process of elimination Florida has been selected, and there we will train."

Baseball Row is not so certain now that the Yankees are going to return to New Orleans where they have trained for the last two Springs. In certain quarters there is a smacking suspicion that the world's champions have designs on San Antonio, recently evacuated by the Giants. It is no secret that Business Manager Ed Barrow thinks highly of the Alamo City and would probably have gone there last year if the Giants had not cut in, but the story also runs that Miller Huggins objects to playing second fiddle to the Giants in any city. Huggins favors New Orleans, with all the superstition of an old-time ball player, and it is said that Barrow and Colonel Ruppert are now engaged in attempting to show Miller, in a firm and kindly manner, that he is all wrong.

May Get Burns or Harris.

Although the final papers are still far from signed, it is reported reliably that a deal between the Yanks and Red Sox is brewing quietly. The proposition that Huggins has in mind, and has had for many weeks, is to trade Carl Mays, among other considerations, for George Burns or Joe Harris, the idea being to give the Yanks a badly need right-handed pitcher. Bob Quinn, although he might want to swing the transaction, may back out because of fear that he will alienate public opinion in Boston by doing business again with the Yankees, in the best Frazee manner.

There is no argument about either Burns or Harris. They can hit with both hands and do a number of other things on the ball field, Harris being a convertible outfielder and first baseman. By their addition the Yanks would be vastly strengthened in reserve power, and they would be giving up only a pitcher who was of no use last year, although he is still fairly young and in excellent condition, and ought to win if worked regularly.

The Giants have made a proposition to the Yankees that the club first opening the local championship season stay out of the city beforehand and play no exhibition games in this territory. In past years, with the Giants owning the only park, the Yankees, at the close of first call, and always finished their northward tourn in time to play Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Polo Grounds, while the Yankees grappled with the Robins at Ebbets Field.

Under the new arrangement, if it is adopted, the Giants next Spring will linger in Baltimore, Richmond and other outlying points until the Yankees and Robins have played their set at the stadium. In 1924 the Giants will get in first, but the Yanks will have the right to meet Brooklyn at Ebbets Field, this not being considered a conflict. It appears that the Yanks got the better of the bargain, and they are likely to accept the suggestion as soon as Colonel Ruppert has had time to pass on it.

The idea is a good one, for too many opening days have been spoiled by the fact that the home club has already been seen three or four times here and has taken the edge off the grand debut.

Bancroft Packs Belongings.

Dave Bancroft, the new manager of the Braves, was back in New York yesterday, but only to pack up his belongings and close his affairs preparatory to saying good-bye today to the city where he won his greatest fame as a shortstop. Dave is going first to Superior, Wis., to hunt in the great open and wooded spaces, and after that he will entrain for Chicago and the league meetings, where he intends to fire with both barrels and bring down a flock of new players for the Braves.

Among the visitors to the metropolis on Friday will be Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the High Commissioner of all baseball. His errand has nothing to do with the national Summer sport, but a lot to do with the national Autumn sport. The Judge will be one of the celebrities at the Army-Navy game on Saturday.

PENN STATE ELEVEN RESTS.

Intensive Practice for Game With Pitt Will Start Today.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 19.—Penn State was given a well-earned holiday today by Coach Beadel. The Nittany Lions were told that no practice would be held until tomorrow, and though practically all of them were back at classes today, they welcomed the relaxation from the grind that began Sept. 1.

Starting tomorrow work will begin for the final game of the season, the Annual Thanksgiving Day clash with the University of Pittsburgh. The latter's victory over W. and J. makes this game loom up as one of the hardest of the season. Mike Palm, the only Penn State player to show signs of the Penn encounter, appeared to be in good shape today.

FOOTBALL INJURIES FATAL.

Back Broken, W. Va. Schoolboy Player Dies in Hospital.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 19.—Dale Hawley, aged 18 years, an end on the New Martinsville (W. Va.) High School football team, died in a hospital here today from injuries received in a game there last Saturday. Hawley's back was broken and he collapsed after he had been tackled.

New Rivals for Williams.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 19.—The Williams baseball schedule for next Spring, announced by Manager Olmsted today, includes games with Princeton and Penn. Newcomers on the slate are Syracuse, Boston College and New York University.

Pat Moran Signs Contract To Lead Reds Next Season

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19.—Patrick A. Moran late today signed a contract to continue as manager of the Cincinnati National Baseball Club for another year. Moran's contract for 1924, it was announced, is an exact duplicate of that under which he managed the Reds last season. The manager is the fourth member of the team to get into line, Caveney and Pinelli having signed before leaving for the Pacific Coast, and Jake Daubert having one year yet to serve under a two-year contract.

CUTLER IS WINNER IN JUNIOR TOURNEY

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—Albert J. Cutler of New York defeated Al Taylor of Ann Arbor, Mich., 300 to 286, and David McAndless of Chicago won from Tadeo Suganuma of Japan, 300 to 213, in the 18.2 balkline junior billiard championship play here today.

Cutler gained a long lead by clever nursing in the first five innings of the first game, scoring 214 to Taylor's 28. Taylor then made the longest run of the tournament, gathering 100 points. Cutler took twelve frames to get the final 86 for the game.

In the second contest McAndless was in stroke and made several long runs. Suganuma showed but one flash of form, when he made a run of 71.

In tonight's match Jean Bruno of Austria defeated Kinrey Matsuyama of San Francisco 300 to 260 in seventeen innings. A run of 73 in the eleventh inning gave the Austrian a lead of more than 100 over the Japanese, but the latter scored 53 in the thirteenth and 53 in the fourteenth, placing him within nine of his opponent. Superior safety play in the concluding innings gave Bruno the game.

The scores by innings:

Cutler—20 42 27 80 45 0 23 16 4 0 21 6 14 0 0 0 3—300. Average, 17.11-17.

Taylor—0 2 1 0 17 8 100 53 1 6 36 0 50 5 21 0—286. Average, 16.14-17.

McAndless—2 5 37 21 12 17 50 53 4 47 6 10 32 0 20—300. Average, 20.

Suganuma—4 19 15 6 13 2 2 22 71 8 5 2 13 21—213. Average, 14.9-15.

Bruno—0, 0, 49, 6, 0, 1, 68, 17, 13, 34, 75, 1, 2, 29, 0, 0, 1—300. Average, 17.11-17.

Matsuyama—6, 3, 11, 33, 30, 0, 24, 28, 2, 1, 1, 5, 53, 52, 8, 4, 1—260. Average, 15.5-17.

Billiard Results.

Fred Fournier of Utica yesterday defeated Tom Meresca of Brooklyn, 100 to 75, in the afternoon game in the New York State professional pocket billiard championship tournament at Lawlor Brothers' Academy, Brooklyn. Fournier turned in high runs of 30, 24 and 21, while Meresca's best performance was a run of 26. Only a few points separated the two players until the opening of the eighth frame, when Fournier made a run of 21 and took a commanding lead. Meresca made several good runs after this, but was unable to overhaul his opponent, Fournier going out in the twelfth frame.

The evening game resulted in a victory for Charles Harmon of Brooklyn, a former titleholder. He defeated Charles McDonald, 100 to 87, in fourteen frames. Harmon had a high run of 22 and McDonald one of 14. In the twelfth frame McDonald led, 87 to 75, but in the thirteenth Harmon made a run of 13, while McDonald scored only a single point. As a result both men were tied going into the fourteenth frame. McDonald made a good stroke, breaking the balls wide, but had the misfortune to pocket the cue ball for a scratch, and Harmon went out with an unfinished run of 12.

In the first game of the final round of the interstate amateur three-cushion championship tournament, Ft. Millwood defeated R. Blair, 25 to 21, in thirty-nine innings. Blair, although losing the game, had a high run of 4 and two other runs of 3 each, while Millwood made three runs of 3 each.

C. B. Faeder defeated W. H. Davis, 25 to 14, last night in a game played in the tournament for the Manhattan three-cushion billiard championship at the Recreation Billiard Academy, Manhattan. The contest went fifty innings and both men turned in high runs of 3.

Frank Grimes of Manhattan defeated Edward G. McGill of Brooklyn, 150 to 79, at the Recreation Billiard Academy, Brooklyn, last night, in the opening game for the national Class C amateur 18.2 balkline billiard championship, which is being conducted under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players.

Grimes was in fine form, getting a high run of 87, in addition to three other clusters of 22, 19 and 18. His average for the twenty-six innings of play was 5 20-26. McGill had a high run of 15 and an average of 3 4-25.

Eddie Doyle defeated Dave Ward by a score of 27 to 19 in the opening game of the three-cushion billiard tournament, now in progress at the Ambassador Billiard Academy, Manhattan. The game went fifty-seven innings, Doyle getting a high run of 5 and Ward one of 4.

Clifford Bash defeated Herbert Van Tassel by the margin of a single point in last night's game in the New York interstate three-cushion billiard championship tournament at Cranfield's Billiard Academy. The score was 35 to 34 in favor of Bash and the game went sixty-two innings, the final result being in doubt until the closing inning. Bash had two high runs of 4 and one of 3 to his credit, while Van Tassel had a high run of 3.

Tendler Is Winner.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Lew Tendler, Philadelphia lightweight, received the popular decision over Jack Palmer, also of this city, tonight in a slow eight-round bout. It was Tendler's first fight since his defeat last Summer by Benny Leonard in New York.

HARVARD WILL HAVE WHOLE TEAM READY

Doctors Report Full Strength Will Be Available for Use Against Yale Saturday.

McCLONE TO BE PILOT

Opinion Is That Crimson Will Adopt Kicking Game—Grew's Injury Proves to Be Unimportant.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 19.—With three exceptions, Harvard's entire football force was out on Soldiers' Field in uniform this afternoon for two hours' drill. This means that the Crimson will have every member of the varsity squad in shape to do his part on Saturday, for Dr. Richards and Trainer Donovan made the statement tonight that "Tubby" Grew's injury had proved not nearly so serious as was feared after the Brown game Saturday night, and that Percy Jenkins and Joe McGlone will be out tomorrow and ready to take active part in the drill.

The Monday session was the longest of the season. The coaches were in good humor and there was no evidence that the Cambridge organization is figuring only by how much Harvard is going to be beaten by Yale. The first and second teams went through a very thorough drill on their plays and then lined up for a dummy defensive drill. The scrubs have been working on the Yale formations for a week and this afternoon went through the New Haven motions very slowly. Lothrop Withington, who some years ago planned the special guards defense against Yale's cross-blocking on the rush line, meeting with great success in the 1918 game, was on the field with Wally Trumbull and Mal Logan, two other of Bob Fisher's advisory coaches.

Withington and Logan were at New Haven on Saturday and will be with the Crimson team all week. Bill Blake, who has been the regular Yale scout for Harvard this year, was also on the field, and when the team came in tonight at dark it was with a feeling that the men appreciated the power of Yale's attack and are now ready to start working on the defenses which will be built up tomorrow and next day.

In all the drills Harvard had, the team was arranged as it will start against Yale, the only possible exception being at quarterback. The line from left end included Combs, Eastman, Hubbard, Greenough, Dunker, Evans and Hill. Cheek was at left halfback, Hammond right halfback and Coburn fullback. This is Harvard's defensive line-up, but on offensive there are all kinds of shifts for the various formations. There was a lot of kicking today, but no work done against forward passes.

Lee was at quarterback for the first team and Spalding for the second. But Joe McGlone was running about today and tomorrow will start the last grind. It seems to be taken for granted here that McGlone will start the game as Harvard's field general, the main basis of this opinion being that the Crimson, with Hammond in shape again, is very likely to start with a kicking game, for which McGlone's ability as a handler of punts is much superior to Lee's.

That Grew will be available has caused great rejoicing, for he is a better guard than Daniell, who is the next substitute in line. With Grew ready, Dunker may be used at tackle before any other substitute in event of an injury to either Eastman or Evans.

Nothing as yet has been said about Harvard wearing numbers in the Yale game, but as this was done at New Haven last Fall, the numbers are very likely to be worn with Harvard playing on its own field.

YOUNG WILL DRIVE PENN.

Quakers Turn Their Faces Toward Coming Battle With Cornell.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Trying to shake off the physical and mental bruises sustained in the Penn State game, Penn started work today for the big battle with Cornell on Thanksgiving Day.

Head Coach Lou Young and his assistants let it be known that they were far from satisfied with the way the team played against Bezdek's Nittany Lions, and it is evident that there is much hard work in store for the Red and Blue before Doble's machine comes down from Ithaca. Almost all of the varsity men appeared on the field, although some of them are still limping. Brodie Stephens, right end, who went out of the game when his shoulder was reinjured, was in togs and took several turns around the field. He should be in top form for Cornell.

Bernet and Caldwell Being Groomed to Succeed Two Injured Regulars.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 19.—With only three days available for practice previous to the game against the Military Academy in New York on Saturday, Bob Folwell, head coach of the Naval Academy team, has found it necessary to give his team some hard work in order to prepare a number of second-string players who may have to start the game.

There is much doubt about the ability of Taylor and Brown, the regular ends, to start, and it was announced today that Shapley, rather than Barchet, would be at fullback, while Zuber would displace Mathews at centre. Bernet and Caldwell are the choice for the ends if the regulars cannot start.

Taylor appeared on the field in football clothes for the first time in ten days, but Brown did not get out of his midshipman's uniform at all. There is considerable secrecy as to the exact trouble with the ends, but every effort is being made to get them in shape. It is most uncertain, however, whether they will be able to start.

Will Miss Regular Ends.

The loss of the regular ends would be very serious handicap to the team on the offensive. Both have been handling passes in fine styles, and many of the Navy plays would have to be altered, if retained at all. Bernet and Caldwell are expected to take good care of the defense, but it would be impossible for them to fit into the pass plays like Brown and Taylor.

Folwell stated today that it was his present intention, subject to change before the game, of starting Shapley at fullback instead of Barchet, and Zuber at centre instead of Mathews. The announcement was the occasion of considerable surprise. However, both players, if supplanted, are likely to get in the game at some period.

Shapley outweighs Barchet by twenty-five pounds and is very strong and fast, but is lacking in experience. He has been two years in the squad, this being his first year as a varsity player. However, he has done good work in every game, his running against Colgate being particularly brilliant.

Zuber Has Shown Improvement.

Zuber is a strong fellow, a member of the varsity crew, and this is his first year on the squad. His defensive work is considered as good as Mathews's, but his passing has been poor previous to this year. He has improved along this line, however. He played the position during most of the Colgate game and all of the contest against St. Xavier. He has the call at present largely because Mathews has lost so much practice. Mathews, however, is now in fairly good condition.

Considerable interest is being shown in the condition of Smythe, the Army back, who virtually won the game for the Military Academy last year by his brilliant end running. Smythe was hurt in the Arkansas game and left the field. He did not play against Bethany Saturday, and it is rumored here that his injuries will keep him out of the service game. However, the Navy team will complete its preparations with the idea that he will be in the game and just as hard to stop as ever.

A visitor to the football field this afternoon was Commander Douglas L. Howard, whose connection with Naval Academy football has been closer and more continuous than any other person's. As player, team captain, assistant coach, head coach, football representative and athletic officer, successively, he has had much to do with the development of the game here. He has been on the Pacific Station, but came East with his vessel, the Seattle. He will be with the team in New York.

FORMER TIGER STARS TO PLAY VANDERBILT

Princeton Coaches and Others to Engage in Benefit Football Game at Nashville Dec. 8.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 19.—With their duties as coaches finished for this season, several members of the Princeton football staff, with other former Princeton players, are scheduled to play a post-season game with Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn., on Dec. 8, it was announced here today. The eleven will include several All-American players of past years and several captains of Tiger teams, representing one of the greatest collections of Princeton stars that has ever played together. The occasion of the contest is a charity movement to raise money for the Nashville Children's Home.

From the men who assisted Bill Roper this year will be Al Wittmer and Ollie Alford, centres; Maury Trimble and Jack Strubing, backfield men, and Bigler, varsity line coach and former All-American tackle. There is also a possibility that Stan Keck, All-American tackle in 1920, will make the trip, in which case the tackle positions would be strongly fortified with Herb Treat, All-American selection last year, as the third of the trio. The centre of the line, with Mel Dickenson, last year's captain, and Baker, lineman for several years, will be well taken care of, as Snively, this year's captain, may be added to the guard prospects. Shad Davis, head coach of the freshman eleven, and Ed Stinson, varsity end coach at Purdue and a Tiger backfield positions.

Backfield stars are numerous, and the final selection has not been made, but Trimble is the probable quarterback. With him behind the line will be Ralph Gilroy, hero of the 1921 Harvard contest; Jack Strubing, running mate of Trimble in 1919, and Jack Cleaves, coach of the freshman backs this year and a star triple threat man on the varsity a year ago. To this list may be added Frank Murray, former assistant coach at Purdue and a Tiger backfield star in 1919 and 1920.

The game promises to be a closely contested affair, for Vanderbilt has a strong team this year. With a season of hard work behind them, however, and several weeks of preparation ahead for the meeting, the Tiger representatives expect to be in good shape for a hard battle.

LEHIGH HAS BIG GUARD.

Yeager, 220-Pounder, Attracts Attention of Coaches.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 19.—In the football practice which began at Lehigh this afternoon in preparation for the game with Lafayette much attention was given to Yeager, a 220-pound guard who stands 6 feet 1 inch. For a time the coaches directed all their attention to him. Lewis, a varsity guard, is also available for that position, as are Schultz and Harmon, both big fellows.

The quarterback problem is somewhat acute. Lewin, whose drop kicking Saturday against Alfred was fine, but who fumbled several times in receiving punts, was replaced by Prior, who did spectacular running. Hess, a halfback who was being groomed for the position, did not get into the game Saturday, and now it is more than likely that he will be the choice to start against the Maroon invaders.

Sutherland Begins Last Week As Lafayette Football Coach

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 19.—Coach John B. Sutherland today started his last drive for a Lafayette-Lehigh game as head coach of the Lafayette College eleven. This is Dr. Sutherland's fifth and last season as coach of the Maroon squad and his team has yet to be defeated by a Lehigh aggregation. The Lafayette team came out of the game with the University of Dayton in splendid condition with the exception of Ackroyd, the varsity centre, who was taken out of the game suffering from an old injury. His condition today was considerably improved and he will be able to start against Lehigh on Saturday in the Taylor Stadium at Bethlehem.

ARMY TEAM HOLDS SPIRITED WORKOUT

Every Varsity Man in Place as Coaches Send Eleven Through Long Session.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, Nov. 19.—A cold wind blew across the plains gridiron today as the Army took a long workout in preparation for the annual service football game, to be played with the Navy at the Polo Grounds in New York on Saturday. Only four days remain for the coaches to whip their teams into shape, and there was much activity in the Army's camp.

The West Pointers showed no sign of injuries as a result of the Bethany game last Saturday, and every varsity man was in his accustomed place. Smythe was back today for the first time in over a week, but the Army's quarterback, who is nursing a sore arm, did not do any of the tossing in the rehearsal of the cadets' aerial plays. Yoemans worked in this drill.

The continued presence of Yoemans in the big squad leads to the belief that he might be called upon to face the Navy in this responsible position in case Smythe is unable to round into form. Yoemans is rather inexperienced, but he has displayed good generalship in cases where he has had to use it in the few games in which he has participated, and he gets a lot of drive out of the team.

The quarterback question, however, is bothering the coaches, with the big game of the year just ahead. Only Smythe's immediate return to form before Saturday seemingly will relieve the situation.

At the ends, too, there is uncertainty. Fraser, a husky cadet from Minnesota who has speed and weight, has been improving rapidly of late. Baxter is almost sure to playe one of the wings against Navy, while Don Storck may get back to form sufficiently to start against the Middies. Storck is a veteran of four seasons play whose injury has kept him on the bench during most of the season.

Head Coach McEwan today had two sets of backs and ends in a defensive drill against the Navy's forward pass plays, as launched by the scrubs. There was also a long session of dummy scrimmaging for both varsity and first string substitutes, chiefly on the defensive. Garbisch worked at centre during the entire workout. His first substitute, Weerphalinger, is out of the play with a bad shoulder.

Garbisch was in a field goal drill and booted them over from various angles inside the 35-yard line, with a strong wind behind him. He also sent the ball over the bar from the 45-yard line several times. Wood's punting also was all that could be desired, Army's kicking game is one of the least of the coaches' present worries.

Although it had been heralded last week that Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, would be here today, the South Bend mentor was nowhere in evidence.

YALE PAPER PRAISES PRINCETON'S SPIRIT

Sportsmanlike Manner in Which Tiger Followers Took Defeat Lauded by Daily News.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 19.—Princeton was eulogized as a sportsmanlike opponent today by The Yale Daily News, which said editorially:

"A Princeton man was heard to remark during Saturday's football game: 'If that's the way the Bulldog is losing his grip, I wish he'd get it back again.' For the Blue, the afternoon meant sunshine breaking through the clouds, food after famine, joy after sorrow. But in the memories of the joyous throng who filled the west side of the Bowl, one thing will stand out fully as prominently as the twenty-seven points. That thing is the undaunted manner in which Princeton's supporters stuck by a defeated but valiant team.

"To be a good winner when fortune smiles is one thing. To be a good loser is infinitely harder. Penalties, bad breaks, Yale successes, brought never a sign of a whimper or complaint from the Tiger. Every movement made by the warriors from Jungletown, even in the discouraging final moments, brought forth cheers where one might expect the silence of bitter futility. After the game, as the snake dancers poured out of the Bowl between lines of Princetonians, cheers of congratulation were showered upon them.

"Several names were added to Yale's hall of fame and a cup of joy filled to overflowing by a team which gives promise of being one of the greatest in the university's half century of gridiron history. But when hard times again roll 'round, as roll they must, if the Blue will accept defeat with as much cleancut sportsmanship as did the Orange and Black on Saturday, traditions will be none the less glorious for having lost a game."

PREPARE FOR PRESIDENTS.

Mountaineers Begin Work for Annual Thanksgiving Day Game.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 19.—West Virginia has nine practice days in which to get ready for its annual Thanksgiving Day game with the Washington and Jefferson College eleven, and in their first workout this afternoon the mountaineers got down to business.

Although the St. Louis game was played on a slippery and treacherous field, the mountaineers came out of it without a scratch. Only holdover casualties are on the hospital list at this time and most of the squad is in good physical condition. There was no material change in the line-up during today's signal drill, which continued for more than an hour. While Dr. Spears was working with the varsity, assistant coaches tutored the scrubs in W. and J. style of play.

W. & J. MUST RECONSTRUCT.

Has Hard Task to Prepare for West Virginia Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 19.—Washington and Jefferson's football coaches will begin tomorrow the reconstruction of its team for the annual struggle with West Virginia at Morgantown on Thanksgiving Day.

With Crook, Long and Bazaita badly injured in the Pitt contest and the morale of the team all but shattered by the unexpected reverse suffered at the hands of the Panthers, a hard task confronts the Red and Black coaching staff.

YALE TEAM INTACT FOR HARVARD GAME

Luman, Injured End, Will Be Able to Start Against the Crimson.

JONES DRILLS TWO ELEVENS

Coach Expects Reserves to Have as Much Power as the Varsity—No Scrimmage This Week.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 19.—A roll call of the Yale eleven this afternoon proved that Head Coach Tad Jones can keep his plan to use the same line-up he selected four weeks ago against Harvard. At that time he stated that he had found the strongest playing combination possible and that he hoped to be able to hold it intact for the rest of the season. The team started against the Army, Maryland and finally Princeton, and the only changes which the coaches feared would be necessary in the Cambridge Stadium was due to the injury of Dick Luman last Saturday. Today Trainer Connors reported that Luman's leg is much improved and that he will report tomorrow, taking light practice daily this week, and will start against the Crimson in the week-end engagement which brings the old rivals to the climax of their schedules.

Dick Eckward, who played in the Yale line-up the longest of any regular against Princeton, has been kept in the infirmary since Saturday because of a slight bruise, but he left the hospital for the gridiron this afternoon, ran through signals and showed no sign of his injury.

Jones's scheme of using two full elevens against practically all opponents of the season was today stated to be a part of the Eli policy when it meets Harvard. The second eleven was given nearly as much attention as the first today. Both ran through signals and played dummy football more than an hour, while the third eleven battled the scrubs to a scoreless tie. Heffelfinger, who played forward in Yale's high score game against Princeton thirty years ago, Ted Lilley and George Goss joined the resident coaching staff.

Jones tonight refterated his plans to order no scrimmaging this week, limiting the daily drill to shadow football and signal rehearsal. Stout denial was made that there was any possibility of Charlie O'Hearn lining up next Saturday, although he has left the hospital and walks without crutches. It is doubtful whether he will open Yale's hockey season, although he expects to play most of the games.

Except that Deaver played right end in place of Luman today, the Yale team ran through signals exactly as it started the Princeton game.

Has Long Session With Freshmen, Who Use Rutgers Plays.

Coach Frank Gargan sent his Fordham football team through a long dummy scrimmage with the freshman eleven yesterday. The yearlings were drilled in the Rutgers formations and sent against the varsity to prepare the Maroon for its game with the New Jersey college at Orange, N. J., on Saturday. Myers reported for practice yesterday, and for the first time this year the Maroon squad reported without an injury. Fordham is expected to be in its best form against the Scarlet.

The practice this week will most probably be devoted to the perfecting of interference. The official measurement of Earl Graham's field goal against C. C. N. Y. last Saturday was 43 yards. Coaches Frank Gargan and Cliff Steele measured the distance of the boot after the close of the game and found the distance to be two yards longer than it was thought to have been. Immediately after Graham had kicked the goal he was knocked back by the C. C. N. Y. forwards and the spectators could not determine the actual distance. The field goal is believed to be one of the longest of the current season.

Bout Is Called Off.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19.—A ten-round boxing bout between Sammy Mandell and Cuddy de Marco, scheduled for tonight, was called off when the promoters were notified that Mandell had suffered an injury to his jaw while having a tooth pulled.

Big Ten Stars to End Careers In Michigan-Minnesota Battle

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 19.—Harry Kipke and Earl Martineau, captains respectively of the Michigan and Minnesota football teams and halfbacks extraordinary, close their college gridiron careers here Saturday when their teams, both unbeaten, clash at Ferry Field. Martineau has been the star of a losing team. Seven times since he became a player on Gopher elevens he has known defeat. Six times his team has been victorious and twice it has played tie games. Kipke has been the star of a winning team. Only once since he became a member of the Wolverine squad has he known defeat. Nine times Michigan teams on which he played have won. One game was a tie. Martineau will lead a team that, riddled by injuries at the start of the season, has gradually come back and reached peak form. Kipke leads a team shattered in its last three games and minus the services of two of its greatest stars—Uteritz, quarterback, and Blott, centre. It will be a "sophomore team," as one coach called it, at least five of the players being second-year men.

CORNELL GETS OFF TO FLYING START

All Regulars Are in Line-Up as Preparation for Penn Game Begins.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 19.—With the mercury below freezing and the gridiron dry and hard the Cornell squad got away today to a flying start on its eight days of preparation for the Pennsylvania game. Every regular was in action today. Laurels won so far this season have no place in the reckoning of the Ithacans for, as Gil Dobie told the team this morning, Penn has wrecked many a promising season for Cornell in the last thirty-five years, and the very fact that the Quakers have failed to come out ahead in their last two games makes it dead certain that they will make a great effort in the last game of the season. Cornell has not forgotten the Penn jinx and the players will hear much of it in the next ten days.

The varsity started drill on plays Dobie has chosen for the Penn game. There was no scrimmage, but practice continued for two hours and was maintained at a fast pace. Physically, the Ithacans are rounding into first rate condition. The only two regulars bothered with injuries all season, Sundstrom and Henderson, right guard and left end respectively, are in shape to play, but as a final precaution Dobie will keep Sundstrom out of the scrimmages.

The coach has not yet decided if Henderson shall go back to left end or whether he will use Buckley in that position. The latter has developed rapidly lately and is putting up a great fight for the place. The improvement of Patterson, the smooth work of the line and the great drive of the first and second string backs were the features of the Johns Hopkins game that stood out in undergraduate discussion today.

AMENDING THE SUPREME COURT.

In view of its source, the suggestion of former Associate Justice CLARKE that the Supreme Court decline "to "hold a statute unconstitutional when- "ever several of the Justices conclude "that it is valid" is singular. Senator BORAH will reintroduce his bill requiring the concurrence of seven of the nine Justices of the Supreme Court in order to declare an act of Congress unconstitutional. Senator LA FOLLETTE far outdoes this modest proposal. He wants to amend the Constitution so that no inferior Federal Judge may pronounce a law of Congress unconstitutional and that, if the Supreme Court takes such liberty, the re-enactment by Congress of the statute set aside shall "nullify the action of the court" and the law shall "remain in full force and effect." In The Saturday Evening Post Mr. CHARLES WARREN, historian of the Supreme Court, considers the grievances alleged against that body and the curious remedies proposed. What is this long series of "unjust decisions" which the wailers against the Supreme Court are always ululating about?

In 134 years just nine acts of Congress have been held unconstitutional by a 5-4 decision. The last of these was really a 5-3 decision, Justice BRANDEIS not sitting. Besides these nine decisions there have been in all that time but forty-one others, unanimous or with from one to three dissenting opinions, holding acts of Congress unconstitutional. Of these not more than three, including, of course, the Dred Scott decision, have seemed, even to the most virulent smiters of the court, wrongly decided. Much ado about nothing! But just what does Mr. BORAH'S plan mean? To require the concurrence of seven Judges to hold a Federal law invalid is to require that, without such concurrence, it shall be valid. So that, if three of nine Judges hold an act constitutional and six unconstitutional, it is held to be constitutional and the opinion of the minority prevails. Decision by a minority is a singular remedy for 5-4 decisions.

One must note, moreover, that no abstract doctrine is involved. "Courts "do not decide questions; they decide "cases; they determine which of two "opposing parties in an actual law- "suit is legally right." Thus, under Mr. BORAH'S scheme, a minority of the court may decide upon the rights of the parties, based on a statute or the Constitution, and hold the former constitutional. Suppose Congress, after some great strike, should forbid railway employes, for instance, to strike, or should provide compulsory arbitration. If six Judges held the law unconstitutional, three constitutional, it would be valid. How would labor like that? How would the South relish an anti-lynching law so sustained? And what is there saving or consoling to the opponents of decision in a 7-2 vote? That was the vote in the Adair case in 1908, invalidating the Federal law making the discharge of employes for belonging to a labor union a criminal offense. Mr. LA FOLLETTE'S project is madder and more destructive. It knocks topsy-turvy our whole polity under the Constitution, puts it in the power of Congress to do anything it pleases, abolish the Supreme Court, for instance, change the provisions of the Constitution about the powers of the President, by merely passing a statute twice, authorize everything that the Constitution forbids. It takes away every grant and guarantee of rights and powers under the Constitution, except those of Congress, which it makes potentially supreme.

Ah, but Congress can be trusted not to encroach upon the rights assured under the Constitution. Can it? Mr. WARREN recites a few of the little pleasantries it has indulged in and which were prevented by the Supreme Court. Congress has authorized the criminal prosecution of a man whom it had compelled to testify before a Grand Jury; "the retrial in a Federal "court of facts already tried and set- "tled in behalf of the plaintiff in a "State court"; regulated civil relations between negroes and whites, interfering with State power in the matter; taken property for public uses without due compensation; authorized the imprisonment at hard labor of persons who had never been indicted by a Grand Jury; allowed a Government appeal in a criminal trial where the accused was found not guilty by a jury; tried to imprison a man without a jury trial because he wouldn't testify in an investigation by Congress "of a matter over which it had no authority"; "attempted to make a "crime out of an act which was not a "crime when it was committed, and "by an ex post facto law to punish a "man for committing such an act"; tried to "imprison a man without jury "trial for publishing a letter contain- "ing matter defamatory of the "House." Perhaps the Supreme Court thinks more of the wisdom of Congress than most of the rest of us do.

ARITHMETIC VINDICATED.

Germany's mad experiment in inflation is apparently about to come to an end. This week or next will reveal what measure of success is to be attained by the establishment of the new currency, translatable at least into gold values. The paper mark insanity is passing. If it cannot be said to be expiring in a blaze of glory, it is certainly expiring in a blaze of astronomical figures that stagger the imagination. Consider what is meant by the following statement, contained in a special dispatch from Berlin to THE NEW YORK TIMES of yesterday:

> Less than one-thousandth part of the public expenditures was covered by the tax yield. Expenditure amounted to 6,553,521 trillions, tax yield to 5,903 trillions. In the same ten days the Government floating debt multiplied from 407 quadrillions to 5,900 quadrillions. Inasmuch as inflation has been going on at an unprecedented rate since the date of that report, the floating debt today outstanding probably exceeds 70 quintillions.

At last the teaching of arithmetic, with all the rigor of the game, is vindicated. Boys and girls who have rebelled at problems going higher than a trillion, on the ground that they have to do with quantities purely imaginary and never to be met with in real life, will now see their mistake. From trillions, the German floating debt leaps lightly one week to quadrillions, and the next to quintillions. It may be said that the figures mean nothing; that the mind can neither grasp nor realize them. This is true in the sense that it makes no difference how you denominate a deficit or seek to establish a ratio for the paper mark, after a trillion is passed. But the fantastic sums do have a meaning in their indication of the German state of mind, and of the impossible policy into which the Berlin Government has been led, by one desperate step after another.

Now it must retrace the path. Who could have thought two years ago that Vienna would be lecturing Berlin on the means of stabilising the currency and setting up a sound system of public finance? Yet that is what is occurring today. Austria is actually pointing with pride to a strict control of her financial machinery by a foreigner, and is arguing, not without force, that Germany will never get her needed foreign loans, or a stabilized currency, until she in turn submits to a like measure.

LA FOLLETTE "SITS TIGHT."

Almost a year ago Senator LA FOLLETTE summoned the faithful to a confabulation in Washington. There was much talk about the control of the next Congress by "the People's Bloc," the People's Legislative Service, the People's Reconstruction League and other polyonomous emanations and annexes of liberalism, progressivism and radicalism. Last year, too, there was one of the periodical revivals of the clamor against the seniority rule. But the seniority rule is kind to Mr. LA FOLLETTE. He has stayed in Congress long enough to become the "second" or "ranking" member of the Committee on Finance and the Committee on Interstate Commerce. Mr. SMOOT will be Chairman of the former. It is essential that Mr. CUMMINS should remain Chairman of the latter, even if he has to give up his desire to be President of the Senate. Mr. LA FOLLETTE has a choice collection of business-upsetting proposals. He will be as mischievous as he can in any capacity, but a wild railroad-baiter at the head of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee is inconceivable.

The Wisconsin Senator fought Mr. HARDING. He will fight Mr. COOLIDGE. If he and his friends in the Senate and the House are bent on preventing the organization of the latter unless they are appeased by sufficient sops in appointments to important committees, that is their privilege. Presumably, however, Mr. LA FOLLETTE'S quiet indicates that bargains are making. Yet the next Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Mr. GARNER of Iowa, will be forced to support the Mellon program. Mr. FREAR of Wisconsin, an uncompromising La Follettian, will be a member of that committee. The La Follettians asked for two more places on it. But the demand is preposterous.

On the Rules Committee a La Follettian infusion wouldn't matter so much. If the radicals hold the balance of power and use it to block legislation, no Rules Committee can prevent the shindy. It is a darling hope of the radicals to tear up the Esch-Cummins Transportation act. So they want a larger representation on the House Interstate Commerce Committee. Why give it to them? Nothing will pacify them. The country must look to conservative Democrats as well as conservative Republicans to cooperate for rational and restorative legislation. Apparently most of the opposition to Mr. GILLETT'S re-election to the unimportant post of Speaker has faded. Mr. NICHOLAS LONGWORTH, who has the merit of being intelligent and experienced, is to get the thorny and somewhat ironically named honor of Republican floor leader. Exactly what glory is reserved for his sometime rival, "Darn Poor Judgment" GRAHAM of Illinois?

HOSTS AS GUESTS.

Westward the star of empire truly takes its way. Italy is the mother of most of the arts, Italy and Switzerland between them of the art of hotel-keeping. Yet there are fifteen Swiss and twenty-two Italians among the two hundred European delegates of the International Hotel Alliance who have just been touring the Eastern States and have come back to New York to attend the hotel men's congress in connection with the Hotel Exposition here this week.

This is Education Week, and there should be a good deal of education for both European and American hotel-keepers in an interchange of views. It would perhaps be mere chauvinism to say that most of the good hotels are in America, but certainly we have a very large number of hotels of the first class, and more and more every year. It is perhaps not too much to suggest that many of the improvements in European hotels have been due to the exacting taste of the American tourist.

A first-class hotel in any city is about like a first-class hotel in any other city, but there is more room for expression of national and local characteristics in second-class hotels. And it will hardly be denied that second-class hotels are apt to be a good deal better in Europe than in America. Our own hotel men might learn the secret of this from their guests, in return for the information which the European visitors will gather from the tours of the great taverns of our own cities. And there is another point in which, it is to be hoped, the European hotel men may have a message for us. Their hotels may or may not be better than our own, but they are pretty sure to be less expensive.

FRENCH TAXES AND BUDGETS.

Our cables yesterday, showing that the October revenue of France from taxation was greater than a year ago by 514,000,000 francs, or 28 per cent., and that receipts for the ten completed months have run 2,541,000,000 francs above 1922, throw an interesting light on that country's financial problems. The budget debate in the Chamber of Deputies last November elicited from the Ministry the estimate that annual outlay was then exceeding income by at least 22,000,000,000 francs. This deficit was almost entirely caused by expenditure for reconstruction of the devastated regions, which had amounted to 85,000,000,000 francs up to the close of 1922 and is still continuing. Naturally, a deficit of such magnitude has made necessary constant issue of public loans, as a result of which the permanent interest charge grows greater every year.

It is this showing which caused the temporary "panic in French exchange" a year ago. The problem is difficult, yet there is something to say in extenuation of the heavy deficit. Immediate reconstruction of the highly productive districts ruined by Germany was imperative from every viewpoint. The cost of it to France, in default of German reparation payments for the purpose, could not be wholly met from current revenue. Yet the scheduling of this large outlay as "recoverable expenditure"—that is to say, anticipatory of the German payments—long kept the French Government and people under a dangerous delusion, which may not yet have wholly disappeared. But there was always this consideration to be kept in mind: that the ruined industrial districts, once reconstructed, would again contribute their share to the public revenue, of which an extremely important part was raised from those very districts before the war, yet to which the devastated provinces had contributed practically nothing between 1918 and 1923. In other words, there might, up to a certain point at any rate, be logic in regarding the reconstruction outlay as "capital expenditure," properly covered by loans.

Obviously, however, the financial wisdom of such an attitude would depend on the immediate productiveness of the taxes when reimposed upon the region. In other words, the question would be to what extent the new tax revenue would cover the service of the public debt incurred for reconstruction. The taxes have been in a measure reimposed this year, and the collections account in large degree for the great increase of current revenue over 1922. How much further the rise in revenue from that source will go when the entire region is at work again and paying full taxes is a matter of conjecture. Meantime, the other taxpayers of France have not been spared their part of the burden. In September alone the "tax on business turnover," imposed in 1922, produced 259,000,000 francs—72,600,000 more than it yielded in the same month last year and 26,700,000 more than the budget estimate.

LET THE KLAN DIE.

"The most un-American State in "the Union, as measured by the Ku "Klux Klan standard, is South Caro- "lina." This report from a TIMES correspondent fits in with other evidence about the peculiar nature of the order's strength in the South. It is strong in Georgia, strong in Texas, though not so strong there as it used to be; but it is not the old Ku Klux Klan and not enough like it to appeal to descendants of the men of standing who supported that order. It seems to be stronger now in the Middle West than in the South. Indiana is the choicest jewel in its crown.

Some statistics of the religious population of Indiana, published yesterday, show that somewhat less than 10 per cent. of the Hoosiers are Catholics and somewhat less than 1 per cent. Jews. The other 89 per cent. must feel their inferiority keenly if they are forced to band together to save Nordic supremacy. As a matter of fact, the more Klansmen the less compact their unity. Birds in their little nests agree, but the Emperor's men and the Wizard's men shoot each other up with all the enthusiasm of Guelphs and Ghibellines.

Every day it seems more probable that the Klan will vanish by natural disintegration. The problem will not be solved, certainly, by counter-attacks such as that sponsored by the Knights of Columbus at Atlantic City. When the Knights are attacked solely because of their religion, naturally enough they rally as Catholics to fight back. The impulse is intelligible, but the results are certain to be unfortunate. When the Knights of Columbus organize a Vigilance Committee with the help of negroes, and the Mayor arranges a comic-opera system of signals with dairy whistles and police traffic lights by which "volunteers "will be summoned to the City Hall "to curb outbreaks," they are only furnishing more material for the fanatics of the Klan. Let the thing alone and it will fall to pieces of its own weight.

FLYING AROUND THE WORLD.

In a talk to the Akron chapter of the National Aeronautic Association on Nov. 7 Major Gen. MASON M. PATRICK, Chief of the Army Air Service, said that he had "recommended "to the War Department that the "Stars and Stripes be carried around "the earth next Spring." Secretary WEEKS now officially approves of the enterprise. We may have competition. In view of plans made by the British and the French in 1922 to fly around the world but not carried out, the difficulties of the undertaking should be soberly considered. Sir ROSS SMITH, who succeeded in flying from England to Australia, was making preparations to carry the Union Jack around the earth when he fell a victim to his faith in the airplane. Three British army aviators, Captain MCCLOUGHRY, Captain TIMMS and Captain MACKINTOSH, submitted plans in September, 1922, to the Air Ministry for a flight by way of Bordeaux, Athens, Bashrah, Bombay, Rangoon, Hongkong, Tokio, the Aleutian Islands, Vancouver, Canada, Newfoundland and the Azores to England. The Air League of the British Empire gave the venture its support and the Air Ministry promised assistance. A start was to be made in the Spring of 1923, but something went wrong. The undertaking was indefinitely postponed.

Last December Sir KEITH SMITH, a brother of Sir ROSS, was in Washington to consult our experts about a transcontinental flight as a link in a circuit of the globe. He came to this country after making arrangements in the Far East for supplies and landing stations. It was his intention to "take off" near London in April, 1923, and fly to the Far East, thence to the Kuriles and Aleutians, across Canada to Halifax, to the Azores, and home by way of Portugal and France. Again something went wrong. Five French aviators, with the patronage of their Government, were to leave in March for a series of carefully planned flights to the Far East, the United States and Central and South America, thence across the South Atlantic to Africa, but nothing came of their aspirations. In April two Englishmen, Captain MACMILLAN and Captain MALINS, did get as far as India on a round-the-world flight, but there were insurmountable difficulties. Captain PEDRO ZANNI of the Argentine Army mapped out a course, one leg of which was to be the Atlantic from Nova Scotia to Ireland. He had the backing of the Argentine Aero Club, but the necessary funds were not raised.

From these cases the conclusion is that a round-the-world flight would be the greatest obstacle race on record, as well as tremendously expensive. So far it has been a dream of the aviators. After the remarkable voyage through the air to Australia from England of the SMITH brothers, Sergeant SMITHS and Sergeant BURNETT, making the circuit of the world seemed to be a feasible undertaking. But more than three years have passed and no one has accomplished it. We have the men, for Americans hold almost all the aviation records, and we have new planes, "capable," says General PATRICK, "of making "non-stop flights of 2,000 miles "without refueling." The longest "hop" of the schedule published is from Attu Island to Paramishiru Island in the Kuriles, 700 miles. The Faroe-Iceland-Greenland links present climatic difficulties only. With thorough organization and arrangements for landing stations and refueling that leave nothing to chance, the American venture should succeed.

CHANGING BUT REMAINING THE SAME.

The fall of the short-lived Communist Government of Saxony has been followed by very unpleasing disclosures respecting some of its leaders. The former Prime Minister, Dr. ZEIGNER, is to be prosecuted for bribery and corruption. His offenses appear to have been not only flagrant but open; scarcely with any concealment he is said to have taken money right and left for granting pardons, commuting criminal sentences, and so on. He was for a time something like a popular idol, but now Verwarts says of him, sorrowfully, that if only a part of the charges brought against him are true he has shown himself utterly unworthy of confidence.

His unmasking will be a severe blow to some of our American near-revolutionists. They have been very enthusiastic about Dr. ZEIGNER. They have talked with him face to face and have seen the most lofty idealism oozing from every pore of his skin. The rude action of the Berlin Government in ousting the Communist Cabinet at Dresden they have described as the lawless and tyrannical deed of wicked reactionaries who feared the effect of allowing communism in Saxony to work out manifold blessings for the people. But it now seems plain that the Communist rulers were under no illusion concerning the brief time that they would have to feather their own nests, and that they set about doing it with admirable diligence. The event shows once more the folly of supposing that a mere political creed will change the nature of the men professing it. It also furnishes another warning, though they will not heed it, to our own cocksure re-creators of the world who allow themselves to be so easily deluded by any one who masquerades under the guise of a revolutionist—especially a nice foreign one.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Responsibility Lies on the Legislatures.

If Governor TRUMBULL of Connecticut carries to the end his investigation of what he says is going to prove "the biggest of State scandals"—that of granting to unqualified men the privilege of practicing medicine—he will be able to put just where it belongs the responsibility for the shocking abuses he has discovered, and that is on the State Legislatures—Connecticut's and many others—which have made these abuses both possible and easy.

In Connecticut, as elsewhere, the legislators have yielded to pressure from small groups of well-organized and highly articulate men and have legalized the assumption of the doctor's title by persons to whom it should never have been granted. They even have consented to the establishment of special examining boards for the issuing of licenses to graduates of schools, real or imagined, whence degrees are issued to virtually anybody able to pay a small fee.

In these schools sometimes there is a brief course of instruction in some queer form of "healing," but often there is not even that. In either case the "graduates" can pass the examinations specially adjusted to this or that fad or illusion—or can hire somebody else to do it for them under some system of false personation—and after that they can open offices and advertise themselves as competent to treat any and all of humanity's physical or mental ills.

They like to pose as representatives of a new "school" of medicine. As a matter of fact, there are no "schools" in medicine. A man is a doctor or he isn't. If he is, he can and does use every method of treatment found by him to be efficacious, and nothing can or does prevent him from utilizing whatever is of demonstrated or demonstrable merit in the system of any of the "irregular" cults. Properly trained, he knows as much about massage and about suggestion as does an osteopath or an Eddyite, but he also knows the much more that is acquired in a medical college worthy of the name, and never does he claim that by a single procedure or remedy he can cure all diseases. Whoever makes that claim is a quack.

Whence the Remedy Must Come.

If the real doctors would be more aggressive in defending their rights and protecting the public—if they thought a little less about dignity and a little more about what is especially their duty as guardians of the nation's health—such scandals as the one now developing in Connecticut and spreading rapidly through many other States hardly would be possible. They do some fighting against quackery, but not enough of it, and another fault of too many of them is their refusal to admit that every one of the quackish cults has the "something in it" that justifies a part of its pretensions.

Some of the vaunted "cures" are real enough, and the shrewder of these irregular practitioners learn what they can and cannot do so as to accept only the patients whose troubles they can relieve or alleviate. Why these men do not qualify themselves for medical practice by taking the instruction offered by the real medical schools is a mystery. Doing that, they could specialize in the domain where their present successes are gained and so be the servants of humanity. This suggestion, of course, does not apply to such men as the Kansas City diploma mill has been turning out and venal or ignorant examining boards have been housing to physicians and surgeons. They are merely ignoramuses and scoundrels. More important than that a few of them should be sent to jail where they belong is it that the practices of which they are the product should cease.

Many Letters Will Do Much Good.

Whoever agrees with Secretary MELLON about an immediate reduction in Federal taxes can help to bring that end to pass if he will. He need not be a person of importance with his name often in the papers; the only qualification he needs for the exercising of a real influence on the course of events at Washington is the possession of a vote and the ability to let his Senator and Representative know that he believes in the Mellon plan and wants it carried out as soon as Congress can do it.

There is no need to make the letter conveying this information either threatening or peremptory, but it can be emphatic while it is courteous, and it should leave no doubt at all as to the writer's opinions and desires.

Whether or not the letter should contain anything about the bonus is a question to be settled by individual preference, but there is no real need to mention it. Everybody knows by this time that the granting of a Federal bonus will make a lowering of Federal taxes nearly impossible. The one thing necessary at this time is to make public sentiment clearly known. Then Congressmen may be trusted to realise the relation between that sentiment and the gaining or retaining of votes.

Such a realization is part of the business of the best of them and about the whole business of the rest, and none of them makes a mistake when the people in their districts have spoken in a voice so loud that its meaning cannot be misunderstood.

Collectionism at Its Very Limit.

As the British Museum has accepted for preservation and exhibition the great collection of fleas that was made by the late NATHANIEL ROTHSCHILD, it must be assumed that this curious congeries has either value or interest or both for enough people to make it worth while for that great institution to give it house room. To the unitiate, however, this collection seems to illustrate about the very furthest limit this side of actual insanity to which the collecting impulse can be carried.

The flea is not beautiful from any point of view except possibly that of the biologist, who admires the little beasts because of their nice adaptation to the way of life which the species has adopted. But certainly the flea has no friends, for he is a nuisance and an irritation to all of his involuntary hosts—when he is not a deadly peril to them, as he now is known not infrequently to be.

If study of the Rothschild collection gives anybody help in exterminating fleas, then indeed it will have justified its existence, and both dogs and men, as well as the other less important creatures on which fleas pasture, will be endlessly grateful to those who searched the whole world for specimens of Pulex irritans and his near relatives.

Books for Men at Sea.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The New York public was very generous in gifts of books from its library shelves during the war. The valuable service which the American Library Association then rendered in placing library units on warships was extended to include the crews of the merchant ships. "Don't underestimate these men," said Admiral Sims, "they stuck the whole way through. The merchant seamen were our backbone."

Seamen are only men at sea, with the same education and recreational needs and desires as other normal beings. Interesting books and magazines which help to fill these needs are now supplied by the American Merchant Marine Library Association, which seeks the support of all citizens who realize how completely a seaman is cut off from what seem necessities to men on shore. There are no books or morning papers, no movies, little amusement of any kind, on merchant ships.

Some vessels are out for weeks at a time without sighting land, and the men, sometimes discouraged and homesick, have little to occupy their minds. Many of these young sailors are hoping for advancement and are eager to study, so that textbooks, books on engineering, navigation, radio and electricity are in as great demand as good fiction, biography and books of travel.

A Book Drive will be conducted during the week Nov. 19-26. Our committee hopes that the public will generously respond to our appeal and send all the books and magazines it can spare to the New York Public Library, Shipping Entrance, 11 West 40th Street, plainly marked for the American Merchant Marines Library Association. Books will be called for during the week if a telephone request is sent to Bowling Green 0220.

MRS. FREDERICK C. HODGDON,
Chairman, Book Drive Committee.

No Answer to This Criticism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"The dirtiness of Central Park," quoting Israel Zangwill. Doesn't it seem a pity that in a wonderful city like ours a distinguished visitor can make the above remark, and we haven't a leg to stand on to defend it? It isn't alone Mr. Zangwill who has remarked as to the dirtiness and, yes, careless manner in which Central Park is being taken care of; some of our citizens and taxpayers still have a little pride, but it doesn't help much when we complain, so maybe your criticism may help.

What is the matter with Park Commissioner Gallatin? Why doesn't he walk through some parts of the park, instead of rolling through it in his automobile or sending his uninterested secretary to glance casually over the well-traversed roads? There are sections of the park that are simply filthy, not merely dirty, with disgustingly dirty newspapers and other refuse in and around the bushes, and as to the grass being cut, the trees pruned, &c.—oh, well, what is the use? One could go on forever talking about the neglect and abuse of this garden spot of the city.

ROSE-DEATH.

She was their only child . . . and when a stranger
Transplanted her from their safe garden gate
They said no word aloud that hinted danger,
But in their eyes there was the fear of fate,
A stricken look that told aloud the story;
They did not trust him with their shell-pale flower,
Their guarded rose, who thought that love was glory
And did not know at all its darker power. . . .
Not against nature may the rose be mated,
It is a creature that must climb and cling.
She was not from her garden separated,
Hardy of tendril for such mastering.
Before a year had gone, she slipped away . . .

LOWER TAXES OR A BONUS?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The questions which are agitating the United States at the moment are relatively simple. Whether a thing is right or wrong is seldom considered by politicians. If the politicians really understand anything about it, they decide the way that will give them the most votes. The benefit to the country is seldom considered. It seems to me that our hope is that the people are becoming more and more intelligent, and it will soon be impossible for the class of men we have to decide these things to fool them. In other words, we may live to see a class of politicians who have ordinary sense upon the immediate questions of the day.

There is no doubt that our taxes should be reduced. There is also no doubt that the Government has made a great failure in not making all the people pay the income tax whose incomes require them to, and it seems unable to get new names. The subject is really a very easy one with the registering of automobiles and real estate tax bills to start with.

Mr. Mellon is the man of the moment and we are very fortunate in having him as Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, and I heartily endorse his plan for tax reduction.

Robbing Peter to Pay Paul.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

After reading the statements of the various members of the House and Senate in regard to the proposed revision of the taxes, as quoted in THE TIMES, it is impossible to have any feeling but that of disgust for those Representatives and Senators who are endeavoring to "straddle" on the tax and bonus question.

The vast majority of the ex-service men have sufficient intelligence to realise that any agitation for the bonus on the part of these members of the House and Senate is political flypaper to catch their votes. The ex-service men are alive to the fact that to give them a bonus and maintain taxes at the present or higher level is simply robbing Peter to pay Paul. The sole beneficiaries under this procedure would be these political wolves parading in sheep's clothing, provided the expected votes materialized.

The so-called "boys" who served in the war are now full-grown men with the judgment that comes with maturity. They will not be misled by crafty politicians.

I am an ex-service man with three years of service to my credit. My business brings me in daily contact with a great many others. The large majority of those I have talked to are in favor of giving to the disabled all they are entitled to, but for themselves the realization that they performed their duty when their country needed them is ample compensation.

Political Power of the Bonus.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The reduction of the surtaxes of the Federal income tax and the payment of a bonus to war veterans are not necessarily incompatible items of legislation. If the reduction of the surtaxes to a maximum of 25 per cent. results in a net increase in revenue to the Government through capital flowing into industry rather than into tax-exempt securities, as Secretary Mellon and other economists assert will result, then the net increase could be devoted to the bonus payments.

Possibly the taxpayers and the radical bloc would never assent to a reduction of surtaxes not accompanied by a reduction in the lower brackets, and possibly the soldiers' bonus would necessitate a continuance of all the present taxes, but as an economic possibility, though not a political probability, the reduction of surtaxes might help to finance the bonus. Moreover, a cash bonus might result in business inflation which would swell the profits of industry temporarily and with reduced surtaxes would furnish incentives to capitalists to invest in high yield industrial stocks rather than in tax-exempt bonds. As a result, their taxable income would be increased, the Government revenue would be increased and more money than ever would be available for the bonus payments.

From the political standpoint I think any attempt to fight a bonus with a promise of tax reduction is futile. The soldier's wife, sister or mother rarely knows what income tax, if any, he pays, but if my observation is correct, they have taken a keen interest in the passage of the bonus bill. In this typical small American community the only definite statement regarding 1924 politics I have heard is the identical statement from several veterans' wives that they would not vote for Harding in 1924 because he vetoed the bonus bill. The immediate relatives of the 4,000,000 ex-service men outnumber the veterans by two or three to one, and to vast numbers of them the bonus is the 1924 issue and not prohibition or foreign relations. I do not defend this as ideal, but I do maintain it is true, and the politicians are well aware of it, as the forthcoming Congress will show.

Why He Asks a Bonus.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was interested this morning in reading a statement in THE NEW YORK TIMES by Mr. Allen of the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League and am finally convinced that it is about time the ordinarily backward and non-talkative ex-service men should speak.

Mr. Allen speaks of the attempt of the American Legion and certain Congressmen to rush the Bonus bill through Congress before adequate time is given to get the opinion of the country. Where has he been for the last five years? The bonus question has been before every Congress since the war ended. The ex-service men have been promised all kinds of adjusted compensation. Both political parties have recognized the question at every election. Does this look like railroading a measure through the Legislature?

He further states that the American Legion represents only 400,000 of the total of 3,700,000 ex-service men. That is probably true, but it does not imply that the other 3,300,000 are against a bonus. I don't claim to be an economic expert nor a master of argument, but I simply speak as one of the 3,700,000. I was a charter member of one post of the American Legion and later was a Vice Commander of one of the most active posts of Brooklyn, but, because I have found so many other things to do with the $5 dues and with my time, I have been compelled to drop out. There are probably many others in the same condition. I admit that it is not fair to the Legion to fail to back it financially in its fight for adjusted compensation, but we may be able to help a little by letting it know that some of the 3,300,000 agree with it.

I enlisted on the day war was declared and was discharged about a year after the armistice was signed. I was not wounded but am physically just as fit as I was before the war. But mentally I was changed. I returned to the company that formerly employed me; I returned to finish my college education, which was interrupted by the war; but I returned to find that I was no longer interested in the work which I had planned to make my career. I found that others who had not enlisted had overtaken me and had left me behind in salary and opportunity; I found that those who had remained in civilian occupations had received greater compensation and that their ambitions had not been so greatly changed by war conditions. I don't claim to be more patriotic than they; I realise that their work was essential to the successful termination of the war; I am not complaining or claiming that the country owes me a living without my working for it. I simply want to make it clear that the ex-service man interprets the bonus to be a small attempt toward adjusted compensation. Please excuse the excessive use of the first person singular pronoun and take my case as typical of the more fortunate of the ex-service men. There are many who have not come out of it as well as I have.

A LOAN FOR HUNGARY.

League Control Might Set at Rest Anxiety of Her Neighbors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Count Apponyi's farewell message differs little from his spoken words during his lecture tour of America. We have the same "glittering generalities," the same vague demands for the revision of the Treaty of Trianon, without advancing any concrete facts justifying this step. As a rule Count Apponyi based such arguments as he advanced on economic grounds. He maintained that the former Kingdom of Hungary has been so dismembered as to deprive the Magyars of coal, iron, oil and other products necessary to its welfare.

To a certain extent this is true. The Magyar State today consists largely of agricultural lands and contains a large part of the great wheat belt of the Danube basin. The regions in which it formerly sold its surplus products now form part of Yugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia, while the Magyar State has lost control of manufacturing and mineral producing territories. For these economic reasons Count Apponyi demands that the treaty shall be revised and the lost territories retroceded and the Kingdom of Hungary reconstituted within its former frontiers.

But how can territory be retroceded without the population inhabiting it? Count Apponyi's demands, if fulfilled, would once more bring 12,000,000 Slovaks, Yugoslavs, Rumanians and Germans under the Magyar yoke. Under what conditions does he propose that these people should return? Does he propose that universal suffrage shall be introduced, as in every free and democratic country, and a parliament elected reflecting the will of the people? I trow not. That would be the end of Magyar supremacy, a state of things Count Apponyi would never for a moment entertain.

Is there anything in the Magyar State of today to inspire the slightest hope that there would be any change in the attitude of the Magyars toward the people they formerly oppressed so ruthlessly? The Horthy régime is today more harsh and tyrannical than even that of the Hapsburgs. Black reaction reigns supreme in Budapest, one million voters have been deprived of the suffrage, and the secrecy of the ballot has been abolished in the rural districts so that the great feudal lords may terrorize their unfortunate serfs and control their vote.

Major Gosmbesn, Baron Fremay and Captain Ivan Hollas, at the head of the "Awakened Magyars" (the Ku Klux Klan of Hungary), spread terror throughout the land. A camouflaged army, disguised as Customs House officers, frontier guards, foresters, gymnastic societies, &c., is maintained at enormous cost. Arms and munitions are being smuggled into the country from every point where they can be obtained. This policy has notoriously reduced the country to the verge of bankruptcy.

Strange to say, this very policy may be the means of purging the country of the present régime. The financial needs of the country, thanks to this reckless expenditure, are so great that the Government, in its desperation for money, will accept almost any conditions in order to obtain a large loan. It has tried in vain to raise one by direct negotiation with the financial world. It will now probably have to pass under the caudine yoke and accept the assistance of the League of Nations, on the same conditions as Austria did. But this means a Commission of International Control established at Budapest, a commission on which the "little Entente" would be represented. This control would mean the suppression of the camouflaged army and the present expenditure of billions of crowns for arms and munitions. This control might even end in the real democratization of the Magyar State.

If Count Apponyi is sincere in his declaration that he only seeks the economic prosperity and well-being of Hungary there is no need for any change in the present territorial distribution of the former Hungarian kingdom. This aim may be attained by a series of economic conventions between Hungary and the succession States. Such a revision of the Treaty of Trianon is always possible, but the first condition of it is that the Magyar State shall loyally accept the terms of that treaty and renounce all ambition to again impose its yoke on the peoples who acquired their liberation as the result of the allied victory.

Mr. McAdoo "Passes the Buck."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I suggest a rallying cry for William G. McAdoo's candidature for the Presidency of the United States. The cry would have two things in its favor—it is a popular thing and it would be true: "Passing the buck."

That we should borrow for "fifty years" is simply "passing the buck" to the unborn.

When Mr. McAdoo informs us that we can borrow money and have less taxes to pay he is simply "passing the buck."

MISS LAWRENCE WEDS DR. SLATTERY

IN ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Miss Sarah Lawrence, daughter of Bishop William Lawrence of the Massachusetts Episcopal diocese, was married today to the Right Rev. Charles L. Slattery, Bishop Coadjutor of the diocese. The ceremony occurred in St. Paul's Cathedral, with Bishop Lawrence and Dean Edmund S. Rousmaniere of the Cathedral officiating. Only near relatives were present.

Bishop Slattery was rector of Grace Episcopal Church on Broadway at Tenth Street for twelve years, before he was elected to the Episcopate a year ago. On his next birthday, Dec. 9, he will be 56 years old. Prior to his engagement, which was just announced on Nov. 6, his friends had considered him a confirmed bachelor.

The bride, who has made her home with her parents at 122 Commonwealth Avenue, in Boston, is the sister of Mrs. Harold Peabody of Boston, Mrs. Morton L. Peary and Mrs. Lansing P. Reed of this city, Mrs. Lewis H. Mills of Portland, Ore., the Rev. William Appleton Lawrence, rector of St. Stephen's Church in Lynn, Mass., and Frederick C. Lawrence, now a student at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge.

She has been a trustee of Wellesley College and of the Wrentham State School. She is a graduate of the Simmons College School of Social Work and is a Director of the Family Welfare Society and of the Lincoln House. During the war she served in the Volunteer Service Bureau of the Boston Red Cross. She was for four years President of the Junior League, and is also a member of the Women's City Club.

Seave—Hieber.

Miss Louise Hieber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hieber of 150 Bay Thirty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, was married Sunday to Armand Seave at the Church of the Holy Spirit, the Rev Costello Johnson officiating. A reception followed at the home of the bride. Following a trip to Washington and Virginia, the couple will reside at 367 Eighteth Street, Brooklyn.

DAY'S EVENTS IN SOCIETY.

T. R. Stronge Celebrate Wedding Anniversary—Mrs. Child Hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Strong of 880 Park Avenue celebrated the fifth anniversary of their wedding, which took place in the week following the Armistice, by giving a reception in the Waldorf Apartment at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. and Mrs. Strong received alone. There were cards and dancing and a supper served at small tables. The guests included their older friends, as well as younger married people, about two hundred in all. Mr. Willard Brown of 105 East 35th Street gave a dinner of twenty covers, taking their guests to the reception.

WAR WORKERS TO WED.

Miss Emma Rogers to Marry C. H. Nutter—Other Engagements.

The engagement is announced of Miss Emma Hart Rogers of this city, to Charles Henry Nutter of Deland, Fla.

Miss Rogers and Mr. Nutter served overseas during the war with the American Red Cross and in Serbia after the signing of the armistice. Miss Rogers is sailing next Saturday to join her fiance in Jacksonville, Fla., where the wedding will take place on Nov. 27. They will make their home in Deland.

Levinson—Ripen.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Levinson of Cedarhurst, L. I., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edna Levinson, to Mortimer Ripen, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Ripen, 945 West End Avenue, this city.

TEDFORD H. CANN TO MARRY.

New York Athletic Club Swimmer to Wed Miss Power on Nov. 23.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Power, daughter of J. J. Power of 2,284 Loring Place, and Tedford H. Cann, widely known as "Teddy" Cann for his prowess as a swimmer, will take place on Nov. 23. Mr. Cann, who is a member of the New York Athletic Club's water polo team and relay team, has won many swimming championships. During the war, while serving on the submarine chaser May, he volunteered to swim down into the bilges to repair a leak that threatened the vessel. He received the Distinguished Service Medal and the Italian War Cross for his bravery. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cann of this city.

Healy-Kett Wedding on Dec. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kett have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Agnes Dorothy Kett, to Joseph Francis Healy, which is to take place on Saturday morning, Dec. 1, at 10 o'clock, at the Church of St. Joan of Arc, Jackson Heights, L. I. Mr. Healy is the son of Timothy Healy.

Miss Janet Richards to Lecture.

Miss Janet Richards of Washington, D. C., will give the second of her series of twelve talks on Thursday morning at 10:45 o'clock in the ballroom of the Plaza. The lectures are given under the auspices of the Ely Club, a philanthropic society. In addition to her lecture on "European Dictators" Miss Richards will speak at a personal interview with President Coolidge.

Rockefeller Furnishings Sold.

The furnishings and art works removed from "Rockwood Hall," at Tarrytown, and 689 Fifth Avenue, the homes of the late William Rockefeller, were offered for sale yesterday at the Anderson Galleries. Most of the collection will be offered at auction on the three last days of the sale, ending on Saturday. S. Chepse was the largest buyer yesterday. The total for the morning and afternoon sales was $12,-940.50.

HIS AUTOGRAPH LOAD IS TOO MUCH FOR HIM

Owner of 58 Pounds of Noted Signatures Wants to Sell a 2,896-Page Album.

TOURED WORLD TO FILL IT

Carried It by Pushcart, Rickshaw, Pack Mule, Rail and Ship—Asks $10,000 for His Treasure.

A wiry little man with an enormous pack on his back walked yesterday into the reception room of the Rosenbach Company, dealers in rare books, 273 Madison Avenue. He asked to see a member of the company. While an attendant went to announce him he unstrapped the huge pack, swung it down from his shoulders and deposited it in the middle of a large Oriental rug.

The visitor wore faded khaki trousers and a blouse of a Russian design. He stood for a moment stroking his shaggy beard until he got his breath, and then stooped down and unwound a dingy black oilcloth from his precious load. In the folds of the cover was an enormous book—probably three times the width, length and thickness of an unabridged dictionary. When the attendant returned the visitor shouldered the mammoth book and marched into the office of Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach. He placed the tome on the table in front of the book dealer and mopped his brow.

"What is this?" asked the book dealer.

"It's a book of autographs collected all over the world," replied the man. "I've been twelve years collecting them."

Names Some of the Signers.

He opened the big volume and pointed at one of the autographs where he had parted the pages.

"See, there's the signature of Governor 'Al' Smith. He's signed the book three times," said the little man with a chuckle.

He split the great book in numerous other places. He ran his finger down the page and then his eyes danced.

"Here's Lloyd George's autograph," he said.

The visitor turned from page to page and exhibited the autographs of Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Woodrow Wilson, Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge.

"I have the signatures of the five last Presidents of the United States," he said. "I got Harding's in Marion, Ohio. I got Coolidge's when he was Vice President, and I am now on my way to Washington to get him to sign it as President Coolidge."

Throughout the pages of the large volume appear the bright red seals, golden seals and seals in various other colors of most of the Governments of the world.

"How is the signature of a king," said Dr. Rosenbach.

"I have never been able to get the signature of a king," explained the man. "I have tried every possible way to get kings to sign this book, but it can't be done, because I can't get an audience. Nor have I been able to get the signature of a Pope."

He then pointed out the signatures of Thomas A. Edison, Earl Curzon, J. P. Morgan, Henry E. Huntington, General Byng and three Governors General of Canada with the seal of the Dominion, the Prince of Wales and Admiral Togo, whose signature took up half a page.

"I would like to get your autograph," said the world-collector of signatures to Dr. Rosenbach, who signed his name under this entry:

"This is probably the greatest collection of autographs in the world."

Willing to Sell Collection.

But the man with the enormous volume was not through with Dr. Rosenbach when he obtained the latter's autograph. He turned to the book-dealer and asked:

"How much will you give me for this book?"

"I can think of only one man for the moment who might be interested," said Dr. Rosenbach, "and he is Henry E. Huntington of California."

"My God!" moaned the collector of autographs when told his autograph was in California, and it never occurred to me to ask him if he wanted to buy it before I lugged it 3,000 miles across the Continent."

Dr. Rosenbach asked the man why he desired to sell it, and the latter replied:

"My shoulders ache. I'm tired. I've carried this book all around the world, by pushcart, by rickshaw, by pack mule, by rail and by ship, but mostly on my back. It has 2,896 pages and it weighs 58 pounds, and I feel that I won't be able to carry it much further, and I want to sell it."

The owner of the autographs asked several times for a bid and as many times was told to name a price. With weariness in his voice he finally said:

"Ten thousand."

He then explained that he had set out to collect all the important autographs in the world and to offer his album for $1,000,000.

"I was fool enough to believe I could get that price when I started out from America collecting autographs years ago," he said. "My friends all told me I could get that price, and I believed it. You see I'm willing to take a great deal less. It's getting much too heavy for my shoulders."

The owner of the autograph album was told by the book-dealer that $10,000 was a price which the volume might bring in the meantime he asked for the album owner's name.

"My name is Joseph F. Mikulec. I'm a native of Croatia, but I'm a naturalized American, and my home was in Philadelphia. What address? No, I have no address. I spent last night in Newark. I don't know where I shall spend tonight."

Mikulec said that in all his travels with the great collection of autographs he had been held up by robbers only once. That was in the Orient. The bandits thought they had a chest of treasure, perhaps, when they relieved Mikulec of his load, but the collector recovered his prized album not far from the spot of the robbery where the bandits had dropped it by the side of the road.

Dr. Rosenbach advised Mikulec to come around in a few days and promised that he would try to aid him in disposing of the autograph album.

STATE CLUB WOMEN GATHER

Federation Prepares for Albany Convention Opening Today.

ALBANY, Nov. 19.—The Helmuth friendship dinner tonight ended a day of sessions in preparation for the opening tomorrow afternoon of the twenty-ninth annual convention of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Officers, directors and district and department Chairmen met in closed session this morning. At noon they attended a luncheon in honor of Mrs. John H. Booth of Plattsburgh, Federation President. Paul Harvey, editor of the International Magazine, addressed the afternoon assembly on the convention theme, "Good Citizenship; a National Mind; and International Consciousness."

Lord Leverhulme Dinner Put Off.

R. F. R. Huntsman of Brooklyn, Chairman of the Sphinx Club Dinner Committee, announced last night that the dinner which the club was to give in honor of Lord Leverhulme had been postponed until tomorrow evening at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, Manhattan. The dinner had been arranged for this evening, but owing to the fact that the steamer Majestic, upon which the British industrial chief is a passenger, has been delayed by storms and will not dock until tomorrow morning, the postponement was made necessary.

Is Boston, copies of The New York Times may be obtained at 126 Boylston St., telephone Beach 2121, and railroad and hotel news stands.—Adv.

THE HON. LADY HERBERT DIES IN LONDON HOME

Ex-British Ambassador's Widow Was a Sister of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Hon. Lady Herbert died today at her residence in Carlton House Terrace. She will always be remembered in association with her distinguished husband, the late Sir Michael Herbert, as having taken an able part in the relations between Britain and the United States.

Lady Herbert was herself an American. She was Lelia, daughter of the late Richard T. Wilson. Her eldest sister, Mary, who married Ogden Goelet, became the mother of the Duchess of Roxburghe. Her sister Grace married Cornelius Vanderbilt Sr.

Lelia Wilson married Sir Michael Herbert in 1866, when his official duty took him for the first time to Washington as Second Secretary of the British Legation.

In addition to her sisters, Lady Herbert is also survived by two brothers, Mr. Orme Wilson and R. T. Wilson, the latter President of the Saratoga Racing Association and one of the leading patrons of the American turf. Lady Herbert's marriage took place in old St. Bartholomew's Church in this city in 1866. Her husband, who was a brother of the Earl of Pembroke, died in 1906.

CANFIELD REQUESTS DRY CONFERENCES

Asks Smith to Issue Call to New York State Officials on Enforcement.

FOLLOWS COOLIDGE PLAN

Co-ordination of Work by Federal, State and Municipal Agencies Is the Aim.

Governor Alfred E. Smith was asked yesterday by Palmer Canfield, State Prohibition Director, to call conventions of State, county and municipal enforcement officials to consider a program for the enforcement of the Volstead act in New York State. The request was in a letter which stated that it was the outcome of the Governors' conference with President Coolidge on Oct. 20, when a program was adopted contemplating co-ordination of all Federal, State and municipal agencies and suggesting conventions of State officials. The letter follows:

"You are familiar with the action taken at the conference of State Governors with President Coolidge held on Oct. 20 upon the subject of prohibition enforcement, as you were present at such conference. I enclose a copy of the program of action adopted.

"I call to your attention the first provision of such program, calling for the co-ordination of al Federal, State, county and municipal forces; also to the third provision, which provides for the calling of conventions of municipal, county and State enforcement officials at a convenient date to discuss and adopt a program for the State, with the Federal department pledging every possible support to these conventions; also the fourth provision, calling upon the prosecuting attorneys in the various districts of the State to confer on this problem and pledging support with every facility to aid in such discussions.

"It is my understanding that it was the intention thereby to have the Governors call such conventions in their respective States. I therefore request that you call such convention or conventions at such time or times as may be convenient and advisable. I assume it will be necessary to give consideration to the several questions as to whether one or more conventions shall be held, the time and place for holding same, the officials who should be invited to attend and participate, and the program to be considered. In connection with any and all phases of the same, I offer the co-operation of myself and department.

"I will be glad to submit a proposed program for our consideration and furnish you with a list of county and municipal executive and enforcement officials. As many new Sheriffs and District Attorneys and Mayors will enter office on Jan. 1 next, it may be advisable to have such call returnable shortly after such time."

In commenting on the conferences, Director Canfield said: "It is my opinion that it is just as much the duty of the State, county and municipal peace and police officers to enforce the National Prohibition act as it was their duty to enforce the State Prohibition act prior to its repeal on June 1 last. It is said that many of the Sheriffs of counties and Chiefs of Police of various cities do not take their duty very seriously in respect to the enforcement of prohibition. In other cases there seems to be a conflict of opinion and understanding as to what their jurisdiction and powers are in respect to the enforcement of the National Prohibition act. The object of such conventions is to clarify the situation and present full and complete information."

WETS WATCH CHICAGO TRIAL

Dissolution of Liquor Firms May Depend on Case Now On.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Liquor interests throughout the country are watching the Grommes and Ullrich trial here, in which a dozen defendants are charged with conspiracy to violate prohibition by the dissolution of the liquor firm and distribution of a "rum dividend." It was intimated that should the defendants be acquitted similar dissolutions of liquor concerns might result.

According to Benjamin Epstein, one of the defense counsels, the local case was based on the Bacardi rum dissolution case in New York, where he said twice the amount of liquor was distributed without interference.

Another procession of wealthy possessors of blue book names as witnesses was promised. Scott Durand, prominent North Shore resident, was the first of them, with John R. Thompson Jr., Augustus S. Peabody, Charles W. Murphy and others on the list.

Testimony that he received liquor before he had received his certificate of stock purchased in the reorganized Grommes and Ullrich concern was given by Joseph Mares, the first witness who resumed the stand today.

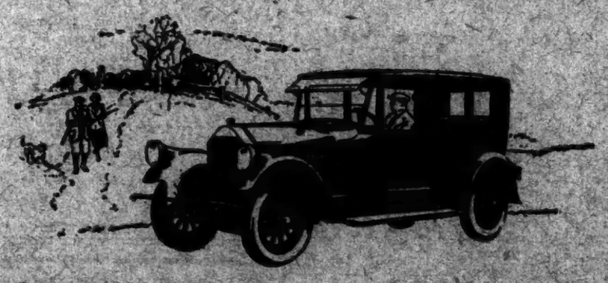
PIERCE



Pierce-Arrow always has been noted for enclosed cars. We believe that in the minds of motorists they represent the utmost in distinctive coachwork.

Of the various types, the Enclosed Drive Limousine—an exclusive Pierce-Arrow development—is by far the most widely sought. This is because it is the only car which is completely convertible from a Limousine to a companionable seven-passenger Sedan.

A new and stauncher body construction permits of a plate glass partition that is practically full width. It disappears with the turn of a handle, permitting an almost uninterrupted sweep of interior lines from windshield rearward.

We will be glad to show you the utility, luxury and comfort of this or other models, and to demonstrate the impressive performance of the famous Pierce-Arrow-built engine with dual valves and dual ignition.

"Know the Great Southwest"

Agricultural and Industrial Centre

By the Secretary of The Muskogee Chamber of Commerce

A good, clean, home city. Population 49,500. A model government—managerial form. On five trunk lines of railroad. The Arkansas, Grand and Verdigris rivers meet at the city's edge.

Thirty thousand acres of rich bottom land give Muskogee county the lead in potato and truck gardening. Principal farm crops, cotton, corn, wheat, alfalfa and fruit. Ideal, mild climate. Magnificent homes and business structures. Splendid boulevard, park and school system. Home of the Oklahoma Free State Fair.

Within 35 miles of unlimited coal areas whose low volatile coal equals the best in the United States. Abundant natural gas for farm and domestic use. Sixty industrial plants. Two great oil refineries. Large creameries paying farmers $1,000,000 annually. Many jobbing houses. On four National Highways; hard surfaced roads. $3,000,000 electrical plant supplies cheap current for power and domestic use.

The best city in the Southwest in which to live. Here you will feel at home at once.

You will receive the fullest cooperation of a live, active Chamber of Commerce. Write the Secretary, C. C. Lydick.

A Schoolhouse Burns Every Day

That is the astonishing average for the United States.

All of these fires mean great danger to property. Many mean loss of life.

And practically every one of them could have been prevented by Concrete construction.

Experience has shown beyond any question that Concrete is the highest type of fire-resistive construction—the kind that saves both life and property.

Can you afford to take chances with the lives of your children?

SMITH ASKS UNION WITH JERSEY ROAD

SEEKS PART OF READING

Declares B. & O., P. & R. and C. of N. J. Should Not Be Consolidated.

HEARD BY COMMERCE BOARD

Port Authority Wants Equal Terminal Facilities Here and at Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The controversy between the Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central Railroads over the control of the Jersey Central and parts of the Philadelphia and Reading, if a plan for the consolidation of the railroad systems of the nation into several great competing groups is put into effect, was continued today before the Interstate Commerce Commission, with most of the interest centring about the testimony of A. H. Smith, President of the New York Central, and the explanation of counsel for the Port Authority of New York City.

Mr. Smith made the point that, as the terminals of the Jersey Central came in what he termed the metropolitan district, it was proper that control of this system should go to the New York Central rather than to the Baltimore & Ohio. He said he expected that most of the Philadelphia & Reading would be given to the Baltimore & Ohio under the plan as finally perfected by the commission, but felt that the future of the Port of New York and the shippers of the country would best be served if a 90-mile strip of the Reading, known as the Catawissa branch, was given to the New York Central for the completion of a line through route from Chicago to New York.

With respect to the question whether he would grant trackage rights over the Jersey Central to the B. & O., Mr. Smith said he would open the door into Jersey City on equal terms, carrying out the principle of equal service.

Under further questioning by Julius H. Cohen, counsel for the Port Authority of New York, Mr. Smith said he would concede both passenger and freight terminal facilities in Jersey City, but at the same time he insisted that the New York Central in return should have equal rights into Philadelphia. Mr. Smith also said he did not believe New York wanted the B. & O. to give up its terminal facilities on Staten Island, where large sums had been spent for piers and other facilities.

Port Authority's Attitude.

It was decided by the Port Authority of New York not to present testimony at the hearing, but an extensive examination of the witnesses was conducted by Mr. Cohen. A statement explaining the attitude of the Port Authority and the reason for its presence at the hearing was given to THE NEW YORK TIMES by E. H. Outerbridge, Chairman of the Port Authority.

"The Port Authority," said Mr. Outerbridge, "could not attempt to form a judgment as to whether any portion of the Philadelphia & Reading or the Central of New Jersey should be allocated to either one or the other of these two systems, or whether it should be maintained as an independent terminal unit, until after the record of the proceedings was completed and the testimony of all of the interests involved in the matter spread upon the record.

"The Port Authority's first and most important duty was to see that the comprehensive plan should not be impaired by the ultimate disposition of the Central of New Jersey. If that could be accomplished and trunk line facilities also greatly improved, a plan would then have been reached which not only the Port Authority but all of the commercial interests of the Port of New York would naturally have to support as a unit.

"It clearly developed at the hearing that there is no real hostility between Philadelphia and New York. The Philadelphia interests want for Philadelphia precisely what New York wants for New York, that is, open terminals and open access to all trunk lines, and the principle applies to both.

"The testimony brought out under cross-examination by counsel for the Port Authority today developed that other commercial organizations in New York which had presented resolutions endorsing the proposal for consolidating the Central of New Jersey with the New York Central Railroad had not meant to ignore the comprehensive plan or the principles of unified service and open terminals, although some of them had been phrased to refer only to this proposed consolidation. All under examination stated that they had supported the comprehensive plan when it was originally prepared and presented to the Legislatures and Congress for adoption, and that they would expect that its principles as relating to terminal operation within the port district would be preserved by appropriate stipulations by the Interstate Commerce Commission in any disposition it might ultimately recommend for consolidation of railroads having terminals within the port district."

Presents New York Central's Case.

Mr. Smith presented the case of the New York Central in detail. He said the road had not invited the present debate about where control of the Philadelphia & Reading and the Jersey Central systems should be placed, but the idea of consolidation had been forced upon the carriers by Congress. When the Reading and Central Jersey were given to the Baltimore & Ohio in the tentative plan proposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, he said, he came forward to see what protection could be obtained for the New York Central.

In summing up his views of the course which would best develop effective service to the various ports of the Atlantic seaboard, Mr. Smith said: "If effective competition is desired it would be far better to view the situation as one of competition between the ports and privilege for the respective railroads having the greatest interests in the respective ports of such facilities as will enable them to make the competition of those ports effective. If, for example, the Pennsylvania does not have at Philadelphia, which is necessarily its preferred port, the facilities needed for the development of that port, let them be secured. If the Baltimore & Ohio does not have at Baltimore, which is necessarily its preferred port, the facilities needed for the development of that port, let them be secured. If the New York Central and Erie systems do not have at New York facilities which are needed to enable them to develop that port effectively let them secure such facilities. There would then be combined a competition of ports with the competition of the railroads."

Mr. Smith expressed the opinion that if the tentative plan of the commission was carried out and all the Philadelphia & Reading and Jersey Central was given to the Baltimore & Ohio, the New York Central would be "dried up" and efforts to perfect its proposed new through route from Chicago to Jersey City made ineffective.

Differs With Daniel Willard.

He discussed the testimony of Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, in which Mr. Willard proposed, if given the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Philadelphia & Reading, to open a new route to Chicago from New York. When this proposition was contrasted with the proposal of the New York Central to open a new through line, Mr. Smith held, there was no similarity between the two conditions.

"The line proposed by the New York Central," he said, "is to become a line between Chicago and New York under a single ownership and management, while the line proposed by the Baltimore & Ohio would be a line under several diverse managements and would not really be anything more than a through route for joint traffic."

Mr. Smith said he understood that Mr. Willard had stated that the differentials on export and import freight did not have any special relation to the hearing. The New York Central differed completely from Mr. Willard he said.

"We do not mean to take the narrow ground," said Mr. Smith, "that because the management of the Baltimore & Ohio is located at Baltimore, and because the Baltimore & Ohio is historically associated with that city, the Baltimore & Ohio would do anything to the advantage of Baltimore which would be out of harmony with economical practices, but we do wish to point out that wherever the management of a consolidated Baltimore & Ohio, Philadelphia & Reading and Central of New Jersey system should be located, it would be always, under the existing system of port differentials, to the interests of that management to see that the largest possible amount of its export and import traffic through the port of Baltimore, and as little as possible through the ports of Philadelphia and New York, Philadelphia being less objectionable from the standpoint of such a management than New York.

Says Differential Favors Baltimore.

"This results from a very simple mathematical calculation. The differential in favor of Baltimore and against New York is 60 cents per ton, and the distance from Baltimore to New York is 190 miles. The additional earning which Baltimore and Ohio would secure for the additional haul of 190 miles is at the rate of about 3.33 mills per ton mile. The differential in favor of Philadelphia and against New York is 40 cents per ton, and the additional distance is 90 miles, so that the additional earning for the additional distance is at the rate of 4.4 mills per ton mile, which is certainly less than the out-of-pocket cost of operation.

"It is therefore apparent that a consolidated company consisting of the Baltimore and Ohio, Philadelphia and Reading, and Central Railroad of New Jersey would not be practicing efficient and economical management if it were to handle through the port of New York any export or import traffic which it could handle through the port of Baltimore, or even through the port of Philadelphia, and the fundamental fact which cannot be ignored or overlooked in this proceeding. On the other hand, the situation of the New York Central system is entirely different. It has no shorter haul to the seaboard than its haul to New York.

"If it be suggested that if the Baltimore and Ohio should secure its proposed short line through the Butler-Williamsport gateway the situation would be different, it may be pointed out that this would, as we understand, be at least 900 miles long, as against 760 from Chicago to Baltimore, and the Baltimore and Ohio system would therefore not bring traffic to the port of New York, encountering a haul of 100 miles further, and it would still be to the interests of the Baltimore and Ohio system as between the two routes, to divert its traffic, both import and export, to the port of Baltimore."

Resolutions adopted recently by the Chamber of Commerce of Newark and the Merchants' Association endorsing a program which would give the Jersey Central to the New York Central under a consolidation plan were presented to the commission.

At the conclusion of the hearing Mr. Outerbridge, Chairman of the Port Authority, took exception to a statement by Mr. Smith that counsel for the Port Authority intended to suggest that the New York Central and the Baltimore & Ohio should jointly operate the disputed Catawissa Branch of the Philadelphia & Reading and the Central of New Jersey into New York. The Catawissa Branch is important link in connection with proposed trunk line from Chicago to New York.

"The extent of the Port Authority's statements, which had been made previously both to Mr. Smith and to Mr. Willard," said Mr. Outerbridge, "was the expression of a hope that they could reach an agreement among themselves which would provide the Port of New York with efficient trunk line and terminal service by both of their systems, whichever one, if either of them, eventually had allocated to them portions of the Reading and the whole of the Jersey Central Railroad in these consolidation proceedings. At no time has the Port Authority advanced to them, nor did it intend to suggest at this hearing, the details of how this should be accomplished."

PINCHOT TO MAKE CANVASS.

He Will Quiz Primary Candidate on Dry Law, His Wife Says.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Governor Pinchot will canvass the State at the next primary election to find out the stand of all candidates on liquor law enforcement, Mrs. Pinchot today told Republican women of Pennsylvania. She urged them to support "Judges who will enforce the law and the Eighteenth Amendment."

Liquor law enforcement, Mrs. Pinchot declared, was the most important issue of the day. "It is no longer an issue of the right or wrong of prohibition but simply of law enforcement," she said.

She asked women to support the laws the Governor was seeking to have enacted. These would give to the State power to inspect and license breweries and distilleries.

Thinks Long Island Skeletons Are Those of Ancient Norsemen

Skeletons of ten persons which were unearthed in excavations in a sand bank at Fourth Avenue and Central Drive, Maibe, near Whitestone, may be the remains of Norsemen, who made voyages to this vicinity long before the discovery of America by Columbus, according to the opinion expressed last evening by Dr. Thomas Evans, Assistant Professor of Anatomy at the Long Island Medical College. He went to the Borough Hall in Long Island City, where the bones were taken by order of Borough President Maurice E. Connolly, at the request of the Borough President and made a preliminary examination. Dr. Evans will today make a more careful study of the skeletons to determine accurately the race of the persons who were buried. Dr. Evans said he was sure the skeletons were not those of white men of the period of settlement on Long Island. They might be those of Indians, but whatever they were they had been buried for at least two centuries.

HOOVER'S FRIENDS TO FIGHT JOHNSON

To Join Senator's Foes in California to Win Delegates for Coolidge.

TO SUPPORT WORLD COURT

Johnson Expected to Take Fight to New England in Reprisal for Contest at Home.

Friends of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and enemies of United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson will try to bring about the election in California of delegates to the Republican National Convention favorable to the nomination of President Calvin Coolidge.

Information to this effect reached New York yesterday following an interchange of messages between Republican leaders here and persons prominent in the anti-Johnson movement in California. Words that there is better than an even chance that the entire California delegation will be for him has been sent to the President.

The decision to contest California against Senator Johnson originated in that State and the present movement had its birth in the candidacy of Mr. Hoover in 1920, when he entered the California primaries and was beaten by Senator Johnson by 170,000. Last year the same group of Mr. Hoover's friends, augmented by former Johnson supporters, opposed Senator Johnson for renomination for United States Senator and whittled his majority down to 75,000.

When Senator Johnson made formal announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for President last week, the movement in his own State against him, which had been organized more or less under cover, came out in the open. A series of "Republican club" which had been organized throughout the State were disclosed as ready being clubs to promote the nomination of President Coolidge.

Accept World Court Challenge.

The clubs were called "Republican Clubs" because the main charge in the California fight against Senator Johnson will be that he is not a Republican. The plan of campaign against him will accuse him of directly causing the election of one Democratic President by "knifing" Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes in 1916 and of contributing to the election of President Wilson the first time by running for Vice President on the Progressive ticket with the late Theodore Roosevelt in 1912. Other instances will be cited to show that Senator Johnson has endeavored repeatedly to destroy party government and to encourage political individuality and insurgency.

The California Administration Republicans will accept his challenge on the World Court. Upon the assumption that President Coolidge is true to his promise to support President Harding's policies, the anti-Johnson organization has already declared for the World Court, and submit Senator Johnson's extreme views of American isolation to the voters of California.

The decision of Senator Johnson's political enemies to carry the fight to him in his own State will be followed by every form of political reprisal which his supporters have in their power. In addition to invading the New England States of Connecticut and New Hampshire, where Senator Johnson was said to have some assurances of support, local supporters said last night that an effort would be made to get at least a few Johnson delegates in Massachusetts, the President's home State, by appeal to whatever sentiment might exist against the World Court and the League of Nations. Announcement had previously been made that if the President's supporters failed to keep out of Senator Johnson's home State Senator Johnson would invade the President's.

Tactically, the fight against Senator Johnson in his own State is believed to weaken him considerably. In 1920, the threat of Mr. Hoover's candidacy was not sufficient to make him abandon his campaign in the rest of the country, and he won in California without going home to take personal part in the campaign there.

Loses Control of Machine.

At that time Senator Johnson had the support of a powerful and well-oiled State machine. According to information brought East by Administration Californians, this State machine is now in hands hostile to Senator Johnson. Secretary of State Frank Jordan and State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson have come out in support of President Coolidge, and the movement to elect Coolidge delegates is said to have the support of Governor Friend W. Richardson. Albert E. Boynton, Republican State Chairman, is still supporting Senator Johnson, but the latter's claim to control of the Republican State Committee is disputed.

In Southern California, Ralph Arnold of Los Angeles, organizer of the Hoover movement in 1920 and now Republican Chairman of Los Angeles County, is supporting the movement to elect Administration delegates. The Los Angeles Republican Committee was the first body in the country to declare support for President Coolidge. It did so the day after President Harding's death, upon publication of President Coolidge's pledge to support the Harding policies.

Next year, according to the view of Californians supporting President Coolidge, Senator Johnson will face an entirely different situation in California from that which confronted him in 1920. In the latter year, the campaign for Mr. Hoover was run by men who now admit that they were amateurs in politics. These men are still against Senator Johnson and they have gained in experience.

In addition to that, the Coolidge Californians assert, President Coolidge is the residuary legatee for most of the sentiment for Senator Harding and this is large in that State. They recalled that Senator Johnson recognized this last June in his letter to C. K. McClatchy, editor of the Sacramento Bee, in which he said he doubted if he could carry California against Hoover, Harding, or any other candidate.

WANTS KENYON NOMINATED.

Senator Brookhart Talks Politics and Tells of Tax Plan.

United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, who was in New York yesterday on his way to Washington, said that his particular candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination next year was former Senator William S. Kenyon of Iowa. Senator Brookhart was not sure if Mr. Kenyon would be a candidate, but said he thought that under certain circumstances he could be induced to throw his hat into the ring.

Senator Brookhart, leader of the farmer bloc in the Senate, said he thought Henry Ford was the "greatest political personality" of his time. He did not care to state whether he thought Ford would be progressive enough to suit the situation, but said he was sure the Detroit manufacturer would win if he got the nomination from either the Republicans or Democrats. He said he was not prepared to say if Ford could be elected if he headed a third party.

"Do you think the Progressives would support Ford running on a third party ticket?" Senator Brookhart was asked.

"It would make no difference to me," he replied. "Ford's influence is above and beyond the influence of politicians."

"What is your opinion of Senator Hiram Johnson's candidacy?"

"Oh, he's a good man and very strong," the Senator replied. He was reminded that Mr. Johnson had not aligned himself with the farmers at the last session of Congress.

"Well, he had better do it this time," was his only comment.

Supreme Court Holds Film Exchange Comes Under Federal Anti-Trust Law

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Exchange of motion picture films through State distributers constitutes interstate commerce and is subject to Federal laws, including the Sherman Anti-Trust law, according to an opinion rendered today by the United States Supreme Court in the case of Charles G. Binderup against the Pathe Exchange, Inc., of Nebraska.

The plaintiff asserted that he had been driven out of business at Minden, Neb., through the refusal of various exchanges to supply him films. He contended that the State exchanges entered into a conspiracy to put him out of business and placed him on the black list. He held that there had been a restraint of trade by the Pathe Exchange, because this and eighteen other exchanges refused to let him have films.

The Federal Court of Nebraska dismissed the suit, and this was affirmed by the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals. The lower courts decided that interstate commerce in films ended when they had been delivered to exchanges in Nebraska, and after that the Federal courts had no jurisdiction over them.

These decisions are reversed by the opinion of the Supreme Court handed down by Associate Justice Sutherland, who said:

"It is difficult to imagine how interstate trade can be more effectively restrained than by suppressing it, and that, in effect, so far as the exhibitor is concerned, is what the distributers in combination are charged with doing and intending to do. It is doubtless true that each of the distributers, acting separately could have refused to furnish films to the exhibitor without becoming amenable to the provisions of the act, but here, it is alleged, they combined and conspired together to prevent him leasing from any of them.

"The illegality consists not in the separate action of each, but in the conspiracy and combination of all to prevent any of them from dealing with the exhibitor. The contracts with these distributers contemplated and provided for transactions in interstate commerce. The alleged purpose and direct effect of the combination and conspiracy was to put an end to these contracts and future business of the same character, and 'restrict' in that regard the liberty of a trader to engage in business and, as a necessary corollary, to restrain interstate trade and commerce, in violation of the Anti-Trust act.

"The judgments of the courts below are reversed and the case recommended to the District Court for further proceedings in conformity with this action."

JOHNSON TO FIGHT IN EVERY PRIMARY

California Senator Says Voters, Not Bosses, Should Name Presidential Candidates.

CHALLENGES ALL RIVALS

But He Is Unwilling Just Now to to Discuss Burning Political Issues.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Senator Hiram Johnson of California, calling himself a Progressive candidate for President, refused again today to outline in clear terms his progressive platform or his views on live political questions. After he had sat at luncheon in the Senate restaurant with Senators Lodge, Smoot and Norris, with Senator Borah at a distant table, Mr. Johnson returned to his office, where he saw a group of newspaper men and was caught in action later by the moving cameramen.

Mr. Johnson made it clear that he did not wish to be interviewed on the burning political issues, as he intended to set forth his position on these questions later in a formal speech. He made it almost impossible to ask any pertinent questions, although one of his visitors inquired as to his attitude on the Mellen tax reduction proposals. To this he said:

"Everybody is for tax reduction. But I am not ready to commit myself on any details."

Senator Johnson has been among the ardent bonus supporters, and his friends say that if he is consistent he cannot support the Mellon recommendations, although he and other Senators find themselves in a position where they are faced with political troubles if they refuse to reduce the taxes of the masses and give bonus payments to the ex-service men.

Mr. Johnson said he intended to carry his fight into every primary State and thought it was the duty of every candidate for President to do the same.

"I want the rank and file of the Republican voters to have the right to express themselves for a candidate," the Senator added. "I am going to give them an opportunity to pass upon my candidacy, and I am ready to philosophically accept the results of the primaries.

"We recognize no right of the nomination for President being made by self-constituted leaders or bosses. The people must decide their candidate, and I am going to put it up to the Republican party in the primary elections. My one thought and one theory is to go ahead with the fight. No one has a right to complain about my course, and I think every man who wants to be a candidate for President ought to do the same thing."

In another two weeks, he said, headquarters would be organized in various places and his campaign would go forward with a swing. Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey and Montana were States in which Mr. Johnson said he would make especially strong fights, although he will go into many others.

"I am going into most of the States and I extend a cordial invitation to others to go into California," he declared.

"Will you go into Pennsylvania?" he was asked.

"I am not clear about that. Decision will be made later," Mr. Johnson replied.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania also is expected to enter the contest, and if so Mr. Johnson probably will not make a real fight in that State, although he will go after delegates in the western part of Pennsylvania.

As a final question, Senator Johnson was asked whether he thought taxation and bonus would be issues, to which he replied:

"I am not clear that they will be political issues."

$150,000 for Westchester Parks.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Nov. 19.—The Westchester County Board of Supervisors today authorized the expenditure of $150,000 for the immediate improvement of the county parks. This does not include new buildings already provided for, but will provide for more highways and improvements. The money is to be expended as follows: Mamaring Island, at Rye, $35,000; Croton Point, at Cortland, $35,000; Tibbetts Brook Valley, at Yonkers, $35,000; Glen Island, at New Rochelle, $35,000; Woodlands Lake, at Yonkers, $10,000.

DAKOTA TEST TODAY ON THE PRESIDENCY

Counties Will Elect Delegates to All Party State Conventions.

4 CANDIDATES STAND OUT

Johnson, McAdoo, La Follette and Ford Will Battle for Supremacy.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 19.—The names of Hiram Johnson, Republican; William G. McAdoo, Democrat; Robert M. La Follette and Henry Ford stand out as the most frequently mentioned Presidential possibilities on the eve of the county conventions in South Dakota tomorrow.

The Republicans, Democrats and Farmer-Labor Parties are to hold conventions in every county to name delegates to the State convention to be held at Pierre Dec. 4. The instructions given to these delegates are expected to reveal the sentiment of the State toward Presidential aspirants.

In the Republican conventions the battle will be between the forces supporting Senator Johnson and those favoring the candidacy of President Coolidge. State party leaders profess to be at sea regarding the probable outcome. Several county leaders intimated today that they preferred to have their delegates uninstructed, while others expect to fight for Johnson delegates.

The candidacy of McAdoo will be sponsored by the State organization in the Democratic conventions, according to W. W. Howes, State Chairman. The element opposed to the "regular" organization also favors McAdoo, but a third group clings to the name of Henry Ford.

In the Farmer-Labor gatherings the contest will be between the followers of Ford and Senator LaFollette.

The Presidential nominees of the State convention will be required to accept the nomination before Jan. 1 or lose their place on the primary ballot to be voted on in March. This fact has detracted some enthusiasm from the Ford movement, since there is no assurance that Mr. Ford will make the race.

F. H. Hildebrandt of Watertown, Democratic member of the State Legislature and President of the South Dakota branch of the National Ford-for-President clubs, declared tonight in a formal statement that "Mr. Ford is willing to abide by the election laws of South Dakota, and if the Democratic party of this State shall have drafted Mr. Ford as their national standard-bearer then, and then only, will Mr. Ford announce his acceptance."

"Until Ford either officially so deny," he said, "that Mr. Ford, or any person with authority to speak for him, ever informed any person that he would not accept the Democratic nomination for President if it was offered to him."

Regardless of the action of tomorrow's conventions on the Ford candidacy, it is considered probable that Ford's name will be on two, if not three, party tickets in the March primary, provision being made in the Primary law for the nomination of a minority candidate by any five delegates to a State proposal convention. Under this stipulation leaders in all parties declare Ford's name will get second place on all three primary ballots.

WHEELER ASSAILS SMITH.

Declares Governor Cannot Be Elected President on a Wet Plank.

Referring to him as "Governor 'Alcoholic' Smith," last evening before the Presbyterian Social Union's Fall dinner in the Hotel Astor, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, of Washington, D. C., declared that Governor Smith "cannot make the White House a rendezvous for nullifications." The other speakers were Carl L. Milliken, formerly Governor of Maine, who is an active Baptist layman, and Harry N. Holmes, who was Secretary of the recent Washington Citizenship Conference. The toastmaster was the Rev. Dr. John A. Marquis, General Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions.

"There are not enough wets to elect 'Al' Smith as President of the United States," declared Mr. Wheeler. "Wet planks are too slippery for any man to run on one as 'Al' Smith will discover if he tries it." Applause interrupted his statements.

DEMOCRATS DISCUSS AN ANTI-KLAN PLANK

Leaders at French Lick Consider Its Advisability, but Avoid a Decision.

THINK IT MAY BE OBVIATED

They Look for Klan Decline—Firm Stand Might Gain Northern Negro Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Nov. 19.—While neither Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy nor Thomas Taggart, Democratic leader of Indiana, was willing today to discuss the prospects for or against the inclusion of an anti-Ku Klux plank in the Democratic national platform next year, there is said to be every likelihood that one will be proposed as a result of the conferences which have been in progress here for a week past between these two and George E. Brennan, chief of the Democratic forces in adjacent Illinois.

It is known that arguments for and against such a proposal have been carefully weighed in the course of conversations between the three leaders who, if they stand together, will hold more than a balance of power in the great party conclave next year. When Mr. Murphy was asked today whether he had anything to say on the subject, he merely replied:

"I do not want to get into that now; I am not prepared to say anything on the subject at this time."

Before the question was taken up the three conferees had received reports growing out of an investigation made in the South and some Northern States. From these it was gathered that when the Klan appeared to be losing in the South, owing to high-handed and adventurous use of its power, it was reaching out and making headway in some States north of the Mason and Dixon line. Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, and even the Northwest were said to have afforded promising soil for the growth of the hooded fraternity.

The decline in Klan influence in the South, where it originated, is looked upon by Mr. Murphy as an indication that the Klan cannot flourish long anywhere and that its ascendency in the North will be followed by an equally rapid decline. One of the conferees is authority for the statement that by the time the Democratic National Convention meets this may already have progressed to an extent where no anti-Klan plank would be either necessary or expedient. On this score, however, there has been no agreement among the conferees.

The consensus of opinion in the conference appears to have been that under certain conditions opposition to the Klan might prove an exceedingly profitable issue in the coming national campaign. It is regarded as certain here that by embodying a pronouncement against the Klan and against radical and religious intolerance generally, the Democrats would be in a position to solidify groups of voters whom the Klan has antagonized in speech and action and that as a result many thousands of normally Republican votes would be polled for the Democratic candidates.

The Klan's greater activity and increased strength in the North, it was said tonight, might be regarded as an incentive rather than a deterrent to those who believe that there should be a pronouncement against it in the party platform.

Democrats Might Gain Negroes.

In these calculations the heavy influx of negroes from the South during and after the war has figured strongly. In this State, in Ohio and Illinois the negro vote, according to politicians who have surveyed the situation, is likely to become more of a factor to be reckoned with than it has been at any time heretofore. Under normal conditions the increase in the colored vote would not be a good thing for the Democrats, because of the traditional trend of the negro toward Republican candidates in a national campaign, but with the Democratic platform concaining an anti-Klan plank and the Republican platform said to be expected silent on the subject—as the situation is viewed here—the Democratic Party would be the direct beneficiary from the negro immigration.

Mr. Murphy has told his fellow conferees that if any proof were needed that the negro voter would respond readily to Democratic advances the last three elections in his own State had proved it. In the Mayoralty election in 1921, the State election last year and the election in New York City a fortnight ago all voters deserted the Republican candidates in droves, many to Socialist candidates as a result of recognition, both in the form of patronage and in other ways, from the Hylan Administration, from Tammany Hall and the Democratic State organization.

Murphy, Taggart and Brennan are believed to be personally favorable to a platform pronouncement against the Klan and the nomination of a candidate who, through his personality, would vitalize that protest. In Indiana, where the Klan is supposed to be in control politically at this time, Senator Samuel M. Ralston, who is expected will have the backing of Mr. Taggart and the Hoosier delegation, recently felt himself called upon to declare that the Democratic Party always had and always would stand for the Constitution and its guarantee of freedom to worship according to conscience.

While it is recognized by the French Lick conferees that undoubtedly there would be opposition in the convention to the inclusion of an anti-Klan plank because it might pave the way for the injection of dreaded religious issues in the campaign, as the situation is viewed here that opposition would not be so great that it could not readily be overcome, assuming that ground for such action should exist when the convention assembles. In fact, the belief here is that the fight on an anti-Klan plank would be far less formidable than the prospective fight on the proposed "liberal" prohibition plank, should one be adopted.

URGES DEMOCRATS TO FORM VICTORY CLUBS

Chairman Hull Tells Massachusetts Leaders Presidential Campaign Has Begun.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Cordell Hull, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, addressing a conference of State leaders here today, outlined a plan for the formation of "Victory Clubs" in all the large cities of the country as an opening feature of the Presidential campaign.

"The campaign is on now," he said, "so far as educational and preliminary organization work is concerned. The Democratic National Headquarters has adopted the policy of being a strictly neutral agency, so that the question of candidates is not discussed nor are such subjects as the bonus, which is a controversial and non-political matter for both parties.

"On the question of economy and taxation the Democratic Party had a consistent record of 100 years of rigid economy and equitable taxation. When the Republican Administration suggests the idea of any sort of tax relief it is featured by Republican newspapers as a very unusual thing, which it is in fact.

"If the Republican Administration seriously desires to give the people real tax relief they should include the present outrageous Fordney-McCumber system of taxes and thereby give relief to 110,000,000 people."

Father of Missing Boy Sends New Appeal to Kidnappers

Samuel Pinkney of 358 Grand Street, whose son Irving, 4½ years old, was kidnapped on Oct. 24, made another appeal yesterday that the boy be returned. This time he asks the kidnapper to make restoration through a spirit of love, and promises that he will not prosecute the abductors.

Earlier in the day he suggested to the police that they submit samples of anonymous letters sent them to the Vienna handwriting expert, Rafael Schermann. The appeal follows:

"If anybody took our child for love, will you have pity on us and not break our life, but return our dear one to us? Every one in our family is so broken in spirit, not sleeping nights and looking around every day, that we are all on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

"Also have pity on our child, who loved us so much. We believe he is lonesome and would be happy to see us once more. If you care for the child, return him for his own sake. We will make no trouble for you."

NEW RADICAL PARTY FORMED IN CHICAGO

It Begins Without a Name, but Is Intended to Absorb "Minority Political" Units.

PLANS CONVENTION MAY 30

This, It Is Said, Will Be Open to All Comers, Including Ford, Borah and La Follette.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—A new political party movement was inaugurated formally in Chicago today. It begins its career without a name, purposely, although several names were suggested, including Progressive and Farmer-Labor. Amalgamation of existing minority political elements and radical groups into a united movement is its purpose, according to J. A. H. Hopkins of New York, national Chairman of the Committee of Forty-eight, and prime mover of the conference at which the new political baby was born.

A call for a national nominating convention of these organizations to be held at St. Paul or Minneapolis May 30 was issued and signed by the fifteen men and women who wrote their platform here today. This platform, composed of four principal planks, which briefly declare for public control of natural resources, public ownership of railroads, canals, pipe lines and all means of communications and "equal rights," will be carried to Omaha by Mr. Hopkins tomorrow for presentation to the "progressive conference" that opens a three-day session there. Mr. Hopkins hopes the Omaha conference, which is said to have a Henry Ford background, will fall in line with the principles promulgated here.

The national convention will be open to all comers, including Ford, Senator La Follette and Senator Borah, Mr. Hopkins said. The Omaha conference was called by Roy M. Harrop, Chairman of the Progressive Party of Nebraska, who attended the meeting here today. Senator Borah was represented more or less officially by Frank E. Johnsese, Chairman of the Progressive Party of Idaho, while Judge Edward J. Jeffreys of Utah and Harold T. Clapp, editor of The St. Louis Star, who told how he had become "Doctor Harry Thompson" by the payment of $500 to the Missouri diploma ring, whom he named as follows:

Lenders of the Farmer-Labor Party of Illinois held aloof from the conference as a result of their break with Mr. Hopkins in 1920. They declare allegiance, however, to the Farmer-Labor Party of Minnesota, which was represented by William Mahoney, member of the State Committee. Others present were E. B. Lane, Chairman of the Progressive Party of Ohio; W. F. Boland and Wayne Paulin of the Progressive Party of Pennsylvania; Phillip Rice, Chairman of the Progressive Party of New York; Alice Lorraine Daly and Tom Ayers, Committeewoman and Chairman, respectively, of the South Dakota Farmer-Labor Party; F. A. Pattison, Chairman of the New Jersey Progressive Party; W. R. Edwards, Chairman of the California Non-Partisan League; August Williges, Iowa; Dorr Carroll, North Dakota, members of the Committee of Forty-eight.

The conference endorsed resolutions adopted by the unofficial Progressive conference at St. Paul on Nov. 15 and 16, urging legislation in accordance with the various planks of the platform written here today.

The purpose of the conference, Mr. Hopkins said, is to bring about the active co-operation through a central body of every voter who realizes the necessity of abolishing special privileges and believes that the public ownership of our transportation system and the revision of our Federal Reserve System are the "special issues upon which we must focus our attention."

OMAHA CONVENTION FOR FORD.

Gathering of Radical Groups Is Expected to Endorse Him.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 19.—Henry Ford for President is the cry of the advance delegates arriving in Omaha today for the convention of Independents, Progressives, Farmer-Laborites, National Economic Leaguers, Non-Partisan Leaguers and Protestants in general which begins here tomorrow afternoon and will last for several days.

Roy M. Harrop of Omaha, head of the National Economic League, will be temporary Chairman of the meeting. The convention was called by the National Progressive Party of which Harrop is Secretary.

R. F. Pettigrew, former Senator from South Dakota, will deliver the keynote speech tomorrow afternoon.

This convention will be the first of a series of gatherings that will pave the way for a united national third party in 1924," said Chairman Harrop tonight.

"We have no cut and dried program and no pet candidate, though I believe a majority of the delegates will be for Ford. In fact it is a foregone conclusion that Ford will be our candidate."

COOLIDGE QUARTERS OPEN.

Reservations for Johnson Are Also Made in Chicago Hotel.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Fred W. Upham, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, on his return from Washington today repeated his prediction that Chicago will be named as the 1924 convention city when the National Committee meets Dec. 11 and 13.

Tentative reservations at the Congress Hotel have been made for Senator Hiram W. Johnson, and the "Coolidge for President Club" opened quarters today at the same hotel. Dr. E. Howard Taylor, who opened the Coolidge quarters said he is acting without word from the President or persons authorized to speak for him.

Frank Hitchcock, former Postmaster General, who was in more or less mysterious exile in Chicago, is understood to have cut loose from the Coolidge camp entirely and to be seeking a seat on the Johnson band wagon.

Missourian Offers Evidence Expected to Result in Extradition to Connecticut.

ARREST FOR DEATH SOUGHT

Prosecutor Will Ask Manslaughter Warrant for Dr. Sutcliffe of Unionville.

16 DEGREE MILLS LISTED

Governor Templeton Plans Special Session of Legislature to Pass New Medical Law.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 19.—Extradition of the Missouri diploma ring for trial in Connecticut on charges of perjury and conspiracy, and possibly manslaughter, is expected as a result of the opening day's evidence given the Extraordinary Grand Jury which was convened here today and began an inquiry into the situation in this State and elsewhere resulting from fake diploma mills loosing 25,000 bogus medical diplomas throughout the country.

From time to time State's Attorney H. M. Alcorn will dispatch to New York, Massachusetts and other States transcripts of evidence relating to medical crimes in other States. Similar evidence concerning Connecticut offenses in other counties will be sent to the prosecutors. Bench warrants for summary arrests were being prepared here tonight.

Governor C. A. Templeton, who arrived in Hartford tonight, was interested in learning the first day's progress of the Grand Jury. It reported that he is considering the advisability of calling a special session of the Connecticut Legislature to revise the State Medical Practice Act, enacted in 1892. Inasmuch as the Legislature will not meet again regularly until January, 1925, the Governor is inclined to believe the present emergency should not be permitted to continue for fourteen months without legislative action.

Records Show Increase of "Alumni."

Evidence adduced today showed that Kansas City "graduates" had passed the Eclectic Examining Board in Connecticut in increasing numbers during the last seven years as follows: In 1917, 5; 1918, none; 1919, 2; 1920, 8; 1921, 38; 1922, 25; 1923, 39. In 1920 one "alumnus" from the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons passed the same board, but in 1921 there were thirty-four with "diplomas" from the St. Louis college.

AMERICAN FASHIONS FOR SPRING SHOWN

FABRIC THE PRINCIPAL THING

Tube Silhouette Popular, and Skirts Again Are Shorter—Corduroy for Outdoors.

The Model Makers' Association held its Spring Fashion Review at the Ritz-Carlton yesterday. True to its policy outlined at its first show last June, the association interests itself only in American made clothes for American women.

Most of the gowns adhered to the tube silhouette, showing that creators believe that if their clothes are to succeed, comfort must be the chief consideration. Nevertheless, the robe de style, so much loved by French creators, still had its place yesterday and the influence of the circular skirt, which has striven for several seasons now for a prominent position, was shown in charming creations.

The fabric is really the thing now, and overshadows the details of a costume. Rich plaids and stripes, done in harmonizing tones or contrasting color are handsome decoration in themselves. Soft colored crepes have satin stripes in contrasting shades woven in and are in some cases edged with stitchings of wool or silk yarn.

Sports clothes and street costumes were featured at the Spring exhibit. An interesting departure was in corduroy which is woven in a number of new patterns and designs. Knitted fabrics are still good and also flannels and velvet cloth. For afternoon gowns printed silks have unlimited possibilities and, of course, handsome laces are smart for evening.

Capes still have a very important place in the street costume, either as a definite part of the dress or as a smart adjunct. They are also used on sports things. Sleeveless gowns too will be seen in the Spring wardrobe.

The skirt lengths are shorter again. Ten inches from the floor appears to be about the prescribed length, although even shorter ones were shown.

One of the most interesting of the evening gowns was of peach colored taffeta of bouffant design. The skirt was of gold lace and a bow of silver ribbon completed the decorative effect. A black evening gown echoed the pannier effect but more interest was shown in the draped evening gowns.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"In the Next Room" will open next Monday at the Vanderbilt Theatre.

"Wise Men" will open at the Fulton on Tuesday of next week instead of Monday.

"The Vegetable" opened last night in Atlantic City.

"The Wild Westcotts," by Anne Morrison, was produced last night in Stamford, with a cast headed by Vivian Martin, Elliott Nugent and Morgan Farley.

"The Dancers" was transferred last night from the Brookhurst Theatre to the Ambassador, and "A Love Scandal" moved from the Ambassador to the Comedy.

MORE OPERA SEATS FOR METROPOLITAN

SOME UPPER BOXES, TOO

One Proposed Change Is to Bring Upper Galleries Forward Into Auditorium.

Reports that the Metropolitan Opera House will be remodeled in the Spring by adding a thousand middle-price seats and the possible elimination of the unfashionable upper boxes were met at the Opera House last night with the statement that such plans have been long entertained. They have become urgent this year, when every seat with a more than partial view of the stage is sold out for the season.

To increase the visibility without decreasing the audibility of opera in Broadway's golden theatre is the problem that architects have been asked to work out. The owning corporation, the Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate Company, through President G. G. Haven, is understood to have expressed approval of the general proposal made by the operating company's Board of Directors under Chairman Otto H. Kahn.

When the house was built forty years ago there were fewer than a thousand seats on the orchestra floor, most of the present outer circle and standing space being walled off from the auditorium, while the galleries were much as they now are. Changes were made in rebuilding after fire that destroyed the interior in 1892. A dozen years later Conried redecorated the theatre in red and gold, but its then capacity of 3,440 remained unchanged until the recent addition by Gatti of some seventy-nine seats in the room of standees.

Plans have been made for a rearrangement of the ground floor to permit 125 new chairs, while for any further addition such as the 1,000 seats now proposed, it will be necessary to rebuild completely one of the upper stories. This can neither be done with the gallery or balcony, which already reach to the Broadway wall of the building. The shallower dress circle has been filled in with seats wherp formerly were promenades. An entire row of leased boxes, in which are those held by Gatti-Casazza and by the Directors' Board, still offers a space where half-dozens of expensive seats might be replaced by hundreds at $5.50 or some price between the $4.40 above stairs and $7.70 on the ground.

Property Now Worth $7,000,000.

The Opera House clientele were quick to note yesterday's sudden prospect of more sightly subscription seats than those occupied by many recent newcomers in the Golden Horseshoe. Seats in a front row are family heirlooms there, while the thirty-five shares controlling the real estate are in most cases still held by the estates of those who helped to building the house, in 1883. The block, with its four street fronts, was held at $5,000,000 at the opening of this century. According to the last sales of parterre boxes, at better than $200,000, the property is in the aggregate worth $7,000,000 now.

A significant and most radical change, proposed but not yet determined on, is the increase of upper floor space by bringing all the upper galleries forward into the auditorium, as was done with a top gallery at the Century Theatre. Experts must decide as to the effect of such a change upon the theatre's acoustics. The view of the stage from those floors, however, would obviously be at closer range. At present the house measures about 105 feet from stage to lobby wall, and 75 feet from floor to ceiling. The old form of narrow horseshoe, a "hairpin curve," would be thus altered into a broader, shallower well, more on the order of latter-day theatre design.

Official figures before the war told that the average cost of raising the curtain on a night of opera had then risen to more than $9,000. It is an open secret among the box owners and their friends concerned with the future of the house, that the average cost of a performance today is about $14,000. This season an added item of $60,000 is paid to stage hands alone.

The orchestra scale has advanced in proportion, and rumor has it that singers' salaries have not fallen but have largely and generally increased from the rates paid in the old palmy days of priceless opera stars. The Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate Company, which has resisted all offers to move from the present site, made known last season its policy to improve the existing Opera House so far as that might be done without damage to good acoustics and luxurious interior such as the Metropolitan now affords.

MR. HUMPERDINCK HERE.

Son of Composer to Conduct Orchestra for "The Miracle."

Wolfran Humperdinck, son of Engelbert Humperdinck, the Dutch composer, arrived yesterday from England on the White Star liner Adriatic to conduct the orchestra for "The Miracle" when it is produced next month by Morris Gest in association with Max Reinhardt. The music for "The Miracle" was composed by Engelbert Humperdinck and his son is said to understand thoroughly his father's wishes in the matter of interpretation. He is the manager of the National Theatre in Weimar, Germany, which was founded by the German poet Goethe.

Another member of the party was Frederick Schirmer, composer and winner of the Rome prize for composition, who assisted Humperdinck Sr. in the revision of "The Miracle" musical score. He will be one of the directors of the orchestra and the third director, Elmer Nelson, is already in New York.

Mr. Schirmer is accompanied by his wife, a German soprano, who will take part in the play, and another on the Adriatic was Fritz Feld, who will assist Professor Reinhardt in the production.

$1 A DAY CRUEL, WIFE SAYS.

Asks for a Separation Because of Husband's Budget System.

On the ground that one dollar a day for household expenses is cruel and inhuman treatment, Mrs. Rebecca K. Shaw, 1,108 Blake Avenue, Brooklyn, applied to Supreme Court Justice Lazansky yesterday for alimony of $25 weekly and counsel fees of $200, pending trial of her separation suit against Isidore N. Shaw, an engineer of the Public Service Commission. The court reserved decision. Mrs. Shaw says in an affidavit that her husband put her on a budget system in 1920.

"My husband set up a bookkeeping system for me," she said, "giving me $1 a day for expenses, and he kept strictly to this system. If a month had thirty days I would get $30; a month of thirty-one days brought me $31 for the household expenses. In February I got $28. At the end of the month he would go over the books to see how I fared. If I was five cents short, the protests he made about it could be heard by the neighbors."

Theatre Guild Stages 'The Failures.'

The Theatre Guild's second production of the season, "The Failures," had its first performance at the Garrick Theatre last night before an audience of subscribers. The cast included Jacob Ben-Ami, Dudley Digges and Winifred Lenihan. The play will be reviewed in THE TIMES later in the week.

PRINCE YOUSSOUPOFF SAILS FOR NEW YORK

Kin of Czar in Whose Palace Rasputin Was Slain Is on the Berengaria.

CHERBOURG, Nov. 19. — Baroness Wrangel, wife of the Russian anti-Bolshevist General, and Prince Felix Youssoupoff were among the passengers embarking on the Berengaria today for New York.

Prince Youssoupoff will be able to bring with him to this country a first-hand story of one of the most picturesque incidents of Russia's recent troubled history, for it was in Petrograd at the Prince's palace that Gregory Rasputin, the monk who exercised such great power in the days of the Czar, was killed. Details of the story were told in this country a year ago by Sir Basil Thomson, former head of the Criminal Investigation Department of Scotland Yard, and British Director of Intelligence during the war.

Sir Basil said at that time that he had been told exactly what had happened by Prince Youssoupoff. According to the story the Prince, on hearing that Rasputin was advising the Czar to come out of the war at the new year, invited the monk to a party at his castle where poisoned wine was administered to him. It apparently had no effect, so one of those present got a pistol and shot him.

A physician pronounced the monk dead, but a few minutes later, as Prince Youssoupoff bent over him, the monk sat up and seized him by the throat. The Prince was able to throw him off, but the monk crawled out into the snow and it took several more shots and a bludgeon to finish him.

In 1915 Prince Youssopoff was made Governor General of Moscow by Emperor Nicholas, to whom he was related by marriage. In 1919 it was reported that Russian crown jewels valued at $285,000 which were in the Prince's possession, had been stolen from his London apartment. In 1921 there was a stir in the art world when it was reported that the Prince had sold two Rembrandts to Joseph Widener of Philadelphia for $750,000. The Prince denied the sale.

16 MEN DROWNED IN PENDLETON WRECK

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

HAMBURG, Nov. 19.—The Pendleton fleet of schooners lost another vessel with all but two of its crew of eighteen when the Grace N. Pendleton, a four-masted American schooner which struck Vogelsand Shoals, off Cuxhaven, in the darkness in a heavy storm this morning, was battered to pieces by heavy seas today. The ship, which was trying to make the sheltered stretches of the Elbe before a heavy northwester, ran ashore in the early hours of the morning. Its distress signals were seen by the lifesaving station at Cuxhaven soon after 4 o'clock, and lifeboat crews fought their way to within a few hundred yards of the ship; but on account of the heavy seas they were not able to board it.

After three masts with members of the crew clinging to them had dropped over the side one after another, Captain Bothier of Gloucester, Mass.; his 18-year-old son, who was second engineer; a German steward named Wollweber and an unnamed man still clung to the top of the fourth mast, which swayed dangerously.

When a life line finally fell across this mast Captain Bothier sent his son and Wollweber across to safety first. The captain and the other men intended to cross on the next trip, but before the buoy reached them the mast collapsed, and both were lost. Young Bothier and Wollweber are now in a Cuxhaven hospital, the only survivors.

The schooner was bound for Rotterdam in ballast to take on a cargo.

ASK POLITICAL AMNESTY.

Meeting of 2,000 Urges Release of Prisoners Before Christmas.

A resolution urging release before Christmas of all political prisoners incarcerated under wartime laws and calling for cancellation of all conditions made in commuting the sentences of such prisoners, and also all orders for the deportation of aliens under the Espionage act and other laws "restricting expression of opinion," was adopted unanimously last night at an amnesty meeting held in Cooper Union by the American Civil Liberties Union. Nearly 2,000 were present.

Ralph H. Chaplin, an I. W. W., convicted under the National Defense law in 1917 and sentenced to twenty years in Leavenworth Penitentiary, who was released last June by President Harding, spoke. He referred to "Government upstarts," who, he said, want to tell people "the thoughts they may be permitted to think and the words they shall speak."

Professor Scott Nearing expressed the hope that if there were another time of trouble, such as a war or a strike, 10,000 men, and not only about 100, as in the World War, would go to jail on the same charges and for the same cause as did the political prisoners. "When enough are willing to go to jail for their idea there will not be room in the country for them and their jailors," he said.

Harriot Stanton Blatch and Arthur Garfield Hayes also spoke. The Rev Wolcott Cutler presided.

LAMAR AND COUNSEL IN ROW

"Wolf of Wall Street" Nearly Loses Services of Wilbur A. Mott.

Differences appeared between David Lamar, so-called "Wolf of Wall Street," now in Essex County Penitentiary, and his counsel, Wilbur A. Mott, just after postponement of the hearing in Newark yesterday on Lamar's appeal for a writ of habeas corpus.

Postponement was taken at Mott's request until Nov. 26, and Mott was entering the Post Office Building when he met Lamar in custody of the United States marshals, who in bringing him from Caldwell had taken him to the wrong building. Mott coldly informed Lamar he had had the date advanced to enable the prisoner to secure new counsel.

"I'm through," Mott said publicly. "I wouldn't take your case for a thousand dollars."

A crowd gathered as Lamar pleaded with Mott not to withdraw. Mott for some time remained obdurate. Finally Lamar drew Mott aside and the trouble apparently was patched up. Later Mott said he would probably yield to his client's insistence and remain in the case. He would not disclose the cause of the rift.

FIGHT FOR 'MARTYRED' KING.

Many Anglicans Seek to Restore Charles I. to Calendar.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—An attempt will be made at the Church Assembly this week to restore to the calendar of English church saints "King Charles the Martyr," whose name was removed from the list long ago after having been honored for many years.

When Cromwell's judges tried Charles I. for alleged misdemeanors against the Commonwealth, the monarch was arraigned as a "tyrant, traitor and murderer." While a majority of the nation today acquiesces in the verdict of history that Charles was faithless, tyrannical and hopeless as a King, there is quite a respectable minority that would welcome his proposed restoration to a mainship, and it is for these that a section of the Church Assembly will speak.

Ophelia	Lady Martin-Harvey

Sir John Martin-Harvey presented "Hamlet" last night at the Century, and will repeat it during the rest of the week. In a production that is always intelligent and is frequently of high distinction, the most novel feature is the vividness with which the play stands forth as a story and as a drama. An unusually full text is spoken and spoken with all convenient speed. Thanks to a production essentially Elizabethan in method, the scenes flow rapidly over the boards, so that the performance ends shortly after 11; yet the scenic investiture is of unusual and unusually varied, beauty. As a result the narrative is a consistent and cumulative whole. Characters and motives stand forth with an unwonted distinctness. First and last, "Hamlet" is a play.

Martin-Harvey's Prince is fundamentally poetic—sensitive, intelligent and richly colored. Vocally it is at once sonorous and restrained. Its defect—no small defect—is a lack of ductility and variety in mood. This is first apparent in a certain vocal monotony. Sir John's voice is musical always, and he reads his lines with an unfailing sense of their meaning; but his vocal range is not great, so that a few cadences are frequently repeated. One misses, moreover, the subtler overtones of Hamlet's mental play—his frequently shy wit, his lurking satire, his rapid scorn of the intellect. One misses also the "wild whirling" moods to which he gives way, as also the sombrer depths of his melancholy. Yet all of this, though not fully expressed, is intelligently denoted, and the "sweet," the "gentle" Prince of Shakespeare stands forth as never before since the Hamlet of Forbes-Robertson.

The great virtue of Martin-Harvey's repertory is the emphasis it lays upon excellence in drama, as distinguished from the exploitation of leading parts. In this it compares favorably, and more than favorably, with the repertory of the Russians, and it contrasts strikingly with that of Duse, as also with the productions of American actor managers. There are many respects in which the Prince of John Barrymore is supreme; but if what one wishes for acquaintance with "Hamlet" the play, it is best to be found at the Century.

The company was, as always, of even excellence. Fred Grove "doubled" in the parts of Polonius and the First Grave Digger, and extracted a full measure of the humor from both.

ACT ANOTHER "SHOCKER."

Grand Guignol Players Give "La Laboratoire des Hallucinations."

In their bill for their sixth and next to last week at the Frolic Theatre, the Grand Guignol players from Paris added three more plays last night to the good number they have already allowed New York to see of a repertoire famous in France chiefly for its "shockers." The supply of shocks holds out well, and certainly the authors of "La Laboratoire des Hallucinations," which was given last night, had no intention of sparing the feelings of their audience. As is usual in the making of a play with the object of "shocking," this melodrama requires laborious and not entirely convincing methods, and in this case it cannot be said that the authors convey to the spectator just that feeling of awe and terror that they intended.

In fact, at the most terrible moment, when a man who had been rendered mad by the perverse revenge of a surgeon, himself tied the surgeon to his operating table and began operating on his skull, there were those who laughed. It may have been, to paraphrase Figaro, that they laughed in order that they might not scream, but in any case it was really too much to expect that it would be taken seriously. But aside from this, there were moments when the play did not fail, when Gellie fire and intensity succeeded in making it a drama in a real sense.

A little "morality" called "Le Bonheur" was a better play, and it was saved from being a mere allegory by the thorough French quality of "cent pour cent petite bourgeoisie," achieved by all the four actors, but especially by Mme. Jane Bay, and the sincere touch of sentiment supplied by Maurice Henriet.

The third play, "La Fiole," is another of those farces which flourish only in Paris. Those who understand French and are not too squeamish find them highly amusing, and "La Fiole" is not the least amusing of the large and not entirely respectable company of French farces.

'OUT OF THE SEVEN SEAS.'

OUT OF THE SEVEN SEAS, a play in three acts, by Kilbourn Gordon and Arthur Caesar. At the Frazee Theatre.

Phyllis Stanton	Audrey Hart
Anne Stanton	Lotus Robb
Hanson	William A. Norton
Ted Mason	Norval Keadwell
Leonard Mason	Stapleton Kent
An Englishman	Wallis Clark
"Pepe" Dubois	George Marion
Chang	Joseph Selman
A Woman	Olga Lee
A Sailor	Quinn Dunn
Another Sailor	Ray Hart
Li Sing	Walter Plunkett

"Out of the Seven Seas," the new play which opened last night at the Frazee Theatre, is crude, old-fashioned melodrama, a good deal like the kind of thing produced by Mr. Woods and Mr. Harris in the days before they went in for Maughams and Pulitzer Prize plays. It even includes the thwarted escape, as the second act finale, from a Hongkong opium den, and the mysterious stranger who turns out to be, with the final curtain, nothing less than one of the boys of the Secret Service. There is, too, much talk of poppy love throughout and even one scene in which the manly juvenile is initiated into the mystic rites of the magic pill.

There is obviously not much that can be said of this play save that there she stands. It will undoubtedly satisfy those whom it satisfies and irritate more than a little those whom it does not. For the purposes of the record let it be added that it deals with a young idler who, taunted with his worthlessness by the girl whom he loves, makes for Hongkong to begin all over. The girl follows him there. There are further complications due to the shiftlessness of the girl's sister, an addict to dope, and a smuggling sea captain, but at the final curtain there is a promise of general benefit of clergy.

The acting was for the most part more than adequate. George Marion, as ("Papa") Dubois, proprietor and manager of a Kiplingesque dope dive, was superb. Lotus Robb took in her stride a role that called for little more than maidenly sweetness and solicitude for the betrothed. Audrey Hart was, one imagines, realistic as the addict-sister and Norval Keadwell was sufficiently manly as the young hero who would a Hongkonging go. Minor parts were well played by Stapleton Kent, Wallis Clark and Joseph Selman.

MOSCOW PLAYERS ANEW,

Applauded in Turbulent 'The Brothers Karamazoff' at Jolson.

THE BROTHERS KARAMAZOFF, a play in six scenes from the novel by Fyodor Dostoievsky. At Jolson's Fifty-ninth Street Theatre.

Fyodor Pavlovitch Karamasoff	Vassily Lushsky
Alyosha Karamazoff	Boris Dobronravoff
Ivan Karamazoff	Vassily Katchaloff
Dmitry Karamazoff	Leonid M. Leonidoff
Smerdyakoff	Lyoff Bulgakoff
Grigory	Vladimir Gribunin
Katerina Ivanovna	Lydia Koreniova
Grushenka	Alla Tarasova
Musyalovitch	Giorgi Burdzhaloff
Vrubivesky	Alexander Vishnevsky
Maximoff	Mikhail Tarkhanoff
Kalganoff	Akim Tamiroff
Trifon Borisitch	Alexei Bondirieff
The Prosecutor	Vladimir Yershoff
The Coroner	Nikolai Podgorny
Mikhail Makharitch	Nikolai Alexandreff
The Secretary	Nikolai Rumiantseff

The amazing ability of the Moscow Art Theatre to convey much of its meaning to an audience only dimly conversant with the subject under discussion was illustrated anew last night at Jolson's Theatre, where the Russians began a return engagement of four weeks. The play was Dostoievsky's turbulent "The Brothers Karamazoff"—or rather, as the program was at some pains to point out, not so much a play as "scenes from the novel."

As a matter of fact, the feat of the Russians last night in making much of the story of the Karamasoffs seem real to an American audience was one of their greatest triumphs. To the handicap of an alien tongue must be added the fact that the whole psychology of the story is deeply Russian, the further circumstances that it had to be presented in episodes none too closely woven together, and the additional point that an awkward attempt to do the weaving was made by stationing a "reader" on the stage to bridge the gaps with explanation.

And so, while the players studiously held their poses at critical points of the drama, a voice covered in halting English the ground that the play was about to skip. If it had to be done, however, it was fortunate that the players of the Moscow Art Theatre were on hand to bring the auditor back to the drama. The fact that they were able to do it was the outstanding achievement of last night's production.

During their first appearance here the Russians offered three scenes from the Dostoievsky story; but only one of these—the long monologue in which Ivan faces himself—is retained in the six that make up the current program. Even this has been altered and amplified, and the marvelous voice of Katchaloff made it an episode that held last night, despite its length.

From an American viewpoint the most entertaining of the half dozen episodes was that in the inn at Mokroe, for this was shot through with peasant revels that showed the company at its best. Moreover, it contained a love scene of great passion, so played by Leonid Leonidoff and Alla Tarasova that even an American could follow it.

The previous scene had also contained a fine performance by Tarasova, who, as Grushenka, was able to get a fine note of derision into her voice. It is Tarasova, Katchaloff and Leonidoff who do the most to carry the play, although the performance is marked throughout by the careful minor performances that the Russians have given us to expect. In particular, Lyoff Bulgakoff does a good bit in his confession scene.

An audience that had to be persistently hushed lingered until 11:30 to applaud the players on the final curtain. The players will offer another new program tomorrow night—Goldoni's "The Mistress of the Inn."

Nora Bayes, fresh from extraordinary triumphs abroad, was the headliner of yesterday afternoon's bill at the Palace. Miss Bayes, accompanied at the piano by Louis Alter, was at her very best and responded generously to the repeated demands from the audience for encores. Impromptu bits of acting were done by her three adopted children, Norman, Nora Jr., and Peter, who appeared with her at the finale.

Ethel Sinclair and Marie Gasper appeared in one of the smartest and freshest sketches seen at the Palace in recent years. Bobby Folsom and Jack Derby, heading the inevitable jass band, managed to provide a novel method of introduction for their offerings.

Others on the bill were Frank Crumit, in his second week at the Palace; B. C. Hilliam and Company, in a clever potpourri; Yorke and King, Dainty Marie, "The Sheik," and Montana, a cowboy banjoist.

Lenox String Quartet Plays.

The Lenox String Quartet, Messrs. Harmati, Wolfinsohn, Moldavan and Stoeber, opened a series of chamber concerts at Aeolian Hall last evening, giving a performance of clarifying unity, contemplative calm and forceful climax in Beethoven's classic Opus 59, No. 3. All but the cellist took part in a new and interesting "Serenade" in three movements by the Hungarian composer, Zoltan Kodaly, whose works as yet are rare here. In Mozart's G minor quintet, the added viola was played by Karl Kraeuter.

"Meistersinger" Sung Again.

Wagner's "Meistersinger" opened the third week of opera at the Metropolitan last evening, when a large audience again greeted the most imposing of Mr. Gatti's revivals thus far, the first among fourteen operas in as many days to be repeated. Except for Miss Rethberg, new as Eva, the cast was as before, including Miss Howard, Messrs. Whitehill, Laubenthal, Meader, Schlegel, Schuetzendorf and Bender. Mr. Bodansky directed the musical ensemble. The effective stage pictures were this season's new designs by Urban.

Socrate Barozzi, Violinist, Heard.

Socrate Barozzi, a Rumanian violinist who resumed his artistic career after four years in the war and has appeared in private recital and with orchestra in Boston, gave a formal "American début recital" last night at the Town Hall. He played with Carl Lamson the "Symphonie Espagnole" of Lalo and shorter pieces by Porpora, Dvorak, Desplanes and Granados, displaying a tone of singular richness, redeemed from sentimentality by a vigor of phrase and style from his late Berlin master, Joachim.

Catalina Forteza in Piano Recital.

Catalina Forteza, a Cuban pianist once heard here three seasons ago, returned to Aeolian Hall yesterday in a matinee recital of Beethoven's "Appassionata" sonata, some Chopin, Saint-Saëns, Rubinstein and Liszt. She was most successful in the "Andante Spianato" preceding the familiar Chopin Polonaise, wherein it was enough to be fluent, facile and fast. Qualities of deeper interpretation were demanded in Beethoven's work, as was a sharper characterization of her lighter romantic numbers.

"Kid Boots" Coming New Year's Eve

Florenz Ziegfeld's production of "Kid Boots," in which Eddie Cantor will be starred, will open at the Earl Carroll Theatre on New Year's Eve. The piece was written by William Anthony Maguire and Otto Harbach, with music and lyrics by Harry Tierney and Joseph McCarthy. The cast will include Mary Eaton, Jobyna Howland, Ethelind Terry, Marie Callahan and Harland Dixon.

BENNETTS, RICHARD AND DAUGHTER, SPLIT

SIDEWALK SCENE AT 6 A. M.

Father, Prevented From Spanking Daughter, Fights Policeman—Barbara Now With Mother.

Richard Bennett, the actor, admitted last night that the task of taking care of a seventeen-year-old daughter all by himself had proved too much for him. When he and Mrs. Bennett agreed on "a friendly separation" a few months ago, Barbara stayed with her father at 168 West Fifty-eighth Street, while another daughter, Constance, 18, went to live with Mrs. Bennett at 126 East Fifty-fourth Street. Now Barbara has left her father and is living with Constance and Mrs. Bennett, although she is still appearing in the supporting cast of "The Dancers," in which Mr. Bennett is starring at the Ambassador Theatre.

One of the regulations laid down by Mr. Bennett for his daughter's conduct while she was living with him was that she was to be in at 12 o'clock every night unless she told him where she was going. After the theatre one night recently Barbara accepted an invitation to go out with a party of theatrical people, including Perian Somerset, who is also in "The Dancers," Mrs. Somerset, who is Edith Day, and several others. Before going she left a note for her father telling him about the party, but he did not receive it.

Barbara Arrives at 6 A. M.

Mr. Bennett worried because his daughter did not come home, and at 4 o'clock he called up Mrs. Bennett, and found that Barbara was not there. Mrs. Bennett went over to her husband's apartment, where both waited until 6 o'clock in the morning. Barbara arrived shortly afterward with the rest of the party, and Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were waiting for her at the curb.

"I guess I used pretty violent language," said Mr. Bennett. "I was mad and I made a dash at Barbara to chastise her. She is only 17, you know, and I was going to give her a good spanking. But her mother interfered and held me back. Then a policeman came up and I told him to keep out because it was a family affair. He went over to Mrs. Bennett and tried to get her to make a complaint against me. Mrs. Bennett refused to do so, and I told the policeman to let her alone or I would punch him in the nose.

"At that he grabbed me and said he had a good mind to make a charge against me himself for disorderly conduct. I gave him a push and he hooked me one, so I hooked him back. With that, he took me over to the West Sixty-seventh Street police station and told Mrs. Bennett she would have to come along and make a complaint against me. We sent the girls to their mother's house, and Mrs. Bennett and I went over to the police station. The sergeant at the desk told the officer to forget it, and we went home.

"Mrs. Bennett said she wanted to keep Barbara with her after that, and I agreed to let her do so. That's all there was to it, but I suppose it means some more publicity for the Bennett family. Oh, well—it shows how an actor can take care of his family, anyhow."

DEC. 2 GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY

New Yorkers Asked to Eat What Near East Orphans Get.

The first Sunday in December has been selected by those in charge of the Near East Relief as International Golden Rule Sunday, and on this day all who are disposed to make a practical application of the Golden Rule are asked to make their Sunday dinner approximately the same as that approved and provided for at least 50,000 of the children in the Near East Relief orphanages. Fourteen European countries have already made arrangements to observe the same day.

Dec. 2 will be the first Sunday after Thanksgiving, when Americans everywhere will have brought home to them with striking force the prosperity, tranquility and good fortune of America. The money that is saved by adopting the simple menu used in the orphanages is to be given as a contribution and thankoffering for the purchase of food for the orphanages.

Henry Morgenthau, founder of the Near East Relief, has urged that liberal contributions be made on Golden Rule Sunday. To emphasize his point he told the story of a poor man who was badly injured. A number of people sympathized with him, but it remained for one man to say: "I'm sorry $10 worth; how much are you sorry?" Mr. Morgenthau said: "I'm sorry enough for the people of the Near East to devote a year of my life to them; how sorry are you?"

SUBMARINE HERO WRITES.

Breault Tells His Mother About Panama Disaster.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Mrs. Joseph Breault of 15 Harrison Boulevard received a letter today from her son, Henry Breault, who has been mentioned as a hero of the submarine disaster at Panama on Oct. 28. He said in the letter to his mother:

"Just a line to let you know that I am still alive. You have no doubt read of the sinking of the submarine. We were down for hours and had no food. There was water in the lead tanks, but we did not dare to use it because it had been there for five months and we were afraid of lead poisoning.

"I sure was a sick boy but am well now. I have been out helping them raise the submarine. She is all right except for the central room, where she was struck. The craft will soon be in condition again. But some of the crew will never go in a submarine again. Fortunately it did not bother me at all."

BECK DEFENDS LEVY ON RAIL EARNINGS

Solicitor General in Supreme Court Argues for Validity of Recapture Clause.

CHALLENGED BY 20 ROADS

He Says It Is a Vital Part of the Transportation Act Which Averted Panic.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Oral argument was concluded before the Supreme Court today in the so-called recapture case, involving the right of Congress to divert the earnings of the stronger railroads to the relief of the weaker under Section 15a of the Transportation act, which gives the Government authority to recover one-half the earnings of railroads in excess of 6 per cent. upon the capital invested.

Although the complainant in this suit against the Government, the Dayton-Goose Creek Railroad, is a small railway in Texas, nineteen of the largest railroads in the country have joined in the contention before the Court that the recapture clause is involved. Against this challenge, Solicitor General James M. Beck, arguing for the Government today, insisted that the recapture clause is not only an important, integral part of the Transportation act, but is also wholly within the constitutional authority of Congress to enact and therefore thoroughly valid.

"It is very desirable," said Mr. Beck in conclusion, "that this Court should decide this case, for if this integral part of the law, which was the moving consideration in having Congress agree to the provision for a 6 per cent. return, is nullified, Congress should know it, and know it now, as it reassembles, and in such event the railroads which are now objecting to the recapture clause may find that they have been guilty of the folly of the dog in the fable, which lost its meat by grasping an illusory reflection in the depths of the waters."

Says Act Averted National Panic.

Referring to the Transportation act as the greatest piece of constructive statesmanship in the past twenty-five years, Mr. Beck asserted that it was generally recognized following Government operation of the railroads during the war that many of them would have gone into receivership and that a financial panic of immeasurable proportions would have swept the country unless the railroads had been given the Government protection accorded by the act.

He further contended that the Supreme Court has already upheld such measures of protection as were embodied in three of the four specific objectives of the Transportation act, and cited these three as follows:

First—To stop the impairment of the Federal power over interstate commerce by the misuse of the State power over interstate commerce, involving the declaration that when necessary a Federal administrative bureau could fix rates on interstate commerce so that they would be on a reasonable parity with those in interstate commerce.

Second—To prevent the possibility through labor troubles of a paralysis of all transportation through a nation-wide strike.

Third—To consider commerce as a whole, and so to divide through rates as to enable the weaker roads to survive in the interests of all the roads, on the theory that the true interest of transportation is not in a survival of the fittest, but in enabling all to survive by a rational adjustment of revenues between the stronger and the weaker roads.

Scores Beneficiaries as Selfish.

The question before the Court, Mr. Beck went on, is whether the fourth objective of the act is equally within the regulative power of Congress over interstate commerce. Describing this objective, he said it was "to avoid the formulation by an already overburdened commission of separate and distinct rates, by forming railroads into geographic groups and by so averaging the rates between the strong and the weak roads that the former would not earn too much nor the latter too little."

Then Mr. Beck characterized these four objectives as "interdependent" and parts of a single system of treating transportation "as a whole." As the Court had sustained the first three, he argued that the fourth objective, involving the constitutionality of the recapture clause, should be held valid. The Court, he insisted, should not nullify so integral a part of the Transportation act except upon the plainest necessity and under circumstances which admit of no reasonable doubt.

The strong roads, continued Mr. Beck, had taken the benefits of the act, but now complained of the provision that, if they receive in the comprehensive and uniform fixing of rates in a given group more than the amount which Congress has fixed as a fair return, they cannot be constitutionally required to repay the excess to the Federal Government as a fund to aid transportation as a whole.

"They have been willing to take the cake of an act passed by Congress for their relief and benefit," Mr. Beck said, "and now wish to retain the small penny that was asked as a part of the bargain."

Mr. Beck's Argument.

Reviewing the history of American railroad development from the "orgy of reckless mismanagement and saturnalia of graft and fraud" prior to 1887 that brought transportation "to the verge of an abyss in 1916," Mr. Beck went on:

"When the World War broke out the railroads, suffering from a multitude of masters, governmental and non-governmental, were slowly drifting to destruction. Many were in the hands of receivers, others were drifting rapidly to that graveyard, and only a few comparatively strong railroads survived. The banking powers had tightened their purse-strings, and little further credit could be secured, while labor had grown so powerful that literally its hand was on the throat of railroad management.

"In this situation, the railroad unions threatened a nation-wide strike unless Congress agreed to raise wages by Federal law, and Congress, under this moral coercion, passed an emergency law. This court held that the grave emergency justified the temporary legislation.

"Hardly had the crisis which threatened the complete cessation of interstate commerce been thus averted when the American people felt constrained to enter the World War. In the work of national defense transportation became one of the great essentials. The railroads were unable to assume this burden, and on Dec. 26, 1917, the war President took the unprecedented action of taking over all the railroads of the United States as a war instrumentality.

"To pacify labor, wages were by Executive order increased over $1,000,000,000 per year—a greater amount than the entire earnings of all the railroads of the United States. Concurrently, an increase of rates was ordered.

"The Government poured into the depleted veins of the railroads $1,500,000,000, and in one single order the Director General ordered 100,000 cars and 2,000 locomotives. Thus America was enabled to do its share in the greatest war in history.

Protection Needed After War.

"The war had ended, and the question now arose, What should be done with the railroads? Many distinguished men favored a prolongation of Federal control for a number of years. Others favored governmental ownership. No one—certainly not the railroad officials—ever suggested or asked that the railroads be immediately turned back to the carriers without some measure of governmental protection.

"It was universally recognized that if this were not done many of the railroads would immediately go into the hands of receivers and that a financial panic of immeasurable proportions would sweep through the land.

"The Interstate Commerce Committee entered upon the consideration of a most difficult and complex problem. The leading bankers, economists, publicists, statisticians and railroad operators testified, and this great body of expert information covers nearly 4,000 printed pages. Nearly forty different proposals were offered for their consideration."

Mr. Beck then recounted the time taken—two months for testimony, a month for drafting the bill, over a month for debate in Congress, two months more in conference—until finally the measure was passed by a "largely preponderant majority."

Praises Statesmanship Behind Act.

"The Transportation act was the greatest piece of constructive statesmanship in the last quarter of a century," he said. "It was enacted after careful consideration and profound deliberation to meet one of the gravest economic crises that ever existed in this country.

"The bill * * * was characterized by Congress itself as an act * * * to provide the people of the United States with adequate transportation in the interest of the commerce of the United States considered as a whole,' and 'to enable the carriers properly to meet the transportation needs of the public.'"

The Solicitor General then specified the four specific objectives of the act, three of which, he said, have already been upheld by the Supreme Court, and the fourth is now at issue.

Act's Passage Hinged on Clause.

Referring to this fourth objective, the averaging of rates so that strong roads would not earn too much and weak roads too little, Mr. Beck said:

"It is an integral power of the general plan. Unless it had been embodied the Transportation act would probably never have passed.

"Congress, to meet a grave emergency and to save the roads from ruin, first gave to them, after they had returned to private ownership, six months' guarantee of the preceding standard of return out of the public Treasury. Then it assured them for two years more a return of 6 per cent. and one-half of any excess they had beyond that amount. The railroads have not complained of the guarantee of six months' return, nor of the mandate to the Interstate Commerce Commission to so adjust rates as to give at least 6 per cent. to every carrier."

Mr. Beck then assailed the complaining railroads for being willing to accept the benefits and yet desiring to retain "the small penny that was asked as part of the bargain."

Bases Plea on Three Powers.

Then Mr. Beck, pleading that the Recapture Clause be upheld as an integral part of the Transportation act, based his contention on three powers, the commerce power, the taxing power and the war power.

"As to the taxing power," he said, "the requirement that the railroads shall pay into the Treasury one-half of the excess earn in excess of 6 per cent. has all the characteristics of an excess profits tax. The fact that the United States pledges itself to use it as a revolving fund, by loans and otherwise, to aid the weaker roads cannot alter its nature, for at all times the fund that is said in remains the property of the United States. In any event, it could appropriate this as any other revenues raised by taxation to the support of the weak roads.

"As to the war power, it is enough to say that the Transportation act was the result of measures taken by the Federal Government to prosecute a war of defense. The liquidation of a war is as much a part of the war power as the war itself. When a war is ended there will always be a certain aftermath which must be provided for under the same power as that which caused it.

"However, it is not necessary to justify this legislation by resorting to these two powers, when its more direct justification is in the plenary power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce.

"The power to regulate commerce is not an implied power. Every regulation of such commerce is as much an express power as the general grant. Therefore, I need invoke the ordinary rule—that this Court must respect the large legislative discretion which the Congress has with respect to implied means to carry out express powers.

Says Congress Justifies Its Action.

"I stand upon the proposition that this is concededly a regulation of commerce, and that such regulation is an express power, and that this Court could not by any means, by consideration as to whether or not a better or a fairer regulation might have been made, usurp the power exclusively granted to Congress.

"Congress is under no obligation to give the reason for the exercise of its express powers and, in fact, rarely does so; but in this case it has placed its cards upon the table. As though it had anticipated this attack, it has put into the body of the statute the reasons for and the justification of this section."

Mr. Beck then quoted Section 15 A, Sub-Section 5 of the act and, after further defense of the clause, asked:

"If these who now assail the law can suggest no better way, why do they reproach Congress? Why do they deny to Congress the power to make the only feasible regulation on the subject? * * *

"Can any case be cited where a minimum 6 per cent. and an indefinite maximum was regarded as such an unfair return as to amount to a constructive taking of private property for public use?

"In any event, the provision is limited to two years and the commission may, after the first two years, allow a larger return if it thinks proper. The two years having elapsed, the commission has now found, after full hearing, that 5½ per cent. is a fair return, and I have not yet heard that any carrier has complained that that would result in confiscation.

Right of Strong and Weak to Survive.

"In the last analysis, the contention of the carriers is that they not only have a constitutional right to a fair return, but also to an unfair and excessive return if under a uniform system of rates they are able to earn it at the expense of the weaker roads.

"They contend, in effect, that if Congress, in the public interest, tries to save the weak roads from going on the rocks that they cannot do so except under the necessity of giving to the stronger carriers that to which otherwise they would have no right whatever, namely, an excessive return on their investment.

"Thus the strong carriers attempt to make the necessities of the weak carriers the justification for taking more from the public than the public should be compelled to pay. In other words, the strong roads insist upon a constitutional right not only to a reasonable return on their own properties, but also to an unrestrained differential in result as compared with their competitors.

"Congress might, if in the exercise of its plenary power it had thought proper, recognize this contention, but when it failed to do so, can this Court substitute its opinion, even if it thought such contention fair, for the will of Congress on the theory of confiscation?

"This Court has recognized for many years the right to classify railroads between the strong and the weak and so adjust rates that all may survive."

Pennsylvania Gasoline Cent Less.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19.—The Atlantic Refining Company announced tonight that, effective tomorrow morning, motor gasoline will be reduced a cent a gallon, making the new tank wagon price 15 cents and the service station price 18 cents. The new prices cover Pennsylvania.

IMPORTER UPHELD ON COMBING WOOL

Emergency Tariff Act Did Not Apply, Customs Appeals Court Decides.

ACCEPTS TRADE DEFINITION

Amount of Duties to Be Paid Back Said to Be Below Earlier Estimates.

Considerable interest, mingled with some surprise, was shown yesterday by executives of firms in the wool and piece goods trades here in the decision that combing wools could not be classed as "clothing wools," and were therefore free from duty under the Emergency Tariff act. This decision of Associate Judge Oscar E. Bland of the United States Court of Customs Appeals, upsetting the previous ruling of the Board of General Appraisers, was regarded by the importers concerned as a reward for their efforts to have the strict trade use of the words "combing wools" made the basis of the emergency act. It was believed, moreover, that no appeal from the decision could be made.

The general impression of executives of prominent firms, however, and this was confirmed by counsel for the importers, was that the amount of money to be returned by the Government under the decision would be considerably smaller than reports have indicated. It was declared that while this amount probably would be substantial it would not run into the "many millions" first reported.

It was pointed out that large amounts of combing wools imported during the life of the emergency act were withdrawn for domestic consumption without protest or were reshipped abroad. Official figures covering combing wools imported under the Emergency act, from May 27, 1921, to Sept. 22, 1922, show receipts of 108,652,522 pounds.

Aside from the amount to be rebated to the importers of combing wool, and also to importers of worsted yarns and cloths, the possible relation the decision bears to the present tariff was discussed in the trade. The placing of combing wool on the free list was held to apply only to importations under the emergency act and to have no effect on importations under present schedules.

"The importance of the decision at first glance, as far as it affects current or future imports of combing wools, looks big, but it really is not," said the head of one big goods concern. "In effect, it is 'water that has gone over the dam,' and the implications in the reports that it has a bearing on the status of the present tariff as it relates to wools are misapprehensions. What was really settled was the interpretation of the words 'clothing wools.' Beyond that the situation is unchanged."

LIGGETT SEEKS BANKRUPTCY

Ex-Banker Files Petition in Chicago, Giving Liabilities of $253,859.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—John E. Liggett, former banking partner of Anthony J. Drexel Jr., in the firm of Liggett & Drexel, 61 Broadway, New York, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today in the District Court here giving his liabilities as $253,859 and his assets as $100. In the petition Mr. Liggett gave his occupation as "salesman" and his address as Chicago. His attorney, C. W. Armstrong, said that he did not know his client's local address.

Endorsing accommodation paper for clients of Liggett & Drexel, bond and mortgage brokers, is given as the principal cause of the bankruptcy. Seven notes, amounting to $237,000, due New York City banks and banks in New England, are listed. Unsecured claims consisting mostly of merchandise purchased from New York firms are scheduled at $16,859.

Mr. Liggett was recently sued by his wife, Violet Colby Liggett, in a New York court for $86,267, which she alleged was due her for securities, jewelry and cash loaned to the firm of Liggett & Drexel to tide it over its difficulties in 1918 and 1919. George F. Nappen, who succeeded Liggett & Drexel, was named as co-defendant. None of the securities which Mrs. Liggett asserted she loaned the firm was listed in the bankruptcy petition.

Mrs. Liggett asserted that she loaned the firm 100 shares of Pennsylvania stock, 500 shares of Northern Pacific, 500 shares of Atlantic Gulf, preferred, 100 shares of Interborough, preferred, and five City of Paris 8 per cent. bonds. Loans of jewelry, she said, amounted to $9,000, and cash loans were $7,000.

Anthony J. Drexel Jr. is a member of the Drexel family of Philadelphia. His wife was Marjorie Gould, eldest daughter of the late George J. Gould.

On Dec. 30, 1921, Mr. Drexel was ordered to trial in New York after his indictment on a charge of selling an overissue of stock of the Standard Films Corporation.

John E. Liggett was made defendant in a suit for more than $80,000 filed in the Supreme Court in August of this year by his wife, Violet Colby Liggett, former light opera prima donna. Mrs. Liggett also named Anthony J. Drexel Jr. and George F. Nappen, whom she mentioned as her husband's partners in the Stock Exchange firm of Liggett & Drexel in 1918. She sued for loans that she said had helped keep the firm going. In 1919 the Stock Exchange membership owned by Mr. Drexel was posted for transfer to Mr. Liggett. Mr. Drexel being in military service and unable to give the business personal attention.

In December, 1921, allegations that Mr. Liggett was "hiding out" to avoid service of papers was made in the Supreme Court here in the course of a suit brought by the Merchants' Trust Company of Waterbury, Conn. Speculation over the state of Mr. Liggett's affairs arose earlier that year, when his wife was sued for bats and gowns to the amount of $2,520 by a local firm.

Mr. Liggett and his wife, divorced wife of Clarence Harvey, a comedian, were married secretly in 1914, soon after he had secured release from a former marriage in the divorce court. Mr. Liggett's first wife was Miss Margaret Gay of Boston, who obtained the custody of their two children.

After her marriage to Mr. Liggett, Mrs. Liggett created a stir in this city and at Palm Beach as one of the most exquisitely gowned matrons in society. She was active in Red Cross and other war work. In July, 1919, it was announced that she had won over her husband to her decision to return to the stage.

Soldier's Mother Blocks Memorial.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The authorities at the village of Burey, near Paris, determined that their town should have a soldiers' monument, but found that as fast as the foundation for the monument was dug it was filled in during the night by mysterious hands. A watch was set and it was found that the culprit was a woman named Morineau, who, living opposite the site, said that as her son had been killed in the war she could not bear the thought of having such a constant reminder of her loss. She was arrested.

Jamaica Florist Hangs Himself.

George Méndel, 65, a florist of Jamaica, was found hanging yesterday from a beam in the cellar of his Eighty-eighth Street home by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Amelia Méndel. The police said mental trouble was the cause for the suicide.

CRITICIZE SPANISH TREATY.

Negotiators Report Favored Nation Treatment Is Lacking.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—It is learned that the modus vivendi with Spain, continuing present commercial arrangements for six months, does not provide for most favored nation treatment for American products entering Spain. The arrangement is scheduled to continue until May 5, 1924, and fears have been expressed that during that time it will work injustice upon American interests.

Since the law allows freedom for manipulation of the tariff by the President only in cases where discrimination against the United States is shown, and since the Government apparently is thoroughly committed to the policy of equality of treatment for all countries, fears are expressed that the preferentials obtained by such nations as France, Norway and other European countries will not be forthcoming for American commerce.

Representatives in charge of negotiating the new commercial treaty with Madrid are contending that the granting of most favored nation treatment by the United States to Spain is in itself a concession, and that for this reason the United States is entitled to any concessions which Spain has made, or may make to other countries.

Urge Speed on Halibut Treaty.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Secretary Hoover has been advised by Consul E. A. Wakefield at Prince Rupert, British Columbia, that sharp disappointment is manifested throughout the North Pacific halibut industry over the failure to establish the proposed closed season, beginning this Winter. Virtual extermination awaits these fish, he reports, on banks which are now accessible to shipping ports. Formalities connected with ratification by the United States and Canada of the proposed treaty cannot be carried out in time to permit establishing the closed season this Winter.

Consulate at Riga Robbed of $7,500.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—A disturbance of considerable intensity was central Monday night over Newfoundland and moving eastward, and another was central over Saskatchewan and moving eastward toward Lake Superior. The pressure was high and rising Monday night in the Atlantic States and relatively high west of the Rocky Mountains.

There have been light snow flurries within the last twenty-four hours along the Northern border from Maine westward to Lake Superior and rain on the Texas coast and in Washington and Oregon. In all other parts of the country the weather remained fair during Monday.

The temperature has fallen in the New England and Middle Atlantic States and Ohio Valley and it has risen along the Gulf Coast and in the north central border. Temperatures remained decidedly above normal during Monday over the Middle West and the Northwest and approximately normal elsewhere.

The outlook is for generally fair weather Tuesday and Wednesday throughout the Washington forecast district. The temperature will rise in the Middle Atlantic and New England States, the Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region and it will continue moderate in the East Gulf and South Atlantic States and Tennessee through Tuesday and Wednesday.

Fighting Prison-Made Articles.

Several cities are fighting the sale of prison-made merchandise successfully, but the most notable results along this line seem to have been obtained in Decatur, Ill. All of the manufacturers and retailers in the city, with the support of the public, are said to have gone on record as opposed to handling prison-made garments in any way. The retailers have refused to sell prison-made merchandise of all kinds, and enterprising citizens are reported to have formed committees to prevent consumers, so far as possible, from buying goods made in penal institutions.

Few Pleated Skirts for Spring.

At least 75 per cent. of the skirts to be shown for Spring will be straight-line sports models, with gathers omitted wherever possible through the use of gores and darts, if recommendations of the Style Committee of the United Skirt League of America are followed. The remaining models may be pleated, although knife pleats should be omitted entirely if possible. Other important recommendations of the committee are that skirts should clear the ground by nine to twelve inches. The twelve-inch clearance is understood to apply to skirts meant for sale to women living in the larger cities, while the nine-inch clearance is meant for those residing in the less populated centres. The colors will harmonize with those contained in the Spring card of the United Waist League of America.

Want Coats Delivered Quickly.

The lower temperatures of the past week or more have resulted in numerous demands on manufacturers of women's brushed golf coats to rush deliveries of these goods. In addition to this, despite the lateness of the wholesale season, orders are still coming in for these garments from buyers who early in the season placed most of their business on brushed coats of another type. Because of delays in delivery, partly due to the lateness with which many of the original orders were received and partly due to the slowness with which brushed goods come through the mills, some manufacturers are said to be frowning on business that, under other circumstances, they would be very willing to take.

Gray Goods Fairly Active.

Gray goods were fairly active in this market yesterday, with some of the trading taking place in the lower-count print cloths. Among this business were near-by delivery sales of 39½-inch 48-squares at 8⅝ cents and 44-40s, of the same width at 7⅝ cents. First hands would take nothing less than 10⅞ cents for 38½-inch 64-60s, and the least they would accept for 39-inch 68-72s was 12⅝ cents. Not much trading was reported in the sheetings, with prices based on 12 cents for 37-inch 48-square, four-yard cloths.

Still Holding Off on Hosiery.

Excepting in the South, where the cotton situation has aroused an optimism in commercial circles that has not been seen for some time in that part of the country, buyers of the finer grades of silk hosiery are making haste very slowly in placing advance Spring business. Only a fair amount of the business that would have been taken by salesmen up to this time in a more normal season has been put on the books to date. The chief reason advanced for this is the steady easing off in raw silk prices in primary markets, especially Japan. It is a certainty now, with the holiday season approaching, that the attention of the general run of buyers will not be given seriously to Spring hose until after the turn of the year.

Tells of Canton Silk Crops.

Crops of Canton raw silks are estimated at about 45,000 piculs, or bales, according to a cable received yesterday by the Silk Association of America from D. E. Douty, General Manager of the United States Testing Company, Inc. The cable described conditions in this market and added that stocks on hand amount to 10,000 piculs. Up to Nov. 15 36,000 piculs have been shipped. The demand there was reported dull and prices easier, with a downward tendency apparent.

Clothing Sales Are Uneven.

Although the smaller retailers are generally said to be getting only slight results in sales of Fall overcoats and clothing, the opposite is said to be the case with the large chain stores and some of the department stores. The chain stores, both in this city and throughout the country, are understood to be doing a good business, some of them showing marked gains over last year. This is said to be especially true of the stores which sell the higher-grade merchandise. The buyers for two large out-of-town department stores, one in New England and the other in Chicago, were in this market during the last few days, and both said that their clothing departments showed a most pleasing increased turnover as compared with last year.

Number of Requests Deceive.

That the inquiries received in the market, although they may be numerous, sometimes lead to mistaken ideas of the styling of lines for a new season was illustrated yesterday by the selling agent of a well-known mill. He said that some seasons ago there were quite a few demands from jobbers for shepherd checks. The mills had practically none to offer at the time, and the jobbers went around from mill to mill trying to pick up these goods. This created, through the multiplication of the inquiries, the idea in the minds of selling agents that there was a strong demand in the market for shepherd checks. The mills styled their lines accordingly, and when they were opened there was practically no demand. Investigation led to the discovery that one lone user of the cloth had made inquiries for it from six jobbers, and they in turn had scoured the market. He cited the illustration as having some bearing on the question of blue overcoats.

Herringbones to Come Back?

Although it was predicted that the long popularity of herringbone patterns in men's wear fabrics some seasons ago had put them out of the running for some time, interest in them is said to be reviving. Reports from London say that several of the exclusive custom tailors there are experimenting with herringbones, with good results, in the belief that the makers of popular-priced clothing are afraid of them as patterns that have been "overdone." In the market here some of the leading tailors are credited with placing fair orders for the finer imported fabrics of this design. The Scottish mills, however, have been producing these patterns only in a limited way, and the present sampling business will be delayed until additional quantities are put in process. Some of these mills are planning to produce limited amounts of the goods for stock purposes.

New Hours for Seeing Salesmen.

In carrying out its policies of giving added attention and facilities to salesmen visiting the offices of Alfred Fanti, resident buyer, this organization announced yesterday that it will also see buyers from 3 to 5 in the afternoon. The prevailing rule in this market heretofore has been for salesmen to see buyers from 8:30 to 10 A. M. only. It was found by the Fanti concern, however, that very often there was interference in one form or another with buyers seeing salesmen during this period, and after a good deal of consideration it was determined to add the afternoon hour. Salesmen calling in the afternoon will do so only on an invitation received through a previous application, as the time is so short that the number interviewed has to be limited.

$1,000,000 Oil Deal Negotiated.

Chairman C. M. Haskell denied yesterday that the Middle States Oil Corporation is or has been engaged in selling any of its holdings. He said the rumor arose from conveying of a lease comprising sixty-three acres in Wichita County, Texas, formerly held by a subsidiary. He said that as a result of this transfer the corporation acquired a larger interest in Southern Arkansas. Mr. Haskell said this property cost $635,000 three years ago and was valued in the transaction at $1,000,000.

Advance on Stock Exchange, With Trading Active—Sterling Recovers 10 Cents.

The substantial recovery on the Stock Exchange yesterday, with numerous advances of 1 to 3 points in active stocks, was ascribed by Wall Street to the cabled news that the Council of Ambassadors at Paris had arranged a compromise in the Franco-England diplomatic dispute. It would probably be more correct, however, to say that the stock market rose because of the day's recovery in sterling. The thinking part of Wall Street has at no time indulged in great agitation over predictions of rupture of the Entente—possibly because of its impression that France and England had not been "working together" regarding Germany for ten months past and that formal "rupture" would be both needless and meaningless. But this month's 21-cent fall in sterling exchange was another matter; it had seemed on its face to embody something radically wrong—if not in one direction, then in another.

When therefore the sterling rate, after falling to a new low figure of $4.28, started on a rapid recovery to $4.36, the stock market responded instantly. This spectacular recovery followed the news from Paris; it may have convinced the average observer that the whole cause of sterling's recent decline was the quarrel over German policy. That does not necessarily follow; every one familiar with markets in which a speculative movement has been foolishly overdone, knows that any of a dozen different occurrences may start the realizing movement. In the present case the sterling market was ripe for a violent upward reaction; if the Council of Ambassadors had not caused it, something else would have done so.

Prices on the Stock Exchange had begun an irregular recovery even when sterling was quoted at its early lower price, but the advance did not spread to the general market until later. Final prices were at or near the highest of the day, averaging close to Friday's best figures. On the foreign exchange market French, Italian and Belgian exchange made about the same percentage gain for the day as sterling. Along with these other incidents of the markets, spot cotton rose half a cent per pound, crossing the 35-cent mark for the first time since 1920.

Yesterday's much-belated Reichsbank statement, covering the increase of paper money in the final week of October, might perhaps be called the swan-song of the old German mark. It shows all previous achievements in paper inflation to have been so far surpassed as to leave this weekly statement in an economic niche by itself. Briefly summed up, the paper currency was increased about 400 per cent. in that single week, rising from 324 quadrillion marks to nearly 2½ quintillions. A few weeks more of this would force the outside world's bewildered mind into "thinking in sextillions." In keeping with this huge paper inflation, and undoubtedly the immediate cause of it, the Reichsbank's discounts, mostly of Treasury bills, rose nearly 6 quintillions.

Since the "rentenbank" experiment, with its abandonment of loans by the Reichsbank to the State, was introduced last Thursday, the old currency must still have had two weeks more of expansion to unimaginable figures. But the statements covering the achievement of that fortnight will, happily, be in the nature of a post-mortem. It is not so easy to pass judgment on the probable outcome of the new experiment. Its underlying principle—that of a currency based on compulsory mortgages—is entirely unsound; the German Government's own view of it is proved by the numerous "verboten" warnings affixed to it. The new rentenmarks must not be sold abroad; they must not be used in credit balances for account of foreigners; they must not be exchanged for foreign currencies. All this bears striking resemblance to the French Revolutionary expedient of substituting "mandats" for "assignats"; it is much of a piece with Russia's experiments in "denominalisation," in both of which instances the new currency soon began to depreciate like the old.

MONEY.

MONDAY, NOV. 19, 1923.

Stock Exchange call money firmed up to 5 per cent. just before close from opening and renewal at 4½ per cent. Most loans were placed at inside figure. Time money market continued dull and at prevailing quotations of 5@5¼ per cent. The fair supply of last week at 5 per cent. has disappeared, lenders quotation at 5¼ governing trades arranged, but demand was slight, bulk of business being in replacements. Commercial paper and acceptances steady and without change.

LOW IS NAMED HEAD OF INSURANCE FIRM

Succeeds William A. Marshall, Who Will Retire After 57 Years in Home Company.

The retirement of William A. Marshall as President of the Home Life Insurance Company of New York, after nearly fifty-seven years of service in various capacities, and the election of Ethelbert I. Low as President were announced yesterday, effective Dec. 31. Mr. Marshall will continue in the service of the company as Chairman of the Board of Directors.

The new President was graduated at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., in 1898, at Yale in 1902, and Columbia Law School in 1905. Since that time he has been engaged in the practice of law in New York City. In 1909 Charles Duncan Miller and Benjamin R. C. Low organized the law firm of Low, Miller & Low. In 1923, together with Ernest P. Hoos, who was associated for twenty years with the late Frank L. Hall and who succeeded to Mr. Hall's practice, Mr. Low and his partners formed the firm of Hoos, Low & Miller, with offices at 30 Broad Street, of which firm Mr Low is still a member.

Mr. Low is a Director of the Niagara Fire Insurance Company, Director and General Counsel of the Rush Creek Land Company and of the Coal Run Land Company, a West Virginia concern. He has been a Director of the Home Life Insurance Company for a number of years. His great-uncle, Abiel Abbot Low, was one of the founders of the Home Life Insurance Company in 1860, and his uncle, George Edward Ide, was President of the company for twenty-five years, until his death in 1919.

Mr. Low was a Director of the Metropolitan Casualty Insurance Company until it was absorbed by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Baltimore. He is a member of the City, County and State Bar Associations, the New York Law Institute, the Downtown Association, and of the University, Yale and other clubs.

MEXICAN RAILWAY PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

New Line of Southern Pacific May Be Completed by Jan. 1, 1925.

Prediction that this new line of the Southern Pacific of Mexico will be completed by Jan. 1, 1925, was made by President H. B. Titcomb of that company on his return to San Francisco, after an inspection trip, according to advices received in New York.

The inspection shows that since the resumption of work in the Spring of this year nine miles of track and four miles of additional grading have been completed and the grading forces are now spread over thirty-five miles of right of way. More than 3,000 men are employed and it is expected that 3,000 will be at work within the next thirty days.

The new line will be 103 miles long and will close the gap in the Southern Pacific System in Mexico. Upon its completion it will be possible to go directly from this country to the City of Mexico by the use of connecting lines in that country.

TUBE INCOME SHOWS GAIN.

October Net Is $495,730, Against $436,890 a Year Ago.

Net income after the payment of taxes of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company for the month of October was $495,730, against $436,890 in the same month of last year. The surplus after all charges was $150,433, against $94,909 in the same month of last year, while the gross income was $1,009,805, as compared with $941,271. The net income of the company after the payment of taxes for the ten months period this year is $4,408,973, as compared with $4,014,449 in the first ten months of last year.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Turn in the Stock Market.

Stocks of all kinds responded to the forenoon announcement that a compromise had been reached in the international situation and that an open break in the relations between France and Great Britain had been averted. Early prices were little changed from those of Saturday, largely because of the fact that sterling was again weak at the opening, selling down to $4.26. But stocks and sterling rebounded almost simultaneously when announcement of the compromise reached the markets, and for the balance of the day the market resembled more or less of a scramble to repurchase by those who had sold stocks for the decline, and the same was true in the sterling market. Baldwin, Du Pont, U. S. Steel common, Chesapeake & Ohio, Davison Chemical, General Asphalt, Gulf States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Schulte Stores, Montgomery Ward, National Enameling, Pan-American Petroleum, Sears-Roebuck, United States Rubber and others of a long list made gains of from 2 to 3 points each. Industrial shares gained slightly more than 1½ points on the average, while the railroad shares gained approximately ¾ point. Fifty representative stocks registered a net advance of 1.11.

A "Three-Ring Circus."

With the short interest in the various foreign exchanges taking to its heels, stock quotations recovering, bond prices advancing, cotton and grain futures moving ahead, yesterday was a day of many features. Bankers and staid business men expressed keen interest in the series of advances, which they described as very interesting and constructive." But the attitude of the speculators, at least those who had made their plans for the advance, was probably crystallized in the utterance of one market operator who told his brother that he "felt like a child in a three-ring circus."

Last Week and This Week.

Last week's irregularity and lower prices and the quick manner in which stocks snapped back yesterday, led many of the professional element in Wall Street to the belief that last week's lower and irregular markets were the natural result of profit-taking by the very people who yesterday were engaged in putting the market up. The opinion was expressed yesterday by many close observers of the market that the reaction, from this point of view, had every appearance of being a natural one, and some of them went so far as to express the opinion that it would have come along anyway even had not the European situation developed into a crisis. Incidentally, it was described as a long-familiar characteristic of all markets that when a reaction is in order something always develops as a "peg" on which it may be hung.

Goading the Bears.

Speculators for the advance had plenty of amusement yesterday, as well as some considerable cash profit, at the expense of those who had been "fighting the market" for many days. There had been a great deal of "gunning for shorts" going on, and this was responsible in large measure for the sudden spurt in Baldwin early yesterday while an unhappy bear was endeavoring to regain 5,000 shares of the stock sold for the decline last week. The loss was said to have been sufficient on this transaction to require a complete revamping of the trader's income tax schedule.

The Advance in Sterling.

The ten-cent rally in sterling yesterday afforded an incident which has had few parallels since the war, the nearest instances being the rise from $4.60 to $4.69 on Dec. 12 and 13 last year and the rise from $3.18 to $3.30¼ on Feb. 4 and 5, 1920. Reasons for the remarkable manifestation were somewhat obscure to the men who handled transactions for customers but on one point they were fairly well agreed, namely, that "it was a fine buying." The sudden demand for sterling found few offerings, and the scantiness of offerings was variously explained as due to the fact that England had completed operations necessary for building up dollar credits to take care of cotton requirements had arranged for its debt payment in December, and that the recent transfer by Germans of funds from England to New York had been completed. Underlying the situation was the report of a healing of the breach between France and England, at least temporarily, but it was generally recognized in Wall Street yesterday that what lit the fuse was the fact that selling of sterling last week was exaggerated in its proportions and almost hysterical in character.

The Elusive German Loan.

A mysterious rumor which evoked much interest on the part of bankers (who in several cases cabled to London or Berlin for confirmation) was in circulation yesterday, the rumor being to the effect that plans for a loan of $1,250,000,000 to Germany had been definitely completed. Bankers who figured in the Austrian loan said they knew of no turn in the situation which would make any such proposal productive of results at this time. In another quarter it was suggested that a smaller loan would have to be brought out in London for the German account before consideration of any kind would be given to a big German loan here. In another institution, which had compared facts with the rumor, it was said that steel men and manufacturing men had been expected as backers of the new loan, but that a careful check-up with the men named had brought forth unanimous denials. There was still apparent, however, a certain lingering credence in the loan rumor in some parts of Wall Street, and in most cases this spirit was based on the hope that "possibly something not yet made public had transpired in the reparations situation."

Looking Ahead to 1924.

The extent to which the daily news dispatches serve as a forecast of the season's business activity commands more than ordinary interest at this time of year, when preparations are already being made for the next year. There were some rather glowing reports yesterday from the automobile manufacturers with regard to production schedules, present and future, as well as from equipment makers and one of the large mail order houses. A dispatch from Detroit confirmed the report that the Ford Company would produce at the daily rate of 10,000 cars and trucks beginning Feb. 1, while the Hupp motor works intend to produce 50,000 cars in 1924, or 10,000 more than will have been produced by the end of this year. Buick set a new monthly production record in October with 23,119 cars and indications are that this output will be continued. The mail order house in question estimates that the present month will show a 40 to 50 per cent. increase in sales over October, while the head of another large retail house said yesterday his company's sales would show a gain of $25,000,000 for the year ended Dec. 31.

Operating Expenses—Now and 1920.

Students of the railway problem have brought to light an interesting comparison of operating expenses for the past year compared with 1920. Taking the four months period from May-August, 1920, and comparing it with the same months of this year, they have arrived at the amazing figures that the reduction in operating expenses for the average month has been $109,000,000 since 1920. Of this reduction, they declare that $97,000,000 has been due to the reduction in wages and another $11,500,000 to economies effected by the railroads themselves. But before these figures are used in making estimates on this year's earning, it is pointed out by the same students that very little of this saving will go into the treasuries of the railroads because the figures also show that the railroads have lost an average of $97,600,000 in revenue a month when compared to 1920, as the

What is International Securities Trust of America?

THIS institution is an Investment Company organized under the Trust laws of Massachusetts. All the securities markets of the world are included in its field of operation. It applies the sound principles of private Trust and Estate management to its assets. Owners of securities issued by this Company are members of a cooperative society of individual investors who combine their capital to secure safety and a liberal yield.

For more than a half century, investors in Investment Trusts abroad have received substantial incomes through dividends and interest. An exceptional degree of Diversification—the keystone of scientific investment—is obtained in the shares and bonds issued by the Trust. That is because the well-managed Investment Trust, by devoting capital to a great variety of enterprises, in many countries, distributes "risk", so called, and seeks the highest return which safety warrants.

For many thousands of investors, Investment Trust securities have long set the standard of soundness and stability. International Securities Trust of America, combining the tested safeguards of the British system with additional measures of protection, offers its Secured Gold Bonds, Preferred and Common Shares as conservative investments.

We have prepared a short history of Investment Trusts. Send for a Free Copy.

How is an Investment Trust Managed?

Answer:—

BY a small Board of Trustees aided by a staff of skilled analysts. As a Trust's business is solely investment, an elaborate organization is not necessary. Hence, overhead expenses are low. The form of management closely approaches the control and direction of a private Trust. The Investment Trust also applies the methods of savings banks and insurance companies to the selection of securities. Safety of capital is never hazarded for the sake of high yields.

A single Board of Trustees often manages two, three or more British Investment Trusts. Aided by the constant research work of the analytical force, the Trustees are kept in touch with the world's investment markets. Naturally, investment opportunities are revealed to them in vastly greater number than the individual can discover. International Securities Trust of America utilizes this advantage to the fullest extent.

Our booklet, "The Investment Trust," recounts the success of the Trust method. Write for a copy.

THE CHASE NATIONAL BANK, NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

From a letter of Wm. M. Wood, Esq., President of the Webster Mills and of the American Woolen Company, we summarize as follows:

Webster Mills: Webster Mills, recently incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts, is to take over the woolen mills, with the exception of the worsted machinery, in Webster, Mass., recently acquired by the American Woolen Company from S. Slater & Sons, Inc. The entire capital stock of the Webster Mills will be owned by the American Woolen Company.

American Woolen Company: American Woolen Company is the largest manufacturer of woolen and worsted goods in the United States. It has had a long record of successful operation, dividends at the full rate of 7% having been paid on its preferred stock (outstanding at present $50,000,000) since its organization in 1899. The American Woolen Company has no funded debt and has no guarantees of funded obligations except the guarantees of these notes and $5,500,000 Ten-Year 7% Gold Notes, due 1931, of the Shawsheen Mills, another subsidiary.

Earnings: Consolidated net earnings of the American Woolen Company (after deducting reserves for taxes, contingencies and depreciation) available for the above guarantees, as reported in its audited annual reports, during the 5 years ended December 31st 1922, were equivalent, on an average, to more than 9½ times the total annual interest charges on the above guarantees.

Equity: Preferred and common stocks of the American Woolen Company aggregating $90,000,000 par value, on which dividends at 7% are being paid, represent an equity ranking junior to the $11,000,000 guaranteed obligations.

We offer the above notes when, as and if issued and received by us, subject to the approval of our counsel, Messrs. Cotton & Franklin, New York, and Messrs. Warner, Stackpole & Bradlee, Boston. It is expected that delivery will be made on or about December 3rd 1923 either in the form of temporary notes or Brown Brothers & Co. interim receipts.

OFFER STANDARD OIL TO SMALL INVESTOR

Throckmorton & Co. Announce Plan to Sell Composite Shares in Ten Standard Companies.

BEDFORD NOT IN SYMPATHY

Chairman of New Jersey Standard Says His Company Already Has 60,000 Stockholders.

A plan under which small investors may buy "bankers' shares" of the United Standard Oil Company, the units to be secured by stocks of ten of the leading Standard Oil companies, was announced yesterday by Throckmorton & Co., dealers in investment securities. The purpose is to bring about wider distribution of the Standard Oil stocks, but officials of the two leading Standard Oil companies here said they were not in sympathy with the plan, of which they had not heard until yesterday.

According to Throckmorton & Co. the United Standard Oil Company will sell "bankers' shares" at about $11.50 per share. Each 700 "bankers' shares" will represent one unit, which will be secured by thirty shares of Vacuum Oil, fifteen Standard of California, twenty Standard of Indiana, thirty Standard of New Jersey, twenty Standard of New York, 1 Standard of Ohio, 2 Prairie Oil & Gas, 1 Prairie Pipe Line, twenty Anglo-American Oil, Ltd., and 5 Imperial Oil, Ltd. These securities have been deposited with the Empire Trust Company, which will hold them in trust for the holders of the "bankers' shares."

On a basis of $11.50 per "bankers' share" sold to the public, those promoting the plan will receive $8,050 for each unit of 700 "bankers' shares." The 144 shares of stock pledged against each unit, at yesterday's closing price, had a market value of approximately $6,907. The difference between the market value and the price received for each unit, according to W. J. Thorold, President of the United Standard Oil Company, represents a premium upon the units to cover the cost of printing, incorporation expenses, cost of handling coupons by the trustee and other incidental expenses in connection with the handling and formation of the company. Part of the difference, Mr. Thorold said, is also represented by the accrued dividends on the stocks represented by the securities covering the last half of 1923, which will be paid to holders of the "bankers' shares" on Jan. 31, 1924. Mr. Thorold added that the company was organized along lines similar to the British Investment Trust, under which plan securities have been sold for more than fifty years.

When the project was brought to the attention of Standard Oil officials, A. C. Bedford, Chairman of Directors of the Standard of New Jersey, and Chester O. Swain, General Counsel for that organization, jointly issued the following statement:

"None of the officials of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has ever heard of the United Standard Oil Company or of any such enterprise as contemplated by its prospectus until now. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has no interest direct or indirect in the matter and no sympathy with the purpose of the plan. The stock of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, both common and preferred, is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, has been for several years past, and has gained wide distribution among investors. This is evidenced by its distribution among 60,000 stockholders. More than 14,000 stockholders have been added to the company's books within the last year."

A statement issued by the Standard Oil Company of New York said:

"The company knows nothing about the scheme, never heard of it, and is not interested in it in any way."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Advances Follow Allied Agreement on Reparation Problem —$4.36 for Sterling.

In one of the most exciting markets in recent memory foreign exchanges made a complete turnabout shortly after the opening yesterday on cable information that the Ambassadors' Conference in Paris had reached a compromise in the reparations tangle, sensational advances following in sterling, francs, lire, pesetas and the rest of the Continentals. The market started weak; in fact, London checks got down to $4.26 in the early trading on a carry-over of the selling in evidence at the close of last week, but when the word of the change was spread around it set about urgent short covering and stimulated fresh buying by banks, so that sterling moved back over an area of 10 points to $4.36; French francs regained 22 points to 5.46 cents; Italian moved 18 points higher at 4.40⅝ cents, with Holland, Spanish, Belgian, the Scandinavians and other currencies measurably higher.

Forty-one Tests for Safety

SAFETY—paramount—is the fundamental requirement in good investment. Time is the one sure test which fixes not only the character of the security, but that of the offering house as well.

S. W. STRAUS & CO. was founded more than four decades ago for the purchase and sale of safe investments.

Years have come and gone, with wars, panics, and periods both of depression and of great expansion.

Year by year the test for safety has been applied, with the result that our motto, changing only by the number of years it chronicles, now reads, 41 Years Without Loss to Any Investor.

These years and their record are forty-one tests which clearly chart your course to safe investment. At this time, first mortgage bonds on properties of more than ample income producing capacity are available in $1,000, $500 and $100 denominations, yielding 6 and 6½%. The Longer you hold them the Better they get

AS a rule, when a man lends money on any security, he doesn't expect the value of his security to increase.

In the case of the investment bonds offered by the Commonwealth Bond Corporation, the longer you hold them the better they get. Due to Commonwealth's insistence on serial retirements, the amount of outstanding bonds decreases year by year while the security remains unchanged until the last bond is paid.

Surrounded by assured safety from the start, each passing year makes Commonwealth Bonds stronger. Issued in denominations of $1000, $500 and $100 and paying very attractive interest, they are ideal for conservative investors, large or small.

By all means send the coupon for full information about "the Investment of Increasing Safety."

3 CORPORATIONS INCREASE DIVIDENDS

DU PONT UP $2 A YEAR

General Baking Also Swells Returns to Stockholders—Extra Pennok Oil Payment.

Extra dividends and increases of the annual rate or distribution of regular dividends were announced yesterday by several corporations. In the last ten days no less than twenty corporations have increased their rates of disbursement to stockholders. Chief among the corporations whose dividends were raised yesterday were the Childs Company, operating a chain of restaurants, and the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company, manufacturers, of Wilmington.

Directors of the Childs Company declared a quarterly dividend of $2.85 a share on the common and the regular quarterly of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred, both payable Dec. 10 to stockholders of record Nov. 26. This action places the common shares on an $11.40 annual basis, against $8 previously.

Stockholders of the corporation will meet in special session on Dec. 5 to vote on a proposal made by directors that the common stock be changed from $100 par value to no par value and to exchange the present stock on the basis of five no par value shares for each $100 par common share. The stockholders will be asked to authorize 750,000 no par value shares in order to accomplish this exchange and also to authorize the directors to offer 30,000 no par value shares for sale. There are now outstanding 46,000 shares of $100 par value common and the five for one exchange will result in 200,000 no par value shares being issued of the 750,000 no par value shares authorized. It is expected that offering of the 30,000 shares will be made by bankers for the company within the next few days.

Directors of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company declared a quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the common stock, thus raising the annual rate from $6 to $8. It is payable on Dec. 15 to stock of record Dec. 6. The company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the debenture stock, payable Jan. 25 to stock of record Jan. 10. The regular dividends of 1½ per cent. on the common and 1¼ per cent. on the preferred were declared by E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company. Both are payable Feb. 1 to stock of record Jan. 19.

Directors of the General Baking Company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock, and the regular quarterly of $2 on the preferred. Both are payable Dec. 31 to holders of record Dec. 15. The previous quarterly rate on the common stock was $1 a share.

Directors of the Pennok Oil Company have declared an extra dividend of 20 cents a share, in addition to the regular quarterly 20-cent dividend. Both are payable Dec. 22 to stockholders of record Dec. 15.

Officials of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railway said yesterday that there would be no resumption of dividends on the preferred stock of the company this year.

CASE HINGES ON MARKS.

Receivers for Zimmermann & Forshay Sue Deutsche Bank.

Trial of the suit instituted in 1922 by the New York Stock Exchange firm of Zimmermann & Forshay, which has since failed, against the Alien Property Custodian and the Deutsche Bank of Berlin for $865,000 came to trial yesterday before Federal Judge Knox, the receivers pressing the suit in the interests of the creditors.

The complaint alleges that on April 6, 1917, there was on deposit in the Deutsche Bank to the credit of Zimmermann & Forshay 4,850,000 marks, and that this sum is still due at the rate of exchange prevailing at that time. The answer asserts that the claim was not made until Dec. 21, 1921, and that this date should govern the value of the mark. In further outlining the defense, Peaslee, Brigham & Gennert, counsel for the Deutsche Bank, said in their answer to the complaint:

"After the cessation of hostilities between the United States and Germany the value of the German mark, in terms of American dollars, declined greatly to only a fractional part of its prior value, and the plaintiffs, with a view to making a profit to themselves in connection with orders of their customers, clients and other principals, caused to be purchased and deposited with the Deutsche Bank large numbers of marks at the then prevailing rate o fexchange."

It is alleged that the plaintiffs thus realized a profit of $200,000 by the purchase of marks. The only witness yesterday was Hugo Dreschler, Assistant Manager of the American Department of the Deutsche Bank, one of a number of employes sent here from Berlin to testify. The trial will be continued today.

DENIES STOCKHOLDER WRIT.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 19.—The Court of Errors and Appeals today affirmed Vice Chancellor Bentley's position in refusing a preliminary injunction applied for by Philip M. Gausman and others against the Porto Rican-American Tobacco Company. The complainants sought to restrain the company from submitting to stockholders a proposed change in its certificate of incorporation, contending that it would impair their vested rights.

In sustaining the Vice Chancellor, the Court did not pass upon the legality of no par value stock. The complaint was dismissed without prejudice to its renewal after the stockholders' meeting.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Thomas L. Freeman has been admitted to a general partnership in the firm of Bonner, Brooks & Co.

Irving T. Bush, President of the Chamber of Commerce, and Horace P. Peer, Vice President of the Garfield National Bank, will address the November meeting of the Bankers' Forum, New York Chapter, of the American Banking Institute.

A story of the growth of the Bowery Savings Bank since its organization is told in a booklet just issued by the bank.

The Central Union Trust Company of New York has been appointed transfer agent for the City Stores Company common stock, and for the American Superpower Corporation for first preferred stock, participating preferred stock, Class A common stock and Class B common stock.

The monthly meeting of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce will be held tomorrow at 12:15 P. M. at the Bankers Club. The speaker will be Donald Mackinnon, Australian Commissioner to the United States.

William Vail Blarcom has become associated with A. E. Fitkin & Co. and will handle the distribution of their securities in Newark, N. J., and adjacent territory.

Farmer, Sun & Co. have issued a list of bank and trust company stocks giving approximate market prices, income yields, dividend rates and deposits of leading trust company institutions in New York City.

Shrewsbury & Co. announce the removal of their offices from 15 Broad Street to 32 Broadway.

The New York Trust Company has been appointed registrar of American Superpower Corporation first preferred participating preferred and Class A and B common stocks and of the preferred and common stock of the Farmers Manufacturing Company of Norfolk, Va., also registrar of its first mortgage twenty-year 7 per cent. sinking fund gold bonds.

The Public Belt Railroad is a terminal switching railroad, owned exclusively by the City of New Orleans, and operated through a Commission created for that purpose. The Railroad has been in operation for over fifteen years and is entirely self-supporting, showing a net profit of $340,609.36 for the year 1922, or almost 3½ times interest requirements of the total outstanding indebtedness.

These bonds are the full and direct obligation of the City of New Orleans and while they are payable by preference out of the revenues of the Public Belt Railroad, the taxing power of the City of New Orleans is ultimately behind them as additional security.

"The Lengthened Shadow"

The length of the shadow depends upon the wisdom and business acumen of the man.

Brooklyn today is the center of some of the world's largest business establishments, many of which are the lengthened shadows of individual men whose vision made industrial Brooklyn what it is.

The shadow of the Nassau National Bank, sixty-four and a half years in length, is likewise a testimonial to the vision of the men who placed their faith in industrial Brooklyn.

AMERICAN WOOLEN BACKS NOTE ISSUE

Webster Mills Offer $5,500,000 to Finance Recently Purchased Plant.

$15,500,000 FOR A TERMINAL

St. Paul Union Depot Company in Market—Other Lesser Financing.

New security offerings announced for today include $5,500,000 Webster Mills ten-year 6½ per cent. gold notes to be sold at 99, to yield 6.63 per cent. Proceeds are to be used in connection with the purchase, extension and improvement of the plant recently acquired by the American Woolen Company from S. Slater & Sons, Inc., and put under operation of the newly formed Webster Mills Company. Eventually, it is planned to merge this company with the American Woolen Company. The notes will provide working capital for the new company and are guaranteed by the American Woolen Company. They are redeemable at 104 up to and including Dec. 1, 1924, the premium to be reduced ½ per cent. every year thereafter until June 1, 1930, when the redemption price will remain at 101. The offering is made by Brown Brothers & Co., the Chase Securities Company and Hayden, Stone & Co.

A new railroad issue soon to be marketed here consists of $15,500,000 of first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent. bonds of the St. Paul (Minn.) Union Depot Company. Of this $9,500,000 will be used to refund and pay off at maturity some outstanding gold notes, $5,500,000 to complete the building of the union station and $500,000 to retire prior mortgages. The issue will be guaranteed by nine railroad companies using that terminal.

A syndicate composed of Lehman Brothers, Hornblower & Weeks, Redmond & Co., B. J. Van Ingen & Co. and the Mississippi Valley Trust Company of St. Louis, is offering $1,500,000 Hillsborough County, Fla., 5 per cent. highway bonds, priced to yield 4.90 per cent.

Peabody, Houghteling & Co. are offering a new issue of $500,000 The Peerless Plush Manufacturing Company of Paterson, N. J., first mortgage 7 per cent. serial gold bonds, due from 1924 to 1933, and priced to yield 6½ and 7 per cent.

Municipal bonds to be offered today include $530,000 Town of West New York, N. J., 5 per cent. school and library bonds. The offering is being made by L. F. Rothschild & Co. and H. L. Allen & Co. at prices to yield 4.70 per cent.

The issue of $250,000 8 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Missouri-Illinois Stores Company, offered by Mark C. Steinberg & Co. of St. Louis, has been sold.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Cash cotton got up to a new high price for the year yesterday in an advance of 50 points, to 35.20 cents, chiefly as a result of the gains registered in the contract months. High-score butter also worked higher, moving up ½ cent, to 53½@54 cents, and matching the year's previous best price, touched on Jan. 11. Changes elsewhere included recessions in wheat, corn and flour, while groceries, provisions and metals ruled without variation.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Monday, a week before and a year ago:

CALIFORNIA OIL PRODUCTION

Daily Average Is Less in October Than in September.

Daily average crude oil production in California in October was 792,787 barrels, compared with 858,750 barrels in September, according to the American Petroleum Institute. Total stocks of crude oil, residum and tops held in California at the end of October were 88,349,550 barrels, compared with 89,408,609 barrels at the end of September.

Ninety-nine wells were completed in October, with an initial production of 127,700 barrels, compared with ninety-three wells in September with an initial daily production of 138,960 barrels.

Surplus Freight Cars Increase.

The railroads of the United States had 21,955 surplus freight cars in good repair on Nov. 7, an increase of 7,478 over the total on Oct. 31, according to the American Railway Association. The number of cars short was 3,470, a decrease of 1,473.

COMPROMISE ABROAD AN AID TO COTTON

December Sells at 34.75 and May at 34.70 in Resumption of Upward Movement.

Predictions of 35-cent cotton were very nearly realized in the futures market here yesterday. With nervousness over the European political situation subsiding, there was a reassertion of bullish forces, which sent the price of December contracts up to 34.75 and May to 34.70 or 54 to 66 points above the closing quotations of last week. This was sufficient to attract considerable realizing, and later fluctuations were rather irregular, but the close was within 10 or 15 points of the best, with the market very steady at net advances of 28 to 57 points except for August, which was 120 points net higher. The advance in the latter position reflected a small volume of business and was regarded as a readjustment of relative values rather than the development of any general demand for coming crop deliveries.

The action of yesterday's market suggested that the realising or liquidation noted after the advance to about the 34¼-cent level on Friday, had been stimulated to some extent by unfavorable European political conditions and the weakness of foreign exchange. The latter advanced sharply on the news of a compromise between England and France on the question of military control in Germany and brokers who had sold cotton rather freely toward the end of last week, were credited with rebuying on yesterday's advances. Liverpool, also, was responsive to the better political news, as prices there recovered very sharply from an early decline, and brokers with Liverpool connections were among the buyers in the market here. There were also reports current that British importers had been among the best buyers of spot cotton in the Texas markets late last week. Those same advices stated that very heavy exports were expected from Galveston and Houston during the balance of this month and that engagements were heavy right up to the end of the year.

There may have been a little more hedge selling here against the large spot business of late last week, but it was very readily absorbed and after opening at a decline of 3 to 18 points, the local market soon turned firmer. The advance occasioned by the better European news was reflected by rallies in Liverpool before trading here was well under way and the initial offerings here were readily absorbed at the opening prices. The market then turned upward on covering and rebuying, the latter being particularly active through brokers with Wall Street clients, and prices made new high records for the season during the early afternoon, selling within 10 points of the 35-cent level in the case of December deliveries. The advance was then halted by realizing, but otherwise there did not appear to be much selling and it was one of the features of the day that the volume of business showed a tendency to slow down on the setbacks.

Buyers found no encouragement in reports from the domestic goods trade, which were said to be very quiet pending an improvement in the demand for finished products. Both buyers are impressed by the strength of the raw material markets and manufacturers are holding firm for their asking prices, but finished cloths do not seem to be moving freely enough to establish a trading basis in gray goods. At the same time trade buying in the raw cotton markets whether an old or new business has evidently been sufficient to sustain the weight of early receipts, and while somewhat less active, there were advances of 25 to 60 points in the Southern market yesterday. Spot cotton in the New York market was 50 points higher at 35.20, but no sales were reported. Sales in the Southern markets aggregated about 35,000 bales, compared with 45,000 reported on Saturday.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
Dec.	34.00	34.75	34.00	34.68@34.70	34.21
Jan.	33.58	34.20	33.43	34.05@34.06	33.70

Oct.	33.25	33.49	33.20	33.33	33.25

The local market for spot cotton was 50 points up, 35.20c for middling upland.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston steady, 45 points up, 34c; sales, 2,192 bales. New Orleans easy, 25 points up, 34c; sales, 4,304. Savannah steady, 50 points up, 33.60c; sales, 946. Augusta steady, 44 points up, 33.60c; sales, 197. Memphis steady, 25 points up, 34c; sales, 4,100. Houston steady, 60 points up, 34c; sales, 5,045. Little Rock steady, 25 points up, 34c; sales, 3,047.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yester-day.	Last Week.	Last Year.
Port receipts	24,902	45,043	30,013
Exports	6,172	48,942	780

SAYS LEGISLATION WON'T AID FARMERS

Problems Economic and Cannot Be Solved by Political Processes, Reserve Banker Reports

CONDITIONS IN NORTHWEST

Failures Chiefly Among the Unfit—Future in Grain-Raising Area Not Impaired.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Farm problems cannot be solved by political processes, according to John H. Rich, Chairman of the Board of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, who submitted a report to the Federal Reserve Board today, analyzing conditions in the Northwestern agricultural States. The report was made public tonight.

Mr. Rich says a great and fundamental change has taken place in agriculture since the World War, which he likens to the period following the Civil War. During the war period, he stated, production was accelerated, land values increased, farmers overextended their credits in some cases and a readjustment to normal conditions with losses and bankruptcies in many cases was to be expected. But this condition is only a passing phase in agricultural life, he says, and the future for agriculture is good. While the mortality was heavy, he said, it was in the ranks of the unfit that losses were suffered, and today farming is on a sound basis and farmers are learning quickly to adapt themselves to the new conditions.

The analysis of the Northwestern district made by Mr. Rich shows that there are in the Northwestern grain area 880,000 farms, embracing 72,250,000 acres. Of this number 203,040 farmers are classified as wholly or principally grain raising farmers, and "of the total number 5,398 are bankrupt or being foreclosed, 9,302 so involved as to be in imminent danger of bankruptcy and 4,956 have been forced to abandon their farms and leave the country." This ratio of failure is 7.2 per cent. and of the failures the percentage by States is Montana 17.7, North Dakota 10.5, Northwestern, Wisconsin 3, Minnesota 3.7, South Dakota 7.2 and Northern Michigan 2.8.

Causes of the Failures.

The heaviest failure record was in Montana and an analysis of these failures showed that "51 per cent. of those who went upon the land were without previous farming experience, and 30 per cent. had no capital. Among them were men from sixty-three occupations other than farming. There were two circus musicians, a paper hanger, a sailor, a seagoing engineer, two wrestlers, two barbers, a char maker, a race horse man, a bricklayer, an undertaker, a deep sea diver, six 'old maids,' a milliner and a professional gambler."

These figures illustrated a point which Mr. Rich emphasized, that most of the failures were scored by persons who were not tried farmers. The recent depression, he said, forced many "unfit" farmers out of business and the territory lost only a small proportion of its expert farmers.

"Among the causes of failure within the farmer's control," the report stated, "lack of business capacity leads all others. This includes deficient experience, lack of thrift and lack of energy and application. Other causes in the order of their importance were lack of capital, poor farming methods, too much land and too much credit. It is interesting to note that in two-thirds of the cases of failure, additional credit in any form would have been of no assistance and would not have prevented disaster. This is corroborative evidence of the fact that the majority of failures are traceable to causes having no relation to banks or banking service, and which credit in any form has no power to reach."

The point was made that up to and during 1920, just before the crash came, "the acreage in wheat had increased, merchandising establishments had crowded in where there was no economic necessity for them and a flood of activity showed evidence of having been overdone." The proportion of banks to needs for such banks was exceedingly high. "Based on the population per bank for the United States as a whole, North Dakota had five banks where one would have been sufficient; South Dakota four, Montana three and Minnesota twice as many as the national average. The over-banked condition had encouraged unwise extensions of credit. A collapse was inevitable." This condition has since been remedied.

Need for Farm Labor.

Labor and costs of goods used by the farmer have also comprised new problems, and these both will need scaling down, the report indicated. The need for a free and large farm labor market was stressed and a lifting of immigration barriers was suggested, particularly from the countries of North Europe, whose sons go on the farms, and after working as farm hands for a while, later become, Mr. Rich contended, proprietors themselves.

Crop diversification was advanced as another urgent need, and in this connection the point was made that farmers had become well informed. When so informed they quickly adjusted themselves to meet conditions. Mr. Rich cited an instance in which word to plant flax was passed on to farmers to meet a deficiency in the world supply. The result was a quick increase in flax production, steadily rising prices for that commodity and a greater farm profit.

Mr. Rich denied that farmers as a whole were in serious financial straits. The high proportion of automobiles was given as one example of their ability to "indulge in conveniences as well as necessities." While the farmers' aggregate indebtedness is not definitely ascertainable except in part, he said: "It is entirely probable that his banking and mortgage indebtedness at the present time is within $1,200,000,000 against which the value of his lands and their improvements is $8,059,351,000. This is exclusive of salable products on the farm and takes no cognizance of a production of seven crops during 1923 having a farm value on Oct. 1 of $560,000,000, an increase of $68,000,000 as compared with a year ago. At least it may be said that the ratio of assets to debt for agriculture as a whole is satisfactory, although the same statement naturally does not apply in many individual cases."

"The serious problems confronting farmers in the northwestern grain raising area are the product of economic causes and are not to be cured by political or legislative processes. The failures, foreclosures and abandonment of land that have occurred are an inevitable part of a profound change and readjustments of agricultural conditions parallel to the results of the Civil War in the western areas then devoted to grain. They will continue until they have run their course, although they have probably reached their peak. The future of agriculture in the northwestern grain-raising area has not been impaired. It has met just an appreciable percentage of its capable men. . . . Failure, abandonment of land, foreclosures and other results of depression and distress in this area have been given an emphasis out of proportion to their importance."

Magnolia Increases Price of Oil.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company yesterday announced an increase of 25 cents a barrel, to $1, in the price of Corsicana light grade crude oil. This is the second advance in crude oil announced in the Southwest within the last few weeks.

Tobacco Products to Redeem Notes.

Directors of the Tobacco Products Corporation yesterday voted to redeem the $4,000,000 7 per cent. notes on Dec. 20, and to put before stockholders a plan to make the 7 per cent. non-cumulative Class A shares cumulative.

SCRAMBLE IN WHEAT TURNS LOSS TO GAIN

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—A sharp upturn in grains followed a break to 1.01¼ for December wheat, a new low on the present downturn. Closing trades were at the top with net gains of ⅝@1¼ cents on wheat, ⅛@1 cent on corn and ⅛ cent on oats. Profit-taking by several big houses was instrumental in turning the wheat market after the break and brought a general scramble to cover on the part of the pit element in corn and wheat as the markets were oversold.

December liquidation in neither wheat nor corn was heavy. Heavy buying of December and selling of May by elevator interests widened the spread to nearly 6 cents, the widest so far. Selling of December and buying of July at 4 cents difference by Thompson & McKinnon attracted attention.

A lot of local selling was on due to the increase of 1,934,000 bushels in the visible, which is now 73,379,000 bushels, against 71,445,000 in the previous week and 34,364,000 last year.

An increase of 5,000,000 bushels in the stocks of bonded wheat in this country brought the total up to 16,404,000 bushels, against 15,710,000 last years. If duty on this wheat be paid, should the tariff be raised, it will come in competition with the domestic. A total supply of domestic and Canadian wheat of 98,783,000 bushels is shown in the combination of the bonded and domestic. Chicago stocks are 19,908,000 bushels, an increase of 200,000 bushels for the week.

Europe is getting more wheat headed toward it from the various countries. So far this season, world's shipments have been 20,939,000 bushels, against 201,608,000 last week and 205,616,000 last year. Export business was light, 200,000 bushels of wheat and 100,000 of rye, but there was also considerable business done direct from Canada.

Corn traders sold on the break of two to three cents in cash corn with the poorest of the No. 3 yellow selling down to 84 cents at the last, while good corn was not plentiful, although total arrivals were 329 cars. The largest buyers pulled out of the cash market at the last.

Reports from Central Illinois say farmers are delivering corn freely which is being shelled and shipped to market, there being no accumulation in the elevators. The visible supply of corn increased 19,000 bushels for the week and is 1,063,000 bushels, against 1,044,000 the previous week and 9,982,000 last year.

Primary arrivals of wheat were 2,469,000 bushels; week ago, 766,000, with many markets missing; last year, 1,992,000. Shipments were 806,000 bushels; week ago, 287,000; last year, 1,142,000.

Corn receipts were 1,424,000 bushels; week ago, 343,000; last year, 942,000, and shipments, 447,000 bushels; week ago, 157,000; last year, 538,000.

LESS COTTONSEED CRUSH.

Manufactured Products Show Drops in Three Months' Report.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Cottonseed crushed in the three-month period, Aug. 1 to Oct. 31, totaled 931,627 tons, compared with 976,212 tons in the same period last year; cottonseed on hand at mills Oct. 31 totaled 731,281 tons, compared with 780,957 tons a year ago, the Census Bureau announced today.

Cottonseed products manufactured in the three-month period and on hand Oct. 31 included:

Crude oil produced, 277,056,163 pounds, compared with 291,608,859 for the same period last year, and on hand, 93,858,099 pounds, compared with 175,661,457.

Refined oil produced, 174,190,689 pounds, compared with 103,135,917, and on hand, 70,607,394 pounds, compared with 56,897,072.

Exports of linters for the three months were 11,505 bales, compared with 8,927.

KRONEN GAIN PREDICTED.

Reserve Ratio of Austrian Central Bank Shows 55% Gain Nov. 1.

Discussing the condition of Austrian finances, E. Schwarz, General Manager of the Mercurbank of Vienna, which has recently sold a block of its shares in the New York market, declared yesterday that recovery has been extremely rapid and that further recovery is anticipated.

"The best indication of this recovery," he said, "is in the increase in the Austrian Central Bank's ratio of reserve, represented by gold and foreign exchange balances, which increased from 35 per cent. in May to 55 per cent. on Nov. 1. Over-expansion of currency is prevented by the fact that since November, 1922, the Government has been able to obtain additional notes only against the payment of the full equivalent of gold.

"As a result of monetary measures taken, the Austrian crown has been stabilized and its exchange value during the past seven months has fluctuated hardly at all from the level established in October. In view of her geographical position and as a result of the existence of long-established financial and industrial organizations, Austria is today the commercial and industrial centre of Central Europe."

Peerless in Merger Negotiations.

Negotiations are under way leading to the probable merger of the Maxwell-Chalmers automobile organization with the Peerless Motor Car Company, according to reports received in the financial district. According to the bankers, several conferences have been held between officers of both companies, but thus far nothing has been accomplished.

Wrigley Profits Show Big Increase.

The William Wrigley Jr. Company for October reports net profits of $306,000 more than in the same month last year. According to the bankers for the company, the increase alone is more than the monthly dividend requirements of the company on the basis of $3 a share annual dividends on the new no par value stock.

Sidney Blumenthal & Co. Gain.

Sidney Blumenthal & Co., Inc., for the nine months ended Sept. 30, reports operating earnings of $1,421,578 and net profits of $1,143,365 available for dividends. After payment of preferred dividends, there was reported a balance of $1,034,350 available for the common stock.

EXPECT TO DEFEAT PLAN TO REORGANIZE

TIME LIMIT IS UP TODAY

Objection Is Made to Forming New Company to Take Over Old Morse Concern.

Opponents of the reorganization plan of the Hudson Navigation Company, formerly owned and controlled by Charles W. Morse and his associates, yesterday predicted that enough of the bonds would be withdrawn from the Reorganization Committee today to defeat the plan. Today is the last day for the withdrawal of bonds deposited with the committee.

Those opposed to the plan include Frank P. McCarthy of Troy, N. Y.; E. Clarence Jones and F. J. Lisman & Co. They object to the distribution of stock and other details in the plan to take over the company, which went into the hands of the receiver on Feb. 17, 1921. The plan included the formation of a new company to take over the old one; to execute a new mortgage securing $1,500,000 new 7 per cent. bonds, of which $1,250,000 will be issued; to execute a second mortgage securing $1,600,000 of 6 per cent. preferred stock; to authorize 20,000 shares of common stock, a majority of which is to be placed in a five-year voting trust.

F. J. Lisman & Co. object to the "vague" method of disposing of the common stock, while Mr. Jones protests that it is inequitable to issue voting trust certificates in a reorganization. Mr. McCarthy has outlined a series of specific questions for the Reorganization Committee covering his objections, which include the following:

"Who is the new and efficient corporate management that is to be paid with a large share of the common stock of the new company?

"Who are the bankers that have assured your committee that this plan can be underwritten?

"What are the terms of the agreement between these bankers and the members of the 6 per cent. Bondholders' Committee?

"What becomes of the money which passes through their hands?"

He also characterizes the plan as "unjust, inequitable and entirely destructive of the value of the bonds."

UPTURN IN SECURITIES A FEATURE OF MONTH

Mid-Fall Period Notable for Conflicting Influences, Says the National City Bank.

This month has seen a distinct change in the securities market and conditions are greatly improved over those in October, according to the mid-month review of business, issued yesterday by the National City Bank.

"Seldom has any midfall period witnessed so many cross-currents and irregularities as those which are still swirling in trade and industrial conditions, and in prices, international affairs and sentiment both here and abroad," states the bank. "Although October was a disappointing month—contrasting unfavorably with the same month last year, when a great burst of activity ensued upon the ending of two large strikes—there occurred a signal change early in November in the feeling of the security markets, where the atmosphere became one of buoyancy and cheer.

"This rather sudden turn-about seems due in part to the declaration of a very small and unexpected extra dividend by the United States Steel Corporation. The up-turn apparently is wholly due to a change in popular psychology. A cautious merchandising policy still appears to be followed in various lines of trade throughout the country—a plan of campaign already amply justified by the results, especially in industries such as silk, where highly erratic influences have been at work. Silk quotations on virtually all grades are now back to the pre-earthquake level. The spectacular uprush of cotton prices following upon the very unfavorable recent Government estimate has naturally intensified caution in most cotton textile manufacturing lines, where conditions are perhaps more confused than in any other large basic industry."

Shell Union Oil Suffers Slump.

The Shell Union Oil Corporation, for the quarter ended Sept. 30, reports net operating revenue of $7,990,607, against $10,467,179 in the previous quarter. After crediting other income and allowing for all deductions, there was reported a balance of $3,596,552 available for the common stock, against $7,094,706 in the June quarter and $3,113,845 in the March quarter. The profit and loss surplus on Sept. 30 amounted to $12,647,752 against $11,049,200 on June 30.

Detroit Edison Shows Advance.

Net income of the Detroit Edison Company for October was $462,743, compared with $266,749 in the same period last year. The October report brings the net income for ten months this year up to $3,711,640, against $2,309,095 in the same period last year. Gross income in the ten months was $23,903,443, against $19,578,527 in the same period of 1922.

Shell Union Profits for Quarter.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—The Shell Union Oil Corporation and its subsidiary companies made profits of $3,896,551 for the quarter ending Sept. 30, it was announced here today, bringing the total profits for the first nine months of 1923 to $14,947,752. The announcement was made by the Roxana Petroleum Corporation, a branch of the Shell Union.

McMaster Halts Gasoline Cut.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 19.—The action of one independent dealer here in lowering the price of gasoline to 15½ cents a gallon brought an announcement today from Governor McMaster that the State will not place gasoline on sale here at 12½ cents a gallon. Other dealers maintained the 17½ cent rate.

Railway Buys Steel Coaches.

The Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Company has ordered twenty-two all-steel passenger coaches from the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, Ltd., at a cost of approximately $1,000,000.

Increases Price of Crude Oil.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 19.—Effective today, the Magnolia Petroleum Company announced an increase of 25 cents a barrel for Corsicana light crude, making the new price $1 a barrel.

C. & O. Directors to Meet Friday.

Directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway will meet next Friday to consider dividends, according to word received yesterday in the financial district.

Buys 20,000 Tons of Tie Plates.

The Southern Pacific Railroad has purchased 20,000 tons of tie plates for use in 1924. This is said to be one of the largest orders for track accessories placed in several years.

BAKER A DIRECTOR OF B. & O. RAILROAD

ROAD GAINS A B C SURPLUS

President Willard Reports Dividends Assured—Champions Transportation Act.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 19.—Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, former Secretary of War, and John F. Stevens of New York were elected members of the Board of Directors of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at the annual meeting of the stockholders here today. The other members of the board were re-elected.

The two new members take the places made vacant by the death of F. H. Goff and Richard H. Williams.

Mr. Stevens was Chairman of a committee of experts to advise concerning the Russian railroads, sent to Russia in 1917 by President Wilson.

President Daniel Willard, in presenting his annual report for the year 1922, told the stockholders that there is now reason to believe "that, in the absence of abnormal conditions, dividends on the Baltimore & Ohio common stock will be maintained."

Declaring that he still looked upon the Transportation act of 1920 as a "very constructive piece of railroad legislation," President Willard said he thought the stockholders should urge their representatives in Congress "to resist the demands which probably will be made in certain quarters for radical changes in the Transportation act."

Referring to the financial condition of the company, President Willard said that while it was not possible to forecast at this time what the earnings of the remaining months would be, "it is reasonable to expect that the present year will realize a net surplus, after payment of fixed charges and preferred dividends for the year, in an amount equal to about 14 per cent. upon the common stock outstanding."

The gross earnings of the company for the first ten months of the present year were $218,420,000. Operating charges amounted to $167,660,000, Mr. Willard said, leaving a net revenue from operations for the period of $50,760,000.

Other income during the same period resulting from investments, &c., amounted to $5,065,000. The net corporate surplus of the company for the period referred to, after the payment of taxes, rents and interest, was $22,100,000, a sum sufficient to pay a 7 per cent. dividend for the year upon the $60,000,000 preferred stock outstanding, with a balance remaining of $19,700,000.

It was with this situation in mind, he said, that the Board of Directors decided to resume dividends on the common stock.

GRAIN EXPORTS LARGER.

Week's Increase 721,000 Bushels—Wheat 555,000 Bushels Larger.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Grain exports from the United States last week amounted to 2,417,000 bushels, compared with 1,696,000 bushels the week before. Figures made public today by the Commerce Department gave the following comparison of grain exports last week with those of the previous week: Barley, 115,000 bushels, against 20,000; corn, 150,000, against 19,000; oats, 76,000, against 131,000; rye, 141,000, against 86,000; wheat, 1,935,000, against 1,380,000; flour, 457,700 barrels, against 350,400 barrels.

Canadian grain exported from United States ports last week amounted to 1,583,900 bushels, compared with 1,500,000 the week before.

4% DIVIDEND FOR SOO LINE.

Directors Postpone Naming President to Succeed G. R. Huntington.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 19.—Directors of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Saint Marie Railway, meeting here today, postponed selection of a President to succeed George R. Huntington. A 4 per cent. annual dividend was declared on both preferred and common stock.

Edward W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, made a statement on the selection of a new President saying:

"It is expected that an announcement will be made before the end of the year, after another directors' meeting."

The dividend is to be paid Dec. 17 out of the accumulated surplus earnings of the years ending Dec. 31, 1909, to 1919, inclusive.

BALTIMORE BANKS UNITE.

National Exchange Merges With Atlantic Exchange and Trust Company

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19.—The National Exchange Bank and the Atlantic Trust Company, both of Baltimore, were merged today under the title of the Atlantic Exchange Bank and Trust Company. Their combined resources will exceed $26,000,000.

Wade Newcomer, President of the National Exchange Bank, became Chairman of the board, and E. L. Norton, President of the trust company, is made President of the joint institution.

STOWAWAYS RECAPTURED.

8 Germans Who Fled Liner Rounded Up, Saving Captain $5,000.

The five German stowaways who escaped from the Hamburg-American liner Albert Ballin at Pier 86, North River, Sunday night, by sawing through the iron bars over the port holes and sliding fifty feet down the ship's side with the aid of ropes made from sheets and blankets, have all been captured, the police of the Marine Division said last night. One of them, Arnold Humbard, was caught at one o'clock in the morning standing, shivering, on one of the string pieces of Pier 86, North River, foot of West Forty-fourth Street. He said that the other four had got away first and left him.

A general alarm had been sent out and they were all rounded up in the vicinity of the North River front, trying to get across to Hoboken, where they had friends. They will be deported to Hamburg on the Albert Ballin next week.

Captain Kier was very pleased over the recapture of the five as it meant a penalty of $1,000 for each man missing—a great deal of money in marks today.

FIELD FOR AMERICAN MUSIC.

Chance for Direct Sales Campaign in India.

American instrumental music of the lighter kind has invaded India to some extent, but it is difficult to purchase song and dance music while it is still fresh and popular. The reason is that it gets to India via London dealers, which means that it is generally more than a year old before it reaches the Indian market.

The market is not very large, but, according to Consul A. M. Warren, American music publishers might profit from a direct sales campaign. The best market for the type of music mentioned would lie chiefly among the bands of Indian and Indian regiments stationed in more than 100 Indian towns. In most of the cities of India, however, popular concerts are given weekly by local orchestras or bands in the clubs or public parks, and numerous dances are also given.

A further market for American music might be worked up by a selling campaign aimed in that direction.

THREW A CAT TO ITS DEATH.

Tailor Gets 5 Days After Killing Animal for Eating His Lunch.

Because he threw a cat out of a second-story window for stealing his lunch, William Pastorio, 17 years old, a tailor of 272 Third Street, Jersey City, was sentenced to the workhouse yesterday for five days by Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager in Essex Market Court. The animal was so badly injured it died.

Pastorio's plea for clemency failed as did his attempt to justify the act, which the court said was "cruel, inhuman and the worst of its kind on record."

Pastorio said he had been bringing his lunch to work and that his custom was to leave it in his overcoat pocket. On several successive days the lunch disappeared. Finally he hid behind a pillar in the hope of catching the thief, and saw the office cat climb to a perch near the overcoat pocket. When the animal pulled the lunch package out, Pastorio said he grabbed the animal and threw it out of an open window.

"Your lunch will be safe for the next five days," said the Magistrate, as he passed sentence.

TO WATCH SCHOOL LAWS.

City Club Trustees Stress Education in Their Annual Report.

Close watch upon school legislation in the coming year and upon appointments by the Board of Education was recommended in the annual report of the Board of Trustees of the City Club last night. The report was presented at the thirtieth annual meeting of the organization at 55 West Forty-fourth Street. Increased home rule and improvement of relations of the Board of Estimate and the Department of Education were the major considerations advanced for the club's program.

The present membership was given at 1,756, and it was stated that important improvements in the clubhouse were about to be made. New members elected to the Board of Trustees were: Clyde Furst, Albert E. Hadlock, George W. Perkins and Robert E. Simon.

TWO HIT BY SAME TAXI.

Driver Is Run Over After Taking First Victim to Hospital.

Phillip Glick, 28, a chauffeur, of 110 East 116th Street, hurried Solomon Pressin, 35, of 384 Wyckoff Avenue, Brooklyn, to the Beekman Street Hospital yesterday afternoon after Pressin had walked into his taxicab at Beekman and William Streets. Surgeons said Pressin had received a possible fracture of the right leg.

Afterward, as Glick was cranking his car, it shot ahead and ran over him. Policeman Henry Quinn of the Traffic Division, who had witnessed both accidents, picked up Glick and carried him to the hospital. Glick's right leg was found to be fractured. A passerby jumped on the machine after it had run over the chauffeur and stopped it when it had traveled twenty feet.

CALLS HUSBAND A BIGAMIST.

Mrs. Adelaide Seiding Sues for Annulment of Her Marriage.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Mrs. Adelaide Seidney of 531 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, has applied to the Supreme Court here for an annulment of her marriage to Arthur J. Seidney of Morristown, N. J., on the ground that he has two wives.

Mrs. Seidney says that she married the defendant in New York on March 5, 1916, and that they have one child, Rhoda, 6 years old.

Now, the plaintiff says, she has learned Seidney's first wife was living at the time he remarried and has neither been divorced or separated from the first wife.

TO AID AMERICANS TRADING IN CHINA

Administration Favors Legislation to Liberalize Present Trade Law.

WOULD DROP FEDERAL TAX

Bill Drafted by Commerce Department Will Be Introduced in Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The Coolidge Administration will support the proposal to amend the China Trade act of 1922 so as to remove the Federal tax and other penalties which are preventing many American corporations in China from incorporating under that measure. These amendments have been drafted in the Department of Commerce after conferences with Frank Rhea, Registrar of the China Trade act in China, and will be presented in a bill which Representative Dyer of Missouri will introduce in Congress.

Mr. Dyer conferred today with President Coolidge regarding the necessity for such legislation. He said tonight that the amendments he will introduce will provide for exemption from Federal corporation taxes of the net income of China Trade act corporations on business entirely within China, and also for exemption of stockholders of such corporations from payment of income taxes on dividends they may receive, provided such stockholders are resident in China.

Other amendments will seek to reduce the number of incorporators of each corporation from five to three; to permit corporations to issue stock at par or more, but not at less than par; to allow six months in which such corporations may make full payments of capital, and to require that the President and Directors of each corporation shall be American citizens.

"Before the war, in the matter of Federal taxation the American business man in China was on a parity with other nationals doing business in that country," said Mr. Dyer. "With the abolition of income and war profits tax legislation, however, this balance was broken.

"Foreign countries whose nationals doing business in China are our principal competitors recognized the plastic character of the China trade and contrived to encourage it through certain inducements. They granted their nationals operating in China, for example, such exemptions from taxes which they do not extend to domestic concerns. In this country we followed the same policy in the settlement of our own great West in pioneer days, and by so doing greatly expedited the development of that vast territory.

"In dealing with our own modern pioneers of industry and commerce—the men who have discovered in China a new great West to be exploited and developed in the ways of the twentieth century—we overlooked the necessity of extending the encouragement we have traditionally afforded the men who blaze trails of progress. We failed to grant the same advantages through Federal tax exemptions on business actually done in China, which other countries have given their nationals. In consequence, the American business man operating in China today suffers disabilities imposed by his own Government.

"Not only does he lack the advantages given his competitors by their home governments, but in certain instances he is not as well off in the matter of taxation as domestic concerns operating here in the United States.

GARMENT CENTRE BLOCK FRONT SALE

A. E. Lefcourt Disposes of Eighth Avenue Plot Recently Assembled.

A $2,000,000 CASH DEAL

The Buyer, Abraham Bricken, Will Erect Three Buildings for Garment Trades.

One of the largest recent deals in the garment centre section was closed yesterday when A. E. Lefcourt sold to the Bricken Construction Company the block front on the east side of Eighth Avenue, from Thirty-seventh to Thirty-eighth Streets, as a site for one eighteen and two twenty story loft buildings, designed to meet the demands of manufacturers of women's apparel.

The property, which is considered one of the largest and most valuable sites in the section, has a frontage of 200 feet on Eighth Avenue by 250 feet on Thirty-seventh Street and 133 feet on Thirty-eighth Street, aggregating about 38,000 square feet.

In announcing the sale yesterday Mr. Lefcourt, who is the pioneer builder in the section now called the new garment centre said: "When I finally concluded the assembling of this plot the thought of selling it never entered my mind; as a matter of fact, this is the first plot I have ever sold without improving it first. Since 1910 I have been the largest individual purchaser of land in the garment centre section, and the plot I sold today I had fully intended improving for Feb. 1, 1925, renting.

"Two very good reasons prompted me to sell, however. First, the fact that we are just starting to construct the new Lefcourt-Marlboro Building on Broadway, Thirty-sixth to Thirty-seventh Streets, which will keep both Louis Haas and myself pretty busy, also a possible decision to improve my other Broadway holding, the northeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-ninth Street; second, the fact that I had put a price of $2,000,000 on this property as an all-cash proposition, which, considering that I have owned this plot only about six months, shows a profit which establishes a high record in real estate profits."

Abraham Bricken President of the Bricken Construction Company, is planning the erection of three separate commercial buildings on the site for the housing of some very prominent manufacturers of wearing apparel. The plans of these structures are now being completed and are to include two twenty-story buildings on the avenue and an eighteen-story building on Thirty-seventh Street.

William S. Sussman, Inc., who negotiated the sale of the property, has plans on the way for the complete financing of these operations, so that the improvement was assured at the time the purchase of the land was made.

Thirty Subway Smokers Fined.

Thirty men caught smoking or carrying lighted cigarettes in the Times Square station of the Interborough Subway were fined $2 each in West Side Court yesterday by Magistrate George W. Simpson. Pushing the drive against smoking in public places, inspectors of the Health Squad were stationed in subway stations during the rush hours yesterday morning.

APARTMENT HOUSE DEALS.

East Side Buildings in Quick Resale to an Investor.

A quick resale on the east side was made when J. Lemle & Sons sold for the Lightford Realty Company, Inc., the six-story apartment house at 220-231 East Eighty-fourth Street, on a plot fronting 49.4 by 100 feet. It has accommodation for thirty families and three stores. The property has an annual rental of about $12,000 and was held at $80,000.

It was recently acquired through J. Lemle & Sons from the 229-231 East Eighty-fourth Street Corporation. The purchaser is Harry Burso, an investor.

Morris Moore's Son (Charles Moore) sold for Frank Nemec 617 East Seventieth Street, a five-story apartment on plot 25 by 100, containing four three-room apartments on each floor. This property has been held by the seller's family for the past twenty years.

Isaac Lowenfeld & Prager have sold to Jacob Klein 230 East Seventy-eighth Street, a four-story tenement, size 20 by 100. The property was held at $12,000. William J. Roome & Co. and Pocker & Co. were the brokers.

Lowenfeld & Luxenberg sold for the estate of Rubin Siegel to Benny Schermaker the five-story 40 by 100 walk-up apartment house at 214 West 109th Street, between Amsterdam Avenue and Broadway. It rents for about $17,000 and was held at $110,000. The property will be offered for resale. Frederick Zitzell & Sons was associate broker.

The Gomberg Company and A. A. Geis sold for the estate of Thomas F. McLaughlin 515 East Seventieth Street, being a five-story tenement, to H. A. Raymond.

George W. Sasse sold for the Cobban Realty Corporation 171 West 103d Street, a five-story double tenement, on lot 25 by 96.

Nathan Louis Adler sold a five-story brick tenement located at 310 East 126th Street upon a lot 25 by 100, through the Charles M. Peck Co.

The same brokers have also sold for Rubin & Grasofsky a six-story tenement, 317 East Seventy-fifth Street, upon a plot 25 by 102.

PRIVATE HOUSE BUYERS.

Frederick Brown Acquires Dwelling in Seventy-third Street.

Frederick Brown purchased the four-story dwelling at 32 West Seventy-third Street which was acquired some time ago by Samuel Gensen as President of the 32 West Seventy-third Street Corporation. The house has fifteen rooms and three baths and is built on a site 20 feet by 102.2 feet deep. William A. Leischner negotiated the resale.

Alfred Olenick purchased from Lillian E. Sargent 266 West 139th Street, being a three-story dwelling with garage, size 17 by 100.

Isidor H. Kempner and the Blade Estates, Inc., sold to William J. Rice the four-story and basement private dwelling at 351 West Fifty-first Street, on a lot 20 by 100. Mrs. J. F. Kelly was the broker.

THE BRONX MARKET.

Operators Buy and Sell Apartment House Properties.

Heller & Susaman, operators, sold the Northwest corner of Clay Avenue and 175th Street, a plot 95 by 95. The broker was A. J. Krueger. They have also sold 761 Trinity Avenue to an investor. It is a five-story building, 40 by 100, held at $80,000.

They bought the corner, southwest of 163d Street and Eagle Avenue, size 37.6 by 100, and re-sold it to the E. and G. Realty Co. The brokers were Irving M. Nason and Elkan.

The same operators also bought 711 Faile Street, a five and one-half-story apartment, size 50 by 100. The broker was A. J. Krueger. They have also bought 752 and 754 Tremont Avenue, a taxpayer, 25 by 200.

G. Tuoti & Co. sold for R. Marrazni the plot of eight lots on the easterly side of Burke Avenue, running through Tiemann Avenue to Lodovick Avenue, with a frontage of 200 feet on Burke Avenue and a depth of 100 feet on the other avenues.

The Caledonia Holding Corporation sold to David Rosenberg, the three-story brick dwelling at 1,149 Vyse Avenue. Littau & Seligson acted for the seller. George Goldblatt Company was the broker.

Commercial Leases.

The C. & L. Lunch Company, Inc., leased, through Henry Shapiro & Co., from the Schulte Cigar Company the two-story and basement building at the southwest corner of Ninety-sixth Street and Broadway, fronting 100 feet on Broadway and 125 feet on Ninety-sixth Street. The present building was erected by Klein & Jackson, and the foundation was so constructed as to permit the erection of a fifteen-story building. The lease covers a period of fifty-six years.

L. Tannenbaum, Strauss & Co. rented the store and basement at 377 Broadway to J. Sinsheimer & Sons for a long term of years. The premises will be used for the sale of underwear and hosiery.

George Munk, jewelry and sporting goods, leased, through Cross & Brown Company, for ten years one of the larger stores at 1,845 Broadway, now in process of alteration.

Cross & Brown Company have leased for the 38 West Sixtieth Street Corporation the entire seventh floor in the new building at 27-37 West Sixtieth Street to the Torrington Company, dealers in electric vacuum cleaners.

Buy the Trinidad and Yucatan.

The Manal Holding Corporation (Adolph L. Simon and Emanuel B. Morgenstern) has purchased from George B. Hurd the two seven-story elevator apartment houses at the northwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and 138th Street, known as the Trinidad and Yucatan. The property has a frontage of 99.11 feet on Amsterdam Avenue and 100 feet on 138th Street. P. A. Edmiston, through J. J. McGinness, negotiated the deal.

CLOSE NAVARRO FLAT DEAL.

Syndicate Headed by Franklin Pettit Buys Leasehold and Option.

The lease and option to purchase the Central Park apartments better known as the "Navarro Flats," occupying the west half of the block on Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Streets between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, has been sold to a syndicate headed by Franklin Pettit, an operator and builder.

The leasehold and option was sold by the Central Park South Corporation, composed of Louis B. Brodsky and Samuel Augenblick, who, in June 1921, secured a twenty-one-year lease on the entire property and an option to purchase it from the McCoombs Estate. It is understood that the option expires on June 1, 1924.

Mr. Pettit stated yesterday that the plot would probably be improved with an apartment hotel about twenty-five stores high, but just when this building operation would be undertaken he had not determined.

He said that he had until next June to exercise the option he had purchased and conditions at that time would decide the fate of the buildings.

Locust Valley Homestead Sold.

The Underhill Development Corporation sold four acres, including the Underhill homestead at Locust Valley, L. I., through Warren Murdock. The purchaser, Bradley Delahanty, will remodel the property.

Frank Goodwille, the New York architect, sold his residence on the south side of Hillcrest Road, Glen Ridge, Montclair, N. J., to B. E. Snyder. The grounds have a frontage of 184 feet on Hillcrest Road. The property has been held at $50,000. F. M. Crawley & Bros. were the brokers.

Recent Buyers.

Max Rosenfeld is the buyer of the six-story elevator apartment house at the southeast corner of West End Avenue and Ninety-seventh Street, recently sold by Samuel Resett & Sons, and valued at $375,000. L. Meltzer was the broker.

The Brandto Building Corporation is the buyer of the block front on the east side of Wadsworth Avenue, between 188th and 189th Streets; Lesley J. Pearson of 22 East Eightieth Street and John Meehan of 32 West Ninety-second Street, all reported sold recently.

"Automat" Secures Penn Zone Corner.

Tankoos, Smith & Co. have leased for a long term of years the entire ground floor store at Eighth Avenue, northwest corner of Thirty-third Street in the Printing Crafts Building, to the Horn & Hardart Company, owners of the Automat. The lessee, upon completion of alterations, will occupy the premises as a branch establishment.

$1,000,000 Loan on Winter Garden.

S. S. and Lee Shubert, who under the title of the 1634-1648 Broadway Realty Company recently bought the Winter Garden property at Broadway and Fiftieth Street from William K. Vanderbilt heirs, have procured from the Mutual Life Insurance Company, a loan of $1,000,000 on the property for five years at 5½ per cent. interest.

SYNDICATE BUYS PLOT.

Group Headed by Eliot Cross Acquires Dwellings.

Brc & Wyckoff sold to a syndicate headed by Eliot Cross two dwellings on the South side of East Fifty-second Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues, and the lease on a third adjoining dwelling, containing an option of purchase. No. 16 was purchased in conjunction with William A. White & Sons from the Markham Realty Co. and Mandelbaum & Lewine. The lease of No. 18 was secured from Klein & Jackson and No. 20 was purchased from the Babcock estate, Douglas Gibbons representing the seller.

All the dwellings are of the five-story American basement type and are restricted against business until May, 1926. The plot seventy-five feet front by 100.5 deep begins seventy-five feet west of the southwest corner of Madison Avenue. Although all the leases on the property expire in 1925 the new owners have as yet made no definite plans for the improvement of the plot.

Realty Notes.

E. R. and I. David were the sellers of the plot of 125 by 100 feet on East 173d Street, 50 feet from the St. Lawrence Avenue corner, to Robert Elion for immediate improvement with two-family houses.

Joint-Ownership Construction Company, Inc., sold three apartments in the new 100 Per Cent. Joint-Ownership apartment building which they are about to erect at 416 East Fifty-seventh Street, to Howard Brockway. Mr. Brockway is having the three apartments made into one. An interesting feature will be a large studio.

Springsteen & Goldhammer are the architects who are preparing the plans for a five-and-a-half-story apartment to be erected at the southeast corner of Valentine Avenue and 203d Street for the Kenmar Construction Company, Herman Kinstler and W. Kampel owners and builders.

Roeder & Rud, attorneys, represented the Haven Building Corporation in the recent purchase of the plot at the southwest corner of Haven Avenue and 176th Street, and the Lunar Building Corporation in the acquisition of the plot 80 by 100 on the north side of 188th Street 100 feet east of Wadsworth Avenue, both for improvement with apartments.

$235,000 Garage Deal.

The Garage Realty Company sold for Andrew D. Meloy to the Greelye Sight Seeing Company the two-story garage building at 351 and 353 West Fortieth Street, running through to 352 and 354 West Forty-first Street, for $235,000.

BROKER ENJOINED FROM STOCK DEALS

A WOMAN THE COMPLAINANT

Mrs. Huey Charges She Paid In $10,000 for Securities Which Firm Failed to Deliver.

Supreme Court Justice Cohalan yesterday granted Attorney General Carl Sherman a temporary injunction against Trouville & Co., 143 West Nineteenth Street, on complaint that the latter was a bucket shop. The order restrains the brokerage firm "from selling any stocks or bonds in the State of New York." The order was made returnable Thursday at 10 A. M., when the Attorney General announced he would ask to have the injunction made permanent.

"The defendant has been conducting a bucket shop," read the complaint of the Attorney General, "and has made no bona fide purchase and sale of securities when orders were placed with him."

A statement issued last night from the office of the Attorney General here, presented the following review of the Trouville case:

"Deputy Attorney General Abraham Rosenthal, who had charge of the action on behalf of the Attorney General, learned from the office of Joab H. Banton, District Attorney, that several complaints had been lodged against the Trouville concern. He secured from Mr. Banton's office an affidavit of Edwin A. Falk, an attorney retained by one Mrs. Huey, to make a demand upon Trouville & Co. for the delivery of certain securities which Mrs. Huey had purchased.

"Mrs. Huey on opening an account with Trouville March 22 last placed an order for 100 shares of Kelly-Springfield Tire. Two days later she received confirmation that the purchase had been made for $6,035.31. On successive demands for money she sent Trouville & Co. moneys and collateral securities approximating $4,000. She then asked Mr. Falk to tender the balance and demand her stock from Trouville & Co., which Mr. Falk did, as appears by his affidavit, which was made part of the moving papers, and Mr. Trouville, who evidently did not have these securities for delivery (presumably never having purchased same) was unable to deliver."

Deputy Attorney General Rosenthal thereupon secured yesterday's injunction. He said further last night that he charges the said firm with bucketing orders, that is to say, receiving money from customers and not executing the orders, or refusing to deliver the stock when customers are justly entitled to the same. This is clearly a violation of law, and the Attorney General's office will continue its crusade against all such firms until they are all enjoined from continuing such fraudulent practices and preying on the public."

District Attorney Banton announced last evening that he had ordered one of his assistants, Albert B. Unger, to investigate immediately the affairs of Scott, Norris & Co., a cotton brokerage firm, against which a petition in bankruptcy was filed last Friday. An injunction restraining the members from doing business was issued on Friday by Supreme Court Justice Mullan.

REOPEN ROTHENBERG CASE.

Catskill Grand Jury Expected to Indict for Boy's Murder.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Nov. 19.—District Attorney Charles G. Coffin of Greene County today began before the Grand Jury the examination of witnesses supposed to be able to shed light on the murder several months ago of Howard Rothenberg, aged 7, of Newark, N. J. Mr. Coffin refused to say who testified, but intimated that he had forty witnesses to call and that the case probably would occupy the jury's time until the Supreme Court reconvenes Dec. 10, when it is expected, indictments will be handed down.

Disclosures which might point conclusively to the person or persons who strangled the boy were possible, the District Attorney asserted.

Anna Sobin, the 16-year-old nursemaid who was one of the last persons to see the boy alive, probably will be one of the chief witnesses. Mrs. Litt is expected to be called, as will other relatives of the slain lad. Detective John J. Sweeney of Newark is expected to appear as an important witness.

SAYS KARDOS LOST $800,000 IN STOCKS

Accountant Swears Firm Was Insolvent When John Burke Became a Partner.

Bernard J. Reis, an accountant, testified yesterday before Federal Referee Peter B. Olney Jr. in the Kardos & Burke bankruptcy investigation that while the firm failed for about $1,500,000 in February, 1922, the books indicated that $800,000 was lost through trading accounts which L. M. Kardos Jr. maintained without the knowledge of his partner, John Burke, formerly Treasurer of the United States.

Reis said that it was impossible to ascertain the exact liabilities and assets of the firm because of the disappearance of some books and papers. Among these, said Reis, were papers which were expected to show that orders of customers were nullified and bucketed. David W. Kahn, counsel for L. Barton Case, trustee for the bankrupt brokerage firm, said that these papers had been seen last in the office of District Attorney Banton, where they were used in an investigation which led to the indictment of Kardos.

Mr. Kahn said that the papers were necessary to support his objection to the discharge of Kardos in bankruptcy on the ground that Kardos previously had made a false statement to the referee when he said that he did not maintain house accounts. Mr. Olney said that he would communicate with the District Attorney and asked that the papers be returned to the trustee immediately.

Accountant Reis also testified that although the books of the firm revealed that Kardos had traded extensively through "dummy" accounts, the trading was done with customers' moneys, none of his own money having been used at any time. He told the referee that at the beginning of Kardos's partnership with Mr. Burke, about a year before the failure the firm was hopelessly insolvent. He declared that the firm should have had on hand at this time 256,720 shares of stock, but the books showed that but 103,703 shares were under the control of Kardos & Burke, and the balance were owed by Kardos's personal accounts.

The investigation was adjourned until Dec. 10 to enable the attorney for the trustee to obtain the missing papers and present them at a final hearing.

Make Your Mother Happy

THOUSANDS of mothers, fathers and relatives who lavished their wealth and affection on their "boys" now live in the solitudes.

They live today on farms remote from the activities of the world or in the greater lonesomeness of city houses and apartments.

To them the sound of music rarely penetrates,—the words of great thinkers and pulpit orators probably never reach their ears.

And,—that most grateful of all sounds—the sound of the human voice is there all too seldom to cheer and comfort them.

Any man in New York who has "made good" now has it within his power to do an act of immeasurable kindness.

Through the Radio he can awaken in the old folks a new interest in life.

The Radio will bring into their very homes the music of the masters, the music of today and the cherished songs of yesterday.

All this wonderful entertainment and inspiration is as free as the air to the owner of a Radio.

In selecting a Radio Set for older people it should be one that is mechanically perfect, assembled by skilled mechanics, and above all else extremely simple in operation.

The Westinghouse Radiola Grand represents the highest achievement in radio receiving apparatus. Above all, it is extremely simple to operate. The entire set—battery, tubes and cord—is enclosed in a beautiful case of mahogany, and there is needs no outside wires of any kind.

By entrusting to us the selection of a Radio Set for your mother or father you will secure one that will give them a maximum degree of pleasure and satisfaction.

HAYNES-GRIFFIN offer you a safe and sane plan by which you can secure a Radio on seven days' free trial and a year's guaranteed service.

The HAYNES-GRIFFIN Plan gives you the privilege of returning the set and getting your money back if it proves in any way unsatisfactory.

Get a Radio Set for the old folks today and in a few days you will know just how much you have contributed to their happiness.
